SANTIAGO! REWARDED!

City Is Now In Plain Sight of the American Land Forces.

Four Gatling Guns Are Placed on the Brow of the Hill.

On the Rio Guama, Sunday, June 26, noon, via Kingston, Jamaica, Monday, June 27.—(Copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—The advance force of the American army rests on this stream, with the city of Santiago de Cuba four and a half miles westward. Last night the outposts, consisting of two companies of the Seventh infantry, under Maj. Coolidge, guarded the crossing, a mile and a half beyond Sabanilla, where three regiments of Gen. Lawton's division camped, the First, Fourth and Seventeenth.

The Eighth, Second and Twenty-second Massachusetts, with the Rough Riders, Tenth cavalry and portions of several other regiments are strung out behind them toward Juragua. About 800 Cubans, under Gen. Gonzales, were camped around Gen. Lawton's headquarters, but less than fifty of them did scout duty last night.

Gen. Wheeler today with the First, Second and Tenth cavalry and the Rough Riders, with dynamite guns, moved up to where Gen. Lawton's outposts were last night, and four batteries of the Third artillery and four Gatling guns, with a special detail under Lieut. Parker, were brought up and planted on the brow of the hill overlooking the basin in which Santiago de Cuba lies.

Not a shot was fired from the American side last night, although the front of the American line was not 2800 yards from the entrenchments, at which the Spaniards intend to combat the advance on Santiago. Three cannon shots were heard during the night; they seemed to come from distant Spanish batteries or from the seaward.

Every hill and mountain east and north is occupied by block houses, from which the Spanish can view the movements of the American army as it advances to Sagandilo.

The correspondent of the Associated Press, from an elevation at the American line today, counted thirty-four lines of entrenchments, occupying every approach to the city. The trenches have been dug as the conformation of the ground admitted. The ends of the trenches overlap where breaks in the line occur, thus securing comparatively safe retreat in case the trenches are captured. Modern guns have been mounted. They can be plainly seen with the naked eye. Spies report that inside the entrenchments are four parallel lines of rifle pits, shoulder deep, and in front of them are marked ranges and several rows of barb wire fences.

It is believed that more artillery will be necessary before an assault can be made upon the Spanish works.

SAGASTA'S LITTLE PLAN.

To Provoke a Political Crisis and Appeal to Powers.

London, June 27.—According to a special dispatch from Madrid, published here this afternoon, the Spanish government is "actively preparing to dispatch reinforcements to Porto Rico by the fastest available trans-Atlantic liner."

Continuing the dispatch says: "It is reported now that the cortes are closed Premier Sagasta is preparing to provoke a crisis and reform a coalition ministry drawn from the different monarchial parties, including Marshal Campos and Gen. Pollevaja. The ministry will proclaim the whole peninsula in a state of siege, will reinforce the garrisons in the Carlist and Republican centers and then appeal to a friendly power, probably France or Russia, to secure peace.

GOES TO QUARANTINE.

Prize Brig Amalapa to Be Thoroughly Fumigated.

Key West, Fla., June 27.—The brig Amalapa, which was captured on Friday last by the United States gunboat Vicksburg, while making her way out of the harbor of Havana, and which was brought here by a prize crew on Saturday morning will be sent today to the Tortugas for quarantine and fumigation and will be held until fifteen days shall have elapsed since the time she left Havana. This will make her stay at the Tortugas last ten days. She will then return to Key West, where the prize court will render a decision in her case.

TORPEDOES FOR THE SPANISH.

Austria Sends a Ship Load to Philippine Islands.

Loadon, June 27.—A dispatch from Fiume, the seaport town of Austria-Hungary, says: An Austrian vessel is on her way to the Philippine islands with 500 torpedoes, intended for the Spanish fleet.

IS THIS THE ONE?

Vienna, June 27.—The Austrian corvette Frundsberg, which arrived at Singapore on June 24, will proceed to Manilla.

DRUNKEN COLORED SOLDIERS.

Precipitate a Riot at Chattanooga Early This Morning.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 27.—A small riot between city police and a number of colored soldiers belonging to the Tenth United States cavalry occurred at the Central passenger station this morning. The soldiers were drunk and disorderly, and when the police attempted to arrest them they fought fiercely in self defense. The officers, of which there were but three, were forced to use their pistols.

One of the soldiers, named Rufus Hall, was killed, the ball passing through his head. Policeman Carleton was struck over the head with a billet of wood and severely wounded. Several of the rioters were finally landed in jail.

NO COAL FOR CAMARA.

He Cannot Take Coal at Port Said at Present.

Port Said, June 27.—Upon the application of the United States consul here orders have been issued forbidding the coaling at this port of Admiral Camara's fleet until further orders.

TORREY'S ROUGH RIDERS.

One or Two More of the Injured May Die.

Tupelo, Miss., June 27.—The condition of the injured of Col. Torrey's troop in the wreck is favorable, only one death has occurred since last night, that of H. S. Mapes, of Troop C, who died today. Both legs were crushed off and his abdomen punctured. Charles Glimmor, reported dead last night is still alive, but is in a dying condition. Elijah Perks had both hips badly crushed and is seriously hurt.

PACIFIC COALING STATION.

Little Spot of Land on Which Old Glory Floats.

San Francisco, June 27.—A special from Honolulu says: The United States possesses an island suitable for a coaling, and even for a naval station, in the Pacific, nearly 2700 miles west of Honolulu and in the very doorway of Manilla. It is known as Marcus of Weeks, and is 2700 miles from Hawaii, more than half way to the Philippines.

The island belongs to Capt. Foster, commander of a sailing vessel plying between the Orient and San Francisco. They found it while out cruising, and took possession. It was at that time unclaimed and unoccupied. By consent of James G. Blaine, then secretary of state, the American flag was hoisted over the island, and still remains there, the same being sanctioned by Great Britain, France and all the powers.

The island is in 24.4 and 154 east. It is about five miles long, and is densely covered with trees and shrubbery. It is a white sandy beach, and near the center is a knoll rising about 200 feet above the sea. It is near the track of vessels from Honolulu to Yokohama, and has been offered to the United States for a coaling station.

THE OSHKOSH STRIKE.

Several of the Plants Resume Work Under Protection

Oshkosh, Wis., June 27.—Four of the seven sash, door and blind factories affected by the woodworkers' strike started up this morning under protection of the militia and 250 deputy sheriffs. The factories which started were the Paine, McMillen, Morgan and Radford plants, but the latter was compelled to close down on account of the fact that no crews came to work. The others managed to keep going, although the strikers claim not a union man returned to work, and that the factories can do little work with their skeleton crews.

No decision has yet been reached as to when the militia will be taken away, but the sheriff has sworn in 250 deputies and will be ready to take charge of the situation. At present the expense of the county is over $2000 a day, and some criticism is beginning to be heard among the business men and the taxpayers.

John Goddard, of the normal school, who was clubbed by a special policeman Sunday, is in no danger. The officer will be discharged. The sidewalks in front of the homes of a number of non-union workmen were last night marked with a large letter "S," meaning scab. The strikers declare they will fight it out if it takes all summer.

Warrants have been issued for about fifty of the leaders of last week's fatal riots. The warrants are now in possession of Sheriff Lampert, who will commence to make arrests this afternoon. Trouble is anticipated, as the strikers have declared they will resist attempts to arrest any of their number.

BAD FIRE IN RUSSIA.

Several Millions Worth of Property Destroyed at Riason.

St. Petersburg, June 27.—A disastrous fire has occurred at Riason, capital of the government of that name, situated 110 miles by rail southeast of Moscow. Much of the town, which has a population of over 30,000, has been destroyed, and the loss is estimated to be several million roubles.

BELTING FIRM ASSIGNS.

Chicago, June 27.—The Western Rubber Belting company, of this city, made an assignment today to the Chicago Title and Trust company. Liabilities and assets about $100,000. The failure of the Boston Woven Hose and Rubber company last week is said to have caused the assignment.

Hobson to Be Thanked By Congress and Given Suitable Promotion.

Powell Made an Ensign and Hodgsdon and Newcomb Are Remembered.

Washington, June 27.—The president today sent the following messages to congress:

To the Congress of the United States: On the morning of June 3, 1898, Assistant Naval Constructor Richmond P. Hobson, United States navy, with a volunteer crew of seven men in charge of the partially dismantled collier Merrimac entered the fortified harbor of Santiago, Cuba, for the purpose of sinking the Merrimac in the narrow entrance and thereby placing a serious obstacle to the egress of the Spanish fleet, which had recently entered that harbor. This enterprise, demanding coolness, judgment and bravery, amounting to heroism, was carried into successful execution in the face of a persistent fire from the hostile fleet, as well as from the fortifications.

Rear Admiral Sampson, commander-in-chief of our naval forces in Cuban waters, in an official report, dated "Off Santiago de Cuba," June 3, 1898, and addressed to the secretary of the navy, referring to Mr. Hobson's gallant exploit, says: "As stated in a recent telegram, before coming here, I decided to make the entrance of the harbor secure against the possibility of the egress of Spanish ships, by obstructing the narrow part of the entrance by sinking the collier at that point. Upon calling upon Mr. Hobson for his professional opinion as to a sure method of sinking the ship, he manifested a most lively interest in the problem. After several days' consideration he presented a solution which he considered would insure the immediate sinking of the ship when she had reached the desired point in the channel. The plan contemplated a crew of only seven, and Mr. Hobson, who begged that it might be entrusted to him.

"As soon as I reached Santiago and had the collier to work upon, the details were commenced and diligently prosecuted, hoping to complete them in one day, as the moon and tide served best the first night after our arrival. Notwithstanding every effort, the hour of 4 o'clock in the morning arrived and the preparations were scarcely completed. After a careful inspection of the final preparations, I was forced to relinquish the plan for that morning, as dawn was breaking. Mr. Hobson begged to try it at all hazards.

"This morning proved more propitious, as a prompt start could be made. Nothing could have been better executed. A careful examination of the harbor from this ship showed that the Merrimac had been sunk in the channel. I cannot myself too earnestly express my appreciation of the conduct of Mr. Hobson and his gallant crew. I venture to say that a more brave and daring thing has not been done since Cushing blew up the Albemarle."

The members of the crew who were with Mr. Hobson on this memorable occasion have already been rewarded for their services by advancement, which, under the provisions of law and regulation, the secretary of the navy was authorized to make; and the nomination to the senate of Naval Cadet Powell, who, in a steam launch, followed the Merrimac on her perilous trip for the purpose of rescuing her force after the sinking of that vessel, to be advanced in rank to the grade of ensign has been prepared and will be submitted.

Cushing, with whose gallant act in blowing up the ram Albemarle during the civil war Admiral Sampson compares Mr. Hobson's sinking of the Merrimac, received the thanks of congress, upon recommendation of the president, by name, and was in consequence, under the provisions of section 1508 of the revised statutes, advanced one grade, such advancement embracing fifty-eight numbers. The section cited applies, however, to line officers only, and Mr. Hobson, being a member of the staff of the navy, could not under its provision be so advanced.

In considering the question of suitably rewarding Assistant Naval Constructor Hobson for his valiant conduct on the occasion referred to, I have deemed it proper to address this message, with the recommendation that he receive the thanks of congress, and, further, that he be transferred to the line of the navy and promoted to such position therein as the president, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, may determine. Mr. Hobson's transfer from the construction corps to the line is fully warranted, he having received the necessary technical training as a graduate of the naval academy, where he stood number one in his class, and such action is recommended partly in deference to what is understood to be his own desire, although, he being now a prisoner in the hands of the enemy, no direct communication on the subject has been received from him, and partly for the reason that the ability displayed by him at Santiago is of such a character as to indicate special fitness for the duties of the line.

WILLIAM McKINLEY.
Executive Mansion, June 27, 1898.

THE SECOND MESSAGE.

Hudson's Crew's Bravery Recognized ---Capt. Hodgsdon's Case.

Washington, June 27.—The second message was as follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

On May 11, 1898, there occurred a conflict in the bay of Cardenas, Cuba, in which the naval torpedo boat Winslow was disabled, her commander wounded and one of her officers and a part of her crew killed by the enemy's fire. In the face of a most galling fire from the enemy's guns the revenue cutter Hudson, commanded by First Lieut. Frank H. Newcomb, United States revenue cutter service, rescued the disabled Winslow, her wounded commander and remaining crew. The commander of the Hudson kept his vessel in the very hottest fire of the action, although in constant danger of going ashore on account of the shallow water, until he finally got a line made fast to the Winslow and towed that vessel out of the range of the enemy's guns—a deed of special gallantry.

I recommend that in recognition of the signal act of heroism of First Lieut. H. Newcomb, United States revenue cutter service, above set forth, the thanks of congress be extended to him and to his officers and men of the Hudson, and a gold medal of honor be presented Lieut. Newcomb, a silver medal of honor to each of his officers, and a bronze medal of honor to each man of his crew who served with him at Cardenas.

It will be remembered that congress, by appropriate action, recognized the several commanders of ships of war for their services in the battle of Manilla, May 1, 1898. The commander of the revenue cutter Hugh McCulloch, present and in active co-operation with the fleet under Commodore Dewey on that occasion (by executive order under the provisions of section 2775, revised statutes), is the only commander of a national ship to whom promotion or advancement was not and could not be given, because he already held the highest rank known to the revenue cutter service.

I now recommend that in recognition of the efficient and meritorious services of Capt. Daniel B. Hodgsdon, United States revenue cutter service, who commanded the Hugh McCulloch at the battle of Manilla (that officer being now in the 63rd year of his age and having served continuously on active duty for thirty-seven years), be placed upon permanent waiting orders, on the retired list of the revenue cutter service, on the full duty pay of his grade.

WILLIAM McKINLEY.
Executive Mansion, June 27, 1898.

A SPECIAL NOMINATION.

Cadet Powell to Be Advanced to Ensign For Heroism.

Executive Mansion, Washington, June 27.

To the Senate: I nominate Naval Cadet Joseph H. Powell to be advanced two numbers under section 1506, revised statutes, and to be an ensign in the navy, for extraordinary heroism while in charge of the steam launch which accompanied the collier Merrimac, for the purpose of rescuing her gallant force when the vessel was, under command of Naval Constructor Hobson, run into the mouth of the harbor of Santiago, Cuba, on the 3rd instant, and dexterously sunk in the channel.

WILLIAM McKINLEY.

OUR CUBAN ALLIES.

Gen. Garcia Has Five Thousand Well Armed Men at Santiago.

Juragua, June 26, by the Associated Press Dispatch Boat Dauntless, via Kingston, Jamaica, Monday, June 27.—(Copyright by the Associated Press.)—Gen. Garcia, with 3000 Cuban insurgents from the mountains west of Santiago de Cuba, was landed here today. The Cuban troops were brought here on board the American transports.

Fully 5000 insurgents, nearly the entire available fighting force of the insurgents in the southern part of Santiago de Cuba province, are now concentrated at or near Juragua. Three-fourths of them are armed with modern rifles and have abundant supplies of ammunition. The soldiers are ragged almost to nakedness. Most of these men are thoroughly accustomed to the bushwhacking methods of the Spaniards, and are perfectly familiar with every trail in the vicinity of Santiago de Cuba. With the intention to protect the American advance on Santiago detachments will also be sent towards Guantanamo to give warning in case an attempt is made to form a junction with Gen. Pando's army in Santiago. A conference between Maj. Gen. Shafter and Gen. Garcia will be held tomorrow.

The plans of co-operation of the American and Cuban armies have been decided upon, not only in the campaign against Santiago, but the subsequent movement on Havana and Matanzas. Gen. Garcia's plans are to march his entire army overland toward the north coast of Cuba, keeping in touch as well as he can with the United States army. As soon as possible he will effect a juncture with the insurgent forces under Gen. Maximo Gomez who is now west of Havana. Other bodies of insurgents it is said, will also be brought in, it being the plan of the Cuban leaders to have at least 20,000 men before Havana when the time comes for the investment of that city.

MANILLA RELIEF

Third Expedition For the Philippines Will Start By Tomorrow.

TRANSPORTS READY

Mishaps to Soldiers at Camp Merritt—Troops For the Philippines Massed.

San Francisco, June 27.—All the transports of the third Manilla expedition, except the Valencia, are now in readiness to sail at a moment's notice, having their troops and supplies on board. Work on the Valencia is not yet completed, and she may delay the departure of the other ships until Tuesday. That the vessels will all leave together was made evident when the First Dakota regiment was ordered to break camp today and march on board the Valencia. The exact time of the sailing of the fleet will not be known until after a conference between Gens. Merritt and McArthur, when they expect to have positive orders from Washington.

Private Henry Pepper, Company I Twentieth Kansas regiment, is dead of consumption.

Private Oscar Kirkland, a Tennessee volunteer, lies at the point of death from a pistol wound accidentally inflicted by First Sergt. Williams, whose weapon exploded when he pulled the trigger to see how it worked. The bullet struck Kirkland in the groin and passed entirely through his body. After the accident, Capt. Smith ordered that all pistols in the camp should be seized, and his instructions were carried out.

After the departure of the North Dakota volunteers today and the arrival of the Wyoming artillery tonight, there will be left at Camp Merritt 10,828 soldiers, while 1128 more are expected in scattered squads, completing the necessary number of recruits for all the commands in the army for the Philippines.

Besides these troops, the Fourth United States cavalry and other forces may be taken from the Presidio. It will require at least fifteen transports to carry these, and as vessels can not be obtained readily, this expedition may be detained.

Orders have been issued for the Astor light batteries and Batteries H and K, Third United States artillery, to break camp on Wednesday and go on board the Newport, which will convey Maj. Gen. Merritt and staff to Manilla.

FOUR MILES APART.

American and Spanish Troops Are Nearly Together--- The Savilla Dead.

Off Juragua, on board the Associated Press dispatch boat Dandy, Saturday, via Kingston, Sunday, June 26.--(Copyright by Associated Press.)—Troops of the United States and Spain are almost face to face and only four miles apart. Tonight picket lines at some places are almost within hailing distance of the enemy. It seems almost certain the battle of Santiago must come within a week. The troops are all ashore at Baiquiri, with the exception of a few scattered companies that have gone forward. The supplies are sufficient to enable the army to sustain a week's campaign at both landing places.

There is a continuous procession of small boats riding to the beach through the surf, and as one week's rations are already landed, it is believed the required supplies will all be ashore by Tuesday, the 28th.

Gen. Shafter said to a correspondent of the Associated Press today: "I am satisfied with the progress made. The disembarkation is slow, but, considering the limited facilities and the exposed nature of the landing place, the men have done well. I now await only the landing of sufficient supplies to begin the movement on Santiago. I am unable to say when it will take place. I am much pleased at the gallant action of our men at Savilla. Our success was complete."

Gen. Wheeler, in his official report, places the number of dead in the engagement at Savilla as twenty-two and the wounded between seventy and eighty. No attempt has yet been made to prepare an official list of the names of the dead and injured. The high grass and bushes of the battle ground make it difficult to find the bodies, but an official list will probably be prepared by Monday.

Thirty-seven Spaniards have been found, and the Spanish loss was doubtless much heavier than the Americans. Many troops are here at the front. The force at Savilla, about nine miles from Santiago, numbers 9000 Americans and 1500 Cubans. Gen. Wheeler is in command there, with Gen. Young, Gen. Lawton and Gen. Chaffee. Gen Wheeler will remain at Savilla, which will be made a rendezvous for the troops landing at Baiquiri. The cavalry has been sent ahead to cut out a wagon road through the underbrush.

From the American position at Savilla Santiago is plainly visible and the fortifications can be seen.

The following reports to Gen. Shafter from generals at the front show the following conditions:

"To Gen. Shafter: I have just seen two negro boys that left Santiago this morning (Saturday). They report that the soldiers and citizens are very short of food. The soldiers and officers have seized all the food in the shops. They are killing young horses for food, and those in the hospitals are subsisting on bread and milk made of rice flour. Three Spanish generals took part in the fight at Savilla yesterday. Five wagons of wounded were carried into Savilla yesterday, and many others that were wounded got there on horses and on foot. We can see Morro castle flag very distinctly from our position. The Cubans confirm the report as to the fine character of the fortifications around the city. Several lines of barbed wire are stretched around the trenches. The Spaniards have recently dug deep trenches around the entire city, connecting a series of small forts.

"WHEELER."

Dated Saturday afternoon.

"Gen. Shafter: We can plainly see Santiago, less than seven miles away. The country is level for six miles this side of the city, except for hills on the south, which extend to within a mile of Santiago. These hills appear deserted. The country is fairly open, and it will not be difficult to move troops over it. Gen. Chaffee occupies Savilla today.

"YOUNG."

Dated Saturday evening.

The drummer who tries to talk a merchant into purchasing a bill of goods may be handicapped by a face rendered unsightly by pimples and blotches and by a foul breath. Some men imagine that bad health does not handicap them in business. A bigger mistake was never made. The slightest disorder may be the biggest kind of a detriment to a business man. An unsightly skin is caused by impurities of the blood. A foul breath means a weak stomach, an impaired digestion and an inactive liver. A sweet breath means that the stomach is sweet, the digestion good, the liver active and the bowels regular. It is an indication of a thoroughly constitutional sweetness. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach, facilitates the flow of digestive juices, gives edge to the appetite, makes digestion and assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It is the great blood-purifier. It makes the eye brighter, the skin clearer, the breath sweeter and the step more elastic. It imparts both mental and bodily activity. It cures all diseases resulting from impurities in the blood. Found at all medicine stores.

"I was a complete wreck; appetite gone, nervous system impaired; could not sleep; and was so weak that I could not stand on my feet ten minutes," writes Miss Ella Bartley, of No. 213½ South Grant Ave., Columbus, Ohio. "I only weighed 95½ pounds. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cured me and now I have an excellent appetite, sleep soundly and my friends say they never saw me so well."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers sell them. No other pills are "just as good."

COPPER RIVER PROSPECTORS.

Government May Have to Assist Some Unlucky Ones.

Seattle, Wash., June 27.—Capt. W. R. Abercrombie, United States army, in charge of the government survey of Copper river, Alaska, has left on the steamer Protection with a pack train of fifty horses. Capt. Abercrombie says there will doubtless be considerable privation suffered by the many thousand prospectors who are unable to get into the interior of Alaska by way of the Copper river and Valdes pass routes. Their greatest need will be transportation home. He favors the government sending relief.

BATTLE OF LA QUASINA.

Spanish Report Results Were Favorable to Them.

Dynamite Cruiser Vesuvius Has No Difficulty In Passing the Merrimac.

CHANNEL IS CLEAR

Hobson Took the Merrimac In Too Far Before Sinking Her.

New York, June 27.—A dispatch to the Herald from Port Antonio says: It remained for the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius to demonstrate that the harbor of Santiago was not completely blocked by the sinking of the Merrimac. While poking her nose about the entrance of the harbor a few nights ago the Vesuvius found that she had sufficient room in which to pass the Merrimac. She went in, made observations along the inner harbor, and then came back to sea, getting around the wrecked collier without difficulty.

This rather surprising information came out in the course of a conversation in which Admiral Sampson and Capt. Chadwick discussed the situation from a naval standpoint. At length Capt. Chadwick made the surprising statement that it was a question whether the Merrimac had been properly sunk. He said he feared Lieut. Hobson and his plucky men had taken the vessel too far into the harbor before sinking her.

As the collier now lies, it is said the channel is comparatively free of obstruction. Such is the opinion of the men on the Vesuvius, and their opinion is based on experience. Not only did the dynamite cruiser pass the wreck while reconnoitering along the outer forts the other night, but it gave to Admiral Sampson news which resulted in a closer examination of the wreck as it now lies. It has been ascertained that two battleships can enter the harbor abreast, one passing to the right and the other to the left of the Merrimac wreck. This is an opportunity that will be of great advantage to Admiral Sampson when the final attack on Santiago begins.

Lieut. Hobson and his men still are in communication with the fleet. There is little prospect that they will be exchanged before the attack on Santiago is made.

DOOMED CITY OF SANTIAGO.

Sowed the Wind and Is Reaping the Whirlwind.

New York, June 27.—The Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., preached last night to the congregation of the People's church on "Messages from the Doomed City of Santiago," and his text was "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

"The quaint old city of Santiago," he said, "now the center of a terrible drama, was once the capital of Cuba, and the island's history under Spain began there. After the execution of the Americans of the Virginius, bayonets were thrust into their mouths and cavalry charged over the dead bodies. Santiago then sowed the wind and today is reaping the whirlwind of fire, sword and death.

"If this mighty nation had done its duty at that time it would have raised an army of 500,000 men, hurled it into Spain and up to the gates of Madrid, but the wish of the people roused to vengeance by the fate of the Americans on the Virginius, was held in check, though God piled wrath upon wrath, and today the coasts of Cuba are circled with fire and death. Hamilton Fish was secretary of state, and it is a singular coincidence that his grandson should be among the first to fall in battle now. After all, the children must reap what the fathers sow, whether it be weal or woe. 'The mills of God grind slowly, but they grind exceeding small.'"

Mr. Dixon called attention to the carrying out of the war program, how resistlessly, though slowly, the Spaniards were being driven back, their fleets sunk, their commerce driven from the seas, and how sneers and criticism of our navy, particularly the Texas and Vesuvius, had been silenced. The names Bagley, Hobson, Roosevelt and Lee, when mentioned, were greeted with great applause.

LOCATION OF POSTOFFICES.

Department's New Rule Will Save Much Trouble.

Washington, June 27.—The new principle governing the location of postoffices of the first, second and third classes recently laid down at the postoffice department is that while senators and representatives in congress will be expected to make recommendations, and give advice with respect to the location of offices in their home cities or towns, the department, while inviting advice and information from men in congress will act upon the report of postoffice inspectors in locating all other postoffices.

So many congressmen have been drawn into unpleasant controversy over the location of postoffices throughout their districts that many have desired to be relieved of this unnecessary trouble and the department has found itself involved in many political aned social controversies which are altogether unnecessary and militated against the public as well as their interests.

Congressmen are in a position to assist the department as to the location of postoffices at their own homes and they will be invited to do so, but when it comes to the final decision of locating postoffices in all other places, the postoffice department will exercise the executive function vested in it and act upon official information received through the postoffice department.

WHITEMAN NABBED.

Former Duluthian Accused By St. Louis Police of Fresh Forgery Offences.

St. Louis, June 27.—Alonzo J. Whiteman, once a state senator from Duluth, was arrested Saturday night by detectives on a charge of forgery. It is alleged he obtained $275 from a Chicago hotel clerk on a forged check.

In the arrest of Alonzo J. Whiteman, alias W. H. Martin, Chief of Detectives Desmond thinks he has caught probably the boldest forger in the country. According to the chief's theory, Whiteman evidently intended working his way to New York and thence to Europe, and was prepared to carry $125,000 in cold cash out of the country with him. It is impossible to learn whether Whiteman had operated in St. Louis. He is wanted in Boston. Chief Desmond received a telegram from that city today asking him to hold Whiteman, as there were several indictments against him for obtaining goods by false pretenses. Whiteman's clothing trunks were opened today, and in them were found checks on various banks, several letterheads and envelopes of the Lawrence National bank of Lawrence, Kan., and the following letter, written on a letterhead of the Lawrence National bank, dated May 31:

"F. L. Hine, Cashier First National Bank, New York, N. Y.:

"Dear Sir: This will introduce our friend, John R. Eaton, who is on his way to Europe for a few weeks' vacation. Mr. Eaton carries our drafts on you for $500, $1000 and $1500 respectively. "He will want some foreign currency and exchange, and any courtesies you can extend him will be gratefully appreciated by yours respectfully.

"WALTER L. HOWE,
"Cashier."

Four checks, duly signed and endorsed in accordance with the letter, were found ready for presentation to the bank.

In the same bunch were fifteen checks on the Lawrence bank, perforated, for $114,750, and eight checks on the same bank are not perforated.

UNIVERSAL ARBITRATION COMING.

A Baptist Preacher's Prophecy About the Spanish Flag.

New York, June 27.—In a sermon last night in the Cavalry Baptist church, the Rev. Robert S. MacArthur talked at length on the opposition to annexing more property to the United States. "I am of the opinion," said the preacher, "that the day of universal arbitration is coming. One way is to be prepared for war. We need intelligent men. Brains behind guns tell. We will need a large army and navy. Dewey's victory at Manilla must stir the heart of every American. He was adventurous to a point that is almost audacious. We must sanction audacity. We have lived more in the past sixty days, than under ordinary conditions in sixty years. I have no fears for the American people. We have ability, courage, heroism and enthusiasm. As yet we have not folded up the Spanish flag but we will do it in time."

OPEN LETTERS FROM

Jennie E. Green and Mrs. Harry Hardy.

JENNIE E GREEN, Denmark, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had been sick at my monthly periods for seven years, and tried almost everything I ever heard of, but without any benefit. Was troubled with backache, headache, pains in the shoulders and dizziness. Through my mother I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has done me so much good. I am now sound and well."

Mrs. HARRY HARDY, Riverside, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham the story of her struggle with serious ovarian trouble, and the benefit she received from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This is her letter:

"How thankful I am that I took your medicine. I was troubled for two years with inflammation of the womb and ovaries, womb was also very low. I was in constant misery. I had heart trouble, was short of breath and could not walk five blocks to save my life. Suffered very much with my back, had headache all the time, was nervous, menstruations were irregular and painful, had a bad discharge and was troubled with bloating. I was a perfect wreck. Had doctored and taken local treatments, but still was no better. I was advised by one of my neighbors to write to you. I have now finished the second bottle of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and am better in every way. I am able to do all my own work and can walk nearly a mile without fatigue; something I had not been able to do for over two years. Your medicine has done me more good than all the doctors."

BATTLE OF LA QUASINA.

English Newspapers Comment on Bravery of Americans.

London, June 27.—The afternoon newspapers here comment upon the battle of La Quasina in the same strain as the morning papers, praising the bravery of the American soldiers and condemning the tactics which permitted them to be ambushed.

The Westminster Gazette says it thinks the serious part of the fighting has only begun, and adds: "It is a pity that so many brave men must fall on both sides before Spain sues for peace."

The story of Edward Marshal, correspondent of the New York Journal-Advertiser dictating his report of the fight for his newspaper, while mortally wounded, provokes sympathetic comments. The Westminster Gazette says: "To the honor of war correspondents this is not the first instance of such devotion to duty."

LANDING OF GEN. SHAFTER'S FORCES IN CUBA.

ADVANCE IN WHEAT

All the News Was Bullish and the Market Ruled Strong.

THE CABLES HIGHER

The World's Shipments Were Small and the Northwest Receipts Were Light.

The news favored higher prices for wheat today, and the result was a net advance of 1¼c in July at Chicago and 1½c in Duluth and a gain of 1c in September at Chicago and ⅞c on the Duluth board. Cables were higher, a fair advance being reported at Liverpool; the world's shipments were light; Northwest receipts were small and wet weather was reported from the harvest fields. This bullish news proved sufficient to cause the Chicago shorts to do some covering and prices steadily advanced. Trading was dull on the Duluth board. July opened with buyers at 82c, Saturday night's close, and sold up sharply to 83½c. It eased off ½c but recovered and again touched 83½c, at which it closed, being 1½c advance for the day. September opened ¼c higher at 67½c and sold up to 68¼c at noon. It closed at 68⅛c, or ⅞c above Saturday. The elevators bought six cars of cash stuff at the July price. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 86c; July, 86c; September, 69⅛c. No. 1 northern, cash, 83½c; July, 83½c; September, 68¼c. No. 2 northern, 81c. No. 3 spring, 77c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 86c; No. 1 northern, 83½c. Oats, 24¾@23¾c. Rye, 44c. Barley, 26c. Flax, to arrive, $1.05; September, $1.03. Corn, 27c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 46; corn, 12; oats, 4. Receipts—Wheat, 61,423; corn, 3737. Shipments—Wheat, 5649; oats, 84,181.

ON THE CHICAGO BOARD.

Wheat News Was Favorable For Higher Prices.

Chicago, June 27.—Everything tended toward better prices in the wheat pit today. Wet weather where harvesting is in progress started the market strong. Prices were kept on the upward turn by covering by shorts. Cables from Liverpool showed an advance of ½@1d. Weather in England and France was reported as being favorable. World's shipments were light. Receipts in the Northwest were small, 84 cars against 289 last year. Chicago arrivals were 8 cars as compared with 23 for the same day last year. July opened at ⅛@1c higher at 72⅜@72¾c, sold down to 72⅜c, and then up to 73c. September started ⅛@¼c better at 66@66½c, rose to 67¼c, declined to 66¾c and then sold at 67c.

Trade was exceedingly slow all day, but the temper was a little bullish. There was one break brought about, the drive at July which declined to 71c. The deferred features, however, held a little better than the close Saturday. July at 1 p. m. was quoted at 72½c, September at 67⅜c and December at 67⅝c. July closed at 73c and September at 67¼c.

Corn was firmer in sympathy with wheat. July began unchanged to ⅛c lower at 31¼@31⅜c, rose to 31½c, fell off to 31@31⅛c and then firmed up to 31⅜c.

Oats were stronger with the other advances. July opened unchanged at 22⅛c, sold off to 21¾c and then firmed up to 22⅛c@22¼c.

Provisions were firm with the exception of lard, which was easier on general selling by Swift and other packers. Cudahy interests bought pork and ribs. July pork opened 2½c higher at $9.57½ and sold up to $9.67½. July lard began 2½@5c lower at $5.57½ and ranged between that and $5.60. July ribs started unchanged at $5.40 and sold up to $5.47½.

Chicago, June 27.—Close: June, 78¾c; July, 73c; August, 68c; September, 67¼c; December, 67⅝@67¾c. Corn, June 31⅛c; July, 31½c; September, 32¼c; December, 32¾c; May, 35c. Oats, June, 21⅞c; July, 20⅞c; August, 21⅞c; September, 20c; May, 22¾c. Pork, June, $9.52; July, $9.52; September, $9.67. Lard, June, $5.55; July, $5.55; September, $5.65. Ribs, June, $5.35@5.37; July, $5.35@5.37; September, $5.45. Cash No. 2 red wheat, 76c; No. 3 red, 70@75c; No. 2 hard, 68@73c; No. 3 hard, 62@66c; No. 2 spring, 67@69; No. 3 spring, 63@73; No. 1 northern spring 81@84c. No. 2 corn, 32⅝c; No. 3 corn, 31⅛c. No. 2 oats, 22¾c; No. 3, 22c. Rye, cash, 43½c; July, 43½c; September, 41½c. Barley, cash, 33@36c. Flax, $1.05; cash Northwestern, $1.05; July, $1.05. Timothy, June, $2.55.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Steady Prices With Speculation Not Much In Evidence.

New York, June 27.—The cotton market opened dull, but steady, with prices unchanged to a point lower. Throughout the forenoon, business was exceptionally light and fluctuations narrow. Both bulls and bears were averse to enter extensively into new obligations in view of the stagnant condition of speculation abroad, notably at Liverpool, absence of outside support and a more or less general belief the Spanish American war had reached the crisis. Crop accounts were of decided bearish average. Rains during the past twenty-four hours have improved the condition of the market. Cotton futures opened dull, but steady; sales, 2500 bales; July, $6.17; August, $6.20; September, $6.05; October, $6.05; November, $6.05; December, $6.06; January, $6.10; February, $6.12; March, $6.16; April, 6.19.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, June 27.—Wheat ruled stronger today due to bad weather in the Southwest which made the local crowd inclined to feel bullish. They were the best buyers of wheat here today and we are inclined to believe with any improvement in the weather the price will work lower. Wheat on passage showed a big decrease this week due to large importations into France before the duty goes on.

Corn finally closed today at ⅛c higher than on Saturday. The market was quiet and strong during the early part of the session, but weakened a little toward the close. There is no particular change in the corn situation. There has been more rain than was needed since Saturday. Conditions so far do not seem to favor a very large crop. A good share of trading was changing July to September. The price is low enough.

Oats show more activity than for several days. Quite a large business was done, and prices are a shade easier than on Saturday.

Provisions were firm early and advanced somewhat notwithstanding there were 10,000 hogs more than expected received, with prices 5c to 10c lower, but on the advance packers undertook to realize and the market broke quickly and closes a little easier than on Saturday.

Puts, July wheat, 66⅜@66½c.
Calls, July wheat, 67@67⅞c.

Railroad Shares Today Developed a Marked Weakness.

New York, June 27.—Prices of railroad shares showed a drooping tendency at the opening notwithstanding the strength of some Americans in London, where the new account was opened today. Sugar was off a point and People's Gas, ¾. Specialties on the other hand showed gains, the Rubber stocks, Tobacco and General Electric leading. The grangers and Southwesterns eased off slightly, but marked strength developed in some specialties which soon extended to other industrials and turned the general course of prices upward. Tobacco on heavy purchases, moved up over 2 points to 121. The rubber stocks advanced 1¼@3 points respectively and People's Gas and Sugar more than recovered the previous losses. The railroad stocks did not figure in the trading to any great extent and moved sluggishly.

The failure of the standard stocks to follow the lead of the specialties induced some realizing in which a substantial portion of the early gains were wiped out. Towards midday the market steadied again on buying of Tobacco. Sales were 123,223 shares up to noon.

Is With the Riders

R. L. Channing, formerly superintendent of the Geneva mine, on the Mesaba range, was in the fight near Santiago with Roosevelt's rough riders Friday. When the rough riders were being organized Mr. Channing, who had many friends among them, determined to go. He acted promptly in his decision and telegraphed his resignation to President D. H. Bacon of the Minnesota Iron company leaving at once for the East. Mr. Channing is known as one of the best mining engineers in the country.

WOMEN'S CLUBS QUARREL.

Great Wrangle at Denver Over the Election of Officers.

Denver, Col., June 27.—Imbued with the most intense excitement, precipitated by the factional feeling in the Federation of Women's Clubs prominently brought out in the last twenty-four hours, 2000 women packed the Broadway theater today to proceed with the election of officers. Probably as a pacific measure Miss Cole, of Boston, read the 103rd Psalm, which commends people not to keep their anger forever. Mrs. Henrotin, the president, appointed a parliamentary committee, consisting of Mrs. Shattuck, of Illinois; Mrs. Roberts, of Ohio, and Mrs. Osgood, of Maine.

Mrs. Noble, of Connecticut, as chairman of the nominating committee, presented the ticket, headed by Mrs. Lowe, of Georgia. Mrs. Barnes, secretary followed, presenting the name of Mrs. Breed, of Massachusetts, outlining her policy. Miss French fired the first gun for Mrs. Lowe, with a plea for the South for non-sectional reasons. Mrs. Mumford, of Pennsylvania; Mrs. Lockwood, of Washington; Mrs. Loutal, of Texas, and Mrs. Hauger, of Tennessee, followed with similar remarks. Mrs. Jennings, of Georgia, got in an effective speech for Mrs. Breed, whereupon, amid the tensions, an effort was made to precipitate a vote after an unsuccessful attempt to have Mrs. Lowe take the floor.

Finally confusion arose to such a point that it was decided to eject all visitors from the house. An amendment permitted a solitary man, the governor of Colorado, to remain. After an hour of oratory the debate was closed, Mrs. Henrotin relieving the tension with her good-humored ruling.

Mrs. W. B. Lowe, of Atlanta, Ga., was elected president. The vote was: Mrs. Lowe, 429; Miss Alice Ives Breed, 234; Miss C. P. Burns, 10; Mrs. William Tod Helmuth, 2.

EXPECT DOZEN BIDS.

That Number Liable to Be In For Bonds---E. H. Gay Hustling.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon nine bids, besides that of Judge Dillon, of New York, had been received by City Clerk Cheadle for the water bonds. There are half a dozen representatives of Eastern bond buyers here and the ubiquitous E. H. Gay has been buzzing around among them like a bumble bee and in a manner which the council and Mayor Truelsen are inclined to think means no good for the city.

Some Duluth parties are still to put in bids and it is thought there will be at least a dozen bidders. It is reported on good authority that Judge Dillon's bid for $25,000 is above par. This coming from the man who has examined the legality of the bonds ought to be good evidence as to what they are worth.

It was reported this afternoon that a bid had gone in offering a premium for the entire issue.

Big Clothing Purchase.

In securing the Kohn Bros.' stock, Williamson & Mendenhall are congratulating themselves on having made the best purchase they ever made in their years of experience in the clothing business. The acme of perfection in the construction of men's attire has been reached by Kohn Bros., of Chicago, and their rivals could only be looked for amongst the highest priced tailors in the land, while their superiors will be looked for in vain the wide world over. H. F. Williamson, Jr., said today: We made them an off hand bid, rather in a joke, because we had no idea such a ridiculous offer of 67½ cents on the dollar would be accepted. To our surprise our proposition was accepted. Thus the Big Duluth's master stroke of the season was consummated, and 500 marvelous productions of the most renowned tailoring firm in the land are on our tables awaiting your inspection. The patrons of the Big Duluth will share in the purchase, as a special sale will be continued there all this week.

THIRTY APPLICATIONS.

Capt. Powell Finds Many Anxious to Join.

Capt. A. O. Powell, of St. Paul, who is to command the Minnesota company in the Second regiment of volunteer engineering corps, arrived in the city this morning and registered at the St. Louis. A recruiting office was opened at the Armory this morning and thirty applications were received, composed of lumber jacks, river drivers, engineers and carpenters. Several more carpenters competent to do rough bridge work are especially desired. Capt. Powell will be at the Armory at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to receive any more applications that may be made. Applicants will be given their physical examinations at the Armory tomorrow afternoon and those who pass will be enlisted and sent to St. Paul, where the company will assemble. From there they will go to Chicago where they will be joined by the other companies of the regiment. Capt. Powell was well pleased with the character of the men who offered themselves today. He went to Grand Rapids this afternoon and will return tomorrow.

ORGANIZATION EFFECTED.

Duluth-Superior Passenger Association Takes Formal Existence.

A meeting of the general agents of the railroad companies at the head of the lake was held in Parlor K at the Spalding this morning, and the organization of a local passenger association was perfected. All of the roads were represented. The name given this organization is the Duluth-Superior Passenger association. Richard A. Eva, general agent of the Northern Pacific in Duluth, was elected chairman and Frank McCabe, general agent of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha at West Superior, secretary. The object of the association is primarily to prevent the cutting of passenger rates. A Duluth-Superior passenger tariff sheet will be issued and an effort made to bring about a closer understanding between the agents of competing lines.

HOW THE WAR NEWS COMES.

Getting the war news from Cuba is costly work and it is also slow work, because nearly all the press dispatches have to come via Jamaica or Hayti, the cable at Santiago being burdened with government messages to the exclusion of all other business. The cable stations from which the press reports come are Kingston, Jamaica; Mole St. Nicholas, Hayti, and Cape Haytien, Hayti.

Kingston, Jamaica, is the nearest ocean telegraph station to Santiago, and is distant about 150 miles, seven or eight hours' run for a swift dispatch boat. It was at Kingston that the first intimation of the massacre of Capt. Fry and the crew of the Virginius at Santiago, in 1876, was received, and from that place a British warship was dispatched for the rescue of the unfortunate crew. The island of Jamaica, which belongs to Great Britain, lies directly south of the east end of Cuba. Kingston is the capital, and is situated upon a splendid harbor on the south shore of the island. It is a city of about 35,000 population.

The next nearest cable station to Santiago de Cuba is Mole St. Nicholas. This is at the northwest extremity of Hayti, upon the best harbor of that country. It is about 170 miles from Santiago and overlooks the Windward passage, which separates Hayti from Cuba. The narrowest part of the Windward passage is about sixty miles wide. Cape Haytien is on the northern coast of Hayti, about seventy-five miles east from Mole St. Nicholas. It is a cable station and a town of some commercial importance, having a population of about 12,000.

Directly east from the island of Hayti or Santo Domingo, and separated from it by the Mona passage, lies the Spanish island of Porto Rico. San Juan, its capital, lies on the northeastern coast, about thirty miles from its eastern extremity. Sixty or seventy miles east from San Juan is the Danish island of St. Thomas. There is a cable station at Charlotte Amelia, the capital of this island, and from that point the news of operations in Porto Rico will probably be received. The French island of Martinique is 400 miles southeast of San Juan. From Tampa to San Juan the distance is about 1300 miles, and from Tampa to Santiago de Cuba is about 1600 miles. The distance from Tampa to Key West is 250 miles.

TERRITORIAL EXPANSION.

One of the notable converts to the policy of territorial expansion is Hon. Henry Watterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal. In an interview in the New York Herald, Mr. Watterson is quoted as saying that the United States is "the trustee of civilization. In that character we will presently find ourselves masters of Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines. To surrender territory thus acquired would be a wanton and cowardly abandonment of obligations and opportunities literally heaven sent." He thinks we have outgrown the stay-at-home and mind-your-own-business policy of Washington, and as the foster father of self government we should extend the zone of our influence beyond the boundaries of this continent. National expansion, he says, is a problem of the near future, which involves prolonged, and may be acrimonious discussion, and will subordinate all other issues.

Thus it will be seen that Mr. Watterson, although a Democrat, opposes the stand taken both by Grover Cleveland and William J. Bryan on this question. On the other hand, there are a large number of Republicans who oppose territorial acquisition, while the majority of the Republican leaders who have been heard from on the subject favor the permanent occupation of the Philippines and Porto Rico and the annexation of Hawaii. The veteran Republican statesman, Senator Morrill of Vermont belongs to the former class. In a vigorous speech in the senate a few days ago he declared his conviction that annexation of distant islands is not in harmony with the constitution of the United States, but is conspicuously repugnant thereto. "We cannot afford," he declared, "to denounce and forbid all acquisitions of territory in the western hemisphere by European governments, even at the peril of war, and forthwith embark in a thus badamned enterprise ourselves. If we would have our yet unstained doctrine respected by others we must scrupulously practice what we preach." Soon after the question of the occupation of the Philippines was raised ex-Senator Edmunds pointed out that if the islands should be permanently held by the United States European governments might reasonably regard it as relieving them from any obligation to respect the wishes of this country in regard to the western part of the world.

The Omaha Bee, a strong Republican journal, maintains that the acquisition of territory in the far East would as certainly involve the United States in European politics as if it were contiguous to Europe. It says: "It is perfectly obvious that we shall depreciate the Monroe doctrine if we assume a concern in the disposition of territory in the old world which we deny to European states in the new. If this nation shall decide to permanently occupy territory in the eastern hemisphere nothing is more certain than that Europe will in time challenge our claim to the right to dominate the western hemisphere. European nations have reluctantly acquiesced in our assertion of the Monroe doctrine because we have kept aloof from old world affairs, but the moment we should depart from this policy Europe would no longer feel called upon to respect that doctrine, and there can be no doubt that sooner or later an opportunity would be found to disregard it."

MCLEARY BILL WITHDRAWN

A Washington dispatch says that jealousies, intrigues and personal difficulties among members of the banking and currency committee of the house have sealed the fate of any financial legislation in the Fifty-fifth congress. Congressman McCleary, who reported a bill which for a week or so was called "the McCleary bill," has withdrawn that measure from the house calendar, and the Minnesota member has been superseded on the sub-committee by Fowler, of New Jersey. At the last meeting of the committee there was such a stormy time that several members almost came to blows.

The trouble was that the McCleary bill was reported to the house without the approval of a majority of the committee, and when several members were absent from Washington. Naturally there was a row when they returned and found out the unfair trick Mr. McCleary had tried to play. The fact is that only a few members of the committee favor his bill, although it obtained the approval of the "sound money" convention, which met at Indianapolis last summer. The result is that the Republican congressmen will have to face their constituents next fall without having passed any legislation to reform the currency as they promised.

A STRONG ENDORSEMENT.

Judge Dillon's bid for $25,000 of the 4 per cent water and light bonds will undoubtedly have a good effect. It will be complete assurance to bond buyers that the judge has not the slightest doubt about the legality of the bonds, otherwise he would not want any of the bonds.

It also shows that the judge has firm faith in their value as an investment, and that he considers the credit of Duluth first class. There is little doubt that the whole issue will be floated, and that those who said the city could not dispose of 4 per cent bonds at the present time are going to be disappointed.

Waiters who have positions in Boston evidently are fortunate. In noticing the fact that one of the waiters of that city lately died, leaving $25,000 to his heirs, the Herald of that city says: "The good fortune of this deceased waiter is by no means unique here in Boston. There are waiters here who can boast of the possession of far handsomer fortunes than this one died possessed of. But they are not proclaiming the fact from the housetops. They pursue their humble calling modestly and quietly, and save their tips to add to a competency considerably larger than most of their customers can boast of."

The last annual report shows that during the year which closed June 30, 1897, there were 9681 disasters on the coast, involving vessels worth $107,291,330, and property worth $153,817,329. The value of the property saved was $119,041,597. In these disasters 77,133 persons were involved and 823 were lost. In 553 instances stranded vessels were worked off and otherwise relieved. Some 1500 persons in peril were brought ashore, often at great risk to the life-saving service. All honor to the life-saving crews.

Russia's great bird show has been postponed until the summer of 1899. But when it does come off it will be the greatest show on earth. The collection will include specimens of birds from all climes, and nearly all the nations will be represented with choice specimens. The American eagle, proud bird of liberty, will be there.

Gen. Shafter is pushing the invasion with great vigor and celerity. He seems to be the right man in the right place, and the capture of Santiago in the immediate future is a certainty.

If that Cadiz fleet goes to the Philippines it will get a hot reception from Admiral Dewey. With the monitors Monterey and Monadnock added to the squadron which won the battle of Cavite bay, he will make the Spanish admiral sorry that he ever left Cadiz.

Nearly 50,000 of the marching men in our new army will wear shoes made in the busy towns near Boston. "It is pleasant to know," says the Globe, "that our brave boys in blue are so well heeled." But how are their soles?

When the senate takes the vote on the annexation of Hawaii, congress might adjourn and go home without any injury to the country's interests.

The Eustis men are claiming too much. They have not nearly enough votes to nominate William Henry, and they may never get them.

The Grand Forks Plain Dealer says it was a Larimore widow who wanted her friends to surprise her on her wedding anniversary.

Lillian Russell says she would enlist were she not a woman. Perhaps she can induce her ex-husbands to form a regiment.

Teddy Roosevelt was in the thick of the fight, and he was cool-headed and courageous as every one expected he would be.

The Barcelona Diario says Spain ought to demand peace at any price. Barcelona is the great business center of Spain.

The United States soldiers in Cuba are proving that they are made of the same stuff as the American navy.

The Spaniards in Cuba have been impressed with the fact that the American soldier knows how to fight.

Taking Santiago is no easy task, but the American army and navy will be victorious in the end.

A POPULAR LOAN.

Kansas City Star: The treasury officials at Washington do not give out any figures respecting the amount of small subscriptions for bonds that are coming in, but they say that a large force of clerks is kept busy accounting for the subscriptions and preparing to forward the bonds as soon as possible. The secretary of the treasury thinks that few bonds will be left to allot to the large subscribers, after the small purchasers are provided for.

It would be a gratifying and inspiring incident in this country's history if the entire sum of $200,000,000 in bonds should be sold in small amounts to the people, without calling on the banks and other big investors for a dollar. If these bonds can be placed in the hands of 1,000,000 different citizens, in sums ranging from $20 to $500, the achievement will be of immense advantage to the nation in many ways. It would be an incalculable aid to future efforts to put the currency of the country on a permanently sound basis. It would do more than anything else to silence the periodical demand for larger issues of paper money. It would give the people a direct interest in the soundness of the nation's finances, in addition to their patriotic desire for the welfare of the government. It would be an excellent measurement of the hidden financial resources of the people and it would make the credit of the United States government's, whose 2½ per cent bonds are worth ment better than that of any other nation in the world—better, even, than England.

If the gib investors do not get a chance to buy bonds, they will, at least have the consolation of profiting from the popular success of the war loan, for it will cause the prices of bonds now outstanding to advance. They have already gone up 3 per cent since it became known that the small investors would get most, if not all, of the war bonds.

Too Costly Lighting.

Superior Inland Ocean: Duluth has been paying $51,000 a year for city lighting, a sum large enough to "stagger" a much larger city than our sister across the bay. There are times when darkness is preferable to light, and we guess both Duluth and Superior might try the former awhile to their great advantage; that is, if the light companies cannot be brought to reasonable terms.

Which Is Correct?

Twa Harbors Iron Trade Journal: The Duluth News Tribune quotes, apparently with approval, an article from the St. Paul Globe in which the statement is made that the farmers of the Northwest will benefit to the extent of $700,000 annually by a reduction in grain rates to go into effect on the Great Northern road as soon as the Fosston cut-off is completed. Yet in the case of ore freights the News Tribune is disposed to agree with those fellows who claim that a reduction would benefit only the consumers. How is that?

An Easy Choice.

Sauk Center Avalanche: There will be a big effort made to re-elect Page Morris in this district this fall. After comparing the congressional records of Morris and Towne and then taking into consideration their ability the rank and file of the voters will find no trouble in placing an X mark opposite the name of Charles A. Towne for congress.

A Recognized Authority.

Brainerd Journal: The Duluth News Tribune says that this is "great beer weather," and the News Tribune is a recognized authority on questions of that kind.

The Settlement In Clover.

The Jenkinses, the Joneses, the Williamses an' Greens;
The Sprowlers an' the Growlers has left these peaceful scenes;
An' they're gettin' fat an' fussy on army pork and beans,
An' we'll all get enlisted in the mornin'!

The Williamses are colonels; the Browns are cap'ns line;
The Jenkinses are majors—an' they never will resign;

We're headin' straight for glory—fer we all are colonels born;
An' you'll find us in the army when they blow the dinner horn,
An' we'll all get enlisted in the mornin'!

—FRANK L. STANTON.

Why They Misrepresent Him.

Sauk Center Avalanche: If the Republican party and its press bureau did not fear Charles A. Towne, they would not be trying to belittle him at every turn of the wheel. Hon. Charles A. Towne is not only brilliant, able and honest, but he has that courage of purpose to stand by his convictions, and this courage together with a lavish expenditure of money by the Republican party two years ago, caused his defeat for congress in the Sixth district. It is this courage of purpose and honesty of principle which will see him elected over Page Morris this fall by an overwhelming majority.

WAR TALK OF WITS.

Chicago Record: "Have you tasted the new soda water named 'Dewey?'"
"No. What is it flavored with?"
"Glager."

Chicago Tribune: Officer (saluting)—I want to see Gen. Grant.
Sentry (in a whisper)—He isn't here. But you can see Gen. Fred Grant.

Detroit Journal: "But your right hand," they urged, "has not lost its cunning."
The man smiled.
"No," he answered, "I can still count on that."

Indianapolis Journal: Watts—I suppose you heard that the Boston girls are wearing red, white and blue garters?
Potts—Yes. It struck me as a rather narrow manifestation of patriotism.

Washington Star: "What is going to be the most fashionable fabric this summer?"
"I don't know for sure," replied Mamie. "But from reading the newspapers, I should say gun-cotton."

Chicago Post: "Remarkable man? Well I should say so. Why, he has called on the president four times since the war began without asking that any one be made a brigadier general."

Detroit Free Press: "No use in talking, that man Dewey is a wonder. He littered Manilla bay with the Spanish fleet, and now I see that he swept the bay yesterday."
"Nonesense, man; you're too gullible. He couldn't sweep a great body of water like that."
"Yes, he did, with his glass."

Cincinnati Enquirer: "I guess we better not take Wadderberry as a risk," said the lasurance agent. "He is talking of going to war."
"We cannot refuse a man on such patriotic grounds," said the partner. "It would ruin our business."
"It ain't that at all. I know he would not talk that way unless he had some organic trouble."

MR. DOOLEY DESCRIBES A CABINET MEETING.

Chicago Journal: "They must have great times down in Wash'nton these days," said Mr. Dooley. "Gr-reat times in Mack's cabinet, settin' r-round an' plannin' th' destht'uction iv th' haughty power iv Spain. 'Tis there ye see rale janius an' thinkin' brains di-rectin' th' foolish sojers that wants to r-rush in an' snoot an' stab an' kill.

"At tin o'clock me frind Hanna laves me frind Mack out iv th' celler an' Mack goes to th' fr-ront parlor, where th' cabinet is settin' an' they have all their pitchers took in th' act iv thought. Thin says Mack: 'I hope ye'er all well,' he says, 'this blessed June mornin',' he says. 'I'm not feelin' quite up to th' limit,' says th' gallant secrety iv th' navy. 'Ye shud go slow on that limon phosphate,' says Mack. 'It biteth like a wasp an' stingeth like a ladder,' he says. 'I wint very light on it,' says th' commander iv th' battleships, 'though they was lashins iv it at th' meetin' iv th' peace s'ciety,' he says. 'Lashins iv it,' he says, 'an' some iv th' la-adis got pretty high an' snug "I want to be an angel, me boys" till th' waiter rapped on th' dure f'r thim to stop. No,' he says, 'twas not that, he says, 'but I lay awake all night thinkin' iv me brave sailors,' he says, 'in furrin waters,' he says, 'far fr'm home, he says, 'perishin' iv old age,' he says. 'They wint away happy an' eager,' he says, 'an' now their gran'childher listens in vain f'r gran'pah's step upon th' walk, he says, wringin' his hands.

"'War is no joke,' says th' secrety iv war sternly. 'A man in my business gr-rows accustomed to turrible scenes,' he says, 'I wanst see a fellow have his t'umb cut off be a buzz saw in Mitchigan,' he says. 'A man must steel himself to such scenes,' he says. 'Did yo not faint?' says th' secrety iv th' navy. 'I did not,' says the secrety iv war. 'I kept me prisince iv mind an' took th' t'umb out iv his time,' he says.

"'Gentlemen,' says Mack, br-reakin' in, 'let's have no further argyment,' he says. 'Has th' attorney-gin'ral annything to communicate?' he says. 'I have,' says th' attorney gin'ral; 'I have prepared an opinyon to prove that th' capture iv Havana wud be disordherly conduct an' unconstitutional,' he says. 'Also,' he says, 'an opinyon to show that th' proper way f'r to carry on th' op-rations in Cuba,' he says, 'is to put thim in th' hands iv a stock comp'ny for-rmed undher th' laws iv th' state iv Noo Jarsey,' he says, 'an' issue bonds on th' artillry an' other r-rollin' stock,' he says. 'Wudden't that interfere with th' pop'lar loan?' says Mack. 'Not at all,' says th' secrety iv th' threeasury. 'Th' pop'lar loan's been all took up in millyon dollar lots be th' pathriotic banks,' he says. 'It's a gr-reat success,' he says. 'A loan always is,' says Mack. 'I had wan wanst mesilf,' he says, 'an' it med a gr-reat hit with me,' he says.

"'Well,' he says, 'to r-raysume,' he says. 'Th' op'rations f'r th' conquist iv th' haughty Spanyard goes on with gr-reat success,' he says. 'Sandago de Cuba is not taken,' he says. 'But th' crew iv th' Iowa has taken th' measles, th' crew iv th' New York has taken to dhrink, an' Col. Asthor has taken a morgedge of all th' tinimints in Southern Cuba. I am,' he says, 'mobilizin' wan hundhred thousan' men at Dubuque, Ioway, to support Shafter, an' be Mondah I'll be r-rushin' re-enforcements to Terry Hut, Kenosha an' What Cheer. Th' major gin'ral in command iv th' army will be a frind iv Mark's,' he says. 'I clane f'rget his name, but h's wan iv the largest pickle manyfacthurers iv th' western raysarve,' he says. 'Is there anny brigadier gin'rals to bee app'inted?' says th' secrety iv th' navy. 'A lot,' says Mack. 'Thin,' says th' secrety iv th' navy, 'I speak f'r a frind iv mine, th' champeen tinnis player iv Swampscatt an' a leader iv mission wurruk,' he says. 'I have here,' says th' secrety iv war, 'a list iv Mitchigan men that haven't been appinted to annything,' he says, 'an' ar-re thuly incompetent f'r th' jooties iv brigadier gin'ral,' he says. 'Tur-rn thim in,' says Mack. 'A frind iv mine,' says th' secrety iv agriculture, 'has two fine boys takin' th' Keeley cure,' he says. 'Give me their names,' says Mack. 'There ar-re three or four la-ads in Chicago,' says th' secrity iv th' threeasury, 'that ar-re a dead weight on their parients,' he says, 'an,' he says, 'they might be loaned to th' country at th' usual r-rates,' he says. 'Make a note iv thim,' says Mack. 'Have none iv ye anny rilitives not now in th' ar-rmy or navy?' he says. 'I have an aunt,' says th' secrity iv state, 'She's appinted,' says Mack. 'I'll now go over to th' shift an' hand r-round th' r-rest iv th' jobs,' he says. 'Thank hivin, we're a nation iv leaders,' he says.

"'Glory be to th' saints,'" Mr. Dooley added fervently, 'the war's in th' hands iv Mack an' th' cabinet. If iver 'tis tur-rned over to the r-rough r-riders or th' other wild divvles in Cuba, th' fair fame iv th' Union'll be marred; they'll be a coorderoy r-road iv late Spanyards fr'm wan ind iv Cuba to th' other, an' as a nation we'll be no better thin our fathers was before us."

ALL FAVOR JUDGE AYER.

Hibbing News: It has been agreed for years that the probate judge's office is one of those that should be kept out of politics. This is not a good time to break that excellent rule. Judge Ayer has administered the delicate duties of the place with never a word of complaint or suspicion of misjudgment while his development of the sphere of his position has been accepted as of great value in the rest of the state. It would be a mistake for the county to pass him by for one who has never shown any particular ability or special fitness.

Virginian: And now I hear that there is a movement on foot to bring Judge Ayer into the campaign in opposition to Middlecoff for judge of probate, and I think it a good scheme, too. The plan, as it reaches me, is to have Mr. Ayer come out as an independent candidate and then he will receive the endorsement of the allied forces. To a Republican mind not acquainted with the facts in the case this would appear to be a very rash thing for Mr. Ayer to do, but circumstances justify such a step, and should he become a candidate he would be upheld and supported by nearly all of the lawyers of the county and political affiliations would cut no figure whatever in the premises. I have talked with a number of leading Republicans on the range and they are all in favor of Ayer, and hope they will be given the chance to vote for him.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

Atchison Globe: A girl just naturally hates boys until she is 12 or 13 years old.

Other people don't take as much interest in your children as you do.

Half the people work too much, while the other half don't work enough.

Rob with a velvet hand, instead of a pistol, if you want to get away with it.

Having to work very hard every minute is as good for a man's soul as religion.

A woman regards her social debts as sacred as her debts at the dry goods stores.

Every time a circus comes to town all the local band men want to join the band.

Seventeen Atchison women have been blacklisted; they go to all the parties and never give any.

People have become so accustomed to tough luck of late that they do not pay much attention to it.

About all some people do is to follow other men around complaining of the way they do their work.

This is not the year for a fat man to be ashamed of his weight; the point is to have a great displacement.

Some people think that if they put "Town" on an envelope instead of "City" it is a sure sign of culture.

Women are now working a great graft by saying they can't wear silk stockings because they hurt their feet.

The people waste a terrible portion of their lives in trying to be prettier than the Lord never intended them to be.

The women are looking up physicians who order their patients to spend the summer at some resort for their health.

SPAIN CLINGS TO HOBSON.

Washington, Times: Blanco's refusal to exchange Hobson and his crew is a piece of infamy which need not surprise anyone who remembers the torture and murder of Dr. Ruiz, the Spanish butchery of little children or the treacherous destruction of the Maine. If harm comes of it he and others will be held responsible.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Santiago will fall. Morro castle will be taken, either as it now stands or as a heap of ruins. Cervera and Linares, if they live through the battle, are likely to be themselves prisoners of war. It will be well for them if the eight prisoners of Morro castle are found alive and unhurt, when that time comes.

Cincinnati Tribune: The end draws near. With Blanco declaring he will do what he sees fit with Hobson and his men—which doubtless means murder then—and informing the blockading fleet at Havana that a flag of truce will be fired on wherever seen. Spain, the mad dog, is spitting forth its least mouthful of froth preparatory to biting itself to death.

Philadelphia Record: Cervera's dodge of putting Hobson in the line of Sampson's fire was not entirely original. It is an old scheme with our political adepts in Pennsylvania to put the Star Spangled Banner between themselves and the fire of public indignation whenever the fusillade gives sign of getting too hot. Cervera has merely worked the trick over.

New York Sun: Signs of desire for peace are growing in Spain very rapidly. Peace with victory was never possible, and is not now expected; but peace with honor cannot well be hoped for if Spanish vindictiveness refuses to give to the Hobson party the soldier's benefit of exchange. The most that Gen. Blanco or, to name the actual authority, the queen regent, can fairly exact from Hobson, is the latter's parole to sink no more Merrimacs.

Chicago Tribune: And now Capt. Gen. Blanco says that he will hereafter recognize no flag of truce, but will fire upon every vessel within range, whether flying stars and strines or a white flag. Capt. Gen. Blanco is growing both uncivil and unsocial. He needs to be taught a lesson in good manners within a mile range from Munich masters. How would it do to let the Vesuvius give him a few lessons after it gets through with its engagement at Santiago?

Philadelphia Ledger: Spanish honor has received another shock in the intimation that the United States will hold Pando and Cervera personally responsible for the safety of Hobson and his men. It will receive a ruder shock if the threat is carried out to the letter, as the people of this country will insist that it shall be if the prisoners are slain, either by the Spaniards or as a result of the inhuman and dishonorable policy of imprisoning them in a fortress exposed to the fire of our ships. Nothing less than the personal punishment of the chief criminals will satisfy public opinion in that event.

Chicago Chronicle: The exchange of the Merrimac's crew would mean that Admiral Sampson and Gen. Shafter would at once come into possession of valuable information respecting the defenses of Santiago. Hobson and his men have not, of course, been permitted to wander around taking notes of the fortifications, but they have undoubtedly seen many things which our military and naval commanders would be glad to know. Hence to consent to an exchange upon the eve of an assault upon Santiago would be criminal folly from a Spanish military point of view. The Spaniards are not only acting within their rights, but they are merely exercising the most obvious precaution when they determine to keep Hobson pending battle.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

The jury in the case of Marian Novakoski at Grand Forks Saturday night returned a verdict of guilty. He was accused of making false representations to insurance companies of the value of the contents of his house, which was recently burned. After the fire agents became convinced that they were being imposed on, the local association had a criminal case brought against him. The testimony showed that the contents of the house were not worth half the amount of the policy. The fire which partially destroyed the house and burned its contents could not be accounted for except as incendiary, but no proof was secured against Novakoski.

The roller mills at Fairmount, N. D., burned Saturday evening at 5 o'clock. The loss is estimated at $7500; insurance, $6000. The fire is supposed to have caught from an engine on a passing freight train.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Late Friday afternoon a runaway occurred ten miles from Sturgis, in which C. C. Wilson lost his life. Husband and wife were returning home from Sturgis, and when going down a steep hill one tug became detached and the team, a pair of frisky colts, at once began running. They got beyond control and dashed at full speed into a wire fence, throwing Wilson against a post, killing him instantly. His wife was dashed into the wire and frightfully mangled.

The case of the state against Lambert H. Jones, the alleged murderer of Henry Van Roden, an old man who lived on the Missouri river south of Chamberlain, is now well under way in Charles Mix county, and will, it is expected, continue until the close of next week. J. W. C. Jones, the father of the accused, is a Chicago lawyer and is assisting in the defense of his son.

After many years of litigation the trouble between Lawrence and Meade counties which grew out of the organization of the latter county from Lawrence county, has been settled satisfactorily to both counties. At the time of the organization of Meade county, Lawrence county was heavily bonded, and it was the agreement that Meade county should assume its share of the indebtedness. Since then Lawrence county has contested the legality of some of the bonds and the case is still in court. Meade county refused to pay its share of the interest on the bonds in litigation and considerable unpleasantness has existed between the officials of the two counties as a result. In the division of the territory between the two counties it was found out, according to the assessed valuation, that Meade county had acquired approximately about 22 per cent of the land. Upon this basis Meade county expects to share in the benefits which may accrue to Lawrence county in the event of suit now pending to test the validity of the bonds being decided in its favor. Meade county proposes to pay all interest upon $70,000 of bonds up to May 1, 1895, and the interest upon $39,579 of bonds up to June 1, 1898. The total amount to be paid, computed at simple interest, is $14,175, which amount Meade county has ready to pay over to Lawrence county. This practically settles the case.

THE CAREER OF CASTELLANE.

Americans Can Not Help Feeling That the Little Count is Allied to Them By Close Ties.

COUNT JEAN CASTELLANE.

He Has Renounced All of His French Tricks Except that of Dueling.

Count Jean Castellane is known to the American public as the little blonde nobleman who paid a flying visit to this country three years ago. It was brief enough, but in that time he stole away one of the richest heiresses in America, Anna Gould, the 18-year-old daughter of Jay Gould, heiress to $16,000,000 in her own right!

On their return to France the Castellanes built a castle in the heart of Paris, modeling it on the Petit Trianon, and in this earthly palace they have dwelt in unison ever since with a small family growing up around them. Numerous rumors of trouble have reached this country, but these have all been denied by the loving behavior of the young couple in question.

Immediately upon his marriage the count turned over "a new leaf," as we should consider it. He renounced his French ways and became frugal, steady, businesslike and domestic. Bernhardt complained of him that he no longer sent gifts of rare flowers to his friends. On the contrary, he invested his wife's money to advantage and lived well within the income to which he was entitled.

But murder will out and blood will tell. It is only a few days since the news was flashed to this country that the count had engaged in a duel with a French gentleman, in which the count had been victorious. It was over a servant girl whom the count was accused of dismissing with cruelty. The Goulds were besieged for particulars, but could throw no light upon the subject. The count goes at this time of year to an ancestral chateau, where he and his good lady lord it among the tenantry for a three month.

CARRIER PIGEONS.

Miss Jennie Nelson Has Two Which Dropped Down Near Her Home.

Miss Jennie Nelson, of 802 West Michigan street, has two carrier pigeons that have evidently traveled a long way, for although they have been her guests for three weeks, they are just beginning to get rested up. During the time they have been with her the pigeons have done nothing but eat hearty meals at short intervals and sit around and doze. Thursday they, for the first time, took interest enough in things to avail themselves of bathing facilities provided them. One of them has a brass band around its right leg, with the numbers "54" and "97" cut in with a die, the figures in the first number running lengthwise of the band, and in the latter cross-wise. The other had a narrow tape, about three inches long, attached to one leg, the tape being muddy and bedraggled.

One of the pigeons dropped down like a stone into Miss Nelson's yard, among some chickens, and it was so tired that it did not move when the chickens all clustered around it and picked at it. Miss Nelson saw the commotion, and interfered in time to save the stranger's life. The other pigeon dropped across the street from Miss Nelson's residence about the same time, and was picked up by some boys. The birds are fine specimens, and are very tame.

Several theories have been advanced as to where the birds came from, and whither they were bound. It is said that carrier pigeons have been taken into the Klondike trail as an experiment, and that possibly these might be messengers from Alaska. The government has been experimenting with carrier pigeons at some of the weather bureau stations, and it is thought probable that these may be some of the birds used for this purpose.

GIGANTIC MONOPLY

Proposed Steel Trust Will Control Iron Mines and Ore Market.

BAD FOR IRON LANDS

Owners Will Be Completely at the Mercy of the Monopolists.

The story of the pending deal by which Carnegie, Rockefeller, the Illinois Steel company and other large steel manufacturers are to form a gigantic steel trust, has created a great deal of interest in Duluth, especially among those who have holdings on the Vermilion and Mesaba ranges. In the article which appeared in the telegraph news columns of The Herald Saturday it is intimated very strongly that the combine includes not only the furnaces, but the mines which supply them with ore. The Chicago Tribune, which is authority for the report, credits the Minnesota Iron company with being a party to the big combination.

Should such a combination as reported be formed, it would necessarily include the mines. The Carnegie Steel company mines its own ore, through the Oliver Mining company, which controls the Mountain Iron and Oliver group of mines on the Mesaba, and the Norris group, including the Tilden, on the Gogebic. More recently it has been gathering in properties on the Vermilion range. There it is operating the new section 26, which gives promise of being one of the best mines on the range, and is negotiating for the Pioneer and Zenith.

The Illinois Steel company is controlled by practically the same men who control the Minnesota Iron company, which owns every mine that is now being operated and shipping ore on the Vermilion range, and has some of the largest producers on the Mesaba. The Cambria Iron company, another of the big factors in the steel combine, is in control of the Mahoning mine, at Hibbing, which last season shipped over 500,000 tons of ore by way of the Wright & Davis road. John D. Rockefeller is the owner of the Lake Superior Consolidated mines, on the Mesaba. This makes practically all of the iron mines in Minnesota. The Biwabik is really controlled by Rockefeller, the Sparta is practically in the hands of Pickand, Mather & Co., the sales agents of the Minnesota Iron company, and by some of the best informed iron men are said to be acting as the agents of the Minnesota. There remains but two or three more operating mines, and they are not numbered among the large propositions. There is the Commodore, belonging to James Corrigan, the Franklin, belonging to Frank in Rockefeller, and the Penobscot, owned by Eddy Brothers.

Other large mines on the Wisconsin and Michigan ranges are owned by different steel manufacturers, who are reported to have gone into the big trust. The trust will be in absolute control of the iron ore output of Minnesota. It will own the railroads leading to the mines from Lake Superior, and will control not only the steel market, but the ore market. Furnaces not in the combine will be forced to pay for ore any price that the trust may ask, and will be at the complete mercy of the combine, which means that they will be forced to sell their property for any price which the trust may see fit to pay, just as owners of oil refineries have had their property confiscated by the Standard Oil trust. The trust will be able to still further bear the values of iron properties owned by individuals outside of the combination, and eventually come into possession of every acre on the Minnesota ranges that they deem valuable at their own figure. As they already have enough mines to supply all demands for a number of years, they will be in no hurry to buy unless prices are entirely to their liking.

The formation of the steel trust, in the opinion of owners of iron properties here, will prove disastrous to them, and they will await developments with a lively interest.

"THE PRODIGAL SON."

Singing of the Sullivan Oratorio at First M. E. Church.

Seldom has the First Methodist church held such an audience as that which gathered there last evening, although the Sunday evening crowds are always large. Every foot of seating room was occupied and people sat on extra chairs, on the stairs and everywhere they could while several hundred stood up. The occasion for this great outpouring was the singing of Sir Arthur Sullivan's oratorio "The Prodigal Son."

The singers numbering fifty voices were seated on a large raised platform which had been erected below the organ. The oratorio was magnificently sung under the direction of Francis E. Woodward. The chorus work was very fine, the entire fifty voices singing easily and with precision. The oratorio is a pleasing one and has especially fine chorus numbers.

James Lynn sang several of the tenor solos and made a most excellent impression. His voice is developing wonderfully and shows the effect of training and study. D. G. Black sang the opening solo in a very pleasing manner. Mrs. Emily Ellis Woodward sang the soprano solos and there were several. She rendered them perfectly. Mr. Woodward sang the baritone and bass solos excellently. Among the best of the solos was that by Mrs. Margaretta Cutler. She has a beautiful contralto voice and sang her number with fine feeling.

Mrs. John Loman was at the organ and Miss Florence Briggs at the piano.

Tomorrow evening the oratorio will be repeated. No admission will be charged, but a collection for the Duluth Volunteers' Home society will be taken up.

An announcement was made that singers desiring to appear in "The Messiah" should apply to Mr. Woodward. This will be produced in the Star lecture course next fall.

THE TEMPERANCE MEETING.

Great Demonstration at the West End Yesterday Afternoon.

The temperance demonstration arranged by the Scandinavian Christian Temperance union to be held yesterday afternoon at Lincoln park was held at the Norwegian Lutheran church at Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, owing to the unfavorable weather. The church was packed. Rev. George R. Geer offered the prayer. Rev. A. W. Ryan spoke. He expressed his gratification at the large audience. He discussed the use of liquor, showing that a change is coming over people. In many ways, where drinking was tolerated in former years, it is dying out now. There never was a man born who was not pained by the use of liquor, he said. Punishment is sure to come in one form or another. Continuing, he said:

"Some merchants here say that we could not afford to shut up the saloons. I don't believe that business would suffer, but hold that there would be greater prosperity if money spent in the saloons was spent with the grocers, clothiers and other merchants. The prosperity of even a part of the people means much for the rest, and if liquor went in better channels the prosperity of all would be bettered. Look what the saloons do. Eighty per cent of the poverty is due to the use of liquor, and from 70 to 80 per cent of crime is due to the same cause. Intemperance also influences and affects politics. When I went before the common council in behalf of the Humane society one alderman declared that the organization was not doing an honest work because it took in hand the case of a saloon keeper on Garfield avenue who had sold liquor to small boys."

Rev. J. T. Jacobson, of Minneapolis, assistant superintendent of the Minnesota Anti-Saloon league, delivered an interesting address in Scandinavian. Music was furnished by the Apollo chorus and Bethania church choir.

COUNTY COMMITTEE NAMED.

A. P. Cook Is Made Chairman—Is a Willcuts Man.

Another indication that the power of Lee Willcuts is uppermost in St. Louis county politics is found in the appointment of the Republican county committee by Dr. J. A. Eklund, who was chairman of the convention which nominated county officers recently. A. P. Cook, one of Willcuts' henchmen, is made chairman. He was secretary at the time William Getty was chairman of the committee. When R. F. Howard was chairman of the convention two years ago and had the appointing power he rode roughshod over the feelings of the Willcuts combination and put in John B. Sheldon-off. He was not acceptable to Republicans generally, in fact, very few of them had much use for him and before the campaign was over the management had been practically taken out of his hands. The full committee is as follows:

The Naval Recruits.

Naval recruiting continues to be successful beyond all expectations at the rendezvous on board the United States steamer Michigan by Lieut. Jerome E. Morse, United States navy, commanding. Upwards of 400 men have been enlisted since May 17. An attractive feature of this rendezvous is the fact that the men are put in navy uniform as soon as enlisted, and are drilled daily, so that they are posted on navy customs, and do not appear at the navy yards like raw recruits. Scores of good men who have seen service on the lakes are coming daily to this popular rendezvous to enlist.

The demand at present is for machinists, first class, at $65 per month; machinists, second class, at $40 per month; firemen, first class, at $35 per month; firemen, second class, at $30 per month; seamen, at $24 per month, and ordinary seamen at $19 per month. In addition to which every enlisted man receives 30 cents per day, or $9 per month for rations.

Advancements from the rates at which men are enlisted are made rapidly in the service as soon as men become acquainted with the duties on board naval vessels. For extra good men the age and height limits are waived, but every man must be sound physically. Large drafts are leaving the Michigan for active service every week.

THE OPEN MEETING

Addresses By Leaders of the Railway Employes Organizations at the Lyceum.

OBJECTS EXPLAINED

Tell What Their Orders Seek to Accomplish---Mayor Talks Also.

The mass meeting of railroad men that was held at the Lyceum last night was open to the public, and its purpose was to inform that public, through the speakers of the evening, of the aims and accomplishments of the various railroad orders represented there. The attendance was large and the program entertaining, and most of the outsiders who came there went away with a different idea of the railroad organizations from the one they brought there with them. They also acquired a new idea of the railroad man himself and of the effect that these organizations have had upon him as a type. It has not been very long since the common idea of a railroad man was that he was a tough customer, and many who were present last night perhaps still held that idea. They gladly resigned it when they heard what the organizations had done toward the improvement of the individual railroad men, and became impressed instead with an idea that the railroad men, as well as many others, are determined as a class to better their condition in life and their personalities, and that they are succeeding remarkably well.

The general officers of the railroad organizations who were present last night represented all of the orders except that of the conductors. Grand Chief Conductor E. E. Clark of the Order of Railroad Conductors was to have been present, but he was forced to remain at home because of illness. He is said to be an excellent speaker and his absence created considerable disappointment. In addition to the speeches there was music in the accustomed excellent style of Flaaten's orchestra, and songs by P. Doran, who was very warmly applauded. The chairman of the meeting was C. O. Girard, who introduced each speaker with happy remarks.

Mayor Truelsen was the first speaker, and he began by apologizing for the weather and stating that he had been looking for the weather man, but he had taken to the woods. He regretted the weather, because Duluth looks her best in one of her typical summer days, and he wanted the visitors to see her at her best. He wanted them to be impressed with the evidences of her great future. When he said Duluth he meant Superior, and vice versa, because their interests are identical. He hoped some day to see them as the New York and Brooklyn of the future. When he came here thirty years ago there were but two cities in the state, and now the third city is making the first two look to their laurels. He was glad to think that there were a great many railroad men in the city, for they are the men in whose hands the safety of the traveling public rests. One need not go to war for heroism, for the railroad men often display that quality.

There were flowers for each speaker, including the mayor, and when they were delivered to him he expressed his pleasure with a bow. The next speaker was T. R. Dodge, vice grand master of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. He thanked the mayor in behalf of the visitors for his warm welcome, and said that if he was ever in need he would find a warm friend in the railroad men. He next said a word for the railway brakemen. While the engineer guarded the safety of the passengers from the front while the train is in motion, the brakeman guards it from behind at the station, and if it were not for the vigilance of the flagman accidents might oftener occur. The brakemen's organization was formed in 1883 by a few brave men who believed that that was the only way to better the social, moral and intellectual condition of the men. Before that the brakeman was given little consideration, but now he is recognized by all of the general managers and given justice. The organization was not for the purpose of setting against each other labor and capital, but to create harmony between them. The result was not only that the wages and condition of the trainmen were bettered, but that the state was given a better class of citizens. The same result has followed all of the organizations. Before their formation engineers received $60 per month, passenger conductors $50, freight conductors $40 and brakemen $25 and $30. Now they get living wages and they have been made men and placed on a higher plane. This is an age of concentration, and the organization of each craft to protect its members is an absolute necessity.

H. B. Perham, grand secretary and treasurer of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, was the next speaker. He said that the telegraphers were not cast in a heroic mold. They seldom died at their post as the train and engine employes did, but usually died at an early age from disobedience to the laws of nature. Yet their duties are very important. They must copy and transmit orders to trains, getting each in its proper place, and the slightest mistake might have the most disastrous results. The public and their employers must have confidence in the operators, for they entrust to them information of great secrecy and importance. Seldom or never is that confidence violated. One might logically believe that men who held such important places would have no difficulty in earning enough for a decent living, yet without organization this was impossible. The organization was formed twelve years ago in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and for five years it was simply a fraternal organization, with its efforts directed to the control of the apprenticeship system, hoping that a regulation of the supply of men would result in better wages. This did not work, so the order took on the protective feature of other trades unions. It has been of great benefit, and the individual has been bettered. Much of the order's effort has been directed to the cause of temperance, with good results. In conclusion, the speaker said that they had enjoyed a most pleasant visit, and that they appreciated the warmth of the mayor's greeting.

The next speaker was Mrs. W. A. Murdock, grand president of the ladies' auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. She was present for the purpose of speaking in behalf of her order, a subdivision of which she hopes to organize here, and she spoke with enthusiasm of the benefit the order is to the women who belong to it. She said that it represents a good many of the wives of the engineers, but not nearly so many as it should. She said that in the family of a railroad man, who is usually away or resting up from a trip, the conduct of the family in a large degree falls on the wife and mother. This organization has done these wives and mothers good, and it will continue to do so. Where the support of the family is taken away the order steps in and cares for the stricken ones, and there is lots of work of this kind for the sisters to do. It was organized eleven years with ten members, and now has 7000 members, and it has led the way for similar auxiliaries to the other railroad orders.

L. S. Coffin, of Iowa, president of the home for aged and infirm railroad men, spoke briefly. He warned the mayor that when the second convention of brakemen was held fourteen years ago, a number of the citizens of the town where it was to be held asked the mayor to appoint a lot of special policemen to guard the town while these rough fellows were there. The mayor did not seem alarmed, and he was right, for the railroad men are a lot of good fellows, and the more the town saw of them the better it would like them. He spoke of the record of the brakemen as a wonder. Out of their small pay, the smallest in the locomotive and train service, they have in the history of their order paid out over $4,500,000 in benefits to members. He ventured to say that no organization, not even the churches, had brought about so great an improvement in its members as the railroad brotherhoods.

F. P. Sargent, grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, was the next speaker, and he was what one of the boys called a "bird." He is original, and wit and humor of the most effective kind flows from him in a pleasing manner. He kept the crowd in a roar when he was in a light vein, and when he warmed to his subject and spoke in a more serious manner, he was equally effective. He spoke from the broader standpoint of all the men employed on the road, from the trackmen up to the president. When he saw the train he saw something besides the eagle eye in front and the flagman sleeping behind, and the operator smiling out of the window as the limited goes by. He thought of the men who labored in advance, who built the road upon which all these men work. They should not forget that there are others in the employ of the road besides "us heroes." All of the men employed on the road have a place in the spirit of the vening. While some occupy higher places than others, the success of the road depends on the manner in which each man does his duty. The president! He is one of us. To be sure he has a good job, and there is a carpet on the floor of his office. Sometimes we little fellows have to bend pretty low before him, but he is only human, and if we do our duty we are entitled to a feeling of equality with him. All these employes should be organized, and the speaker hoped to see the time when all of them and their wives would have their orders. They should stand together, and they should insist upon getting goods that are made by union labor.

P. M. Arthur, the Nestor of organized railroad men, for many years associated with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and now grand chief of the order, was the next speaker. He said that the outsiders had heard enough to convince them that there is some good in organization. The best way to find out is to judge by what it has done for the orders, and that is what they were there for. They were there to tell the people of Duluth what the orders have done, and what they are aiming to do. Then the people could justly judge of their worth. To determine what had been done it was only necessary to go back to the days when there were no organizations. It took many years to get the general managers to see the matter in its right light, but it was accomplished at last.

The last speaker was F. C. Fitzgerald, chief conductor of the Minneapolis division of the Order of Railway Conductors.

Today the local committee of railroad men took the visiting officers around the boulevard, and the day was spent by all of the visitors in seeing points of interest around the city. The Duluth, Missabe & Northern road provided a special coach for those who desired to visit the mines, and many took advantage of the opportunity. This afternoon Mrs. Murdock was to organize the women into an auxiliary order to the engineers at their hall. Tonight the convention will close with a ball at the Pavilion.

Three years ago my condition was alarming; the least noise would startle and unnerve me. I was unable to sleep, had a number of sinking spells and slowly grew worse. I began using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Nervo and Liver Pills. At first the medicine seemed to have no effect, but after taking a few bottles I began to notice a change; I rested better at night, my appetite began to improve and I rapidly grew better, until now I am as nearly restored to health as one of my age may expect. God bless Dr. Miles' Nervine."

CONTEST IS CLOSE

Eustis and Van Sant Forces are Contesting Every Inch of Ground.

A VERY HARD FIGHT

Van Sant Claiming the Votes of the St. Louis Connty Delegation.

The coming Republican state convention promises to be one of the most interesting in the history of the state, and surprises may be looked for. The fight is now centered at St. Paul, where the business of wire pulling is now engaging the friends of the various candidates, and a great deal depends upon the quality and quantity of this work accomplished before the meeting of the convention next Thursday as to the final outcome. Eustis seems to be in the lead. Whether he wins or not will depend largely upon the sort of management which he receives, and the shrewdness with which the campaign is conducted. Eustis has been in constant receipt of telegrams from various parts of the state assuring him of support in unexpected quarters, and it would appear that it is quite within the bounds of possibility that he will come very close to landing the prize upon the first formal ballot. His friends say he will, and Mr. Eustis is confident that his success is certain. He declares with sincerity that there is not one chance in a thousand of defeating him now. The only possible thing to fear, according to him, is an unfriendly combination, and even that he believes will prove unavailing.

The Van Sant men are keeping a stiff upper lip, and swear that the Eustis men are trying to stampede the country delegates with wild claims, hoping to gain victory by means of a band wagon movement. The Van Sant men are now all located at St. Paul, that is, the leaders are, and they are exerting every effort to stem the movement engineered by their opponent.

Van Sant, and his friends pooh-pooh the idea that Eustis owns the band wagon, says the Minneapolis Tribune. They claim that if theres is any band wagon it's labeled "Van Sant." As a starter, they say that St. Louis county and its forty-four votes belong to them, and they also claim that the entire strength of Eustis will not exceed 40 votes in the convention. They do not say how much Van Sant will have, but they broadly assert that it will be many more than will go to Eustis, although they do not claim to have enough to nominate on the first ballot. After the first ballot there are many sources of strength which the Winona man will show, they say. There are whole counties included in the doubtful list which will go for him solidly. There are also counties conceded to Clough which are almost a unit for Van Sant when the proper moment arrives. All these sources of strength will bring an Sant's strength up to something over the 500 mark, and then the Sixth district will hold the balance of power, and they say that Van Sant is the leading second choice of that district, and will soon have enough votes to insure his nomination.

Saturday a hard effort was made at St. Paul to stampede the Ramsey county delegates to Eustis. A meeting was held at 10 o'clock in the morning at the office of the Dispatch. About thirty-five members of the delegation were present, and there they met George Thompson, Harris Richardson and Tams Bixby. Mr. Thompson was the chief speaker. He told the delegates that the fight was over, and that they might as well recognize the fact now. Eustis was the winner beyond a doubt, and it would be the best possible policy for the Ramsey delegation to get in line for good things hereafter. He was backed by Bixby and Richardson, and when the delegates went away to take a little time to consider the matter, it was with the understanding that another meeting was to be held in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. Before 2 o'clock the Van Sant men had reached the wavering ones, and as a result the afternoon conference ended without result. The majority of those present concluded it was too early to make a break of that kind. How the county will eventually go is a problem. Both sides claim it, and it is doubtful if either of them gets more than a bare majority of it.

Governor Clough is very indignant at the reports circulated to the effect that he had given up the fight for Van Sant, said he, "Clough never shows the white feather. Van Sant will be nominated."

The Van Sant men also say that Eustis has been pauding his returns for effect, and that in reality forty of the votes credited to the Minneapolis man by his friends should be placed in Van Sant's column.

Meanwhile Collins is still more talked of than ever before, but it is noticed that those who say the most upon that subject, and argue that Collins is the only man who can win, are men who were recently for Van Sant. Collins himself is at St. Cloud, and is losing no points in the game. If such a thing as a deadlock should occur in the convention Collins is shrewd enough as a politician to get all there is in it for himself, and it would not be at all surprising if he should win out in such an event. Judge Collins is doing all he can to bind the Sixth district to his candidacy. He and his friends are using the argument that his candidacy would be the greatest help in the world to Page Morris in his fight against Charles Towne, for congressional honors. Alvah Eastman and R. C. Dunn, the two leading supporters and boomers of Collins, are hard at work in his interests, and it would be surprising if their labors did not bring forth fruit if the conditions will but give them a chance.

AMUSEMENTS.

ROBERT MANTELL.

Robert Mantell is revelling in his new play. If ever an author painted a dashing dare-devil soldier, Mr. Tremayne has hit the picture. In "A Secret Warrant," he gives Mantell a role which is a prototype of Dumas' D'Artagnan and to add to the romance has made the hero in love. It has been said that Mr. Mantell can make love and fight better than any player now upon the American stage. If his coat of arms could be quartered to his liking, it would contain a woman, a rapier, an ostrich plume and a dice box, probably a sword would occupy the first quarter. Mr. Mantell will be at the Lyceum tomorrow and Wednesday evenings.

HIT WITH A PICK.

An Italian Attacked By a Woman Whom He Had Slandered.

A correspondnt writes to The Herald from Knife River stating that at 8 o'clock on Friday morning an Italian woman from the grading camp on the Duluth & Northern railroad came to Knife River "with blood in her eye." An Italian who does chores at camp No. 2, located at the mouth of the river, had been telling scandalous stories about her, and this so enraged her that she came in search of him. With a pick which she had concealed under her dress she struck him on the head. He fell to the ground unconscious. The other Italians heard the woman's story, and with staves, picks and axes started to kill the now helpless man, but they were beaten off with guns and axes by the other crew until Superintendent Kimball and Foreman Kane persuaded them to quiet down.

COHEN-EDELSTEIN WEDDING.

Four Hundred Guests Witness Marriage at Odd Fellows' Hall.

S. Edelstein, of West Superior, and Miss Sadie Cohen, of 9 Garfield avenue, were united in marriage last evening, at Odd Fellows' hall. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Abramokivitz, assisted by Mr. Shapiro.

There were at least 400 guests present. The bridal party entered the hall shortly after 6 o'clock, and after marching around the hall several times to the strains of the orchestra, the young couple halted under the canopy and the ceremony was performed. The bridal party and guests then sat down to the wedding feast, which had been spread in a room on the lower floor of the building. Dancing followed the supper.

The bridesmaids were, Miss Nellie Karon, of West Superior, the Misses Mary and Sadie Polinsky and Miss Kassmir, of Duluth. The best men were, Roy Edelstein, of West Superior, and David Kassmer and Henry Kassmer, of Duluth. The leaders of the wedding were, Sam Blasberg and M. E. Edelstein, of West Superior. The flower girls were Sarah Orcekowsky, Florence Levine and Eve Polinsky.

The groom is proprietor of the New England furniture store at West Superior. The bride has lived in Duluth for the past twelve years, and has a large circle of friends here.

Eczema! The Only Cure.

Eczema is more than a skin disease, and no skin remedies can cure it. The doctors are unable to effect a cure, and their mineral mixtures are damaging to the most powerful constitution. The whole trouble is in the blood, and Swift's Specific is the only remedy which can reach such deep-seated blood diseases.

Eczema broke out on my daughter, and continued to spread until her head was entirely covered. She was treated by several good doctors, but grew worse, and the dreadful disease spread to her face. She was taken to two celebrated health springs, but received no benefit. Many patent medicines were taken, but without result, until we decided to try S. S. S., and by the time the first bottle was finished, her head began to heal. A dozen bottles cured her completely and left her skin perfectly smooth. She is now sixteen years old, and has a magnificent growth of hair. Not a sign of the dreadful disease has ever returned.

ASKS FOR NEW TRIAL

McCord Lumber Company Not Satisfied With Frank L. Doyle's Verdict.

STRONG AFFIDAVITS

Former Employes of W. H. Doyle Come Forward With New Evidence.

At the last term of the United States court one of the cases tried was that of Frank L. Doyle versus the McCord Lumber company and Warren E. McCord. The suit was based on a lumbering contract alleged to have existed between the plaintiff and defendant. It was claimed that the plaintiff agreed to cancel certain contracts in which he owned an interest, and consented that his father might assign or cancel other interests, and in consideration for this the plaintiff was to receive $14,000 in cash, notes and lumber. The McCord Lumber company was to carry out the contract, and Warren E. McCord pledged himself to see that the company did so, the plaintiff alleged.

On the trial the plaintiff and his father, W. H. Doyle, testified that the former owned an interest in the contract and that he had come up from Michigan bringing a logging outfit owned by him, to join with his father in carrying it out. The McCord Lumber company disclaimed all knowledge of any interest claimed by Frank L. Doyle, and claimed that W. H. Doyle had told them that no one other than himself had any interest. The jury found for the plaintiff and gave him a verdict of $14,066.

The McCord Lumber company evidently did not lie down with the return of the verdict, however. A motion which has been filed asking a new trial indicates that it has been doing some tall hustling and in the enemy's camps. It asks for a new trial on the ground that new evidence has been discovered, and with the motion has filed a stack of affidavits from attorneys and former employes of William H. Doyle.

The principal one is that of Charles R. Shaw, of Duluth, a young man who claims to have known Frank L. Doyle for twelve years and W. H. Doyle for many years. He asserts that Frank L. Doyle owned no logging outfit in Michigan, but that he was working for H. C. Wilson at Marlette, Mich., in buying and baling hay at $30 a month, and that he came from there to Minnesota to work for his father at $35 a month. The teams and wagons brought from Michigan, he asserts, belonged to farmers from there. He claims that young Doyle never had anything to do with the management of the business, and seemed to have no authority around the camps. He then goes on to state that he asked W. H. Doyle who the logs belonged to, and he told him to himself, and that he said that Frank L. Doyle had no interest in the business whatever except his salary.

Affidavits made by other employes corroborate these statements.

Upon these affidavits Judge Lochren has ordered a hearing to be held within forty days from June 25, and upon eight days' notice a further stay of execution is ordered.

Four Caddies Carried Off By the Thieves---No Ball Game Yesterday.

Burglars entered the fruit and confectionery store of Mrs. Hickson, corner of Gosnold street and Fifty-third avenue west, near the Marinette works, last night and carried away four caddies of tobacco. Mrs. Hickson closed the store about 10 o'clock and it is thought the burglary was committed between 2 and 3 o'clock. Entrance was gained by pulling a staple from the door. Lieut Briggs was informed of the burglary this morning and is working on the case.

BALL GAME POSTPONED.

The wet weather yesterday made a postponement of the ball game between the Crescents and Zeniths necessary. Manager Frank Wade is concluding arrangements with a Minneapolis club for a series of three games to be played on the home grounds next Sunday and Monday. One game will be played Sunday and two on the Fourth.

MARINETTE TO CLOSE.

The Marinette works will undoubtedly be closed some time next week, by which time all of the machinery for the city waterworks plant manufactured there will have been removed to the pump house. There is no immediate prospect of the works being started and the plant will be added to the long list of idle factories.

HOME EXHIBIT CLOSES.

The home manufacturers' exhibit closed Saturday night and proved a decided success. The exhibits proved a revelation to many people who did not realize that so many articles of daily consumption in their homes were made in Duluth. Elim Lutheran church realized a handsome sum out of the enterprise.

VISITED HERE SUNDAY.

Joseph Beck, formerly superintendent of the electric light plant in West Duluth, but now in charge of the plant of the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company at Two Harbors, spent Sunday with his family here. Mr. Beck wil soon build a residence at Two Harbors, when he will move his family to his new home.

PRESENTED WITH A FLAG.

Superintendent James A. Crawford of the Marinette works was Saturday presented with a handsome silk flag by the employes of the plant. HIS USUAL PLEA.

Whiteman, of Course, Declares He is Not Guilty of Swindling.

St. Louis, June 27.—It was learned today that Chief of Detectives Desmond had ordered the arrest of Alonzo J. Whiteman, alias W. H. Martin, of Philadelphia, the alleged forger in custody here, on information received from Chicago two weeks ago. Chicago authorities are expected to arrive here soon to take Whiteman back to that city, where he will stand trial on the charge of swindling by the bogus check method.

Whiteman remains firm in his declaration that he is not guilty. When asked to explain the presence of the valise full for forged checks, he invariably replies: "I don't know." Whiteman was registered at the Southern hotel as W. H. Martin, of Philadelphia.

COMPANY C EXPLAINS.

Hold First Place Among Troops at Chickamauga.

Camp George H. Thomas, Ga., June 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Upon glancing over the edition of The Evening Herald for June 21, we must confess to being a little startled out of our equanimity by noticing an article in regard to Company A, of Duluth, which, in our own mild and unobtrusive manner, we will take this occasion to make a few comments upon. First of all, we desire to extend our heartfelt congratulations to Company A on its sudden rise to fame in the military world, which the above mentioned article accords. However there are one or two things about it that we are unable to understand, and therefore rise for information. The article referred to stated, among other things, that a letter was received at Duluth on June 21 from Sergt. Broadbridge of Company A, which caused much elation and stated that Company A had stood first at the last weekly inspection with a marking of 100 per cent. Now, this was nice, so nice that we very much dislike to disabuse the public mind in regard to it, but this we are compelled to do for the benefit of the scattering few who have been led, by its former good record, to imagine that Company C was "some pumpkins" in the matter of appearance, drill, etc.

The difficulty which confronts us, is right here: The letter of Sergt. Broadbridge arrived in Duluth Tuesday morning, and the extract stating that Company A had gained first place at the inspection, with a percentage of 100, which was held Saturday, June 18, appeared in The Herald of Tuesday, June 21, or three or four hours previous to the announcement of the percentage of the different companies, at headquarters here, which was about 9 p. m. on the same day that the article appeared in The Herald. If the decision had been announced even an hour before the paper went to press, we could have understood it better, and could have ascribed its rapid transmission to Duluth to the remarkable efficiency lately acquired by the signal service here, but to be able to inform the people of Duluth the result of the inspection four hours before that decision had been arrived at, or announced, is an annihilation of distance and time that we cannot explain or account for. The facts are these: That this inspection is marked on a scale of 10, and the official record of the last inspection of Saturday, June 18, gives Company C a percentage of 9 2-3, and Company A, 9 1-3. Company C may not be able to put up as good an appearance on paper or grace the society columns to such an extent as some others, but we wish to inform the people of Duluth that we are still in the ring and right on top here, having gained the distinction of attaining first place among the troops on the entire camp grounds, and although we may not be saying much, please remember that we are diligently sawing wood. Yours, F. A. B.

BARKIS IS WILLIN'.

AUSTRIAN RIOTING.

Vienna, June 27.—Dispatches received here from Leimberg, Galacia, say that rioting peasants pillaged Alt-Sandec for several hours on Saturday evening. The houses and stores in the ring square were plundered and then destroyed, their contents being removed in vans to the country. An organized attack was also made on Neu Sandec near Alt-Sandec, but the cavalry dispersed the peasants and subsequently the infantry surrounded the town. The peasants, however, sacked many of the Jewish houses in the suburbs and set fire to several buildings. Troops have been dispatched to Przemysl, fifty-one miles west of Leimberg, where the disturbances are threatened.

TRANSFERRED TO OLIVER.

That Is Thought to Be Effect of Biwabik Lease Transfer.

The lease of the Biwabik mine, recently made by the Biwabik Mountain Iron company to the Biwabik Bessemer company, has been sold to the Biwabik Mining company for $612,000, the transfer being filed in the office of the register of deeds this morning. The lease is the one recently reported in The Herald, in which the provision was made that if railroad rates on iron ore were reduced the reduction was to be added to the royalty.

When the report of the lease was published in The Herald the statement was made that it was rumored in mining circles that Tod, Stambaugh & Co., otherwise the Biwabik Bessemer company, had sold the property to the Oliver Mining company. The transfer recorded today is confirmatory of that rumor. The Biwabik Mining company it will be found is a corporation organized by Andrew Carnegie and H. W. Oliver and that the mine will be taken charge of by Dr. Nelson P. Hulst, general superintendent for the Oliver Mining company.

The transfer is dated June 23, and it covers all the machinery at the mine as well as all the leasehold rights held by the Biwabik Bessemer company. The property covered is the ne¼ of the ne¼, the se¼ of the ne¼ of section 3, and the nw¼ of the nw¼ of section 2-58-16.

TO BOMBARD SPANISH COAST!

Commodore Watson Will Be In Command and He Sails Today.

Active Operations at Santiago to Begin on Wednesday Next.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The navy department at 11:15 o'clock posted the following bulletin:

"Commodore Watson sails today in the Newark to join Sampson, when he will take under his command an armored squadron with cruisers and proceed at once off the Spanish coast."

The navy department has posted the following bulletin showing Commodore Watson's squadron.

It is designated the Eastern squadron and is as follows: Flagship, Newark; battleships, Iowa and Oregon; cruisers, Yosemite, Yankee and Dixie, and the colliers Siondia, Aberenda and Alexander. The advance will be made at once from Santiago.

The bulletin also showed the following changes in designation of the division of our war vessels:

North Atlantic Fleet—Rear Admiral Sampson, commanding.

First Squadron—Commodore J. A. Howell, commanding.

Second Squadron—Commodore W. S. Schley, commanding.

ON TO SANTIAGO.

OFF BAIQUIRI, June 26, Via Kingston, Jamaica, June 27.—Copyright 1898 by the Associated Press—The Third and Ninth cavalry only remain here, guarding the material ashore. All the other regiments are being pushed as rapidly as possible toward Santiago de Cuba. Active operations before that place are officially expected to begin on Wednesday next.

Interruption of communication between the army and the fleet by storm is possible at any time. Juragua and Baiquiri are both open roads with no protection.

Gen. Shafter expressed satisfaction with the work of the officers who had charge of the landing of the troops in an enemy's country and under conditions never faced by any country, considering the character of the landing places and the adjacent country.

CUBANS LANDED.

Three Hundred Cubans Reach Shore Near Sigua After Dispersing Spaniards.

New York, June 27.—A dispatch to the World from Playa Del Este, Cuba, June 27, 1 a. m., says: The Vixen and Gloucester, carrying 300 Cubans, attempted a landing at Sigua, six miles east of Baiquiri, yesterday and the first boat was swamped by the surf, the men swimming ashore.

Recognizing the impossibility of a successful landing, the steamers withdrew a few miles eastward and accomplished the undertaking, several hundred Spaniards retreating after a short firing. They attempted to surround the first boat's crew. The main body came to the rescue in the nick of time. The Spaniards withdrew.

SHAFTER'S HEADQUARTERS.

Are to Move This Evening From Baiquiri to Juragua.

On board the Associated Press dispatch boat Dauntless off Baiquiri, June 26, via Kingston, Jamaica, Monday, June 27, 7:30 a. m.—(Copyrighted 1898, the Associated Press.)—Gen. Shafter expects to move his headquarters from Baiquiri to Juragua this evening. Transports are rapidly landing the last supplies of forage and ammunition and the last of the four light batteries of artillery started this afternoon for Juragua. Ordnance officers say the road is impractical for siege guns and that the landing facilities for them are inadequate.

About 500 mules are corraled here. The military authorities are rapidly making up a pack train to take forward rations. The men ashore have five days' supplies, but supplies for ten days are needed as a precaution against a sudden move.

SPAIN BOUND TO FIGHT.

But After a While She Wants the Pope to Mediate.

New York, June 27.—A special cablegram to the Journal from Rome says: "The papal nuncio at Madrid telegraphs to the pope that the queen regent of Spain desires the mediation of his holiness when the opportune moment arrives with the object of securing peace with the United States. The nuncio declares that at present Spain is bound to continue the war.

TO THE PHILIPPINES.

Admiral Camara's Fleet to Leave Port Said Today For Manilla.

London, June 27.—A special dispatch from Madrid says the minister of marine, Senor Auron, has made a statement to the effect that Admiral Camara's squadron will leave Port Said today for the Philippines. He is also reported as saying he believes that the squad was powerful enough to defeat Rear Admiral Dewey.

The dispatch further says that the hope is expressed there that Manilla will resist until the arrival of Camara.

SPAIN'S THIRD SQUADRON.

Work Being Rushed on the Dons' Reserve Vessels.

Cadiz, June 27.—It is announced here that the Spanish cruisers Victoria and Alfonso XIII have left the arsenal, and the Caraisa and Isla De Luzon are ready for their armament. It is further reported that an additional force of men has been ordered to be employed in order to hasten the completion of the armored cruiser Princessa De Asturias.

The auxiliary cruiser Meteore is said to have received her new armament and the armored cruiser Cardenal Cisneros is announced to have left Ferrol.

The Spanish officials express the hope that the third squadron will be ready for sea in five weeks. The military governor of Cadiz is mounting new guns and preparing additional defenses between Forts Rota and Candelaria, owing to the rumors of a contemplated American invasion.

THE CHESS TOURNAMENT.

Vienna, June 27.—In the nineteenth round of the international chess tournament, played today, only two games had been completed when recess was taken. Janowsky and Tschigorin were the winners over Trenchard and Alapin. As the scores stand Pillsubry leads with 13 games won and four lost. Tarrasch comes next, 12½ won and 3½ lost, and Janowsky, third, with 12½ won and 5½ lost.

TRANSPORTS NOT ARRIVED.

Dewey Has Not Yet Received Any Ships or Men.

Manilla, June 23, via Hong Kong, June 27.—(Copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—Up to the time this dispatch is sent, the transports having on board troops intended to reinforce Rear Admiral Dewey have not arrived here, and there is no change in the situation. The insurgents have not made any further advance and the Spaniards have been continuing the construction of sand bank fortifications and the planting of sharpened bamboos around Manilla for the purpose of stopping the insurgents' advance.

The papers here continue appealing to the natives to come to the assistance of Spain.

BALLOONS ARE TESTED.

But the Tampa Gas Is Not of Good Quality.

Tampa, Fla., June 27.—The first experiments with the observation balloon have been made. Maj. Reber, Professor C. E. Pellew, Tracy A. Tisdell, and five privates of the signal corps visited the gas works on the outskirts of the city, and began the work of instruction at 7 o'clock. Mr. Tisdell is a professional aeronaut and expert balloonist, who was sent here by the government to instruct the corps in proper handling of the new balloon, which is a silk creation from Paris, with all the latest improvements.

The large, slight, silk envelope was laid upon the ground, and the cordage net dexterously slipped over it. To properly do this is a difficult task, and the corps received instructions in detail. The tap from a 4-inch main was then removed, and gas was allowed to inflate the great body. As the vessel filled with gas, the expert watched every guy and weight, instructing the corps thoroughly.

When the inflation was complete, it was found that the specific gravity of the gas was too great to lift more than the balloon and car. No ascent was made. The 1000 feet of cable which is used to regulate the altitude remained unrolled, but the lift was sufficient for the great work to be practically illustrated. The modes of handling, loading and unloading the balloon were demonstrated.

When the gas was released to repack the balloon, Charles G. Bell, of Denver, Col., was asphyxiated, and for nearly two hours was unconscious. It required much effort to restore him, but he is out of danger now.

The balloon has a capacity of 21,000 cubic feet, and when elevated is drawn down by either hand or steam windlass, which the corps is equipped with. They are also equipped with facilities for manufacturing their own gas, but can only produce 1000 cubic feet an hour, therefore it will require nearly a full day to inflate the balloon when in the field. Additional experiments will be made when the gas company furnishes a lighter gas. At that time, ascensions will be made and observations taken. The corps in charge of their balloon will be rushed over to Cuba at the first opportunity.

The total number of entries is 348, fourteen of the eighteen advertised events having filled. The nominations include many of the fastest horses in the country. The value of the purses is about $30,000, and an effort is being made for specials for Star Pointer, Gentry, Frank Agan, Robert J, Patchen and horses of that class.

SPANISH FOUR MARKETS.

London, June 27.—Spanish 4s opened at 33¾, and later declined to 33½; Saturday's closing was 34⅜.

Paris, June 27.—Spanish 4s opened at 33⅜, a loss of ¾.

PREPARE TO MOVE

Fifteen Regiments Expect to Leave Chickamauga Park Before Many Hours.

ROSSER'S COMMAND

The Fourteenth Minnesota Boys Will Be Under the Famous Leader.

Chickamauga Park, June 27.—At Camp Thomas today all interest centers in the preparations of fifteen of the regiments to get away for Cuba. The preparation of supplies for the needs of this body began yesterday, and it is hoped that the fifteen regiments will be supplied by tomorrow. Gen. Brooke as yet has issued no orders except the one for immediate preparations. The expectation is, however, that they will get out Wednesday. Two railroads leading from here to the Florida coast have been preparing for emergency orders at any moment for some time. The roads can handle the men rapidly. The fifteen regiments under orders are the best trained and best equipped at the camp. They are the Eighth Massachusetts, Sixteenth Pennsylvania, First West Virginia, Fifth Illinois, One Hundred and Sixtieth Indiana, Tenth New Hampshire, Fourth Ohio, Thirty-first Michigan, Third Wisconsin, Second Wisconsin, One Hundred and Fifty-eighth Indiana, Eighteenth Pennsylvania, Tenth Georgia and Twelfth New York.

Gen. T. L. Rosser, recently appointed a brigadier general, yesterday reported to Gen. Brooke for assignment in the First corps. The general was assigned to command the Third brigade of the Second division First army corps, under Gen. Poland. Gen. Rosser took immediate charge of his brigade, relieving Col. Van Dusee of the Fourteenth Minnesota, who has been commanding the brigade as senior colonel for several weeks. This brigade is made up of the First Pennsylvania, Fourteenth Minnesota and Fourth Ohio.

Capt. Stang of Norway has received permission from Gen. Miles to accompany the next expedition to Cuba. The mail facilities at the park have recently been added to in a very material way by a perfected system inaugurated by the various regimental officers. The Fourth regiment has established a post-office, appointed a postmaster and fixed regular officers' house. More carriers are appointed from each regiment. Each regular schedule has been adopted and the carriers go to and from the post-office and their regiments twice a day. In this way all regiments have a double daily mail service and all first-class matter is delivered. Since adopting this plan there has been no complaint.

The Third division First army corps, Gen. Poland commanding, has received 300,000 rounds of ammunition. According to the figures of Gen. Poland this will furnish each man with but forty-five rounds, while they should have 450 rounds. It is expected they will receive a further supply before they will move.

Regimental officers' reports show that nearly all the guns are in good condition, but that quite a number are still needed in each regiment.

The officers who will command the brigades under orders to proceed from Camp Thomas to Cuba are as follows: Gen. Earnest, First brigade, First division; Gen. Sanger, Second brigade, First division; Gen. Wiley, Third brigade, First division; Col. Gardner, First brigade Second divison; Gen. McKee, Second brigade, Second division.

HAVANA IN TERROR

A Refugee Says the City Is on the Verge of Revolution.

BLANCO IS ALARMED

Cannot Hold His Starving Troops In Check Very Much Longer.

Key West, Fla., June 27.—(Copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—The most authentic and reliable news yet obtained of the true condition of affairs in Havana was today furnished to a representative of the Associated Press by a British subject, who left Havana on board the British cruiser Talbot, and who arrived here yesterday. He says a reign of terror exists at the Cuban capital. Capt. Gen. Blanco has issued a proclamation announcing that any one daring to express an unfavorable opinion of, or suspected of being, dissatisfied with the present policy of the government, will be summarily shot without trial or investigation.

This proclamation, it appears, caused dissatisfaction among the members of orden publico, police force, who threatened to rebel unless full rations were sent out to them. Trouble was expected, as the orden publico is a numerous and well armed body of men. The result today is the orden publico patrols the city, and its members are themselves policed, as Spanish infantry are mounting guard over them at every corner.

Famine, it seems, is imminent, and the stories of the arrival of supplies at Havana via Batabano are pronounced to be untrue. The informant of the Associated Press thinks Havana cannot possibly hold out six weeks longer. The city is pronounced to be panic stricken, its inhabitants expecting every moment to be bombarded by the American fleet, as they realize that Capt. Gen. Blanco releases the United States from giving the customary bombardment notice.

Riots are daily expected at Havana, as the volunteer troops are suffering from starvation, and seeing their wives and children dying in want. Under these conditions, the captain general cannot much longer keep the troops in subjection, and riots are liable to devastate the capital before the Americans capture it. Gen. Blanco says the situation is serious. He recognizes, it is pointed out, his inability to control his troops, goaded by hunger, much longer, and he is reported to have said that he would not leave Havana alive, as he is prepared to take his own life when the outbreak occurs.

Senor Galban Rio, a prominent Spanish merchant, the refugee continues in his statement to the Associated Press, had 5000 bags of flour hidden at Guenibados, a suburb of Havana, and was retailing it to the public. Gen. Arolas, the military governor of Havana, was informed that Senor Galban's trucks had traces of fresh flour upon them and he caused the vehicles to be followed. The store being thus disclosed, it was seized and distributed among the ravenous soldiers.

Referring to the strength of the Spanish forces, the Briton says there are 120,000 men under arms at Havana, but that the great majority of them are ready to surrender rather than die from hunger.

CAPTURE OF THE BLOCKHOUSES ON THE HILLS WEST OF SANTIAGO.

The American army is fighting in the hills west of Santiago. Its position overlooks the city, and it is now prepared to use the two batteries of heavy artillery landed by Gen. Shafter. In securing this position it captured all the outlying strongholds of the Spaniards.

James Cavanaugh Dead.

James Cavanaugh, of Duluth, who has been employed in the woods several miles back of Two Harbors, was killed Friday. Logs were being rolled into the water, and one of them rolled over him, killing him almost instantly. The body did not arrive in Two Harbors until this morning. Undertaker Durkan will send a man out this afternoon to prepare the body for burial, and it will be brought to Duluth tomorrow and be buried from the cathedral. He was between 35 and 40 years of age, a widower, and has a young son, who is in Ottowa, Can. He was a member of division No. 1, A. O. H., of Duluth.

For Volunteers' Benefit.

At the request of the Duluth Volunteers' Home society, Professor Woodward and those associated with him in rendering the oratorio, "The Prodigal Son," have kindly consented to repeat it tomorrow evening at the First M. E. church, for the benefit of the soldiers' society. No tickets will be sold, and no charge whatever made at the door for admission. At the conclusion of the entertainment a collection will be taken. Col. A. A. Harris said today that he was in receipt of letters from the officers at the front stating that there are many articles of which the soldiers are greatly in need.

FROM CAMP CHICKAMAUGA.

Boys Getting Tired of Doing Nothing and Want Excitement.

A letter received from "Senator" Murphy, of Company A, Fourteenth Minnesota, says: "Everything is progressing about the same in Camp Thomas, with the exception that 'Old Reliable,' Company A, broke all previous records ever made here by any of the companies by standing 100 per cent in a general inspection, which means that the company was perfect in cleanliness of company and street, neat appearance of the tents, military appearance of the company and the condition of arms. First Sergt. Broadbridge was also highly complimented by Lieut. Col. Johnson for the excellent manner in which he kept the books of the company. There have been some heavy rains here for the past week. Fred Farmer, who is one of my tent mates, received a few boxes by express from home with some very choice delicacies, which were received with open mouths, especially John Maginnis. I am going to have the signal corps of the Fourteenth regiment, which is now fully equipped with all the signalling paraphernalia, sit for a picture for a newspaper, with all the colored flags in the center. At this writing there is some movement on foot in camp today that I do not understand. All of the boys of Company A send their best regards to all their friends in Duluth."

J. O'Donnell, of Company C, writing to a friend says: "All the boys are in good health and spirits, and all are wishing we will soon get into active service as camp life is rather dull when placed as we are so far from our friends in Duluth." He returns thanks to his friend for a package so kindly sent to him, which was very acceptable and says "you can judge how long it tasted when I tell you that all the boys are broke and we look for the same condition until pay day. The only hope we have of raising the wind is when the new recruits arrive from home. You can bet they will get a welcome, provided they have any money when they get here. You have no doubt noticed a few items complimenting Company C and they are all right. I was over to see a lot of rough riders the other day. They are a fine lot of fellows, free and easy and I put in a good day with them."

A. O. U. W. NOTICE.

AROUSED AT MR. GAY

Mayor and Aldermen Are Not Pleased With the Boston Man's Tactics.

Aside from the opening of the bids for the water and light bonds, the council meeting this evening will present no feature of especial interest, according to the prospects this morning. It is possible that there may be a seance with Mr. Gay. There is a general feeling among the aldermen that Mr. Gay has been exerting himself to spike the sale of 4 per cent bonds, and there is, in consequence, a spirit of vexation and resentment that may crop out if the subject is broached. The mayor shares this feeling, and will probably be on hand with his decks cleared for action.

There will be no fun over liquor license bonds, all of those that were held up for investigation having been disposed of. A number of licenses will be granted. There will be the usual grist of estimates and miscellaneous business.

FOURTH OF JULY EXCURSIONS.

Trip to Grand Marais and North Shore Points.

The Booth line boats are offering for the Fourth of July an interesting choice of outings on the lake. Of special interest will be the opportunity to visit Grand Marais and Isle Royale, and to take in the Fourth of July celebration at the former place, where the day will be fittingly celebrated. There will be Indian games, lacrosse and other sports at Grand Marais, and the celebration should be very interesting. While the Dixon visits north shore points the Hunter will take in the south shore. There will be one fare for the round trip on both boats, the Dixon leaving Sunday for the north shore and the Hunter leaving Monday for south shore points. The round trip on the Dixon takes from Sunday morning until Tuesday afternoon, and it will include the famous north shore scenery, several hours at Port Arthur, a trip around Isle Royale with its beautiful scenery and cool breezes. The Hunter will sail between the Apostle islands and will visit Washburn, Bayfield and all other points of interest, giving three hours in Ashland.

The return will be Tuesday morning in time for business.

Sealed Bids

Will be received by undersigned for two barrels of bread in fairly good condition. Address Room 510, Board of Trade.

APPEAL IS GRANTED

Northern Minnesota Foresters Get Jurisdiction With Headquarters Here.

IN EFFECT AT ONCE

It Will Be Instituted By Chief Ranger Oronhyatekha Thursday Evening.

It has been decided to set off Northern Minnesota as an independent jurisdiction of the Independent Order of Foresters, according to advices received here this morning, and Duluth will be the headquarters. The high court of the new jurisdiction is to be instituted Thursday evening, the ceremonies to be presided over by Supreme Chief Ranger Oronhyatekha. The high court is constituted of delegates from the local courts in the jurisdiction. There will be elected eight officers, viz., high chief ranger, high vice chief ranger, high secretary, high treasurer, high physician, high counsellor and two high auditors. There are nine minor officers to be appointed by the high chief ranger. It is thought that Elks' hall will be secured for the occasion.

For more than two years the lodges of the northern part of the state have been endeavoring to cut loose from the high court of Minnesota, as they have felt that they have not been given proper consideration. Supreme Chief Ranger Oronhyatekha, of Toronto, who is a Mohawk Indian, was then asked to create a new jurisdiction of the northern part of the state, but he could not then see his way clear to do so. His decision was a victory for the men in control of the high court of Minnesota, who, it is said, continued the old policy which was so distasteful to the members of the order in this section. Again complaint was made to Toronto, and last January representatives of the Duluth lodges met with the high court officers of Minnesota and the supreme court officers from Toronto and the whole fight was gone over again. After patiently hearing both sides the supreme chief ranger announced that he was about to sail for England. On his return, he said, if the differences between the state officers and the northern lodges were not amicably adjusted, he would authorize the institution of the new jurisdiction. He returned a short time ago from across the water, and on being informed that the fight was still as far from a conclusion as ever, he gave notice that the new jurisdiction would be formally instituted at Duluth Thursday of this week.

The new jurisdiction will include all of the northern part of the state, and will embrace all lodges of the order north of some point yet to be designated, probably St. Cloud. The order now has about 3500 members in this state, of which the new high court will have jurisdiction over about 1500.

Recommends the Sale.

George W. Buck, assignee for the Mesaba Lumber company, this morning applied to the district court for permission to sell some timber land in townships 55-17 and 56-17 to Richard H. Pagan for $3500, of which $250 is to go to an agent who negotiated the sale. In his petition, Assignee Buck states that it is estimated that there are 3,450,000 feet of timber on the land, of which only 200,000 is white pine and the rest is Norway pine. The timber is inferior, he says, and as it is five miles from the railroad, it will be necessary to cut roads to it. Under these circumstances he does not believe it to be worth over $3000, so he thinks the sale should be made. There is an encumbrance of $5000 on the land, and the holder is to get $3000 of the money received from the sale of the land.

FOR THE BOYS AT THE FRONT.

Good Advice Which Should Be Strongly Urged.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A letter from Paul Du Chailu, published in Saturday's Herald, should be read by every one of our boys at the front. He urges them to take two or three grains of quinine daily, to wear abdominal bandages and to drink as little water as possible. This advice, if followed, may save some of their lives and will at all events help them to ward off sickness. Those of us who have lived at the South know that his advice is sound and wise, and as it is easy to follow, cannot urge it too strongly.

The ladies of the Duluth Volunteers' Home society have just sent a large supply of flannel bandages to the boys, together with a quantity of hospital supplies. Now see that your boy has some quinine pills, but keep your cakes until he comes home. He will probably not like this latter suggestion, but will thank us for it bye and bye.

The Duluth Volunteers' Home society is trying to do effective work for those at the front, but money is hard to get. Tomorrow (Tuesday) night the beautiful oratorio of "The Prodigal Son" is to be kindly repeated for the benefit of this society, at the Methodist church. Dr. Humason says that no admission will be charged, but a contribution taken up. It is hoped that such another immense audience as was in attendance last night, will be present and that a handsome contribution will be collected. Our boys are all right now, but they may soon be in Cuba, and we should be prepared to help them endure the campaign.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

Open Session, Basket Social and Dancing Party.

Zenith council No. 40, United Commercial Travelers, held a social session Saturday evening in Elks' hall. There was a fair sized assemblage despite the rain and a delightful time was had. There were vocal solos by Miss Clara Richardson, vocal selections by the Ladies' quartet, consisting of Mesdames Holcomb and Reynolds and the Misses McKay and Hector, and a flute solo by A. Hoelscher.

Rev. Dr. Humason delivered an address. Among other things, he said that the Creator had placed in here for de the Creator had placed us here for development and a large per cent of f us had been put in business for our training. Traveling men were the result of modern conditions. The large army of them, estimated at 300,000 in 1890, had developed the transportation facilities. The railroads had to cater to them and the business they created. A better class of men was doing the work today than formerly. Many are men of splendid ability and the life of their house depends on them. The speaker thought that neither the church nor the lodge could train men like the business of life. He was glad that the organization taught justice, charity, the protection of womanhood and temperance. We must so live as to respect ourselves. A good motto was: "Be good and do good for Christ's sake." That developed character, and in following it, one was doing business for his employer and for God.

Refreshments were served after the program, and there was dancing.

TO LEAVE FOR CUBA

Nine Thousand Men Under Gen. Snyder Leave Tampa.

Will Arrive Off Santiago About Next Saturday.

Shafter's Force Will Then Number Thirty Thousand.

Minn Hist Society

Washington, June 28.—Orders have been issued for the departure of another large army expedition from Tampa, composed of about 9000 men of the Second division of the Fourth army corps, under command of Brig. Gen. Snyder, and six batteries of artillery, three light and three heavy. The preparations have been proceeding quietly for some days, although the stores have been going aboard at Tampa. A rigid censorship at that place has prevented any word leaking out as to the expedition. The actual departure from Tampa is expected by the war department to occur today, although there may be unavoidable delays.

The plan of movement has been thoroughly determined upon. Twelve troopships are to carry the expedition. They will move first to Key West, at which point a strong naval convoy will meet them and escort the expedition to Santiago. The warships constituting the naval convoy are not disclosed but they probably will include one battleship and several cruisers and auxiliary craft.

Gen. Snyder's Second division of the Fourth army corps is now at Tampa, and is made up of three brigades and nine regiments as follows:

First brigade—Col. I. DeRussey, commanding; Eleventh United States infantry, Nineteenth United States infantry.

Second brigade—Gen. L. H. Carpenter, commanding; First District of Columbia, Second New York, Fifth Maryland.

Third brigade—Gen. R. H. Hall, commanding; Third Pennsylvania, One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Indiana, First Ohio, First Illinois.

Whether some regiments will be taken from other divisions cannot be stated definitely. It is known only that Gen. Snyder's division has been looked upon by the war department as the one best equipped for an immediate start. The batteries will be designated by Gen. Randolph, in command of the artillery at Tampa.

If the expedition gets away today it will arrive off Santiago about next Saturday. The trip doubtless will be to the eastward, around Cape Maysi, along the same route as that of the Shafter expedition. This will bring Shafter's force up to about 30,000, made up of the 16,000 men he took with him; Gen. Duffield's command on the Harvard and Yale, Gen. Garretson's command, who will go on the same steamers, and Gen. Snyder's division from Tampa.

BLOCKADE PEACEFUL.

Nothing Occurs at Havana to Break the Monotony.

On board the Associated Press dispatch boat Cynthia, off Havana, June 27, 8 p. m., via Key West, June 28.—For the first time in weeks a newspaper dispatch boat visited the blockading fleet off Havana yesterday. The conditions were found to be as peaceful as the waters of the gulf stream were turbulent. Since the good practice by the Spanish gunners against the Montgomery the other day, particulars of which were cabled at the time, nothing has occurred to break the monotony of this peaceful blockade.

Rarely has Cuba's capital been seen under such exceptional advantages as it was yesterday morning, when the Cynthia II steamed lazily along nine miles off the harbor entrance. The air was clear, the sun was shining brightly and Spain's scarlet could be distinctly seen through marine glasses as it floated from Morro's flagstaff in front of the semaphore. To the east a long line of earthworks, not seen before by newspaper men, crowned the hill, and advices from Havana say work on these and similar fortifications to the westward is being pushed daily.

Blockade duty is not pleasant service, and while no one with the fleet complains, there is a feeling that some effort might be made to provide the warships with ice and fresh vegetables, which would be highly appreciated, as ice is almost a necessity in this climate. It has been suggested that this is a field in which the Red Cross or some similar society might work to advantage. However, the health of the fleet is good on the whole.

AN ENGLISH WARNING.

Strong Anti-British Feeling in the Philippines.

London, June 28.—The Evening News this afternoon publishes a long dispatch from Manilla covering the points already cabled to the Associated Press. It emphasizes the strong anti-British feeling which has sprung up at the capital of the Philippine islands and refers to the necessity of sending more British ships there and to the conviction of the Spaniards that Germany is going to help them.

The News then says: "There are two points in our telegram which we commend to the atention of the government: Firstly, the influence which the presence of the German squadron is exercising on the situation. Secondly, the obvious danger to the English should the Spanish soldiers, who are without food and wages, determine to kick over the traces."

ON TO THE FRONT.

Gen. Shafter and Staff Move Forward to Consult Gen. Wheeler.

Juragua, Province of Santiago de Cuba, Monday, June 27, per the Associated Press dispatch boat Wanda, via Kingston, Jamaica, Tuesday, June 28. —(Copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—Maj. Gen. Shafter, in command of the United States army of invasion, arrived here on board the transport Seguranca, from Baiquiri, with Col. John Jacob Astor, Capt. Stewart Brice and Lieut. Milay and Noble and his staff at about 2 o'clock this afternoon. He was met by Gen. Bates ,who was superintending the landing of commissary supplies in the surf.

Gen. Shafter, in full uniform and wearing a straw helmet, was soon mounted on a large, handsome horse, and rode through the town, surveying the scene of the landing operations and the camps of the troops. He halted for a moment before the cottage which served as the headquarters of the Cuban insurgents and where Gens. Garcia and Castillo paid their respects to the commander.

About an hour later Gen. Shafter struck out on the road to the front in order to consult with Gen. Wheeler and the division commanders and look over the field of operations before Santiago de Cuba. The general said he would probably return to Juragua headquarters tonight. Permanent hospital arrangements are to be provided at Juragua at once.

CAMARA HAS COAL.

His Ships May Enter Suez Canal Today.

Madrid, June 28.—The Spanish officials here assert that there will be no difficulty in Admiral Camara traversing the Suez canal as his accompanying transports, they add, have all the coal the squadron requires. It is believed here that the Spanish ships will enter the canal today.

The Spanish government does not credit the report that an American squadron is to visit Spanish waters, but the ministers say they have taken all possible precautions, that the ports are all ready and that 26,000 men who have been called to the colors will be distributed among the principal Atlantic and Mediterranean ports of Spain.

SANTIAGO'S FOOD SUPPLY.

Captured Spanish Spy Says There Is Little There.

Baiquiri, Province of Santiago de Cuba, Monday, June 27, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 28.—(Copyrighted 1898 by the Associated Press.)—A Spanish spy, who was captured by the Cubans on Sunday, reports that the Spaniards in Santiago believe the Americans suffered heavy loss during the fighting near Sevilla, on Friday, both in killed and wounded.

The spy also reported that there was much criticism in Santiago, on account of the fact that the American landing was not contested at Baiquiri, and he also says there was talk of an American attempt to flank the Spanish troops. The spy says there is very little food in the city of Santiago.

THE BANKRUPTCY BILL.

House After Debate Adopts the Conference Report.

Washington, June 28.—The house today considered the conference report on the bankruptcy bill. A number of speeches were made and then the report was adopted by a decisive majority.

FIRE AT TOWER.

Archie Cameron's Building Damaged Early This Morning.

Tower, June 28.—(Special to the Herald.)—The fire alarm was turned in shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, when it was discovered that the building of Archie Cameron on North Second street was on fire. After some very hard work by the department the flames were subdued. The fire started at the rear of the second story over the saloon from a defective chimney. Damage about $300; fully insured.

BATTLE TO THE DEATH

Action By the Navy and Army at Santiago.

Another Forward Movement to Be Made Tomorrow.

Admiral Cervera's Ships Are Still In the Harbor.

Off Santiago de Cuba, Monday, June 27, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 28.—(Copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—Lieut. Victor Blue of the auxiliary gunboat Suwanee returned to the fleet today from another investigating trip ashore. He reported that Admiral Cervera's ships are all in the harbor. With the exception of one torpedo boat destroyer, they are anchored and show no signs of activity.

Lieut. Blue went ashore on Saturday to the west of Morro castle, accompanied by some Cuban guides. He advanced until within about two miles of Cabanas, and almost up to the enemy's batteries. He traveled sixty miles, and rejoined the Suwanee this morning. At one time the lieutenant was at a Cuban outpost, separated only by 400 yards from a Spanish outpost. "They popped away at each other all the time," said Lieut. Blue, "but I don't think the Cubans hurt the Spaniards very much, and I know the Spaniards did not hurt the Cubans."

Lieut. Blue was able to accurately locate the position of each of Admiral Cervera's ships.

Rear Admiral Sampson warned the United States fleet to exercise great care in shooting at the hills east of Morro castle, pointing out that the American army had advanced, and that our own troops might be deployed on the hillside.

It is hardly likely that any serious action will be taken by the navy until Wednesday. By that time the army is expected to be ready for another forward movement. The dynamite gunboat Vesuvius fired three shells last night. They fell in the vicinity of Morro castle and the eastern batteries.

During the night a loud explosion occurred on shore, near Aguadores. It is believed to have been caused by the Spaniards trying to blow up the railroad trestle near that place. It is now said Juragua may be selected as the permanent coaling harbor for the fleet.

Gustave Weineck, an ordinary seaman belonging to the flagship New York, was drowned yesterday. The New York was coaling in front of Morro castle, from the collier Alexander, when Weineck jumped from the collier, in an attempt to get on board his own ship. He fell between the flagship and the collier and sank at once. The body was not recovered.

The Dolphin has gone to the Havana blockade, and the Helena and Yankton have gone to the southern blockade.

A bulletin issued to the fleet by Rear Admiral Sampson yesterday said: "From a report made by one of the wounded, a nephew of Surgeon Berryhill of the flagship New York, a considerable part of the damage to our troops on Friday last was done by seven-millimetre machine guns, manned by seamen, so that there would seem to be some probability in the report of the use ashore of the crews of Admiral Cervera's squadron."

CASH FOR SOLDIERS.

Several Millions of Money to Be Paid to the Chickmauga Boys.

Chickamauga Park, June 28.—No orders giving any more information about the movement of troops from Camp Thomas have yet been issued by Gen. Brooke. The local railroad officials say they have no orders to supply trains, and do not know when the movement will begin. It is now stated upon good authority that the fifteen regiments under orders will be held several days until their every need is supplied, and they are thoroughly equipped for service. It is further stated that these first fifteen regiments will be closely followed by ten more, the whole force to be sent from here to Cuba during the next two weeks, numbering over 25,000 men.

The government paymasters, twenty-five in number, are scheduled to reach the park tonight. They will probably be at the park for three weeks before their task is completed. Estimating that there are 45,000 officers and men at the park, and placing the average per month for officers and clerks at the conservative rate of $150 per month, the amount to be distributed will aggregate the sum of $2,250,000, and these figures do not take into account any of the immense sums paid out for provisions, general stores and equipments, but is confined strictly to the salaries of officers and men.

Paymaster Gen. Henley of the state of New York, having at last succeeded in adjusting the pay rolls of the New York regiments, arrived at the park yesterday and paid off the Eighth New York. He will also pay the Ninth and Fourteenth New York before leaving the park. These three regiments will receive from the state about $45,000.

The organized fight against the regimental canteens at Chickamauga Park is becoming very interesting. Another meeting of the Chickamauga Chaplains' association has been held and definite action taken in reference to having the canteens abolished. The following resolution was introduced and passed:

Whereas, there have been established in many of the regiments in Camp Thomas canteens, where intoxicants are sold; and,

Whereas, the highest medical authorities in the army have advised against the use of all intoxicants and

Whereas, the use of deadly intoxicants is filling the guard houses and hospitals; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Chaplains' association, that the attention of Gen. Brooke is respectfully called to these facts, and we urgently petition him to use his military authority in suppresion of this evil.

PREPARE TO MOVE.

The Minnesota Regiments at Camp Thomas Ordered to Get Ready.

Chickamauga National Park, Ga., June 28.—Both Minnesota regiments have received peremptory orders to prepare to move at a moment's notice and the directions are now being carried out. All superfluous baggage is being packed and made ready for storage. Equipments are being dealt out and everything made ready for the final orders to get out. It is anticipated that these will come soon.

Minnesotans had hoped to be among the fifteen regiments that received orders Sunday night, but were disappointed, although they had been in camp longer and were in better shape than several of those that were commanded to get ready. Preparations now in progress, however, seem to indicate that they will be surely included when the next draft is made and this is expected any day. It is the concensus of opinion among the officers of both regiments that the stay here now will be a short one.

The Second division hospital has received orders to be ready for shipment not later than Wednesday. It is thought that the entire First army corps is to be sent to the front inside of two weeks.

EGYPTIAN NEUTRALITY.

Balfour Says England Will See It Is Preserved.

London, June 28.—The first lord of the treasury, A. J. Balfour, replying in the house of commons today to a question of James Henry Dalzell, Liberal member for the district of Kirkcaldy, said her majesty's government was not aware that Spain had arranged with an English firm to recoal Admiral Camara's squadron at Port Said. Every precaution, Mr. Balfour added, would be taken to preserve neutrality by the Egyptian government in Egyptian ports as by the British government at British ports.

Replying to Sir Edward Gourley, Liberal member for Sunderland, Mr. Goschen said the government had not received a report that marines or blue jackets from either the ships of Great Britain or those of other European powers had been landed at Manilla with the sanction of Rear Admiral Dewey to protect the resident of their several nationalities.

NO PROTEST FILED.

This Country Does Not Object to Camara Coaling.

London, June 28.—The reports coming from America that the United States has requested Great Britain to enforce the neutrality laws by forbidding Admiral Camara's squadron to coal at Port Said are unfounded. The United States ambassador, John Hay, has received no instructions in this regard and it is believed in official circles that the United States officials have no desire to have Camara detained.

It is pointed out that if the Spaniards are denied permission to coal, a precedent would be established which will prevent the United States from using the canal in the event of that country desiring to send warships to the far East by that route during the war.

ON CURCO MOUNTAIN

Many Traces of Dead Spaniards Found on the Bloody Field.

SHOT PIERCED HATS

Terrible Effectiveness of the Modern Small Caliber Rifles of Troops.

On Board the Associated Press Dispatch Boat Dauntless, Marine Camp, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, via Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 20.—(Correspondence, copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—Ever since the introduction of the modern high-power small caliber rifle among the armies of the world, there has been intense interest in the medical profession as well as among the laymen to know the effect of the new arm in the nature of wounds it would inflict and the proportion of mortality to wounded.

Dr. Orlando Ducker, of the American Medical association, who is here to study the practical aspects of battlefield surgery, as well as tropical diseases and their treatment, went over the battlefield of Curco mountain with Surgeon Edgar of the Marine corps and examined the bodies there. A sight of the battlefield gave the impression of a bigger fight than had been conveyed by the official statement at Camp McCalla last Tuesday. The additional bodies found raised the estimate of Spanish killed from fifty-eight, the first day's count, to more than seventy-five. Many bullet-pierced straw hats littered the ravine where the Spanish made their last disastrous retreat.

The narrow glen was literally covered with empty Mauser shells for half a mile, while cactus plants were plentifully peppered with the tell-tale bullet-holes, and trees were scarred and twigs were hanging in profusion along the close-grown foot-path. Only eight bodies were found in condition to examine. The doctors brought back two bullet-punctured Spanish skulls.

Speaking of what he had learned, Dr. Ducker said: "The effectiveness of rifles of small caliber, but great initial velocity like the Krag-Jorgensen, Lee-Metford or Mauser, for instance, should be regarded as settled, if we accept the results of the battle of Curco mountain. One of the soldiers received a wound in the arm at a distance of 200 yards. The ball struck just below the elbow as the arm was being extended (semi-flexed). The wound at the entrance was no larger than the bullet, but the exit was a terrible laceration, so great in fact, that it was supposed until a minute examination had been made, that an explosive bullet had been used.

Of the Spanish soldiers examined one had sustained a compound fracture of the fifth and sixth ribs, at the anterior curvature. The soldier was evidently stooping and running when struck by the fatal bullet, the ball entering the back, below the tenth rib, and ranging upward, striking the inner side of the sixth and the outer side of the fifth rib, shattering them for the space of two inches.

The second was a negro Spanish guerrilla, with the usual thick negro skull. The wound at the entrance was near the middle of the left parietal bone, tearing away the outer table for a quarter of an inch around it, but leaving the inner table intact, except a clean-cut hole, the size of the bullet. The ball passed through out of the right orbit, tearing away half of the floor and all of the inner wall. There was complete longitudinal fracture of the skull, extending from the anciliary ridge of the right side to the occipital suture on the same side, passing one inch above the wound at the entrance.

The third Spaniard was one of the regulars, judging from his uniform, and a man about 25 years old. He was evidently stooping forward and facing our troops as the ball entered the frontal bone, two inches anterior to the parietal suture and two and a half inches above the temporal articulation, traveling the brain longitudinally, passing out on the right side of the occipital protuberance. The wound at the exit was irregular in shape, but one by seven-eights of an inch in size, damaging alike both the inner and outer table of the skull.

The wound at the entrance was clean-cut and the size of the bullet, so far as the inner table was involved, but along the lower margin, extended three-fourths of an inch on either side and one inch below the entrance, the outer table was completely torn away as though it had been excavated by a chisel. A complete longitudinal fracture extended from the roof of the right orbit through the frontal bone, passing half an inch above the wound at the entrance to two-thirds the distance of the right parietal; the other extending downward and outward to the middle and posterior margin of the bone. In both cases of wounds of the skull, the longitudinal fracture did not communicate with the wound at the entrance or the exit. In both cases, the fracture was parallel to the course of the ball and complete. A thin bladed knife was passed through the fractures. The shooting was from 600 to 800 yards and the fractures along the line of greatest pressure.

Whether a ball passing through the head from side to side will cause a fracture at a right angle to the long diameter of the head or not, further investigation will demonstrate. The bursting of the skull is no doubt due to the great velocity of the ball through the brain substance, giving not sufficient time for cell compression.

Another fact yet remains to be proven—whether the mortality is greater from the use of modern or the old-style rifles. In the case of our own troops the fatality was greater to the proportion of wounded, than formerly. However, that will require further demonstration, as the results of June 14 may have been purely accidental as to fatalities.

There is yet no means of ascertaining the proportion of wounded to the number killed of the Spanish troops during the engagement referred to, but it might be safely assumed that in the case of the Spanish, the mortality was also larger than normal. The topography of the region where the fight occurred, and the evidently scanty means of transportation at hand makes it unlikely that the Spaniards could have removed all their wounded had there been a great number of them. As a matter of fact, not a single wounded Spaniard has been found.

THE GERMAN ELECTIONS.

Berlin, June 28.—The complete result of the second balloting in the election of members of the reichstag is as follows: Imperialists, 10; Centerists, 23; Reform Party, 5; National Liberals, 39; Radical Union, 11; Radical People's Party, 29; German People's Party, 8; Agrarians, 8; Socialists, 24; Poles, 1; Guelphs, 8; Independents, 6; Conservatives, 19.

The drummer who tries to talk a merchant into purchasing a bill of goods may be handicapped by a face rendered unsightly by pimples and blotches and by a foul breath. Some men imagine that bad health does not handicap them in business. A bigger mistake was never made. The slightest disorder may be the biggest kind of a detriment to a business man. An unsightly skin is caused by impurities of the blood. A foul breath means a weak stomach, an impaired digestion and an inactive liver. A sweet breath means that the stomach is sweet, the digestion good, the liver active and the bowels regular. It is an indication of a thoroughly constitutional sweetness. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach, facilitates the flow of digestive juices, gives edge to the appetite, makes digestion and assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It is the great blood-purifier. It makes the eye brighter, the skin clearer, the breath sweeter and the step more elastic. It imparts both mental and bodily activity. It cures all diseases resulting from impurities in the blood. Found at all medicine stores.

"I was a complete wreck; appetite gone, nervous system impaired; could not sleep; and was so weak that I could not stand on my feet ten minutes," writes Miss Ella Bartley, of No. 213½ South Grant Ave., Columbus, Ohio. "I only weighed 95½ pounds. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cured me and now I have an excellent appetite, sleep soundly and my friends say they never saw me so well."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers sell them. No other pills are "just as good."

MINING CONGRESS.

Large Crowds Are Expected at Salt Lake City Next Week.

Salt Lake City, June 28.—Present indications point to the attendance of at least 2000 accredited delegates at the international mining congress, to be held here July 6, 7, 8 and 9, with at least as many more visitors who will be present as spectators. The delegate appointments to date number nearly 1800, representing twenty-seven states and territories, and 125 different communities. While the crowd promises to be greatly in excess of the local committee's expectations, ample provision has been made for such a contingency, and everybody will be cared for. Ample hotel accommodations are available at fair rates. The funds in hand exceed $5000, and will be at least $6000 by the opening of the congress.

The program just announced by the committee includes a number of social and pleasure-giving features as well as the practical business affairs of the convention. It is expected the first day, Wednesday, July 6, will be largely occupied with the organization of the body. The morning session, at 10 o'clock, will be devoted to an address of welcome by Governor Wells, the appointment of committees on credentials, and permanent organization and order of business. In the afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, these committees will report, the permanent officers will be installed and, if time remains, reports will be heard from the special committees appointed at Denver last year. One of these committees was directed to consider and formulate a report upon the establishment of a national department of mines and mining; the other was to report on the revision and codification of the federal mining laws. Both committees will be ready to present their conclusions when called upon by the congress. If these reports are reached by the close of the first day, it is expected that they will be before the congress for discussion and final action during the second day, Thursday.

Wednesday evening the delegates and their ladies will be the guests of Saltair, the resort on Great Salt Lake, where a band concert, reception and dance will be given the visitors. All of Thursday's business sessions will be devoted to the subjects designated by the committee on order of business, and Thursday evening will be left for such special entertainment as may be announced hereafter. Friday and Saturday's business has been outlined by the local committee on program, but no announcement will be made until the committee on order of business has acted upon it.

On Friday evening, July 8, a complimentary concert will be given for the congress in the famous Mormon tabernacle by the tabernacle choir of 1000 voices, assisted by the K. P. band, an organization celebrated throughout the West for its excellence. The same band will furnish music at all of the sessions of the congress and at the Saltair reception.

Unless a change is ordered by the congress, the selection of the next place of meeting will be left until Saturday, the last day of the session.

A number of interesting special trips have been arranged for the delegates by the railroads. The first of these is on Sunday, July 10, when two railroads will run special trains to Mercur and Tintic, one the great cyanide gold camp and the other a silver, gold, lead and copper camp, where mining is carried to great depths. In both places committees will see to the entertainment of the visitors, and the mines will be open to inspection. On Monday an excursion will be run to Bingham, and the visitors will be guests of the camp. The Highland Boy mine will be lighted for the occasion in all its workings by incandescent lights—affording an opportunity to study mining operations on a large scale under the best conditions. On Tuesday there will be another excursion to Mercur.

BATTLE STANDARDS

Gen. Miles' Order Will Drive Out All the Private Company Flags.

A NEW REGULATION

Orders Are Issued For a Strict Accounting of Government Stores.

Washington, June 28.—Gen. Miles has issued an order directing the commanders of volunteer regiments to report promptly appointments of adjutants and quartermasters. Such appointments, which are to be made by the commanders, are not to be ant-dated, and the officers appointed will be entitled to the pay pertaining thereto from the date they assume their duties.

Gen. Miles has also issued an order adding the following paragraph to the army regulations: "No ensign, pennon, streamer or other banner of any kind, other than the flags, colors, standards, pennants and guidons prescribed by the army regulations will be used by the army, or by any regiment or other organization thereof."

Gen. Miles has also issued an order for the information of officers of the volunteer army in accounting for ordnance and ordnance stores which may in any manner come into their possession. They are to make quarterly returns to the chief of ordnance at Washington of such property. Stores captured from the enemy, picked up on march, or found in camps, are to be strictly accounted for, as are also those disposed of, whether issued, condemned, lost in action, etc.

Before charging an enlisted man with the money value of stores lost or damaged, there should be clear proof of carelessness or neglect on his part. Stores lost in action are to be accounted for by certificate of the responsible officer, setting forth the date and place of the engagement and the attendant circumstances, and the affidavit of one or more enlisted men to the effect that the loss was unavoidable, having been caused by an attack of the enemy in superior force, which could not be resisted, or like event. Stores, abandoned for want of transportation are also to be accounted for by the certificate of the responsible officer, and in case of stores unserviceable or unfit for use, they are to be submitted for the action of an inspector and disposed of as directed. Failure to make returns as expected will subject officers to stoppage from their pay of the money value of the property issued to them.

UNITED STATES COURT.

Appellate Division Decides Merritt's Insurance Must Be Paid.

St. Paul, June 28.—The United States circuit court of appeals yesterday sustained the lower court in the case of Hanson E. Smith, as administrator of the estate of Cassius C. Merritt, of Duluth, against the Aetna Life Insurance company. Mr. Smith, as administrator, sued the insurance company to recover $25,000 due on two policies on the life of Cassius C. Merritt, of Duluth, deceased. Merritt took out the policies on Feb. 16, 1884. In 1886 he failed to pay the premiums on the policies at the time they were due. March 6 one Merrill M. Clark volunteered to pay the premiums. He paid the local agent of the company at Duluth, taking the receipt of the agent. On April 27 Merritt died from a disease with which he was suffering at the time of the payment of the last premium. On the back of the receipt given by the company was this endorsement:

"This will not bind the company unless the date when the premium was paid is stated thereon by the agent over his own signature. Provided satisfactory evidence and guaranty is furnished that the person whose life was insured is in good health and acceptable for new insurance, which shall be binding on the insured and beneficiaries under said policy, the agent may receive the premium and the insurance will be revived by the delivery of this receipt within sixty days from the time when said premium became due. After expiration of said sixty days the delivery on any terms will not revive the insurance or bind the company."

Judge Thayer, in the opinion handed down, held:

"This clause on the back of the receipt does not say to the insured, as it should have done if the mere delivery and acceptance thereof was intended to bind him by contract of guaranty, that the acceptance of the receipt by the insured should be construed as a guaranty that he was in good health and that the policy should not stand renewed, unless such was the fact, but it contained rather a direction to the agent of the company as to the mode and manner of discharging his duty. It required him when a premium was overdue to obtain satisfactory evidence and guaranty that the insured was in good health and acceptable for insurance before accepting the premium and delivering the receipt. Being, therefore, in the nature of a direction by the insurer to the agent, the law, we think, will not imply a guaranty of good health on the part of the insured from the mere acceptance of the receipt."

BANANA CROP SPOILING.

No Vessels to Carry the Fruit From Hawaiian Islands.

San Francisco, June 28.—The interruption of regular steam communication with Honolulu, caused by the use of regular ocean steamers as transports for the army going to Manilla, it is said, will entail great loss to the banana growers of the Hawaiian islands. Most of the fruit intended for importation will be unfit for sale before vessels can be secured to convey it to market.

WHITEMAN'S CASE.

Says He Passed a Bogus Check in Chicago But Denies the Others.

St. Louis, June 28.—Alonzo J. Whiteman, who was arrested here Saturday on the charge of having passed a forged check in Chicago, has been taken before Chief of Police Campbell and questioned. He admitted that a check he had given to a hotel clerk at Chicago a few months ago was bogus, but claimed the similar charges against him from Boston and Lawrence, Kan., are false. He said he had never been in Lawrence, Kan., and when the check alleged to have been passed by him in Boston was drawn, he was registered and living in a New York hotel. The arrival of a Boston detective is now awaited.

WANTED IN BOSTON.

Boston, June 28.—Alonzo J. Whiteman, who was arrested at St. Louis Saturday, is wanted in Boston to answer to the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses and beating several of the best known hotels out of hundreds of dollars' worth of board. Warrants were obtained from the court yesterday and as soon as requisition papers can be prepared an officer will go to St. Louis for the prisoner.

INDICTED AT CHICAGO.

Chicago, June 28.—Alonzo J. Whiteman, at one time a state senator for the Duluth district, was yesterday indicted by the grand jury of Cook county, on a charge of swindling the Grand Pacific hotel out of $250 by means of a fraudulent draft. Whiteman is now under arrest at St. Louis.

AN ENGLISH OPINION.

Favorable to the Idea of War on Spain's Coast.

London, June 28.—The St. James Gazette this afternoon commenting upon the prospect of the American forces attacking the coast of Spain says:

"The reception of the news evidences a change in public opinion which, at the commencement of the war, thought Europe should notify the United States that the war must be confined to American waters. It is now recognized that the Americans are fully entitled to make war in their own way and they are indeed driven to retaliate upon Spain in this manner owing to the tactics Spain has chosen to pursue."

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

The past week has been one of destructive storms to a considerable section of this state, says a Grand Forks dispatch. The hail storm of last Thursday was of much greater extent than was at first supposed, hail having fallen on a continuous strip of territory over 200 miles in length, beginning somewhere in the cattle country just this side of the Missouri and reaching to Red Lake Falls, Minn. The path of the storm varied in width from two to ten miles, averaging probably three miles. Whatever crops lay in the track of the storm were ruined, and the storm passed directly through to the center of Walsh county, one of the most thickly settled and most productive in the state. The area of crop destroyed is variously estimated, but it is probable that it will reach about 40,000 acres. That it is not more than this is due to the fact that only in the central portion of its course did the storm strike an old settled and well developed country.

The new town to be established at the junction of the Soo line with the Aberdeen, Bismarck & Northwestern line, which has been acquired with the Soo, has been located on section 9, township 132, range 71, McIntosh county, N. D. The plat is being made and the erection of the station buildings, elevators, roundhouse and hotel will begin in a few weeks. The railway officials who have the matter in charge think the town will be as good as any. It is named in honor of Senator J. H. Wishek, one of the leading citizens and a pioneer in North Dakota, who is well known in the Twin Cities.

Cattlemen at Dickinson are reporting large losses of fat yearlings from blackleg. The best cattle seem to be the ones affected by the disease. The sheep are shearing on an average of seven pounds of wool this season, or one pound more than last year. The price was started at 15 cents, but some wool growers are holding out for 16 cents.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Huron lodge, No. 444, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, was instituted at Huron Saturday evening with thirty-three charter members. The instituting officer was F. S. Emerson, of Sioux Falls, district deputy grand exalted ruler, and was assisted by the following team from Sioux Falls lodge, No. 262: H. H. Keith, exalted ruler; J. H. Gates, esteemed leading knight; J. H. Snyder, esteemed lecturing knight; J. T. Lee, esteemed loyal knight; U. S. G. Cherry, secretary; S. M. Bara, esquire. A number of others from that lodge and from other cities were present.

BLOCKADE EXTENDED

President McKinley Lengthens the Stretch of the Cuban Blockade.

PORTO RICO ALSO

Nearly All the Southern Coast of Cuba Is Now Blocked.

Washington, June 28.—The president has issued a proclamation extending the blockade of Cuba to the southern coast from Cape Frances to Cape Cruz, inclusive, and also blockading San Juan, Porto Rico. The proclamation is as follows:

Whereas, for the reasons set forth in my proclamation of May 22, 1898, a blockade of ports on the northern coast of Cuba, from Cardenas to Bahia Honda, inclusive, and of the port of Cienfuegos on the south coast of Cuba was declared to have been instituted, and

Whereas, it has become desirable to extend the blockade to other southern ports,

Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, president of the United States, do hereby declare and proclaim that, in addition to the blockade of the ports specified in my proclamation of April 22, 1898, the United States of America has instituted and will maintain an effective blockade of all of the ports on the south coast of Cuba from Cape Frances to Cape Cruz, inclusive, and also of the port of San Juan in the island of Porto Rico.

Neutral vessels in any of the ports to which the blockade is by the present proclamation extended will be allowed thirty days to issue therefrom with cargo.

In witness whereof, etc.,

EXTRA PAY CUT OFF.

Soldiers Get No Extra Salary In War Times.

Washington, June 28.—According to a decision of the comptroller of the treasury, extra duty pay of all soldiers is cut off in war time, no matter where they may be employed. The act of congress of April 26, 1898, provides for an increase in the pay proper of all enlisted men in time of hostilities. The comptroller also holds that the act of May 4 last, making an appropriation for extra duty pay for certain enlisted men in the quartermaster's department, does not authorize their pay for extra duty in war times.

TOMATOES FOR TROOPS.

St. Louis, June 8.—The sending of supplies from St. Louis to the troops in Cuba has begun. Capt. Duval, the army purchase commissary here, has sent seventeen carloads of canned tomatoes to Tampa. From there they will be taken in transports to supply troops on their way and those already in Cuba.

LAND SALES HELD UP.

Washington, June 28.—None of the pine lands on the ceded tract in the White Earth reservation are to be offered at the forthcoming sales at Crookston and Duluth. The state is claiming a large area of swamp lands in this reservation, and until the character of the land is determined the pine will not be sold. Hence several valuable townships will not be offered.

DECLINE IN WHEAT

Lower Prices at Liverpool Caused a Drop In American Markets.

TRADING WAS DULL

French Wheat Duty to Be Restored---New Wheat at St. Louis.

Wheat ruled lower today. The principal cause of the weakness was a decline in prices at Liverpool, which was at first ascribed to large sales there by people handling the Leiter cash wheat, but which was subsequently said to be due to the official statement that the French duty on wheat will be restored on July 1. Arrivals of new wheat at St. Louis also added in the decline. July closed with a loss of 1⅜c at Chicago and 1¼c in Duluth, while September lost ⅝c here and ⅛c at Chicago. Trading was very dull on the Duluth board. July wheat opened here ⅛c lower at 83c and sold down to 82¼c, at which it closed. September opened ⅛c off at 67½c and declined to 66⅝c, closing at 67½c. Shippers bought five cars of cash stuff at the July price. Corn and oats lost ½c each, rye declined 1½c and flax advanced 1c. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 84½c; July, 84¼c; September, 68½c. No. 1 northern, cash, 82c; July, 82¼c; September, 67⅛c. No. 2 northern, 79½c. No. 3 spring, 76c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 84½c; No. 1 northern, 82c. Oats, 23½@22½c. Rye, 43½c. Barley, 26c. Flax, $1.06; September, $1.03. Corn, 29½c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 36; corn, 12; oats, 4, rye, 1; flax, 2. Receipts—Wheat, 61,920 bus; corn, 5274 bus; oats, 1311 bus; rye, 1266 bus; barley, 525 bus; flax, 363 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 128,892 bus.

ON THE CHICAGO BOARD.

Wheat Declined Owing to Weakness at Liverpool.

Chicago, June 28.—Weakness at Liverpool, supposed to be due to the recent large sales there by people handling Leiter's cash holdings, started wheat lower here today. The weather was all that could be desired in the winter wheat belt, where harvesting is in progress. Further declines at Liverpool from the opening and advices from St. Louis that 100 cars of the new crop were expected to arrive there today started some general selling, and prices suffered another drop. Receipts in the Northwest were light, 65 cars, against 328 last year. Chicago receipts were 9 carloads as compared with 29 for the corresponding day last year. July started 1½@2c lower at 71@½, rose to 71¾c, declined to 71c and then firmed up to 71½c. September began ⅝@1⅛c down at 66½@⅜c, sold off to 65⅞c and then rallied to 66c.

Press dispatches from Paris and private cablegrams from the same place denied yesterday's reports that the time of free entry of wheat would be extended. The minister of agriculture in France was reported as stating positively that the duty would be re-imposed July 1, the date originally set. That was probably the chief reason for the extreme weakness at Liverpool, as it would remove France from competition with the United Kingdom for foreign wheat. The weather in England was improved, but France cabled that rain still continued. The cash demand was slow. No. 2 red was a cent lower than yesterday. No. 1 northern remained unchanged at 85c. July was quoted at 71½c at 1 p. m., and closed at 71⅝c. September closed at 66⅜c, after selling up to 66½c.

Fair weather and the break in wheat depressed corn. Longs sold freely. July opened ¼@⅜c lower at 31⅝@¼c, and sold down to 31c.

Oats were heavy on liberal selling by the country. During the first hour July sold off 1c. July opened ⅛c lower at 21¾c, sold off to 20⅝c and then firmed up to 21c.

The discovery of two new yellow fever cases in Mississippi disturbed provisions. July pork opened 7½c lower at $9.45, and sold up to $9.55. July lard started 2½c down at $5.52 and sold at that price. July ribs began 5½c down to $5.32 and rose to $5.40.

Chicago, June 28.—Close, wheat, June, 77c; July, 71⅝c; August, 67¼c; September, 66⅜c; December, 66⅞@67c. Corn, June, 31c; July, 31@⅛c; September, 32c; December, 33⅜c; May, 34⅝c. Oats, June, 20⅝c; July, 20⅝c; September, 19½c; May, 22¼c. Pork, June, $9.47; July, $9.47; September, $9.60. Lard, June, $5.40; July, $5.40; September, $5.50. Ribs, June, $5.35; July, $5.35; September, $5.42. Cash, wheat, No. 2 red, 78c; No. 3 red, 72@75c nominal; No. 2 hard, 70@71c nominal; No. 3 hard, 65@68c nominal; No. 2 spring, 69@71c; No. 3 spring, 65@68c nominal. Corn, No. 2, 31¼c; No. 3, 31⅛c. Oats, No. 2, 21¾c; No. 3, 21¼c. Barley, cash, No. 3, 30@35c. Rye, cash, 43c; July, 43c; September, 41c. Flax, cash, $1.06; cash, Northwestern, $1.06; September, $1.04½. Timothy, June, $2.55.

CATTLE AND HOGS.

Chicago, June 28.—Estimated receipts hogs today, 24,000; left over, 7000. Market strong to 5c higher. Light, $3.65@3.87½; mixed, $3.75@3.90; heavy, $3.75@3.95; rough, $3.75@3.80. GIVE THE CHILDREN A DRINK

Called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee, but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant, but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about one-fourth as much as coffee, 15c and 25c.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Liverpool Dullness Was Reflected In New York Dealings.

New York, June 28.—The cotton market opened dull with prices unchanged to 1 point lower. Scarcely any attempt was made to do business during the fore part of the session, neither bulls nor bears finding anything in early news on which to base an opinion. Crop and weather news was favorable, as anticipated, while Liverpool cables reflected intense dullness in speculation abroad. Total transactions in the local market for the first hour reached but 9500 bales.

Spot cotton opened dull, middling uplands, 6⅝c; middling gulf, 6⅞c. Cotton spot closed very dull; middling uplands, 6⅝c; middling gulf, 6⅞c. Sales 390 bales. Cotton futures closed dull; sales 24,300 bales. GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, June 28.—Wheat ruled lower today owing to weak cables in face of our advance yesterday. The cause of the declines in foreign markets is due to the reselling of wheat which is now on the way abroad and which was sold at much higher prices than rule now. While these conditions exist it is useless to bull the wheat market. Considerable crop damage news is coming in, but the crop will be a large one nevertheless. We think wheat a sale on the bulges at present. Bradstreet shows a decrease of 10,500,000 bus. This was the cause of the firmness late.

Everything considered corn has held pretty well today, only ⅝c lower than it was yesterday with the bulk of trading of a changing character. Outside of this there was a little liquidation of July corn. The market acts fully as strong as anyone could expect. Oats were weak, ½c lower than yesterday, with a poor demand.

Provisions were lower. Lard broke more than any other kind of provisions. The prospect of an increase of stocks here for the month of about 35,000 tierces was discouraging to holders. Ribs will increase about 5,000,000 pounds. The news from the South was not quite so favorable.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

A Universal Decline Noted on the Active List.

New York, June 28.—The whole list opened lower on the stock exchange, the declines being quite uniform and extending to a half in only a few cases. Union Pacific was weaker than the rest of the list and dropped a point. Pullman rose a point, a conspicuous exception to the general list. The stock market was of the same character as on yesterday, but the strength was shifted to certain stocks that have recently been under the hammer. Sugar and People's Gas were in heavy demand and gained 1⅞ and 1½ respectively. Pullman touched 200, the high water mark, and Consolidated Gas brought 200½, an extreme gain of four points. The railroads hung back, except for Rock Island, which stiffened sharply.

Reports of rate-cutting between the trans-continental lines depressed Union Pacific and Northern Pacific stocks and somewhat checked the upward movement generally. Sales of stocks to noon, 138,155 shares. The bond market was dull, but somewhat higher.

BEECHER'S RETORT.

Henry Ward Beecher was once approached by a young man who considered himself very clever, says the San Francisco Argonaut. "Do you know, Mr. Beecher," said he, "I've been thinking that I would settle down, behave myself, and join your church. Now, I like your preaching, but when I go to your church and see such men as old S—— and others, grasping skinflints and hypocrites to the core, sitting there in full membership, why, the thing is just a little too much for me. And really," he added, "I can not join."

"Well, you're right," said Mr. Beecher; "every church has such men, and I fancy Plymouth is not free from them. And until you spoke I have always wondered why the good Lord permitted it. Now I understand."

"Ah," gurgled the young fellow, "I am glad I have thrown light on the question. What strikes you as the reason, Mr. Beecher?"

"Well," replied the great preacher, "it is permitted in order to keep just such fools as you out of the churches."

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

THE REAL MANGO TRICK.

To Eat the Fruit With Comfort and Cleanliness.

Some people take to olives, caviare and complicated cheese without any preliminary training, by a sort of instinct. They are so very few that they serve only as a hinted proof of the doctrines of heredity and atavism. The mango of the tropics falls in the same class, a fact which Gen. Merritt's army of occupation is going to discover for itself as soon as it begins the soldier's soulful investigation of the indigenous commissariat of the Philippines.

The mango is of the size of a large apple and something the shape of a pear that has turned a somersault and has landed on the stem big end to. Its color is a rich and dark green with a blotch of salmon on one side. It is impossible to bite into it as one would into a pear, for two reasons: the skin is too tough and the stone is fully half as large as the whole fruit. The only way is to nibble off the skin, for it is too juicy to be pared; gnaw the skin off one side until a considerable portion is exposed of the red flesh. Then suck in the juices and the meat together until the stone presents itself. The next feat is to get the stone and the other side of the fruit into the mouth while leaving the remainder of the skin outside and clear of the meat. In this ungraceful operation one speedily learns that the mango belongs to the natural order of cling-stones. The remainder of the process is to eject the stone, which is an uncomfortably large mouthful. When one has eaten all the mangos he cares to take at one sitting, it is necessary to take a bath and change the clothing in order to get rid of the superabundance of juice and pulp which will smear the face and daub the apparel despite all precautions.

As to the flavor of the mango, and no one would bother with the extremely sloppy fruit if it were not for real enjoyment of the flavor, it is possible to make a trial trip. Set a large clingstone peach to soak over night in diluted turpentine and the next morning it will satisfactorily suggest the first taste of the mango. The smack of turpentine and resin is most prominent in the skin, but it is quite marked in the juice and pulp. After cultivating the taste, most people consider the mango the finest fruit of the tropics, and recognize a dozen varieties by the varying strength of the turpentine. But no amount of cultivation of the taste will ever avail to solve the real trick of the mango, that is, to eat it without needing a bath afterward.

WAR INDEMNITY.

Of course an indemnity will be exacted from Spain when the war is over. Nations which lose in the arbitrament of war have to pay the victor very heavily, and this case will be no exception to the rule. Whether Spain will be required to pay a cash indemnity or give up a portion of her territory, or whether Spanish territory will be held as security for the debt until paid, is still uncertain. These are questions, the settlement of which will be deferred until the time arrives for the actual concluding of terms of peace. So far the war has cost this country a very large sum, and it will cost much more, so that the earlier Spain sues for peace the lighter will be the indemnity she will be called upon to pay. Of course Spain could not pay a large sum in cash at once, but she might raise the money on some of her islands. If, however, we demand possession of the Philippines and Porto Rico and the independence of Cuba, probably no demand for a cash indemnity will be made.

It is interesting to glance at the indemnity paid by nations which have lost in other wars.

In 1871 Germany not only took the greater part of Alsace and Loraine, which France had held since the time of Louis XVI, but was compelled to pay $1,000,000 in money. This was equivalent to $8000 for every German soldier who was killed or wounded in the war with France. With her wonderful resources, France was enabled to pay the war debt long before it was due, and very soon after the war in which she lost so heavily was actually more prosperous than Germany.

The war between Prussia and Austria in 1866 lasted only a little more than a month, but Austria, besides giving up very valuable territory, had to pay a war indemnity of $45,000,000.

Russia demanded $700,000,000 for the war of 1877, but the amount was reduced through the medium of other powers to $160,000,000, and nearly half of that is yet unpaid.

Japan wanted to make China pay much more for her war expenses than she was able to get. Russia stepped in and compelled Japan to accept much less territory and money than she demanded and expected. She got the islands of Formosa and Pescadores and $185,000,000 in money. A large part of the fruits of Japan's victory were appropriated by Russia, England and Germany.

The sultan demanded $50,000,000 from Greece at the conclusion of the farcical war last year, but the powers would not permit him to exact more than $10,000,000.

REDUCING THE NOISE.

It will be interesting to the people of Duluth, who suffer much from the bells and whistles which keep up a din all day and part of the night in the railroad yards, to learn that the New York Central Railroad company has recently ordered four "noiseless" engines for switching use in the freight yards on the west side of New York city. They have bells and whistles, but these are to be used sparingly, and they burn coke, which does away with the smoke nuisance. This action of the company is wholly out of regard for the nerves of residents roundabout the yards, for that section of the city, once sparsely populated, has been filled up with dwelling houses. The company has further promised that coke shall be used by engines drawing trains in and out of the city, in order to relieve the residents of the smoke nuisance within the thickly populated limits. Another concession to people sensitive to much noise has been made in the case of passenger trains running over the new elevated steel structure of the Park avenue viaduct. This viaduct is a mile long and is traversed by some 500 passenger trains daily. There are four tracks and trains running at full speed make a tremendous racket. They have been ordered to reduce the speed to twenty miles an hour, in response to a remonstrance from Park avenue residents.

Referring to these changes in deference to public sentiment, the Springfield, Mass., Republican says: "The American people are evidently growing in respect to sensibility to noise. This is said to be a sign of intellectual advancement. It was a German metaphysician, we believe, who said that highly cultured people could not endure noise. His formula was that the ability to bear noises varies inversely with intellectual growth. It is related of a German music composer that his ears were ruined by the blast of a locomotive whistle. But the average American ear is or has been of tougher fiber, and not a few people glory in the fact. The bustling, pushing, business Yankee enjoys noise. He likes the roar from the pavements of crowded cities, the clanging of engine bells, and the shrick of factory and locomotive whistles, and the ring of anvil and hammer and the whirr of engines are music to his ears. Some people would rather have an electric street railway pass by their doors than not. They may be ever so closely crowded about with neighbors, but they live as in solitude unless constantly treated to noise like the buzz of the trolley and the dinging of the car bell. These are they of the age of iron, born under a railway bridge.

"But this news from New York appears to give evidence of American growth in the refinement of sense. We are, therefore, if the philosophers are right, becoming more intellectual. The bicycle, perhaps, has been a means of instruction that noise is not essential to material progress. So we have rubber tires coming into use on carriages. Draft wagons may be so equipped, and horses shod in noiseless shoes. Pavements drift from coarse granite blocks—admirably adapted to satisfy the old craving for a roaring racket—to smooth, noiseless asphalt and brick. And now it is 'noiseless' locomotives! The esthetical spirit in the 'Yankee pig' is at last asserting itself—for all these tendencies make way for its growth."

OUR ASIATIC TRADE.

The rapid growth of this country's trade with Asia, our total exports in 1897 reaching $39,250,000, or 50 per cent greater than in 1896 and more than twice those of 1895, causes the Kansas City Star to remark that the substantial progress made by American manufacturers in getting a substantial share of the far Eastern trade places this country in a position to profit immediately from the enormous prestige which Admiral Dewey's victory has given to the American name in the Orient. "Made in the United States" is a label which signifies a good deal more than it ever meant before in Asia, and the people of that continent who use imported products will be attracted by goods from America on account of the great achievement of the American admiral. Even if the Philippines should not be retained by this country, Dewey's victory will have a great effect in increasing American trade in Asia and Oceanica, because it has revealed the United States in a new light as a power among the nations of the world.

The Orient is no longer the distant and unfamiliar region that it used to be, says the Star. Dewey's victory has brought all Asia near home in the thoughts of those who have any interest in products that can be sold there, and the Americans will become as familiar with the trade of Asia as are the Germans and the English.

A circular issued by Secretary Long gives some interesting details of the plans for the three new battleships recently authorized by congress. They are to be 368 feet in length, 72 feet beam, mean draft 23½ feet, and displacement 11,000 tons. While not so large as some of the new European ships of their class, they will surpass any of them in fighting capacity. Their side armor, of Harveyized nickel steel, will be 16½ inches thick, the barbettes of the main battery armor 15 inches, and the turret armor 14 inches. The armament will include four 13-inch turret guns and fourteen 6-inch broadside guns, while the secondary battery will contain twenty-four rapid-fire and machine guns. The maximum speed will be seventeen knots, and this feature is being criticised, as many people think that greater speed should be required.

Senator Justin S. Morrill of Vermont was 88 years old on April 14 last. Very few men live to that age, and most of those who do are at 85 feeble in mind and body. Senator Morrill is a remarkable illustration of lively old age. He enjoys good health and his mental powers are not impaired in the least. He is one of the most regular senators in attendance upon committee duties and the sessions of the senate. He participates in debate frequently and always speaks with force. It has been his habit for a long time to make a humorous speech about once a year, and in that line he has no equal in congress.

One of the handsomest special editions which it has ever been the good fortune of The Herald to see is the semi-centennial number of the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin. It is handsome and artistic, and its excellence is particularly appreciated by the newspaper man who knows what a great amount of labor has been expended upon its literary features and its typographical appearance. The Evening Wisconsin is one of the best newspapers in the country, and this special number reflects great credit upon the enterprise and ability of its management.

The St. Peter Free Press says: "The proposition of putting a war tax on newspaper circulation is a good idea and should have received favorable congressional attention. We do not believe that such a tax would yield anywhere near the amount estimated by some people, but it might tend to induce the professional circulation liar to keep within reasonable distance of the truth, in order to avoid paying the tax." If the tax had been imposed the News Tribune would not be running that false circulation statement on its editorial page.

The Boston Transcript, in an article condemning the proposition to "encourage" ship building at home by tonnage dues and bounties, says: "Lighten the burden on building material, relieve exaction and remove compression, where possible, and we shall be able to build and send ships abroad as we are now able to make and export steel rails, locomotives and battleships." Will the Transcript explain what burden now rests on building material and what exaction should be relieved?

The city of Grenoble, France, has run a municipal restaurant and kitchen for fifty years. Meals are supplied at cost in the restaurant, or delivered at residences. The food is "of the best quality," first-class cooks are employed, and the service is excellent. One may dine there for 3 cents on bread and soup, or may pay 12 cents and enjoy a full-course dinner. The article does not state what dividends the city gets out of this enterprise.

The Eustis men now admit that there is some uncertainty about William Henry getting that nomination in St. Paul on Thursday. They are evidently preparing to let themselves down easily when the machine wins.

Macaulay described history as a nurse's tale, but Professor Munsterberg has found that it is "the report about a large series of casually determined psychophysical processes."

Some of the Republican papers now denouncing Van Sant may find themselves in a very awkwarde position after Thursday's convention.

The Spanish government would probably sue for peace if it did not fear that revolution and anarchy would follow.

Mr. Eustis is the man who "was kicked sixteen feet" in St. Paul at the time of the Twin City census fraud trouble.

The war poets are still working hard. Why do they not take a rest during the heated term?

The Canaries will be quickly caged if Camara goes through the Suez canal to Manilla.

As a result of the beer tax, 500 Chicago saloons have retired from business.

Whenever the Vesuvius coughs another slice of the Morro fort disappears.

Spain has not made one aggressive move since the war started.

The Real Estate Syndicate.

A RELIC OF THE BOOM.

When the flowers begin to bloom
And the real estate to boom
Then excursionists I tackle with a will.
So each day I advertise,
For I'm sure to catch a prize,
And with business tact my empty pockets fill.

When the heated term comes on,
And my summer clothes I don,
Then I take a friend and go out to the lake.
And with circulars I load;
Scattering there and on the road,
Hoping that I may a splendid bargain make.

When the leaves begin to fall,
And I cannot sell at all,
Then the interest and taxes all come due;
And I'm free right here to state,
That of all, a syndicate
Is the worst to make me feel confouaded blue.

When the winter winds blow hard,
And the sheriff's voice is heard,
Crying loudly: "Who bids highest for this lot?"
Then I realize my fate,
That I've lost my real estate,
And that blasted syndicate has gone to pot.

When the weeping willow tree,
Hangs its branches mournfully,
O'er the box I owe the undertaker for,
Then he'll wish I was alive,
That I might a bargain drive,
But I'm dead as real estate and cannot stir.

Horrors of War.

What dreadful horrors cluster
O, War, about thy name;
What cruel carnage carries
A crimson crown to Fame!

What woes tread on each other,
So fast they follow, when
The altar is man's glory,
The sacrifice is men.

O, War, thou purple monarch,
Who swayest field and town,
What heartless head of iron
Must fill thy carmine crown!

Thou fire-eyed fiend of slaughter,
Who sweepest drought and flood,
The shadows of damnation
Cannot obscure the blood

That thou hast shed for conquest,
For glory and for shame,
And in the niche of Murder,
Hast written thine own name.

Yet this is not sufficient,
O, War, and we are told
That you have now discovered
New horrors to unfold.

We read that in Dakota,
Pursuant to your plan,
A new and helpless baby
Is christened Deweyann.

Say, War, thy dreadful horrors
Hereafter are in vain;
Go on, and let them christen
The next one Hobsonjane.

And learning and humor to squander.
His refinement and that,

Its wires and said:
"How brilliant for eating and joking."
They caught him, and sighed
When the gentleman died,
And said it was rather provoking.

The cause to expound
Why death did so rashly behave in Such cases as his,
The verdict was this:
"He died from a general cave-in."

SEASON OF SUNDAY CONCERTS.

Flaaten's Orchestra Preparing to Give Them Next Winter.

Director J. H. Flaaten of the Lyceum orchestra has for some time had in mind the idea of inaugurating a season of Sunday afternoon popular concerts during the winter season. He had hoped to be able to begin them last year, but the outlook was not sufficiently promising both in the matter of securing musicians and in receiving proper encouragement. He is now planning to begin them next winter, however, and hopes that a liberal patronage will be extended.

The Sunday afternoon concert idea is in vogue in every large city in the country. In Minneapolis and St. Paul the Danz and Seibert concerts are the delight of the music lovers and of the people generally, and every Sunday afternoon finds the halls where the concerts are given crowded to the doors. Danz' closing concert in Minneapolis this year resulted in the greatest ovation ever extended by a Minneapolis audience.

Mr. Flaaten might have inaugurated these concerts before now, but it has been his firm determination not to make a start until he could give the people the very best to be had. When he begins them next winter he will have as fine an orchestra as can be gathered together. It will number twenty-five pieces and occasionally more, for the band will join in occasionally. At every concert there will be soloists. Some will be vocal and some instrumental, some will be from Duluth and some will be brought from outside. As to the music which the orchestra will give little needs to be said. What it has done in the past is sufficient indication of what may be expected. It is a well recognized fact that Duluth has one of the very finest orchestras west of Chicago. Theatrical companies which come here freely testify to that. It is also true that the orchestra does not have a very rosy path. Business is dull and the musicians scarcely make a good living. They need some encouragement.

Subscription papers are being circulated for the concerts to be given next winter. Mr. Flaaten's idea in doing this is to raise a fund of $200 or $300 to guarantee the musicians something in case the concerts should not yield anything for them.

THAT CADIZ FLEET.

Louisville Courier-Journal: It is reported that when Camara's squadron sailed it was accompanied by 4000 men on transports. Was the squadron to protect the troops or were the troops to protect the squadron?

Baltimore American: The Cadiz squadron has sailed and another squadron is being fitted out. Spain, as far as her fleets are concerned, has a fertility of resource which scorns loans, dry docks or shipyards. This demonstrates the wonderful superiority of phantom ships over the ones requiring skill, time, labor and money, with which less imaginative nations are forced to equip their navy.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Camara's squadron will hide itself in the Atlantic or the Mediterranean for a few days and then drop back into some of Spain's ports and repeat the performance a few days or weeks afterward. Nothing quite so impressive as those successive departures and returns of the Cadiz fleet has happened since that historic day a long time ago when the king of France with 40,000 men, marched up the hill and then marched down again.

New York Tribune: There is great news from Cadiz. The Spanish fleet has sailed. Admiral Camara—of whom Lieut. Carranza has his opinion—is in command, and Senor Aunon, the minister of marine, is aboard. It bears a flag of honor, which was blessed as ceremoniously as the jackdaw of Rheims was cursed; whether to as effective a result, is to be seen. It is a big fleet, with battleships, cruisers, gunboats, torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers galore. Where they all came from is unknown and immaterial. Maybe Spain, out of her overflowing treasury, has purchased the whole Swiss navy and added it to her own. Maybe she has been building ships by the dozen up in the hills of La Mancha. Who knows? Suffice it that

She's got the ships,
She's got the men,
And she's got the mule stories, too.

SONG OF THE GAS METER.

I come from brain of cunning man
And my resources rally
To show how rapidly I can
Conduct a business tally.

By many a secret turn I fret
The lives of all consumers
And for monopoly beget
The very best of humors.

I wind about, and though men doubt
My record with their railing,
I magnify the score without
A single minute's failing.

I steal by devious ways and plot
With speed of swift winged plovers,
If gas is turned down low or not
By midnight-lingering lovers.

And if some irate patron's will
Doth my connections sever,
I know my business and still
Go on and on forever.

SERIOUS GERMAN JOKE.

The case of the Berlin landlord and the Westphalian maker of patent coffins, which has just been heard before the Berlin Kammergericht, shows how cautious a man should be in his cups and his company, says the Pall Mall Gazette.

The circumstances of the aforesaid case, as laid before the honorable court, were briefly these: The landlord of a Berlin beer-house, "Zum Pilsener," had the misfortune to lose his wife, and afterward, when drinking in a select society of fellow-widowers and bachelors, he mentioned that her funeral casket had cost him £12. A grave-looking man at the other end of the table rose and informed him that he would undertake to supply the same article for 60 shillings, being, indeed, the manufacturer thereof. "If such is the case," said the landlord, "I give you at once an order for 1000 coffins." A year later this unhappy man had to show cause before a tribunal of his countrymen why he should not pay £5000, receiving in return the handsome consignment of 1000 coffins. Fortunately for him the court ruled that the offer had been made in fun, that there had been no formal contract between plaintiff and defendant, and therefore that the enterprising tradesman must keep his 1000 caskets for other customers. But what an awful position if the verdict had been otherwise!

LOLLIN' AROUND.

When a man is gettin' over from a spell

An' begins to loll around,
Seems the old earth's sweeter'n dearer,
an' he then most hates to leave 'er,
As he lays an' lolls around.
Why, they's music in hens' cacklin', er
the grazin' yearlin's beller,
An' the bumblebee's low buzzin' is an awkestry that's meller
As a dream-song of the aingels to a con-
verlescent feller,
As he lolls an' lolls around.

Whar' the sunshine falls of mornin's—say
'bout 10 ercIock—an' shimmers,
As you loll an' lay around,
You can mighty nigh see "Glory" spelled in hazy-mazy glimmers,
As you lay an' loll around.
An' while orioles 'crost the medder their one poem is rehearsin',
An' the little creek its praises in sott liquid lines is versin'—
Yes, it's then the earth is rarest to a con-
verlescent person,

THE STRONG MAN OF FRANCE.

In the French Crisis President Faure Turns to the Former Premier of Finance.

M. FELIX JOSEPH RIBOT.

The man upon whom France will depend to conduct her finances during this war.

M. Felix Joseph Ribot will undoubtedly be the leading man in the cabinet now being formed in France. He will either head the cabinet, or take his place as minister of finance, which is one of the strongest positions. When the French cabinet made its sensational farewell, sending in its resignation as a body to President Faure, the latter at once turned to Ribot, as Queen Victoria turned to Lord Salisbury after the Rosebery trouble.

France has become so closely allied to to Spain by inclination and circumstance that the nicest diplomacy is necessary to carry her through the present war without offending the two strongest nations in the world—the United States and Great Britain. This M. Ribot is capable of doing.

It is not the first time that M. Ribot has been in power. He headed the French cabinet three years ago, and shared the fate of most French leaders, that of downfall and overthrow.

The ministry of M. Felix Joseph Ribot was constructed on Jan. 26, 1895, and was upset on Oct. 28 of the same year. The downfall of M. Ribot occurred after a sensational scene in the chamber of deputies, during which the Southern railway scandal was hotly debated. Swe ping charges had been made against senators, deputies and even ministers, said to have been involved, first of all in the Panama canal syndicate, and later in the South of France railroad management scandals, which became public as the result of an investigation made by M. Flory, the official accountant.

This scandal was also at the bottom of the crisis which wrecked the Dupuy cabinet.

HUMOROUS BROTHERS.

Won Wagers on the Strength of Their Homeliness.

Many years ago there were two brothers, named Joel and Jonathan, who were famous throughout Wayne county, Ind., because they were both such frights, says the New York Mail and Express. One day they were on their way to Cincinnati by wagon, in the days of the old canal. The wagon was of the covered variety, and only Joel was visible to the natural eye as the vehicle plunged into and out of the chuck holes that infested the way. Joel was said to be the next to the ugliest man in the country round, and his brother took precedence.

The two brothers met a stranger who, attracted by the supremely homely face of Joel, stopped his horse and said:

"Excuse me, my friend, but would you mind tellin' me your name?"

In a sepulchral tone that fitted well the hideous face, Joel replied:

"Well, I guess I hain't never done nothin' that would make me ashamed to tell my name. My name is Joel ——."

"Where do you live, if it is a fair question?"

"I live in Wayne county, Indianny."

"Well, stranger, I've seen much of Indianny, but I'll bet you $10 that you re the ugliest man in the state."

"Well, I hain't no gamblin' man," replied Joel, "but I hain't never seen nothin' in the scriptur' agin bettin' on a sure thing, an' I'll just take that bet."

Turning to the wagon cover and peering into its depths, he called:

"Jonathan, stick your head out hyer."

Jonathan did as he was requested.

The stranger paid the money without a word of complaint.

AUDITORS WILL MEET

State Association to Convene at St. Paul Tomorrow Morning.

THE EARNINGS TAX

Auditor Halden Will Present the Matter of Securing an Apportionment.

County Auditor Halden left today for St. Paul, where he will attend a meeting of the state association of county auditors, to be held at the Merchants' hotel, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The meeting will be an important one, and a good many matters of interest to taxpayers will be taken up and discussed. Some of them may take the form of resolutions asking action from the next meeting of the state legislature on tax and other matters. Mr. Halden will present the matter of apportioning the gross earnings tax received from the railroads to the counties in which the railroad property lies, and it is probable that he will be able to induce the meeting to take favorable action upon it.

Some of the county auditors of the state have already had the matter presented to them, and all who have looked into it have given opinions favorable to the plan of making the apportionment. Others who represent counties in which there is little or no railroad property will probably oppose it, because it would mean that while the taxes of counties with much railroad property would be reduced, their own would be raised. Still, the raise would be small, as it will be distributed equally over a large number of counties, and the opposition will not be strong. Many who might otherwise oppose it are likely to support it on the ground here-before urged that it is for the good of the state. All three of the large cities of the state are in need of some measure to lighten their tax burdens, and all of them are suffering bad results from too high taxes. For the good of the state at large, therefore, it is felt that it will be better for some of the counties to sustain a slightly higher tax in order to relieve the cities from the burden of supporting large amounts of railroad property, from which they get no return whatever.

The call for the meeting, which is signed by H. R. Kinz, of Grand Rapids, as secretary of the association, says among other things:

"If you are getting more salary than you should receive, be prepared to tell us about it; if you are not doing enough work for the pay you get, let us know—others may not be so fortunate. If you can see any way to reduce county expenses, be prepared to explain the matter. If you are using any particular blank forms, books, etc., that you consider cheaper or in any way superior to those in use by other auditors, bring a sample with you and let us see and learn. You have doubtless many times run up against some 'knotty' problem upon which you can tell something new. Therefore do not expect someone else to do all the talking, but be prepared to do a 'right smart talking' yourself."

The meeting will also probably take up the forfeited tax law and recommend some amendments that will do away with its objectionable features.

WILL ENTER A KICK.

People at Fifth Avenue West Object to the Fakirs.

The tenants of the Lyceum building in particular and everybody around the corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior street, in general, are preparing to rise in their wrath and demand relief from the fakirs who frequent that corner. Every one of these vultures who make their living by humbugging other people, seems to have a liking for that corner, with the result that it is practically filled all the time. They seem to have their regular hours and when one is through another comes along and begins his song. This constant hawking and noise is very distasteful to the people who are trying to do business around that corner, in fact it has become well nigh unendurable. The result is that a petition is being drawn up and the mayor will be waited on and asked to cause these "sly by nights" to distribute themselves over the city and not confine themselves to one particular corner.

Ladies Auxiliary Formed.

A temporary organization of the Grand International auxiliary of the B. of L. E. was formed in Duluth yesterday by Mrs. W. A. Murdock, grand president of the auxiliary. The following ladies were present: Mrs. F. G. Watson, Mrs. J. Collen, Mrs. H. Scobie, Mrs. W. Lincoln, Mrs. Charles Emerson, Mrs. Wallace Smith, Mrs. Arthur C. Farrar, Mrs. Frank Thomas and Mrs. George Craig, all of Duluth; Mrs. George Murdock, of Geneva Lake, Wis.; Mrs. F. Smith and Mrs. G. H. Rearse, of West Superior; Mrs. Switzer, of Two Harbors. The permanent organization will be formed in September next.

Mrs. W. A. Murdock, grand president and organizer, presided, and Mrs. Willard Lincoln was chosen secretary. The Duluth division will be known as the Mesaba division. Another meeting will be held at the same place July 25. The order was first organized in Chicago, Ill., about eleven years ago by Mrs. W. A. Murdock, who has been at the head of the organization ever since. It is a voluntary benefit and insurance order and its membership has increased from eleven to 2500 members during its organization. The order takes in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

SOLDIER APPETITES.

Four Company C Men Astonish a Chattanooga Restaurant.

R. H. Inglis, of No. 6 fire hall, the only fireman who left Duluth with Company C, writes from Camp George H. Thomas as follows:

"Four of use left camp yesterday morning June 21, at 10 o'clock, for Lookout Mountain. The trip lasted from 10 a. m. to 7 p. m., and was very enjoyable. It was the first day off I had since coming to camp. Our party was composed of Rube Simkins 'King' Truelsen, 'Bantam' Flowden and myself, and a better crowd we could not ask for. We took the 11 o'clock train at Lytle for Chattanooga. It is about a 10-mile ride. We got there at 11:30 am. proceeded to find a place where we could fill up. After traversing several streets for a decent looking restaurant we at last found a place that we all agreed on. We all four sat at the same table and a hungrier crowd you never saw. I secured the bill of fare first and started to give my order. I had mentioned several things when all at once Rube called a stop and turning to the waiter he said, 'Waiter bring us the whole d—thing,' and he did. It took two of them half an hour to do it, but they did it, and such a dinner. There was everything, fresh lake trout, prime roast beef, spring chicken, new potatoes and cream, string beans, green peas, asparagus, pickled beets, corn bread, white bread, sponge pudding, apple pie, ice cream, and, well there was everything that goes to make up a good dinner. Did we do justice to it? Well, I guess! And when everything had disappeared Rube turned to the waiter with an imploring look on his lantern jaws and said, 'bring me some more corn bread and butter.' I really thought that he would never get filled up. But consider, it was the first time we had had all we wanted to eat for over a month."

Mr. Inglis gives a fine description of the trip up Lookout Mountain and the sights to be seen from there. In reference to some of the features he says:

"The first thing of interest was the Old Man of the Mountain. It is a huge boulder and on one side of it there is clearly discerned the face of a man. The next place was fat man's squeeze, but I did not find any trouble in getting through. There are two rocks about fifty feet high and just as straight up as the side of a house and a fat man would have a hard time to get through. The space is about fifty feet long. Then we came to the natural bridge which is of solid rock and ten feet long by eight feet high. Underneath there is a large cave and the best water that I have tasted since I came South. The next place was telephone rock. There is a hole about twenty-five feet long through a solid rock. The guide told me to try it. I put my ear to the hole while he went to the other end. He yelled and when I answered he told me that we would each one have to give him a nickel. I told him to ring off, but we donated any way. Then we saw the devil's fireplace. It is another wonder, also of rock, with a hole to let the smoke escape through the top. It was now train time and we had to go but I could spend a week there and then not see all the sights. It is a wonder to me how the Union soldiers ever reached the top of the mountain against such a heavy fire of rebel bullets as there must have been, for it is a job I would not care to undertake in times of peace."

BIDS FOR THE BONDS

Twelve Received, E. H. Gay's Being Par But Containing Objectionable Provision.

LIVELY DISCUSSION

Aldermen Cross-Question Gay as to His Contract—Action Deferred.

Twelve bids for bonds of the $955,000 water and light issue were received last night. No award was made. After a discussion of the matter by the committee of the whole, it was referred to the auditing and finance committee with the mayor and city treasurer and the city attorney added thereto. An adjournment to Friday evening was taken, when a report from the committee is expected. The issue resolved itself in the discussion to the question whether the bid of E. H. Gay & Co., which is for the whole issue at par and accrued interest, with the proviso that disputed claims of the company and the matter of the personal property taxes be adjusted, shall be accepted or several bids for parts of the issue, one at a premium and the other at par and accrued interest, these bids aggregating $85,000, shall be accepted, and the balance of the issue readvertised. The bids are as follows:

E. H. Gay & Co.—Par and accrued interest, subject to the proviso above stated.

John F. Dillon—$25,025, par, with accrued interest and a premium of ½ of 1 per cent.

American Exchange bank, of Duluth—$25,000, par, with accrued interest.

First National bank, of Duluth—$25,000, par, with accrued interest.

Hanson & Smith, of Duluth—$10,000, par, with accrued interest.

New York Security and Trust company—Whole issue at par, if allowed $50 cash commission and furnished with an opinion from Dillon & Hubbard that the issue is legal.

W. J. Hayes & Son, of Cleveland—Whole issue at par, with accrued interest, if allowed a commission of $69.475, subject to opinion of Dillon & Hubbard; or with a premium of $9660, if the interest be made 4½ per cent.

N. W. Harris & Co., of Duluth—Whole issue at par and accrued interest, less a commission of 7½ per cent for expenses.

E. D. Shepard & Co., of New York—$871.-25, for the whole issue, subject to final opinion of Dillon & Hubbard.

Duke M. Parsons, of Chicago—Whole issue at par at 4½ per cent, subject to opinion of Dillon & Hubbard.

The Lamprecht Bros. Co., of Cleveland—Whole issue at par, less a commission of 7½ per cent, subject to opinion of Dillon & Hubbard.

Ferson, Adamich & Co., of Chicago—Whole issue at par, less a commission of $69,236, if a favorable opinion from Dillon & Hubbard be given within thirty days.

The opening of the bids was preceded by a lively tilt over the question of accepting the bond of E. H. Gay & Co., accompanying their bid. It was with the surety, John Christie, and he had not qualified. The auditing and finance recommended it for approval, the report meeting with vigorous objection headed by Alderman Cromwell. The latter asked if the committee had investigated as to Mr. Christie's financial responsibility. Chairman Richardson of the committee said that the city attorney had approved the form of the bond and that the committee had gone no further. The bond was rejected by a vote of 7 years to 9 nays.

Mr. Gay then stated that he supposed that the bond was all right because the city attorney had approved it, but now he understands that the city attorney's opinion was merely as to the form. He said that he would present two names beyond cavil by today, and this was accepted as satisfactory on the city attorney's statement that this would be proper. The council then went into committee of the whole on motion of Alderman Simpson.

In committee of the whole Alderman Simpson, to get the matter in shape for discussion, moved that all bidders at par and accrued interest without conditions be awarded the amounts of their bids.

Alderman Crassweller led off by asking Mr. Gay for a definite statement as to what he meant by the provision that all unsettled matters connected with the sale of the plant be first cleared up.

Mr. Gay replied that the matter still at issue—that of the $80,000 of personal property taxes, the hydrant rental claims and other things of a similar nature. It seemed to him essential that these should be adjusted so that the passing of the bonds and of a clear title to the plant might take place simultaneously. Mr. Untermeyer and Mr. Washburn had said that they would never transfer the title so long as these matters were hanging at loose ends. On communicating with Mr. Untermeyer, he would be able to give definite terms, but at present he could only speak in this general way. In answer to Alderman Cochrane's inquiry as to what he meant by a "satisfactory settlement," Mr. Gay said a settlement that would be satisfactory to Mr. Untermeyer and Mr. Washburn. Mr. Washburn alone, however, would not have the power to approve a settlement.

Alderman Crassweller said that the $60,000 of taxes could not be settled in this way. All of the dealings, too, had been with Mr. Gay. The claims in litigation aggregated $20,000 or $40,000, and neither Mr. Gay nor the city could tell what the city would be giving up.

Alderman Simpson said that the city had a contract with Mr. Gay for the transfer of the plant to it for the sum of $955,000, and addressing Mr. Gay he said: "You will fulfill your contract, will you not?" Mr. Gay bristled a moment and then answered that he would when these matters had been adjusted. Alderman Crassweller remarked to Mr. Gay that the city had nothing to do with anybody but him.

At this point Alderman Richardson moved that if the rest of the bonds be sold, the bidders for the small lots aggregating $85,000 be awarded the amounts of their bids, but the motion received no second.

One of the knot of bidders now arose and remarked that it appeared that there was some hitch in the transfer of the plant. This was very interesting to the bidders, he said, for if the city did not get the plant it could not issue the bonds. He thought the council might be interested in knowing this.

Attorney S. T. Harrison then took a hand in behalf of Mr. Gay. It had been understood by everybody during the discussions in the council over the sale of the plant that the personal property taxes were not a lien on it, and the court had later so held. The city, however, contemplated appeal to the court of last resort, which would delay matters for a year. Mr. Gay did not care to be hung up for that length of time.

Then the mayor sailed in. He said that the discussion was wholly beside the question. There was a provision in the agreement that the city attorney should have authority to withhold double the amount of claims against the plant until the question of liability for them was settled. He asked Mr. Gay if that were not true.

Mr. Gay said that he thought not, at which there was laughter. Mr. Gay claimed he made the offer based on the opinion of the city attorney that the taxes were not a lien on the plant.

Alderman Crassweller read the offer and asked Mr. Gay if that was not as he had made it, to which Mr. Gay replied that he had made it on the basis of the city attorney's opinion that the taxes were not a lien.

"But he gave no such opinion," said Alderman Crassweller.

"Oh, I beg your pardon, but he did," insisted Mr. Gay.

"Don't you want to get us into a blind deal?" interjected Alderman Jefferson. Mr. Gay protested that he had no such design.

Asked by Alderman Crassweller if he could place a definite statement before the council by Friday night, Mr. Gay said that he could not get to New York and back by that time, but he thought he could by a week from Monday night, or possibly a few days sooner.

"Do you have any idea," Alderman Jefferson inquired of Mr. Gay, "that you can come back with any proposition that the council can accept?"

Mr. Gay replied that it would be a fair proposition.

Alderman Jefferson: "Don't you believe you are trying to crowd the city into a 4½ or 5 per cent bond?"

"Oh, no," replied Mr. Gay.

After some further discussion the committee of the whole reported a recommendation that the matter be further considered by the committee of the whole at the next meeting, or be referred to a committee of the council for investigation and report at that time, and the matter was accordingly referred as stated above.

A large grist of applications for liquor licenses went through, but Thomas Madden's was turned down. He was one of several as to which an adverse minority report was submitted by Chairman Cromwell of the police and license committee. Alderman Cromwell objected to Madden, he stated, because the police department had stated that Madden's place was a resort for confidence and big mitt men and birds of that feather. The mayor also said that the police had complained to him of Madden on that score.

Aldermen Dawson and Tischer of the police committee made an effort to get Madden through, and Alderman Simpson moved that Madden be given a hearing, but it was of no avail.

The others objected to by Alderman Cromwell were Augusta Zerbel, whose application, he contended, was for the benefit of her husband, who, he stated, had been convicted of selling liquor to a minor, and John Holleran, Charles Jacobson, Harry Smith and Jay W. Anderson, on the ground that their sureties were not satisfactory, but they all went through.

An ordinance was introduced by Alderman Cromwell prohibiting the placing of boxes, barrels, etc., and refuse in streets, alleys on other public places, and the placing of glass, tacks or anything liable to injure bicycle tires in the highways, and Alderman Crassweller introduced an amendment to the bicycle ordinance prohibiting bicyclists from approaching within twenty-five feet of bicyclists going in the same direction for the purpose of passing them.

A resolution was passed constituting the mayor, the city attorney and Alderman Crassweller a committee to draft a telephone ordinance fixing maximum rates, providing for a sale of a franchise to the bidder offering the highest percentage of the gross earnings, the time of the franchise and such other conditions as seem best to the committee.

Several estimates were allowed.

Advice to Soldiers.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Paul Du Chaillu's advice to soldiers in Cuba is today noticed in your paper, but with the most important fact left out. "I will tell you my experience while traveling in warm countries," he said. "I abstained from strong drinks, because I found they did not help me; on the contrary, I felt weaker half an hour after, so I gave them up." Oh, that this valuable testimony might be faithfully passed around. If not for a moral reason, then for a sanitary fact. We could add to this a long list of others, but just give this one taken from the Union Signal of June 23:

"Capt. R. S. Woodson, the government expert on tropical diseases, makes the following official statement: Yellow fever is certainly the greatest danger that confronts us. It is to be remembered that the mortality of this affection among the troops from northern climates, who possess absolutely no contra-immunity, will be exceedingly greater should the disease gain access to our midst. Yellow fever, being a disease which attacks essentially the liver and kidneys, will prove particularly fatal to those whose habits of life have reduced the vital resistance of these organs. Especially is this axiom applicable to soldiers with cirrhotic livers and kidneys from alcoholic excesses and tissues with lithemia from over-indulgence in highly nitrogenous foods. The term lithemia is intended to define that condition of men ordinarily spoken of as 'full habit.' So firmly convinced am I of the predisposing influences of alcoholic indulgences toward this disease that I would strike all such beverages from the dietary of the soldier and even from the medical supplies of the department."

I hope that the Duluth Volunteer society or Red Cross helpers will be encouraged by a good collection tonight.

Yours truly, I. THOMPSON.

CUTICURA WORKS WONDERS.

A Remarkable Cure of Sore Eyes And Sight Restored.

I am a graduate of Oberlin College, taught long enough after I graduated to have them give me the Honorary degree, and I have a great many acquaintances in and around Boston. About three years ago my son brought home a box of CUTICURA (ointment), and I picked up the circular that was around it, and learned about the CUTICURA SOAP, and told him to get me a cake. When I got it, the circular advised its use for the bath, teeth, scalp, etc. I had been a great sufferer all my life from sore eyelids, the whole lid outside and in was red as a beet. I had to sit in a dark room, evenings, for eight and a half years, and wear black spectacles to keep the sun from my eyes in the daytime. When I got the CUTICURA SOAP, I got a fine, soft cloth, dipped it in hot water and rubbed it on the soap and washed my eyes with it. I can't tell you how much good it has done me, although it smarted very much at first. My eyes are as clear and bright as when I was a young lady. I had to go backwards in getting spectacles and wear No. 15, the same as I did twenty years ago. I can read medium sized print in daylight without any spectacles. As a matter of course I am kind of a walking advertisement of CUTICURA. People will call to me when I am going along the street and tell me how much good my CUTICURA SOAP has done their eyes.

Mrs. M. R. CONGDON,
Jan. 18, '97. 26 No. Cedar Avenue, Oberlin, O.

☞ We take pleasure in publishing this testimonial as showing the interest taken in CUTICURA REMEDIES, and the various uses made of them not anticipated or suggested by us. We cannot, of course, anticipate how CUTICURA SOAP will work in cases similar to the above, but to those who desire to try it we would suggest beginning with a very weak solution or "suds" of warm water and CUTICURA SOAP until its action is determined. For inflamed, granulated, or eczematous eyelids, light applications of CUTICURA ointment will in most cases be found to work wonders.

IS A PECULIAR DEAL.

The Minnesota Iron Company Leases Land, Giving a Share of Profits.

One of the most peculiar iron deals yet made on the Mesaba range was recently closed by the Minnesota Iron company. It is for a lease of three forties near McKinley, the formation of which is destined to constitute an extension of the Elba mine. The feet of the property is owned by Petit & Robinson, of Minneapolis. Several months ago they gave an option for a lease on it to Capt. Harry Roberts and George Howe, of this city, by the terms of which they were to receive 40 per cent of the profits to be derived from the operation of any mine found on the property. Messrs. Roberts and Howe then gave the Minnesota Iron company an option on the lease, the consideration agreed upon in case the deposits of iron proved on investigation to be as good and as large as anticipated, being $62,000. A thorough exploration of the property was made by Capt. Roberts and the Minnesota Iron company with the result that the deal was closed.

It is claimed that a very large body of high grade Bessemer ore has been found and that it will prove one of the largest of the high grade mines on the range. This is believed to be the only lease on this range which is made on a basis of profits from operations instead of a fixed royalty. The Lake Superior Mining company sold the lease on the Lake Superior group to the Consolidated and accepted as part of the consideration a one-half interest in the profits, but the fee owners receive a royalty of 20 cents a ton. The Lake Superior company has never received anything from the operations of the mines as the Consolidated has been able to show a loss from operations each year. Perhaps the Minnesota company will do better with the property leased from Petit & Robinson.

SEINE RIVER GOLD.

Another Rich Find Has Been Made By the Mosher Boys.

The Mosher boys who have been prospecting north and west of here have returned to town bringing with them some very rich specimens of ore which they found near Calm lake, says the Rainy Lake Herald. Mr. Gillon, the surveyor, has made a survey of the property and work of development will at once be gone on with him. The ore is certainly very rich as specimens off the surface showed the rock full of free gold and in large quantities. The vein is about three feet wide and runs through the entire location. There are also several smaller veins near at hand which makes the finds very valuable.

A report has reached town that Gehl Bros., of Mine Center, have sold their property near Sturgeon Falls for a good big figure to a party of English capitalists. Thirty-five thousand is said to be the sum realized.

A rich strike was made on K222 Saturday last, at a depth of three feet. Some very fine specimens were thrown out containing nuggets of the precious metal. This property adjoins the Lucky Coon and is near the AD2 company's property.

The Golden Crown Mining company is about to commence operations very actively on HP226 and 227, adjoining east of the famous Hidden Treasure mine. E. C. Hall is in charge of the property.

The Becca Mining company is pushing operations on K222. New camps are being erected and sinking has commenced. They will sink 500 feet and drift at 100-foot levels. Mr. Fisk, mining engineer, of Buffalo, is in charge.

Manager Beebe of the Emperor mine brought in some very rich ore from his mine last week. The samples were fully equal to any yet produced in this country and made a very pretty showing. Some of them were literally filed with gold, so much so that very little of the quartz was visible. The shaft is now down seventy-one feet and the vein is three feet wide. This vein has steadily increased in width from surface and is still increasing. It bids fair to eclipse anything ever seen in the country.

A. Hubbell, president of the Golden Star Mining company, arrived on Monday with the first instalment of the machinery for the mine, consisting of a sawmill plant. The 10-stamp mill is expected in a few days to be followed later by the remaining twenty stamps. The machinery will be taken into the mine from Gray Lake via Little Vermilion river and lake. The company have 4000 tons of ore on the dump ready for milling and worth at a low estimate over $120,000. When the Golden Star gets pounding out the ore it will astonish the world.

J. L. Grant, of England, who has been here for a short time looking into our mines for English capitalists, left for the Saw Bill country on Sunday morning last, after which he will proceed to England. It is understood that Mr. Grant has one or two big deals on for properties on which he has secured options until his return to England.

Strange Spots on the Sun.

Since the beginning of this year groups of spots unusual and unexpected have been observed on the surface of the sun by astronomers in different sections. These reported at the national observatory are in appearance and movement entirely out of the usual train. They may continue indefinitely, but they do not indicate unusual weather disturbances. But there are indications upon the human countenance that show that the bowels and liver need reform through Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. These are yellowness of the skin and whites of the eyes, furred tongue, etc., all indicative of constipation and biliousness, to the removal of which the Bitters is adapted. The efficacy of this family medicine also extends to malaria, rheumatism, kidney trouble, nervousness and sick headache.

AT WEST DULUTH

Commissioner Kauppi's Four-Year-Old Daughter Injured By a Bicyclist.

RIDING ON THE WALK

Boy Who Did It Was There--- Foresters Have a Large Initiation.

A boy riding a bicycle on the sidewalk near the corner of Sixty-third avenue west and Main street, yesterday afternoon, ran over the 4-year-old daughter of County Commissioner Charles Kauppi and inflicted painful injuries. The little child was playing on the walk with a companion, when the boy came scorching along the walk and, with apparent malice, ran over her. She was severely bruised on the side. Mr. Kauppi said today that the practice of riding on the walks in that neighborhood has become quite common, and that the police should put a stop to it. There is no excuse for cyclists using the walks as such, as the roads are in good condition. Mr. Kauppi believes he knows the boy who ran over his daughter, and if he can be assured of his identity, he will make an example of him.

A FORESTER'S INITIATION.

West Duluth court No. 797, Independent Order of Foresters had a large meeting last night, at which twenty-three candidates were initiated. Thirty-two members of Duluth courts were in attendance and assisted in the degree work. The West Duluth Foresters are much elated at the decision of the supreme court in favor of the local courts.

A MACCABEES' SOCIAL.

West Duluth tent, No. 2, Knights of the Maccabees, was in peaceful session last night in Odd Fellows' hall, when the sacred council was interrupted by an invasion of sixty ladies members of Pearl Hive, No. 4, Ladies of the Maccabees. The ladies brought with them a violin, an organist and any number of baskets of good things to eat. Their demand for admittance was resisted very feebly and, after passing the guards in force, they were soon in full possession of the hall and everything was given over to merrymaking. A most enjoyable time was had.

The West Duluth band will give an open air band concert tomorrow night, the first of the series provided for by the appropriation of $1000 recently made by the board of park commissioners.

THE OSHKOSH STRIKE.

Still Hangs on and Troops Will Remain There.

Oshkosh, Wis., June 28.—The Woodworkers' strike still hangs on although the three factories running claim an increase of thirty workmen today. After repeated consultations with the local authorities, the governor has decided not to withdraw troops until all danger is passed, which according to city officials will not be until July 4, at least.

After that date the other factories will resume operations and the strength or weakness of the strike will soon be discovered. Meanwhile general business is paralyzed and the strikers, many of whom are in destitute circumstances, have started to plan for soliciting aid from citizens and farmers.

On the other side plans are being pushed for wholesale arrests to include Messrs. Kidd, Weber, Braunschweig and all the other leaders as being responsible for recent riots. The governor and attorney general are assisting in this plan and it is believed that a law has been found that will apply. A dozen of the riot leaders have already been arrested on charges of assault, but most of them have been released under bonds.

The decision considered the matter, however, and changed his plea to guilty. Four drunks went up on the hill for ten days.

St. Louis county Hibernians forwarded a telegram of greeting this morning to the national convention of the A. O. H., which is in session at Trenton, N. J. This is the most important convention in the history of the organization as about 50,000 members of another Irish organization are to be admitted into its ranks.

GOT THE O'HIGGINS.

Report That Spain Has Bought the Powerful Chilean Cruiser.

London, June 28.—The United States embassy has reports from several sources that Spain has purchased the powerful Chilean armored cruiser O'Higgins, last heard from at the Cape Verde islands, where a transport with Spanish soldiers on board is said to have gone to take her over.

The report that Spain has purchased the O'Higgins receives some credence. It appears that the O'Higgins was very recently offered to the United States for $6,000,000 but, it is added, the authorities at Washington declined to purchase her, considering the price to be twice her value.

The United States embassy here has reports from several sources that Spain has purchased the O'Higgins, but the Armstrongs, who built the vessel, deny that she has been sold."

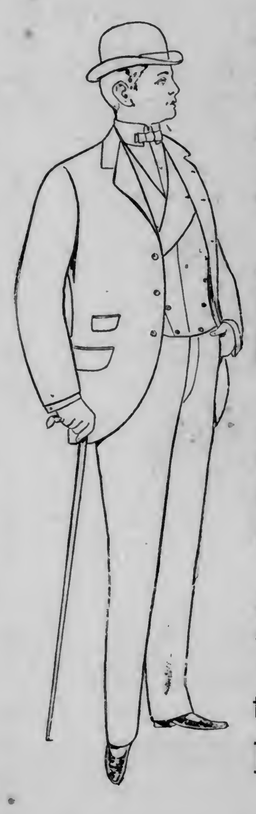

A Spanish transport, loaded with sailors, left Corunna on June 10 for an unknown destination, and it is surmised the sailors were intended to be transferred to the O'Higgins, which was last reported to have arrived at the Cape Verde islands on June 15 from Newcastle.

Two Chinese cruisers, which are reported to have been purchased by Spain, are probably the two vessels of 3000 tons each which have been in the course of construction at Stettin. They will not be ready for service for some months. They were offered to the United States and declined.

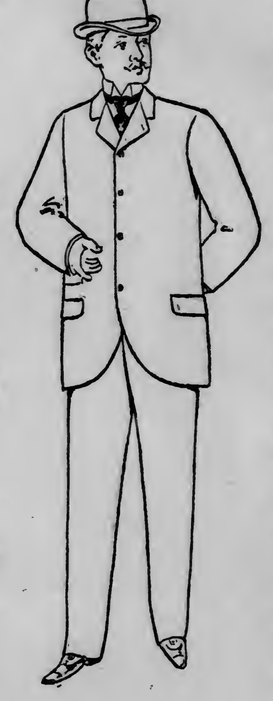

If you read The Herald you will know all that is going on at the front.

THE TECUMSEH SUNK.

Marquette, Mich., June 28.—The Canadian steamer Tecumseh struck on Ripley's rock in the lower harbor yesterday, and finally slid off in deep water and sank. When the Tecumseh struck the rock her crew attempted her release by the use of a line, but the steamer stuck all the harder, and finally broke her shoe and wrenched her rudder. A bad leak was started, and the captain attempted to procure a diver. Failing to do this, he wired his owners for orders, but during the afternoon the leak increased, and the steamer filled until she slid part way off the rock and settled, head down, with her forward decks awash and her stern high in the air. The Tecumseh was built in 1875, and was owned by McArthur Bros., of Chatham, Ont. She was a vessel of 540 net tons register.

THE DEWEY COCKTAIL.

The Dewey cocktails which are now served in Tenderloin cafes are picturesque in appearance and, according to experts who have investigated them, as deadly in effect as the guns of the admiral from whom they get their name. Patriotism runs high in the Tenderloin, however, and the men who crook their elbows in its cafes are willing to make sacrifices to keep it running, says the New York Sun.

The Dewey cocktail is pushing the Martini and Manhattan hard for popular favor, despite the fact that two of them in succession are warranted to make the drinker willing to change places with Spain's fleet at Manilla, and, if it be followed by a third, his condition is likely to be about as animated as was the mule at Matanzas after the bombardment. Several bartenders are claiming the exclusive credit of inventing this cocktail. The ingredients may vary in different cafes, but the color effect, red, white and blue, is the same in each. One expert mixer of drinks said that he obtained his colors by using raspoerry juice, maraschino and cream yvette, and that he gave body to it with stronger liquors.

One Dewey cocktail will make a rampant patriot out of a peace-at-any-price citizen. A big man walked into a Broadway cafe on Saturday and said to the bartender: "Say, Pete, gimme a Dewey cocktail, strengthened like the one I got last night." When the red, white and blue concoction was shoved across to him he pulled a red handkerchief out of his pocket, attached it to his cane and held it over his head with one hand, while the other tilted the glass until the cocktail trickled down his throat.

"What's the game?" asked the bartender. "No game at all," said the big man. "It's strictly according to naval regulations. Red flag hoisted to signal that I am taking ammunition aboard, that's all," and with a cheer for the red, white and blue he wandered out.

JOKE ON THE BANDIT.

Ex-Secretary Sherman Relates a Narrow Escape From Capture.

A few weeks ago Secretary of State Sherman told the members of President McKinley's cabinet, while they were interestingly discussing the Cuban situation, that he once had a hair-curling adventure in Cuba, says the Chicago Chronicle. It embraced the story of a weird plot by Cuban banditti to kidnap the Ohio senator and two other distinguished Americans and to hold them in ransom in the fastnesses of the interior. The ageo statesman says he had departed from Havana before he learned of the conspiracy against his liberty, but the evidence was so circumstantial that he was compelled to believe it.

With Gen. McCook and Congressman Manderson, in the spring of 1857, Senator Sherman made a tour of Cuba. The island was then in a state of peace, and the legislators saw little that was exciting. A few days previous to their departure, however, Senator Sherman was interested in the story of a big sugar plantation at Colon, and told the captain general he would like to see it.

"But the country up there is infested with banditti," remonstrated the Spanish official. "It would be a dangerous trip."

The Americans insisted on going, however, and the captain general furnished them with an armed squad. Suspicion as to the integrity of the owner of the great plantation, Pedro Lamberto Fernandez, was strong, and the officials warned the guard to watch the employes and their superiors closely. The trip was made hurriedly, the visitors suffered no molestation and returned to Havana without interruption. But after they had left the sugar plantation there was an exciting incident.

Sancho Matagas, leader of a strong band of Cuban banditti, rode up to the plantation with twenty armed men. They dismounted and surrounded the building. The first act of the robbers was to kill an overseer who communicated to them the unwelcome intelligence that the Americans had gone. Then they searched all the buildings and received confirmation of the news. A pursuit was talked of, but the hoped-for prey had obtained too much of a start.

When the story of the projected raid and kidnapping was brought to Havana the authorities sent an expedition to capture Matagas and make an investigation. They didn't catch the Cuban bandit chief but they ascertained that the story of the plot against Sherman and his friends was true. It was a bold conspiracy. The banditti had expected to secure a rich ransom for their intended captives. They had heard of Senator Sherman's reputed fortune of $2,000,000 and knew his body was worth a pile of money to them.

Senator Sherman was shocked when he heard, in safety, of his narrow escape. He smiled grimly and remarked that it was undoubtedly a joke on the Cuban bandit.

WAR AD WRITERS.

Changes In Wording Noticed In the Advertisements of Today.

The war has been quite as prominent a feature of the advertising columns of newspapers all over the country as of the news pages, says the New York Sun. It isn't strange, for advertisement writers keep in touch with the predominant news topics of the day, which furnish the best material for the exercise of their ingenuity. When the Klondike was discovered, "gold," "nuggets," "rich strikes," and similar words and phrases headed the advertising columns as well as the news stories, but these are all dropped now for the up-to-date war expressions.

The most common phrases are "War on prices," "Victory over our competitors," and "Wanted, ten thousand volunteers—to buy our goods," the last four words being in small type, of course. "Manilla has fallen, and so have our prices," is another. About in the same class are these: "War is not a new experience for us; for forty years we have been fighting the makers and dealers in cheap and worthless goods," and "The latest bulletin from the seat of war is absorbing the attention of the people just now, and while you are waiting for the next cast your eye over these prices." "We are not going to war at present," frankly admits one firm, "but will remain at the old stand." "Bombarding Havana will be an easy matter," says another, "but we are putting up batteries in the way of large stock and low prices that make our position impregnable."

In an up-state paper this bid is made by a bank for New York business: "If the Spanish fleet should bombard New York, valuables in the safe deposit vaults there would be unsafe. Take a box in our vaults now." "Remember the Maine!" has been a favorite headline, and "The Maine question is where to buy the best goods for the least money," has been much used.

Dewey's victory brought out a new series. This is one: "Dewey cleaned 'em out. It was such a glorious victory that we would like to name one of our stoves like Dewey, but we have so many good ones, it is hard to choose the most appropriate." And this is another: "The Maine has been remembered at Manilla, and your Uncle Sam is in a little better mood. Merit always wins. Therefore, the unbounded success of our goods."

One of the simplest but best advertisements in this line is this, from an optician: "Spain will be driven from Cuba without a doubt. From now on you will read every line of war news. Will your eyes stand it? A pair of glasses fitted by us will prevent permanent injury."

COURT OF LAST RESORT.

Old settlers in Central Illinois still relate with gusto the story of a man who was arrested on a charge of murder many years ago and taken before a newly elected country squire for a preliminary examination, says the Youth's Companion. The trial was held in a backwoods schoolhouse. The prisoner had employed an attorney to defend him, but the evidence was clear and positive. Several witnesses, in fact, had seen the crime committed.

The justice of the peace, after hearing the testimony and listening patiently to the speech of the lawyer, looked sternly over his spectacles at the prisoner and addressed him thus:

"John Simpson, the evidence is all agin you. Ther' hain't the shadder of a doubt but what you committed the murder, John Simpson, stand up!"

The prisoner complied with the order.

"The sentence of this court," proceeded his honor, "is that you, John Simpson, be took out to the woods back of this schoolhouse tomorrow mornin' at half past 9 o'clock and hung by the neck until—"

"Your honor," interposed the attorney for the defense, thunderstruck, "you are not sentencing the prisoner to death, are you?"

"That's edzactly what I'm doin'. The sentence of this court, John Simpson, is that you be took out to the woods back of this schoolhouse tomorrow mornin' and hung by the neck—"

"But, your honor," gasped the lawyer, "you have no right to do that! There is no law for such an extraordinary proceeding—"

"Sit down, sir," thundered the squire. "This court don't need any instructions from you. This court knows what it's doin'. John Simpson, stand up again. The sentence of this court—"

But a way out of the appalling difficulty had suggested itself to the prisoner's attorney. He sprang to his feet and interrupted the court again.

"Your honor," he said, "one moment! We have the right to appeal this case, haven't we?"

The squire scratched his head.

"Yes," he said, slowly, "I reckon ye kin take an appeal."

"Well, your honor, we appeal to the supreme court of the state of Illinois."

The prisoner's life was saved for the time, but it was a narrow escape.

Whether the conflict takes place on land or sea The Herald will give the news first in Duluth.

TO CHASE CAMARA

Watson's Squadron Will Certainly Sail This Week.

To Bombard the Spanish Fortifications at Cadiz.

Will Pursue Camara's Fleet Into the Mediterranean.

New York, June 28.—A special to the Tribune from Washington says:

That the scope of the war, already involving joint military and naval campaigns against Spain's colonies in the far East and in the Caribbean, would eventually be widened to embrace a demonstration in force against the Canaries and the coast towns of the Spanish peninsula itself, has been more or less apparent even from the beginning of hostilities. Events have conspired, however, in a most unexpected manner to clear the way for offensive operations in European waters, and what seemed six weeks ago a rather remote problem of reducing the Canaries or bombarding the seaports of the peninsula has forced itself to the front with a rush which, except for the foresight and sagacity shown in the enormous expansion of its naval resources, might seriously have embarrassed the development of the government's war plans.

The two unforeseen chances which have made a campaign in European waters at this time not only feasible, but highly tempting, have been the blockade of Spain's most formidable fleet under Admiral Cervera in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, and the departure of Admiral Camara's squadron, ranking next in strength, on its wild goose chase toward Manilla. With no escape probable for the Santiago fleet, and with Spain's home resources weakened by Camara's diversion to the East, an American fleet would find at present no formidable enemy afloat in the Spanish waters and could, without fear of attack by sea, effectually drive Spanish commerce to cover and threaten the destruction by bombardment of Spain's chief ports.

Even should Camara's squadron be ordered back to Spain from Port Said, its fighting strength is not considered sufficient to check the operations of the naval force which the United States could easily send across the Atlantic and, Santiago having once fallen, there would remain no reason why the fleet chosen today as an advance guard in the proposed attack on Spain should not be reinforced by a second detachment of equal power. Its prospective departure is regarded here as significant of the purpose of the administration to push the war against Spain with the utmost energy and to bring the Spanish people, as quickly and sharply as possible, to a realization of the futility and costliness of a protracted resistance.

The naval raid against Spain, although for some time under consideration, promises to be attended with all the suddenness that marked Dewey's descent upon the Philippines and the landing of Gen. Shafter near Santiago. If the Spaniards are disposed to regard the announcement made today of Commodore Watson's departure in the Newark as anything in the nature of a "bluff," designed to hurry Admiral Camara back from the Suez, they are doomed to quick and bitter disappointment, for the raiding squadron will be fairly on the way across the Atlantic before the end of this week and before the middle of July the cities and shipping of the Spanish coast will be fully aware of their presence.

Until Saturday last the plan which the president has had under consideration for several weeks involved the formation of a fleet distinctly more formidable and speedy than the one now under orders. It included the armored cruisers Brooklyn and New York of twenty-one knots speed; the Columbia and the Minneapolis, of twenty-three knots; the Cincinnati and the Newark, of twenty knots; the auxiliary cruisers St. Paul and St. Louis, of twenty-two knots, with the Iowa and the Oregon of sixteen knots to follow as quickly as possible behind the flying cruisers. It would have been necessary to bring several of these vessels north and clean them in drydock before starting them on their long cruise away from an inexhaustible base of supplies, involving a delay of several weeks.

The news of the American losses in the skirmish at La Quasina, however, caused the president to call Secretaries Long and Alger into consultation regarding the best way to convince the Spaniards of the hopelessness of their stubborn resistance to the inevitable, and within a few hours Capt. Mahan of the naval war board had convinced the authorities that a thoroughly effective fleet, involving all the elements essential to insure success could at once be despatched to give the Spaniards at home an object lesson of the stern realities of war.

Capt. Mahan readily drew up the plan providing for the immediate assembling of the first-class battleships Iowa and Oregon, the recently modernized protected cruiser Newark, with the auxiliary cruisers Yankee, Yosemite and Dixie, accompanied by three colliers, which could not only compel an abrupt cessation of Spanish commerce and bombard her exposed sea coast cities, but would prove more than a match for any fleet that country could hastily concentrate for offensive or defensive purposes. The plan was promptly approved by the president and telegraphic orders were sent to Commodore John Crittenden Watson, until last week commanding the North Cuban blockading squadron, to proceed at once to carry the plans into effect.

The colliers are the Scandia, Commander E. W. Watson; the Abardena, Lieutenant Commander L. H. Bufford, and the Alexander, Commander W. T. Burwell. They are fine cargo steamers, the Scandia on her last trans-Atlantic voyage before delivery to the government, having brought to this country in a single trip 1200 emigrants and 4000 tons of cargo, with a speed of twelve knots. These vessels are now fully loaded with Pocahontas coal, the Scandia carrying 5000 tons and the other two 4000 tons each. Unfortunately the Abardena and the Alexander cannot exceed a speed of ten knots an hour, or 1680 knots a week, and this rate fixes the maximum speed of the squadron, although the scouts will do considerable additional cruising, especially after the Canaries are reached. The most economical speed of the Newark is ten knots and at that rate with full bunker capacity, she can run 5800 miles. The most economical speed of the Iowa and Oregon is twelve and a half knots, productive of a radius of action approximating 4600 miles, and as the distance from Santiago to Gibraltar barely exceeds 3500 knots all the vessels of Commodore Watson's squadron can make the run without the necessity of coaling at sea, the three auxiliaries the Yankee, the Dixie and the Yosemite each being capable of 6000 miles straightaway. At ten knots an hour, 240 a day, it will take the squadron at least two weeks steady cruising in the open ocean to cover the distance between St. Thomas and Cadiz.

Naval officers do not believe that any sustained attack will be made on the Canaries, but that the vessels of the fleet will lie under lee of these islands to replenish their bunkers and then proceed directly to Cadiz to bombard the fortifications there in the same manner that shells were thrown into the outer defenses of San Juan and Santiago. Subsequent events, it is believed, will depend altogether on the attitude of the Spaniards and on their success or failure in concentrating any considerable naval force.

In all probability a sally into the Mediterranean by the Americans will be necessary in the hope of inducing Admiral Camara to risk an engagement. If this can be brought about, confidence is expressed that the Iowa and the Oregon will destroy the last remnant of Spain's sea power and effectually extinguish any delusion that the Spaniards have of being able to regain their colonies.

DRY CUBAN WEATHER

One Shower on Southern Cuban Coast—Respect For Cuban Allies.

On Board the Associated Press Dispatch Boat Dauntless, off Marine Camp, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, June 26, via Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 27.—(Copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—Aside from the energetic attack of the Spaniards on the first American camp established in Cuba, nothing has astonished the inhabitants of Camp McCalla and the fleet generally as much as the present long dry interval in the midst of what was supposed to be Cuba's rainy season. May was ushered in with rains on the north coast, and when the troops reached the south coast there were a few afternoon rain gusts, then cloudy threats, but no rain, and since the marines have landed at Camp McCalla there has been but one brief shower and no more. The Cuban auxiliaries say this is the usual thing for this vicinity, and prophesy no more rain till the first of August ushers in the hurricane season.

Camp McCalla has proven healthful, and a fine place to acclimate and harden the soldiers. The men, some of whom were half sick from six weeks' confinement on the Panther when they landed, are all as brown as Indians and hardy as prize fighters. They have had their baptism of fire and stood the ordeal. They have gone six miles inland and smoked the Spaniards out of their holes on the peninsula, beaten them in the brush at their own particular kind of fighting, and lost one man wounded in the exploit, while the Spaniards lost seventy-five dead and wounded not accounted for.

When Lieut. Delehanty's pioneer expedition to clear the river of mines below Calmanera was broached yesterday, the marines were eager to follow the achievement by capturing both Calmanera and Guantanamo, notwithstanding Guantanamo is fifteen miles inland from the bay and far out of supporting distance from the warships. Besides, there are 3000 Spanish regulars there, but the marines thought if two companies of them had whipped six companies of Spaniards at Cusco mountain, the whole party ought to "come pretty near getting away with them dagoes up the river." The officers smile quietly at overhearing these enthusiastic outbursts, and are well satisfied with the spirit that prompts them.

All reports from inland agree in picturing the Spanish situation as desperate. The Cubans infest Santiago and Guantanamo so closely that even dispatches between sections of the Spanish army are captured oftener than they get through. The military governor of Santiago made peremptory demand three days ago on Guantanamo for food and reinforcements. The officers in reply despondently stated that Guantanamo was worse off than Santiago and nothing could be sold. The Cubans watched every creek and cross road, gathering in Spanish couriers and bringing them into McCalla or Sampson.

The Cubans are gradually winning the respect of the American regulars. The Cuban soldiers so far seen are about 95 per cent negroes, usually with white Cuban officers. The officers are intelligent, anxious for their troops to win the good opinion of the Americans. They are ready for any service. These black Cubans are fine bush fighters, skilled in woodcraft, and are invaluable guides. Most of the trouble with them as guides has been when they attempted too much. They are greedy as to American food, but will readily be excused for that when they are seen to strip for swimming off the marine camp. Every one of them is emaciated, owing to the uncertain commissariat of the insurgent army. They have been almost uncon- marines "Old Machete," for his fondness will take many weeks of good feeding to get them into comfortable conditions.

Nearly every one of them has a blood debt against Spain. At Camp McCalla there is one big negro, whose real name is not known, but who is called by the comrades half mad with excitement, drops for the Cuban national weapon. He has with him his little boy, the only one of his family left. All the rest, even to his cousins, having been butchered by the guerrillas. In action the old man become half mad with excitement, drops his gun at the first chance of close quarters, and plies his big machete like a flail. When the expedition from Cusco battlefield yesterday brought in a couple of bullet-pierced Spanish skulls as medical specimens, the old man eyed them like a connoisseur and, rolling one over, murmured: "Uno bueno Espanol" (one good Spaniard.) He had probably not heard the American army phrase about the only brand of "Good Indian."

Admiral Sampson is reported to have been favorably impressed with his interview with the veteran Gen. Garcia. If the regulars of the army take as kindly as the marines of Camp McCalla to their dusky allies of the rank and file, and take the trouble to cultivate their good qualities and deal leniently with their defects, there seems no reason why the "allied armies" should not do swift and effective work in Cuba.

SHARP NAVAL FIGHT

Capt. Sigsbee of St. Paul Defeats Two Spanish Ships Which Attack Her.

Washington, June 28.—The navy department today posted the following bulletin: Admiral Sampson reports that the Yale arrived yesterday and discharged her troops. Capt. Sigsbee reports that on Wednesday afternoon while off San Juan, Porto Rico, he was attacked by a Spanish unprotected cruiser and the Spanish torpedo boat destroyer Terror.

The Terror made a dash which was awaited by the St. Paul. The St. Paul hit the Terror three times, killing one officer and two men, and wounding several others. The Terror dropped back under cover of the fortifications with difficulty and was towed into the harbor in a sinking condition, where she is now being repaired.

Later a cruiser and a gunboat started out, but remained under protection of the fortifications.

MISSOURI POPULISTS.

Expect a Lively Time In Their State Convention.

St. Louis, June 28.—There will be a sharp contest between the middle-of-the-road element and the fusionists for the control of the state convention of the Missouri Populists to be held in this city on July 7.

Speaking of this matter Chairman Roselle says: "While I recognize the desirability of co-operation by all the free silver and reform forces in the state, no negotiations nor proposals looking to that end have been suggested or received by the Populist state committee and from present indications none are likely to be. The principal contention will be made to prevent the bolting middle- of-the-raod element, which has called a national convention to be held at Cincinnati Sept. 4 from controlling the party organization in this state for the purpose of barter and trade with the Republicans.

MURDERED HIS MOTHER.

Lake City Man Crushes His Mother's Skull With an Ax.

Lake City, Minn., June 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Allie Walsh murdered his mother yesterday by crushing her skull with an ax. He is about 22 years old and the crime was committed at their home about five miles from here.

The young man had been confined in the Rochester insane asylum, but was released about four months ago as cured. It is supposed a sudden return of his mania was responsible for the crime. After committing the murder Walsh escaped and the sheriff and a posse are now in pursuit.

EARTHQUAKES IN ITALY.

Many Buildings Damaged and One Child Was Killed.

Rome, June 28.—Two sharp earthquakes were felt this morning at Rieti, forty-two miles from here. The worst one was at 1 a. m. It lasted nine seconds and a number of buildings were damaged. Vienna, June 28.—Dispatches from Lembourg, Austrian Galicia, announce that martial law has been proclaimed in the district of Neubandeo, owing to the frequent cases of murder, robbery and incendiarism which have occurred there.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at Duluth Drug company's drug store.

COMMON WAR TERMS

Things the Present Generation Is Very Much Interested In Now.

Land and Sea Forces---How They Are Divided and Recognized.

When Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered and the civil war came to an end there were few adults in the United States who could give a definition for ordinary military terms. Uniformed men formed a part of nearly every gathering, and children were able to tell the rank of a soldier by his shoulder straps. But with the disbandment of the volunteer army and the resumption of peaceful occupations, interest in military matters became less, and the generation which witnesses the present conduct of active warfare has little knowledge as to the meaning of military terms. This fact, says the New York Tribune, was demonstrated recently by a correspondent, who asked:

"What is an army corps? What is a division? What is a brigade? What is a regiment? What is a battalion? What is a company? What is a troop? What is a platoon? What are lieutenants and what do they have to do? What is a fleet? What is a squadron? What is a flotilla? What is a battleship? What is a cruiser? What is an auxiliary cruiser? What is a monitor? What is a torpedo boat? What is a torpedo catcher?

An army corps is made up of a number of divisions of infantry with a proper proportion of artillery and cavalry. An army corps is commanded by a major general, and is in all respects a complete army, being the largest of the subdivisions of the military forces. During times of peace there could be no army corps in the United States, because the 28,000 men were scattered all over the country and concentration was impractical and almost impossible. An army corps is divided into divisions, which term is applied to the next tactical unit below an army corps.

Brigades are to divisions what divisions are to army corps. A division differs from a corps in so far that while the larger body includes every arm of the service, a division may be composed of only one of these arms. Thus there may be a cavalry, artillery or infantry division, or there may be a division which includes all these. The number of men for a division depends upon circumstances. Three brigades may be formed into a division, but there is nothing to prevent its being twice as large. A division is commanded by a major general.

A brigade, commanded by a brigadier general, is composed of three, four or five regiments, and may be made up from one arm of the service, or it may include regiments of infantry and cavalry and batteries of artillery, together with engineers and signal corps.

A regiment is commanded by a colonel, and is a permanent tactical unit, with its own distinct individuality. Infantry regiments, according to the new regulations, have three battalions each, and each battalion has four companies. The second officer in a regiment is the lieutenant colonel, who, in the absence of the commanding officer, takes command. The battalion commanders are of the rank of major.

The platoon is to the company what the battalion is to the regiment, and as the major is in command of a battalion under the colonel, so are the first and second lieutenants in command of their respective platoons under the captain.

First lieutenants have been described as holding the places of vice captains. The title is purely French. When company formation is made the first platoon is commanded by the first lieutenant. Each company has also a first lieutenant, a quartermaster sergeant, four sergeants and six corporals, two musicians, one artificer, one engraver and sixty-five privates. In the cavalry arm of the service companies are known as troops, and in the artillery as batteries.

Other non-commissioned officers in a regiment are one sergeant major, one quartermaster sergeant, one chief musician, two principal musicians and three hospital stewards.

The terms "fleet," "squadron" and "flotilla" are elastic in their nature. They each designate a number of vessels under a single commander, but "fleet" is a term superior to "squadron," and "squadron" stands for more than "flotilla." The term "fleet" may be properly applied to an aggregation of canal boats, and it is not unusual to hear of a flotilla of oyster boats or racing yachts. But at this time one couples the term with the navy, and, according to established usage, the word "fleet" means a large number of vessels under command of an admiral or other high naval officer. While it is believed by some authorities that a fleet must contain at least six ships, others believe that a smaller number of vessels may, under certain circumstances be termed a fleet. There are countries whose whole navy consists of only four or five ships, but these could be spoken of as a fleet with all propriety. Technically, a fleet has been described as composed of thirteen vessels—two squadrons of six ships each and a flagship. But this technicality seems to be entirely disregarded in practice.

A squadron is a division of a fleet, a detachment of war vessels employed upon a particular service or station, and is always under the command of a flag officer. A flag officer is one who has the privilege to display a flag denoting his rank—an admiral, vice admiral, rear admiral or commodore.

A flotilla is the term applied either to a fleet of small vessels or to a small fleet of larger craft.

The difference between a battleship and an armored cruiser is technical, and experts have stumbled over the matter. A battleship is supposed to have heavier guns and armor to be better fitted to withstand hard knocks from an opposing force. But this does not always hold good, as may be seen in the case of the Maine as compared with the Brooklyn. The Maine was a battleship, but she was not so large nor so heavily armored as the armored cruiser Brooklyn. On one point there seems to be no dispute, and that is the fact that the cruisers are faster than the battleships, and it is conceded also that in most instances the battleships are better protected.

Auxiliary cruisers are vessels which were built for the merchant service, but with a view to being armed in case of need. When the vessels were built the government had an understanding with the contractors and owners by which provisions for arming were made. A similar agreement exists between the English government and the owners of the large ocean liners which sail under her flag. The cruisers St. Paul, St. Louis, New York and Paris would not be recognized by the people who traveled across the ocean in them when they were luxuriously appointed passenger boats. Superfluous furniture has been removed and the vessels in their war paint look as though they had been built for war purposes.

A monitor is a peculiar battleship, having a low freeboard, light draft and flush deck, and guns mounted in heavily armored revolving turrets placed on the deck. A monitor is a floating battery rather than a ship and derives its name from the first of the class ever constructed, which battled with the Confederate ironclad Merrimac in Hampton roads. The original monitor was described as representing a great cheese box on a plank, but it did valuable service and revolutionized naval warfare.

Torpedo boats are the racers among the war vessels. They are swift, small craft, designed [illegible] torpedoes near large vessels. In order to do its work properly the torpedo boat must get close to the object of its destructive designs, and, having placed the instrument in position, its next object is to get away and out of reach of the enemy. A torpedo boat must be small, and the men who form its small crew must be absolutely fearless.

A torpedo boat catcher is designed expressly to catch or destroy torpedo boats. In order to be fitted for the work the boats are larger than the torpedo boats; they can make better time and carry heavier armament.

DWIGHT'S GOLDEN LINK OR TUBEROSE FLOUR

THE RAW PEANUT HABIT.

Bath, N. Y., Sells More Unroasted Peanuts Than Any Other Place.

New York Sun: "The village of Bath," said a wholesale dealer in nuts, "sells more raw or unroasted peanuts than any other place in this state. As a matter of fact, the sale of raw peanuts is quite the feature of the peanut trade in Bath, because there are more people there who have the raw peanut habit than there are in any other one place in the state. The reason for it is that the state soldiers' home is located there. That is why Bath's peanut trade is unique in the quantity of raw peanuts it handles.

"No one likes raw peanuts until he acquires the habit, and then he wants them just as regularly as he wants his tobacco. Before the civil war the peanut was chiefly a holiday luxury to the great mass of the people in this country. The day when the circus was in town, and the day when the county fair was whooping it up in behalf the honest husbandman and the man with a 4-minute trotting horse, and when the great and glorious Fourth of July had come round again—and it came round with bells on in those days—were about the only occasions when the popular yearning for peanuts was to any extent satisfied. On those memorable occasions the nut was shucked and masticated until every bicuic jaw was lame. It was only in the towns and large villages that the favored few could have peanuts with them always. Before the war there wasn't roaster in the whole country outside the big towns, and the rural dealers bought their stock of peanuts already roasted. They were delivered in big, coarse bags. Today every crossroad from Maine to California, has its peanut stand, and its wheezing steam roaster, and the great American nut has no better or more exclusive standing on circus day or the Fourth of July than it has on any ordinary day of the year, although there is a greater concentration and application of energy in its shucking and chewing on those red-letter days.

"A large proportion of the soldiers who went South with the Union army were from the rural districts. So, when they got among the peanut patches of Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee they were metaphorically speaking, right in clover. At first they roasted at their campfire the peanuts they pulled from the patches but it wasn't long before they not only learned to like them raw, but actually preferred them that way. The result was that the boys discovered after a while that they hankered after peanuts almost as much as they did after tobacco, and they brought the longing back home with them after the war was over. What has been the consequence? The demand for peanuts increased so rapidly with the return of peace that the crop then grown did not begin to supply it. Wide-awake farmers in Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee saw the point, and their patches of peanut vines, which had been not much more than an incidental adjunct to the farm, expanded into broad fields, and improved cultivation and new methods in caring for and disposing of the crop took the place of the old-time carelessness and crudities. The peanut crop of these three states amount to more than 4,000,000 bushels annually—a result due entirely to the civil war and the contracting of the peanut habit of the soldiers. The bulk of this crop is handled, prepared, and shipped from Norfolk, the value of it being not less than $8,000,000 a year.

"Naturally, the returned soldier's home call for peanuts soon brought about a situation that placed them within his reach and that of the rural population to the furthest limits of 'wayback,' and the nut ceased forever to be a holiday luxury. The floor of the backwoods grocery is now littered nightly with shucks of pea nuts, hot from a revolving roaster, thicker than it was on any Fourth of July of the olden time, and the old soldier can get his supply of raw peanuts at Wayback Corner just as fresh and regular at meat as if he were still on the old camp ground yanking the nuts from their native soil.

"So that is why the soldiers' home at Bath makes that village the champion raw-peanut center of the state. There are hundreds of old soldiers living at the home, and many of them have the wartime peanut habit, and it takes heaps of the nuts to keep pace with it."

THE BOND MATTER

Conference Between City Officials, Mr. Gay and Mr. Washburn.

THE MAYOR'S VIEW

Discusses the Differences Between Company and City—May Readvertise Bonds.

The committee to which the council referred the matter of the bids on the water and light bonds invited Mr. Gay and Mr. Washburn this morning to a conference at 2 o'clock this afternoon, for the purpose of ascertaining from Mr. Washburn what proposition the Untermeyer interest, of which Mr. Washburn is the local representative, would make in regard to the claims of the company now in litigation.

The mayor is satisfied with the bids received as showing that a 4½ per cent bond can be disposed of at a premium. Ta bid of W. J. Hayes & Sons, of Cleveland, offers a premium of $9350 for the bonds on a 4½ per cent basis, and members of the committee think that beyond doubt the city could do better than that. The id a was suggested that if the bondholders are not willing to agree to a settlement satisfactory to the city, the city had better sell a 4½ per cent bond and fight it out over the claim now in dispute. The claim of the company for $25,000 hydrant rentals for flushing the sewers is based on a very narrow foundation, the mayor contends. The city has the right to use water for flushing gutters without charge, which the company does not deny, but the latter claims that it is entitled to pay for water drawn to flush the sewers. The mayor does not see much difference between a gutter above the ground and one beneath it. He thinks that it is certainly not so great as to warrant the city in abandoning its defense to the claim and handing over the money.

In the absence of any definite statement from Mr. Gay as to the matters that must be settled, the members of the committee say they can only guess at the aggregate amount that Mr. Gay, Mr. Washburn and Mr. Untermeyer expect the city to give up. The taxes cannot be compromised by the city. They amount to $60,000, which, with the hydrant rental claim, makes a total of $85,000. This is more than the difference in favor of the city in Mr. Gay's bid as compared with the bid for a 4½ per cent bond at the premium offered, the difference being $67,500. It is thought, too, that the aggregate might reach the neighborhood of $100,000 by the time the bondholders had scared up everything they could think of. With a contract in its hands with Mr. Gay binding him to turn over the plant for $955,000, under a penalty of $50,000 as liquidated damages, the members of the committee, and the council generally as well, think that the city can do better than surrender unconditionally to the demands of the bondholders.

Whatever is the outcome of the dickering with the bondholders, it is not thought feasible to award the small lots bid for and readvertise the balance. This would make the balance second to the lot first sold, which would militate against the former. If no arrangement is made with the bondholders, the whole lot will be readvertised undoubtedly.

As compared with the other bids received last night, that of E. H. Gay & Co. is the best, baring the uncertain factor introduced by the proviso as to pending claims, being $62,500 better than any other 4 per cent bid.

Alderman J. H. Crowley said this afternoon that it was evident the several bond broking firms who had made bids on the water bond issue had entered into a conspiracy to injure the city's credit and force the issue at a higher rate of interest. He said there was no doubt that if bond dealers were left free to bid as they saw fit, and as the character of the securities would warrant, the entire issue would be taken at a good premium. Alderman Crowley said he was opposed to giving a higher rate of interest than 4 per cent, and that if the waterworks bondholders would not accept city bonds at 4 per cent the plant should not be purchased, and the city should proceed to build a new one. E. H. Gay, on behalf of the bondholders, he said, had guaranteed the city a clear title to the plant, and now in his bid for the bonds he demands that the city guarantee title. Mr. Gay has, he said, trumped up claims against the water company for the express purpose of clouding the title, which he is under promise to clear up.

The waterworks bond question was being talked over this morning by a group of interested citizens, in front of the Chamber of Commerce building. Among them were Alderman Jefferson and Simpson, each of whom took a hand in criticising the tactics of the bond brokers. Alderman Jefferson said that in the late '60s he was in Montana and, together with a number of other men, had hold of a rope passed over the limb of a tree, to the other end of which was attached a horse thief. He declared that he could now give a pull to a rope with a certain bond broker dangling from the business end of it with much less compunctions of conscience than he felt when he was assisting in elevating the obnoxious horse thief over the divide. One of the interested listeners to Alderman Jefferson's story was a very young man, who is one of the bond brokers' party now in the city. At its conclusion the youth hastened to the Spalding, where he told in awe-inspiring tones the dreadful things he had heard from the lips of the alderman. There is a well defined suspicion that Alderman Jefferson's talk was made for his especial benefit.

AMUSEMENTS.

ROBERT MANTELL.

Robert Mantell will again be seen by Duluth theater-goers tonight after an absence of four years. He was always a great favorite here and will undoubtedly be given a fine welcome. Tonight he will present "The Secret Warrant," and tomorrow night "Monbars." In "The Secret Warrant" Mantell has one of his favorite parts, a soldier of the Dumas' guards' man type—young, handsome, courageous and, of course, a perfect swordsman—Louis de Beaumont, captain of the king's guards. The grand ladies of the butterfly court think he is splendid and none favor him more vigorously than Gabrielle, the regent's mistress, but the soldier does not reciprocate, and the powerful beauty makes up her mind to furnish him with quarters in the Bastile. Twice she secures the necessary "lettre de cachet," but is outwitted by the dashing guardsman. The play is not heavy and, though strictly historical, leans toward light comedy.

"THE HIDDEN HAND."

McPhee's big company produced "The Hidden Hand" last night before a large and well pleased audience. The company will repeat it again tonight and tomorrow night the sensational comedy drama "The Black Flag."

AT THE PAVILION.

Last night the Pavilion was packed with strangers and Duluth people. Tonight will be seen for the first time the funny Irish comedy "Muldoon's Picnic." Joe B. Murphy as Muldoon and Dick Brown as Mulcahy. Mabel Ferguson will also be seen as Jennie in new specialties.

Ayers' Stock Rises.

"Jerry J." in Minneapolis Journal: There are thirteen lawyers on the Hennepin delegation, and they are due to have a caucus today. The rest of the delegation will defer largely to them in the matter of attorney general and judges of the supreme court. The chances are that the candidates for these places which the thirteen will pick out will be supported by the solid 112. It is said that a majority of the thirteen are in favor of both Mitchell and Canty for the supreme bench. For third place it is pretty well understood that Walter Ayers, of Duluth, is favored. The delegation will probably not vote for either Lum or Lewis; but should St. Louis county present Ayers, Hennepin may support him.

Final J. E. Power Dividend.

The Duluth Trust company, as assignee of James E. Power, is today paying the second and final dividend of 9 1-3 per cent. The first dividend paid was for 50 per cent, making a total of 59 1-3 per cent received by the creditors.

Oratorio Repeated Tonight.

Tonight the oratorio, "The Prodigal Son," will be sung at the First Methodist church. The chorus and soloists will be the same as on Sunday evening. There will be no charge for admission, but a collection will be taken up for the Duluth Volunteers' Home society. The production is given without solicitation on the part of the society, and a large attendance is hoped for.

STRONGER THAN EVER

Collins Men Growing More Confident That He Is to Win.

BLUFFERS ROASTED

Delegates Say Hartley and Sellwood Are Making Some Rash Promises.

The state convention which assembles Thursday at St. Paul is the talk of all the politicians now. It is expected to be the most interesting in the history of the state. The Duluth delegates who take an active interest in politics are anxious to be in on the great struggle which will take place tomorrow night in St. Paul and will go down tomorrow noon. The others will go tomorrow night.

Lee Willcuts has been a very busy man today and his corner in the federal buildings has been besieged with delegates. But Lee has nothing to say, except that the St. Louis county delegation is for Collins. Joe Sellwood and G. G. Hartley do not believe him or at least they profess not to. J. Sellwood was down to St. Paul last Saturday and is said to have given assurances that the St. Louis county delegation will go for Van Sant. He says that Collins has no show whatever and that Van Sant will be the winner.

One of the men in the Willcuts camp and therefore a Collins man, said today: "Sellwood and Hartley are telling the Van Sant men that they will deliver the St. Louis county delegation to them. Well, they have undertaken the biggest contract they have ever assumed if they are going to do that. But that is their style. They are both bluffers and about all they have ever accomplished in this county was done on a bluff. Hartley is made of bluff. Sometimes he is called and this will be one of them. The St. Louis county delegation is for Collins stronger than ever. We are more enthusiastic than ever over his chances. The Eustis men are making big claims—too big. He will go into that convention with 450 delegates and no more, I think. He must win out on the first two or three ballots or lose. If he does not win Collins will get the bulk of his strength. It will not go to Van Sant. And so therefore I think you will find us from first to last with Collins.

"There are about thirty men in our delegation of forty-four whom Sellwood and Hartley cannot touch and I do not think there are more than five or six whom they can count on to be with them. It may have seemed like an honor to put Joseph Sellwood's name at the head of the delegation, but it is an empty honor as Joseph will find."

Similar talk is heard among all the Collins men. They say it would have been better for Van Sant if Sellwood and Hartley had been bottled up. Their claim that they will deliver the delegation to Van Sant in spite of the understanding upon which it was selected has made some of the Collins men very angry and if a break up should come they may kick on a delelivery at that time.

C. C. McCarthy, prosecuting attorney of Itasca county, and Hon. D. M. Gunn, member of the legislature, arrived in the city this morning from Grand Rapids, and left this afternoon for St. Paul, to attend the Republican state convention. Itasca county will have eight delegates in the convention. The remaining six will not go down until tomorrow. A Herald reporter asked Mr. McCarthy which of the candidates for governor was honored by Itasca county, and he replied:

"We have not yet decided who we will support for governor. Our principal object is to assist in the nomination of Leon Lum for justice of the supreme court, and A. Y. Merrill for attorney general. Both of these gentlemen are well and favorably known in Itasca county, and our votes for other places on the ticket will go to those who will do most for our candidates. Mr. Gunn and myself are going to St. Paul in advance of the rest of the delegation to size up the situation and determine on the best policy to be pursued. We will be for any one for governor who will do most for Lum and Merrill."

DISGUISED BY WHISKERS.

New York Press: "The detectives who recaptured a jail breaker the other day in spite of a recently grown beard, recognizing him from a description of him as he appeared over two years ago, deserves credit, in my opinion," said a New Yorker yesterday. "My mother, and, later my wife did not know me after a separation during which I had stopped shaving. My mother not only repudiated me, but added insult to injury. She and my father were at a New Jersey seaside resort when I returned from a vain attempt to make my fortune in the West many years ago. On reaching the place I asked for my father. As he had not finished dinner my mother appeared in his stead. On seeing me, without giving me time to speak, she returned precipitately to the dining room. I followed, entering the room in time to hear her say:

"'Andrew, there's a very shabby looking man who wants to see you. I think he wants to borrow money.'

"My wife never saw me with a beard until her return from England, where she had spent the second summer after our marriage. I was not on the dock when the steamer arrived, and my wife started up the street to go to my temporary bachelor home. I met her at the second corner and took off my hat. She bolted into the middle of the road and looked around for a policeman. My beard was prematurely white on the cheeks, and as I was better dressed than on the other occasion spoken of, she mistook me for an elderly masher. She made me shave the next day."

CAMARA CAN GO ON

Can Pass Suez Canal If He Pays the Tolls.

Not to America's Interest to Stop Him.

Regarded By Naval Experts as Theatrical Device.

New York, June 29.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: Admiral Camara's voyage to Port Said has been regarded by naval experts here as a theatrical device for inducing the Spanish people to believe that the Madrid government is not torpid, but capable of doing something. They have considered it incredible that he should have serious intentions of going to Manilla, where he could only arrive without coal and unprepared to meet Dewey with a fleet well supplied and heavily reinforced from San Francisco. The only theory on which so foolhardy a plan could be explained would be a secret intrigue between Germany and Spain, by which their fleets might act together, and this supposition exceeds the bounds of credibility, mysterious as the German emperor's ulterior purposes in the Philippines may be.

The prompt announcement from Washington that an American fleet is preparing to sail for Spain is regarded in naval circles here as a convenient pretext for the recall of Camara's squadron to home waters after a grotesque voyage through the Mediterranean.

The question whether Camara will be allowed to pass through the Suez canal is eagerly discussed here. There is nothing in the canal convention or international law that stands in his way, and the tolls, while heavy, can be paid to the Suez company by financial arrangements in Paris. Yet Lord Cromer could undoubtedly prevent the passage of the fleet if he were ordered to do it from London. There would be various methods of harassing Camara and obstructing the progress of his squadron, for Lord Cromer's will is supreme in Egypt. The vessels could be detained there if the London government were to suggest the propriety of such action, but it is impossible for any one in London to find out whether the American government really wants to have Camara's fleet stopped, and unless that fact be established he may go on to Manilla through the canal if he desires to do so.

The feeling among naval men here is that the American government would do better to interpose no obstacles to his progress, since, if he persevered, he will run short of coal, break down on the way and be in no condition for fighting Dewey. Meanwhile the American fleet will be at liberty to set out for Spanish ports and bring the war to a close. There is no evidence that the foreign office has received any intimation that the American government wants to have the Spanish fleet stopped. At any rate, Camara can only have enough coal to take him back to Carthagena. His maneuvers are not regarded here with seriousness, but are pronounced an unexpected bit of comical byplay in the drama of war.

What promotes more reflection here is the production of artificial interests of various kinds for justifying the meddlesome activity of the German admiral at Manilla by the discovery of some effective substitute for the murdered missionaries who were so useful at Kiao-Chou.

The stoppage of Camara's fleet would be an awkward precedent if the Americans themselves should want to use the Suez canal. The British government will undoubtedly be pleased if no pressure be brought to bear upon it for the retarding of the passage of the squadron and if it be left at liberty to enforce neutrality by ordinary methods. The British government has been useful to America in many ways during the present war but it has not given Spain any cause of offense and has been steadily promoting England's ulterior policies in any future naval war. It has rendered it more difficult than ever before for any belligerent to obtain coal in neutral ports. That is to the British interest; it will not like to use its control over Egypt in such a way as to close the Suez canal against war vessels. A canal open to all fleets and flags is another British interest.

OREGON BALLOT TAMPERERS.

Defeated Fusion Candidate and Two Lawyers Arrested.

Salem, Or., June 29.—P. H. Darcy, late mayor and late candidate on the fusion ticket for judge of the circuit court, and Attorneys S. T. Richardson and John A. Carson, have been arrested on a warrant sworn to by Judge R. P. Boise, the successful candidate for circuit judge, charging them with tampering with the election returns in the county clerk's office before the vote was counted.

Samuel Robertson, night watchman at the court, at the preliminary examination last night, testified that he saw the three defendants and L. V. Ehlen, county clerk, now absent from the city, enter the court house about midnight, June 11. He afterward saw County Clerk Ehlen leave the building with a roll under his arm.

SPANISH REVENGE.

Dons at Manilla Wanted to Shoot the Captain of the Gunboat Callao.

Port Townsend, Wash., June 29.—According to advices brought from Japan by the steamer Columbia, which arrived here last night, considerable indignation prevails among American sailors and officers at Manilla over the treatment of the captain of the Spanish gunboat Callao, which sailed into Manilla bay about a week after the battle, and was captured by Dewey's fleet. The Spaniards claim he showed cowardice in not returning the fire of the Americans. After giving him a Spanish court-martial, he was sentenced to be shot, but Admiral Dewey came to his rescue and took him under the protection of the American government.

Hundreds of people in Manilla are using every effort to leave, are offering $500 and $600 for transportation. As the time draws near for the arrival of American soldiers they are becoming restless. Another source of anxiety is in the case of the bombardment of Manilla, what the Spaniards will do with the women and children, as they cannot be sent to the interior, as they would become the prey of the rebels. It is stated an appeal will be made to the British consul to make arrangements for their removal in case of bombardment.

Since leaving Mirs bay, on April 27, the American fleet has been unable to obtain fresh provisions, and the men have been living on salt fare. Notwithstanding this, there is no sickness among the crews. And all are patiently awaiting orders to take possession of Manilla. The Spanish soldiers are anxious to meet the American troops in battle. They are well armed with Mauser rifles, and Capt. Gen. Augusti says everyone will fight with desperation to maintain the honor of Spain.

A Japanese paper contains the adventures with rebels and Spanish of a Mr. Vincent, an American, superintending a petroleum well on the island of Cebu. Mr. Vincent was taken captive by the rebels and taken to their headquarters, on the outskirts of Cebu, where he was condemned to death. While awaiting execution a Spanish war vessel steamed into the harbor and commenced to bombard the place. The insurgents speedily decamped, leaving their prisoner in the room.

Shell after shell came crashing through the walls, carrying away most of the building. When the bombardment ceased, a large number of rebels returned, having the bloodstained upper half of a priest's head in a basket. The head was placed on a table, and Vincent was given to understand that he would share a similar fate. He was surrounded by rebels with drawn knives. Before the command of execution was given, he succeeded in making them understand he was an American and not a Spaniard. The chief ordered his life spared.

In the meantime the Spanish soldiers attacked the place in the rear, and the rebels attempted to escape. The Spanish forces rounded together some 200 natives, many of whom were young boys, and were indulging in an indiscriminate slaughter. Ignorant at the time of what was transpiring within a few score yards of him, Mr. Vincent could hear the cries and prayers of the helpless natives amid the roar of the musketry. After a time the fire slackened and all was quiet, except a few occasional shots, which sounded the death knell of those among the natives who had escaped the volleys poured into their midst. About 8 o'clock the next morning Mr. Vincent crept out of the ruined building, and succeeded in getting aboard the British steamer Gulf of Maratan, which had a number of Philippine refugees bound for Singapore.

GRAVES PROPERLY MARKED.

So That Identification Is Possible---Shafter Is Thanked.

Washington, June 29.—The war department has posted the following bulletin:

Playa Del Este, June 28.—Hon Russell A. Alger, Secretary of War: The graves of the dead are marked so that there will be no mistake in identification. The health of the command is reported to me by the surgeons as remarkable, outside of the wounded. There are today less than 150 sick. So far no wounded have died, and but two men of disease since leaving Tampa. SHAFTER,

Major General Commanding.

The war department also gives out the following cable correspondence:

"War Department, Washington, June 25.—Maj. Gen. Shafter, commanding, etc.—The president directs me to send his thanks to you and your army for the gallant action of yesterday, which I gladly do. R. A. ALGER,

"Secretary of War."

"Baiquiri, Cuba, June 26.—Hon Secretary of War, Washington: Sincere thanks to the president for his congratulations. SHAFTER,

"Major General."

SPANISH RETREAT.

Gen. Pando's Troops Return to Manzanillo, Failing to Reach Santiago.

New York, June 29.—A dispatch to the Herald from Juragua, Cuba, via Kingston, says:

Information has been received here from Manzanillo to the effect that five battalions of Spanish troops which left that city several days ago to reinforce Gen. Linares returned to Manzanillo two days after their departure. This news is regarded as indicating the failure of the Spanish attempt, under command of Gen. Pando, to rush 10,000 trained troops to the defense of Santiago.

Gen. Pando, as has been told in former dispatches, began a desperate effort to get his troops to Santiago as soon as it was known that the Americans would land and begin the invasion of Cuba in that vicinity. He commands the most important body of Spanish troops, aside from Gen. Linares' forces in Eastern Cuba. He was ordered by Capt. Gen. Blanco to proceed with all haste towards Santiago, and the Spaniards based their only hope of repelling the invasion on the prompt arrival of Pando's forces about Santiago.

Gen. Garcia, the moment he heard of Pando's advance, grasped the importance of the movement and beat all of his energies to intercept the Spanish troops. His scouts made hazardous journeys to west and north of Santiago over every route by which Gen. Pando might advance, but were unable to get trace of the Spanish reinforcements. Gen. Garcia would allow no relaxation in the search, however, and had his mind bent on intercepting Pando when Gen. Shafter arrived with his army off Santiago.

One of the first matters Gen. Garcia brought to Gen. Shafter's attention was the question of preventing Pando from joining Gen. Linares in Santiago. Gen. Garcia had not in his command a force strong enough to force Gen. Pando and his 10,000 men, but he though his Cubans could hold Pando in check until Shafter could send reinforcements to drive Pando back from the beleaguered city of Santiago.

Gen. Shafter was much perplexed as to Gen. Pando's whereabouts. The information received to day from Manzanillo has set at rest the fears of both the American and Cuban commanders; they believe that Pando's men were either unequal to the difficult march from Manzanillo to Santiago, or else that Gen. Linares, realizing the hopelessness of his position, sent word that it was useless to send these additional troops to that point.

If Gen. Pando succeeded in forming a junction with Gen. Linares, it would be of but temporary benefit. Gen. Shafter having obtained a desirable landing place and established permanent headquarters within commanding distance of Santiago, the fall of the city would be but a question of time. Additional American forces would be rushed to Santiago and when the Spanish defeat came it would be the surrender of that many more Spanish troops.

MUST PAY THE DUTY.

Big Tea Cargo Arrives Too Late to Escape Tax.

Port Townsend, Wash., June 29.—The Northern Pacific liner Columbia has arrived fourteen days from Kobe, Japan, with a large cargo of tea. From the time she sailed all possible speed was made in order to reach the United States before the duty of 10 per cent per pound on tea went into effect. It is said the duty on her cargo will exceed $400,000.

MARTIAL LAW IN AUSTRIA.

Vienna, June 29.—The decree issued yesterday proclaiming martial law in the districts of Limanowa and Neu-Sandec, Austrian Gallicia, owing to the frequent cases of murder, robbery and incendiarism which have occurred there, extends through Western Gallicia.

MCKINLEY IS VEXED

Because the Senate Has Cut Out the Canadian Commission Appropriation.

IT MAY RECONSIDER

Because Business Interests Appear to Demand it---Probable Appointees.

Washington, June 29.—The president is deeply concerned at the action of the senate appropriations committee in striking out of the sundry civil appropriation act the clause appropriating $50,000 to defray the expenses of the joint commission to be held at Ottawa, Can., this fall, to endeavor to effect a settlement of the many important questions at issue between the United States and Canada. This commission had been arranged for by the secretary of state, acting under the direction of the president, in answer to what was believed by both of them to be an almost unanimous popular demand.

There were many questions pending between the two governments that contained possibilities of serious complications. Such, for instance, as the Alaskan boundary question which, on account of the extraordinary development of the Klondike country, had become of a matter of greatest importance. Then there were questions connected with the great lake boundaries, with the transit of goods in bond over Canadian and American territory, and with the supply of bait to American fishermen.

The growing fraternal spirit between the United States on the one side and Canada and England on the other seemed to make the time auspicious for an early settlement of these and other questions that have long given trouble to the state department; therefore as an outgrowth of the Bering sea negotiations, there was an exchange of notes between the United States and Canada, through the medium of the British embassy here during the late winter and early spring that finally resulted in an agreement to appoint a joint commission to meet at Ottawa and endeavor to adjust these open issues.

In arranging for this commission the president was acting clearly within his constitutional powers, so the action of the senate committee has been received with great surprise, as indicating a clear purpose to interfere with the free exercise of constitutional treaty framing function by the president. It is not believed by the administration that the opposition to this commission manifested in the senate committee will prevail in the senate when attention is drawn to the facts.

The appropriation of money for the expenses does not in any way commit the senate to the approval of the treaty when it is submitted to it, but the president having so far advanced the negotiation as to permit the British side to name the personnel of the commission which will represent it, the department of state would be placed in a mortifying position if now prevented from carrying out its part of the agreement through lack of a small appropriation. Moreover, our exporting and other interests are particularly anxious for a successful outcome of this commission, which among other things will include preferential tariff rates for American products and manufactures.

The British government has signified its approval of the plan for the commission to consider pending controversies between the United States and Canada, and to proclaim treaty for their settlement. Following this approval an understanding had been reached that the commission will begin its session within the next few weeks, during the latter part of July at Quebec.

It is possible that the personnel of the commission will show some distinguished names, as it is understood that Baron Herschel, one of the foremost public men and jurists of England will be one of the commissioners in behalf of Great Britain and Canada, and that Louis Davies, the Canadian minister of marine, will be associated with him.

It is expected that President McKinley will name the American commissioners at an early date, and it is understood that a United States senator, probably Senator Hoar, will be among those designated to represent the United States. It is quite likely also that John W. Kasson, John W. Foster, or possibly both, will be on the commission, as each has taken a part in the preliminary negotiations.

CARE OF WOUNDED.

Army Hospital Ship Relief Will Sail From New York Thursday.

New York June 25.—What is undoubtedly the finest hospital ship in the world will steam out of New York harbor next Thursday and proceed to Santiago de Cuba. She is the Relief, the pride of the war department. The Solace, Uncle Sam's other hospital ship, belongs to the navy department, and is on duty in Cuban waters.

The Relief is divided up into five large wards for the sick and wounded, into store rooms and mess rooms, operating rooms and officers' quarters, fitted with every appliance known to modern medical and surgical science, including all known instruments likely to be required in surgical operations, two complete X-ray outfits, a microscopic laboratory, perfect facilities for photographing, and with electrical power everywhere running the lights and hundreds of fans scattered throughout the ship, whose zephyrs will make the wounded soldier forget that he is not in his Northern home instead of off torrid Cuba.

Besides a large quantity of medical stores, the ship will be loaded with the greatest cargo of delicacies that any similar vessel ever carried. Three special plants have been provided which will add infinitely to the comfort of the sick. They are the distilling plant, the ice or refrigerating plant and the plant for carbonizing water.

The wards are models in their way. The walls are painted white, the floors covered with rubber tiling and the beds enamelled in white. The beds have fine wire woven springs and comfortable mattresses, which, being cheap, are thrown away as soon as soiled. Bathrooms abound. They are connected with all the wards, with the private quarters of the medical staff and with those of the ship's officers. There is a special bath which will be the making of any bath room in the country. All the bath rooms have rubber floors.

For hoisting or lowering the sick or wounded Naval Constructor Francis T. Bowles has devised a special apparatus. On the forward side of the mainmast he has fitted a steam boom. By its use patients can be taken from a warship and placed on any deck of the Relief or in any ward desired.

POPE IS AFFECTED.

His Holiness Somewhat Rattled Over the War News.

Rome, June 29.—The pope is said to be greatly affected by the course of the Spanish-American war and in view of his age and nervous prostration for some time past his entourage is anxious, although his physicians declare there is no cause for alarm.

PREPARE TO MOVE.

Twenty-Seven Regiments at Chickamauga Will Be Ready Soon.

Chickamauga Park, June 29.—The order yesterday conveying information that the entire First army corps would be sent to Cuba has doubled the activity at Camp Thomas. The work of completely equipping and arming the twenty-seven regiments is already in progress, and officials say things will be ready to shape sooner than is generally thought possible. It is believed that all the troops under orders will be moving inside of two weeks. The Western & Atlantic and Southern railroad officials have received no orders from the war department to supply cars for the moving of troops from Chickamauga Park to Tampa, or some other Southern sea port. The only thing of this sort is a notice from the war department to the local Western & Atlantic officials, stating that troops would doubtless be moved South very soon, and suggesting that they make preparations to furnish a large number of cars when the proper time arrived.

An order appointing a court-martial board for the First division, Third corps, has been issued from Gen. Grant's headquarters. Following are the members of the board: Maj. Alfred O. Kennett, First Missouri; Capt. William C. Noble, Fourteenth New York; Capt. R. H. Harding, First New York; Capt. A. T. Johnson, First Vermont; Capt. W. H. Purple, Third Tennessee; First Lieut. W. S. Robinson, First Missouri; First Lieut. George W. Cleveland, First Vermont; First Lieut. Charles Williams, First Vermont; First Lieut. George W. Brown, Third Tennessee.

Brig. Gen. Howard Carroll and Maj. Moore, representing the governor of New York, are in the New York camps inspecting the rations. They are thoroughly convinced that Uncle Sam is taking good care of his soldiers.

Col. Wilder of the Fourteenth New York has received permission for his regiment to engage in target practice.

Brig. Gen. Waites, formerly of Texas, has assumed command of the Second brigade, First army corps, relieving Col. Pew, commander of the Ninth Massachusetts. When the new commander assumed formal charge of the brigade Col. Pew returned to the Eighth, relieving Col. Bailey.

According to orders received, the Twelfth New York is restored to the Second brigade, Third division, under the brigade command of Gen. Waites. This regiment was transferred to the Second division, so that it might be among the regiments to move under the orders received from the First division and the First and Second brigade of the First corps. The entire corps now goes and the regiment can resume its old place.

The Y. M. C. A. has now twenty tents and over fifty men at work in Camp Thomas. The average daily attendance at each tent is over 1000. During the past week, over a thousand man have professed religion in the evangelistic meetings held by Rev. Torrey and other delegates.

The government paymasters will probably begin their work Friday. All the pay rolls are now being put in shape. The twenty-seven regiments ordered away will probably be paid before their departure.

GEORGIA DEMOCRATS.

Nominated a State Ticket According to Choice of Primaries.

Atlanta, Ga., June 29.—The state Democratic convention met here last night. Little interest was manifested, the work of the convention being merely to put in nomination the ticket chosen at the state primaries, June 6. No names except those of the successful candidates in the primaries will be presented.

The ticket is as follows: Governor, Allen D. Candler; secretary of state, Phillip Cook; treasurer, William Speer; comptroller general, W. A. Wright; commissioner of agriculture, O. S. Stevens; prison commissioner, G. O. Glenn; attorney general, J. M. Terrill.

MCKINLEY AN LL.D.

New Haven, Conn., June 29.—The honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred today by Yale university upon William McKinley, president of the United States.

MERRITT'S MILITARY SECRETARY.

Atlanta, Ga., June 29.—Maj. Gen. George P. Schriven, signal officer of the department of the Gulf, who was recently appointed military secretary to Gen. Wesley Merritt, left last night for San Francisco.

HAD TO LEAVE.

A lady had a cook who gave her every satisfaction, and she was under the impression that the cook was equally satisfied with her place, says the Boston Traveler. But one morning, to the lady's surprise, the cook gave her the usual month's notice.

"What do you want to leave for, Jane?" asked her mistress. "I am very much pleased with you, and I thought you were quite comfortable here."

"Yes, mum, I'm comfortable enough in a way, but—"

The cook hesitated and fidgeted about.

"But what?" queried her mistress.

"Well, mum," she blurted out, "the fact is the master doesn't seem to 'preciate my cookery, and I can't stop in a place where my efforts to please are wasted, so I'd rather go, mum."

"But what makes you think that your master doesn't appreciate your cookery? Has he ever complained to you?" asked the lady.

"No, mum, but my late master was always laid up through overeating—he said he couldn't help doing so because my cookery was so delicious—but master here hasn't been laid up once all the three months I've been with you, and that's just what bothers me so, mum."

HOBSON'S EXCHANGE

Blanco, Linares and Cervera Favored an Exchange.

Row Started By Spanish Newspapers Prevented It.

Hobson and Companions are Now On a Vessel.

New York, June 29.—A dispatch to the World from Madrid says: The Spanish government and Capt. Gen. Blanco are equally disposed to exchange the Merrimac prisoners, in fact an authorization to exchange them was telegraphed to Gen. Blanco, but the Havana and Madrid newspapers made a row over it, affecting to believe that it would be very dangerous to liberate men who have been close enough to the defenses of Santiago to be in a position to carry back important information.

Accordingly after much hesitation, the government insisted upon Gen. Blanco, Gen. Linares and Admiral Cervera refusing to exchange, although all three were in favor of an exchange.

According to Spanish advices, Lieut. Hobson and the other prisoners were confined only a short time in Morro fort and were then transferred to a vessel in the bay. They are believed to be safe as long as Linares and Cervera can control the situation. The Spanish regulars are sure to respect the rights of prisoners. The only danger is from the volunteers.

Members of the old Spanish party are exasperated by the downfall of the old regime. The arrival of Admiral Camara's fleet, in the Suez, on the way to the Philippines, leads to confirm the belief that Germany and Austria will assist Spain when the fleet will have asserted the existence of Spanish sovereignty on the islands, outside of Manilla, which Camara is charged to visit.

THE OSHKOSH STRIKE.

Portion of the Military to Return to Milwaukee.

Oshkosh, Wis., June 29.—With consent of the mayor and the sheriff, Governor Scofield has decided to withdraw the four companies of infantry, numbering 300 men, leaving the light battery and light horse squadron to take care of the strike in connection with the 300 deputy sheriffs and special police already sworn in. The infantry will leave for Milwaukee on an early train this afternoon.

Everything remains quiet and orderly, and it is now thought the battery and cavalry may be withdrawn in a day or two. The efforts to settle the strike by compromise have resulted in failure, owing to the firm refusal of the manufacturers to treat with the strikers as union labor. The strikers would undoubtedly yield if the union were recognized and some small concessions in wages allowed.

PRESIDENT TO SIGN IT.

Bankruptcy Bill Will Soon Become a Law.

Washington, June 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bankruptcy bill which passed the house yesterday, was in the nature of a compromise between the house and senate bills and was not entirely to the liking of the supporters of either measure. It was supported by a majority of each, however, as it afforded opportunity for the liquidation of debts and the protection of creditors against dishonest debtors. The bill will go to the president in a day or two and will without doubt receive his signature.

OLD ENOUGH TO DIE.

Venerable Pennsylvanian Reaches a Ripe Old Age.

Scranton, Pa., June 29.—Patrick Haggins, said to be the oldest man in Pennsylvania, died here last night, aged 117 years.

His age is authenticated by records and certificates which show that he was born in County Londonderry, Ireland, Nov. 1, 1781. Mr. Haggins' father died at the age of 111 years and his mother at 107.

HANGED THE RINGLEADERS.

Russia Disposes of a Few of Her Rebellious Subjects.

St. Petersburg, June 29.—Chief Mahomed Ali Khalif and five other ringleaders of the attack recently made by 1000 natives on a Russian post garrisoned by 300 infantry at the town of Andijan, province of Forghana, Turkestan, when twenty of the soldiers were killed and eighteen others wounded, have been publicly hanged.

Chief Ischan had summoned his followers to take part in a holy war, and the attack was made on the Russian garrison at the town of Andijan. After a temporary defeat the soldiers rallied and succeeded in dispersing their assailants, killing eleven of them and capturing the ringleaders.

An imperial decree was subsequently issued in connection with the outbreak depriving the governor of Forghana of his office for allowing an insurgent uprising to take place in his province.

SAMPSON'S REPORT.

Santiago Batteries Silenced —Visit From Garcia—Arrival of Shafter's Troops.

Washington, June 29.—The navy department posted the following bulletin, giving a report from Admiral Sampson, under date of June 22, off Santiago:

On the morning of the 16th, the batteries at the entrance of Santiago were subjected to severe bombardment by the fleet. The firing was deliberate and in general most excellent. The batteries were quickly silenced. On the 15th the Texas, Marblehead and Suwanee destroyed the forts at Guantanamo; on the 16th the Yankee engaged a Spanish gunboat off Cienfuegos.

On June 17 Lieut. Harlow, with two steam launches, one under Cadet Powell and one under Cadet Hart, made an examination of Cabanas bay. The launches were subjected to a heavy and continued fire at short range and were struck seventeen times, although no one was hurt. Lieut. Harlow in his report particularly praises the conduct of Cadets Hart and Powell and Coxswains O'Donnell and Blom.

On June 19 Gen. Garcia and his staff visited the flagship, having arrived that morning at Gen. Rabi's camp at Ascerrades. My impression of Gen. Garcia is of the most pleasant character. He is a large handsome man of most frank and engaging manners and of most soldierly appearance. This fleet has, with my directions, furnished arms, clothing and food to the Cuban forces, both east and west of Santiago. Much has been done in this direction at Guantanamo by Commander McCalla, who has been most energetic in rendering them all assistance possible. Great activity and courage has been shown in the Cubans at Guantanamo and Commander McCalla is most eulogistic in reference to their conduct.

There are about 10,000 Cubans in this immediate vicinity. On June 20 transports arrived and Gen. Shafter paid a visit to Gens. Garcia and Rabi. The process of disembarkation was rendered difficult by heavy seas the heaviest which we have had during the three weeks the fleet has been stationed here.

By 3 in the afternoon, 4000 men were ashore, and the work was proceeding with great rapidity. The pier was not injured and one of the steamers went alongside it. The water supply was not injured.

The Vesuvius has done almost nightly firing since she has been here, the explosion of the shells producing very great effect.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S DESIRE.

To Participate In the United States and Canada Agreement.

London, June 29.—The premier of Newfoundland, Sir James Winter, who has arrived here on a special mission, says in an interview that Newfoundland should participate in any arrangement arrived at between the United States and Canada. In regard to the French claims in Newfoundland the premier says the colony desires a termination of the French treaties.

Browning Lecture Tonight.

It was decided last evening that the course of Browning lectures should be given at 8 o'clock in the evening. The subject of tonight's lecture is "Tennyson's Idea of God." The feeling of some present seemed so strongly in favor of an afternoon appointment, that it has been decided to give a supplementary course at 4 o'clock, if a sufficient number is secured. If those interested in this course would attend this evening, plans would be made for the first lecture tomorrow afternoon.

A CRUEL BLOW.

The late Benjamin H. Brewster, President Arthur's attorney general, whose face was terribly disfigured by scars, was once engaged in a case as attorney for the Pennsylvania railroad, and the opposing counsel, in his closing speech, made a most brutal attack on him, says the San Francisco Argonaut. "The dealings of the railroad," he said, "are as tortuous and twisted as the features of the man who represented it."

Mr. Brewster gave no outward sign that he felt this cruel blow until he had finished his argument. Then he said: "For the first time in my life the personal defect from which I suffer has been made the subject of public remark. I will tell you how I came by it. When I was 5 years of age I was one day playing with a younger sister, when she fell into an open grate where a fire was burning. I sprang to her assistance, dragged her from danger, and in so doing I fell myself, with my face upon the burning coals. When I was picked up my face was as black"—and his finger transfixed his antagonist—"as that man's heart."

SHELLING THE DONS

Clearing Out Harbor Mines and Proving Effective In Many Ways.

Key West, Fla., June 29.—(Copyrighted 1898 by the Associated Press.)—A vessel that has just arrived here from Guantanamo, which she left on Sunday noon, brought one of the officers of the United States gunboat Dolphin, who is returning home on sick leave. The officer in question says the Dolphin has been co-operating with the marines in Guantanamo harbor, though lately matters have been quiet there. When he left on Sunday there were twenty-four ships in the harbor, including fighting vessels, colliers, the hospital ship Solace and the Red Cross society's steamer State of Texas, with Miss Clara Barton. It was the prevalent belief that Santiago de Cuba would be taken before July 1, as the American troops were only five miles distant from the city and closing in. An excellent water supply has been obtained on the shore of Guantanamo, where there were 600 Cubans in addition to the force of American marines.

The passage leading to the inner harbor, the officer reports, was thoroughly cleaned of mines by launches from the Dolphin and other ships. Eight mines weighing 170 pounds each were taken up and sent to New York, where they will be cleaned before they are put into use in American waters.

The Spanish troops at Caimanera and other points on the inner harbor are cut off from Santiago and are starving. They may be captured at pleasure. The Texas and the Marblehead have already destroyed the forts at the inner passage, and our ships may enter the entrance to the harbor and shell Caimanera whenever they are ready.

The Dolphin took a conspicuous part in the bombardment of Santiago on June 6. After the principal firing she went toward the shore and fired shells into a train approaching the city with soldiers. With the glasses it could be seen that the train was wrecked and the men were scrambling into the woods. The insurgents afterward reported that seventy men and eleven women were killed.

At Guantanamo the Dolphin protected the camp of marines at night, casting her searchlight into the woods occupied by the Spaniards and shelling their positions with 3-inch shrapnel guns. Throughout the fighting on both sides of the bay, the Dolphin raked the Spanish shelters. Her most notable achievement was on June 14 when the marines made an offensive movement and captured the well. Our troops moved upon the Spaniards, with the Cubans in front and on their flanks as scouts. Whenever the Spaniards could be seen the Dolphin threw shells among them. When they made their last stand the marines wig-wagged to the Dolphin "Shell the house." The Dolphin could see no house except the one she had previously hit and which she knew was empty. She fired at random up the little valley and a shell, tearing its way through the trees, entered a house hidden among them. The Spaniards poured out like ants from a hill and the Cubans and marines picked off sixty-eight. The shell killed seven.

In some cases the ships could only judge of the skill of their gunners by observing the vultures gathering about spots where shells had been aimed. The Spanish dead were in many cases left unburied.

Everybody, the Dolphin's officer says, is enthusiastic in praise of the Cubans, who are utterly without fear and are unwilling to retire when ordered to stop fighting. The fortitude of wounded Cubans is described as remarkable.

BLOOD AT CAMP ALGER.

A Little Gore Shed In the Drills Yesterday.

Washington, June 29.—Blood was spilled at Camp Alger yesterday. During a sham battle Harvey Reed, of Company B, Sixth Massachusetts, was shot in the head with a blank cartridge at close range. He lost part of one ear and it is feared his eyesight is permanently injured.

An exciting encounter between two brigades occurred yesterday a few miles from the camp. The Second brigade was returning from its march to the Potomac when it encountered a column on the road composed of the First Rhode Island, Third Missouri and Second Tennessee. The Second Tennessee refused to give way so that the Second brigade might pass, and finally charged the brigade with fixed bayonets. Two or three men were slightly wounded.

FIRE AT TOWER.

Archie Cameron's Building Damaged Yesterday.

Tower, June 28.—(Special to the Herald.)—The fire alarm was turned in shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, when it was discovered that the building of Archie Cameron on North Second street was on fire. After some very hard work by the department the flames were subdued. The fire started at the rear of the second story, over the saloon from a defective chimney. Damage about $300; fully insured.

TO CONFER WITH CANADA.

Business Men Want the Eliminated Appropriation Restored.

New York, June 29.—In consequence of the action of the senate committee in cutting out of the general deficiency bill the appropriation of $50,000 passed by the house of representatives for the purpose of enabling an American commission to confer with a Canadian commission in an endeavor to adjust all differences existing between the two countries, the following telegram has been sent to Washington:

"Hon. C. K. Davis, chairman committee on foreign relations United States senate, Washington, D. C.—Representing great commercial interests of this country, we heartily favor any measure that will extend and develop commercial intercourse between this country and Canada. We therefore earnestly hope that the senate will restore the appropriation for the Canadian commission and will not lose this favorable opportunity for adjusting all our differences and increasing our friendly relations with the Dominion."

The telegram was signed by many prominent persons, among them being A. E. Orr, president chamber of commerce; Gustave H. Schwab, chairman committee of foreign commerce and the revenue laws of the chamber of commerce; E. T. Barrows, vice president New York produce exchange; J. Edward Simmons, president Fourth National bank; Clarence W. Bowen; H. W. Cannon, president Chase National bank; George F. Baker, president First National bank; Warner Miller; L. W. Beasley, president Marine association, port of New York; A. B. Hepburn, vice president National City bank; J. P. Morgan & Co., and Levi P. Morton.

When Baby's Ill.

When the little loved one is sick, when its brow is fevered, its pulse rapid, its features pinched with pain and there are great blue circles under its eyes, the mother hovers about the bedside, and with anxious eyes tries to read the meaning of every expression upon the physician's face.

A woman may save herself almost all of this worriment about her children if she will but take proper care of her womanly health during the period of gestation. A child born of a mother who is thoroughly healthy in a womanly way will almost unfailingly be healthy and robust. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts directly on the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of maternity. It makes them well, strong and vigorous. It heals all internal ulceration and inflammation. It stops debilitating drains. It fits for motherhood and insures a healthy child. Thousands of happy mothers have testified to its merits. No honest dealer will urge you to take an inferior substitute for the little added profit it may afford him.

"A lady told me that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was good to take when with child," writes Mrs. Annie Simpson, of No. 13 Chelmsford Street, Lawrence, Mass.: "I was suffering terrible pains, and was unable to get about the house without being in misery. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and the first bottle greatly relieved me. I took three bottles before my baby was born, at which time I suffered very little. The baby has been healthy since birth, and is now three months old and weighs fifteen pounds. When my older child was born I suffered terribly. I don't know how to thank Dr. Pierce enough."

They don't simply give temporary relief, but are a permanent cure—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for constipation. They never gripe. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative and two a mild cathartic.

MINNESOTA BOYS GO

Twelfth and Fourteenth Minnesota Regiments to Leave Chickamauga for Tampa.

Chickamauga Park, June 29.—The order issued Sunday to immediately equip and prepare fifteen regiments of the First corps to form an expeditionary force was revoked by Maj. Gen. Brooke yesterday.

This does not change the plan to prepare for an expedition, however, since the revoking order affects more especially the transfers that were not named in the former order. It provides further that instead of fifteen regiments to be immediately equipped and prepared, the entire First corps of twenty-seven regiments to be hastily prepared for active field service and the natural inference prevails among the best posted army officers at the park that the entire force will be off for Tampa or other seaports within a week or ten days, or as soon as transports can be provided.

The regiments included are: Ninth Pennsylvania, Second Missouri, First New Hampshire, Twelfth New York, Twenty-first Kansas, Eighth Massachusetts, First South Carolina, Twelfth Minnesota, Fifth Pennsylvania, Fourteenth Minnesota, First Pennsylvania, Second Ohio, Sixth Ohio, One Hundred and Fifty-eighth Indiana, First Georgia, Thirty-first Michigan, Sixteenth Pennsylvania, Second Wisconsin, Third Kentucky, Fourth Pennsylvania, Third Illinois, Fourth Ohio, First Kentucky, Third Wisconsin and Fifth Illinois.

Maj. Gen. Broke was appointed by the president to command the corps. Maj. Gen. Wade will be left in command at Camp Thomas. This is, in fact, the understanding of members of Gen. Brooke's staff, and the change made by today's order appears to have been in accordance with Gen. Brooke's desire not to go to the front without sufficient men for any emergency that may arise.

The work of equipping the corps is proceeding with all possible speed and the quartermasters and the ordnance departments are taxed to their utmost capacity.

George W. Homan, Company H, Fifth Pennsylvania, died yesterday at the division headquarters and the body was shipped last night to his former home at Reading for interment.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Flint & Co., of New York, have received a dispatch from Berch & Co., their agents at Valparaiso, Chile, saying there is no truth in the report that the Chilean armored cruiser Almirante O'Higgins has been sold to the government of Spain.

At Milwaukee, Wis., at least 100,000 people viewed the grand prize illuminated bicycle pageant which was the feature of the carnival program last night.

Rev. Peter Nogues, S. J., chaplain of Marquette college of Milwaukee, was found dead, sitting in a chair in his study room late yesterday afternoon. The cause of his death was heart disease.

At Warren, Ohio, a letter received here from John Muldoon, a citizen of Johnsville, who is now in the Alaskan gold fields, says that of the 101 men who left Seattle with him in March, only four survived. Two were drowned and the others perished from cold and hunger.

An earthquake was felt Tuesday night around Aquila, capitol of the province of that name, eighteen miles northeast of Rome and along the Antrodoco valley. A number of houses collapsed, one person was killed and a dozen were injured. Five peasants were killed and seven others were injured at Santa Rufina near Aquila.

MANILLA ADVICES

Aguinaldo Captures Province of Cavite, Including Governor of Batangas.

INSURGENTS ARMED

Dewey Gives Them Rifles and Ammunition---Chinese Famine and Plague.

Victoria, B. C., June 29.—Steamer Empress of China has arrived from the Orient bringing mail advices from Manilla up to June 16. At that date the rebel leader, Aguinaldo, had captured the province of Cavite, except four towns. He had taken 400 prisoners including the governor of Batangas, who attempted suicide when captured.

Admiral Dewey has given the rebels 5000 magazines and 200,000 rounds ammunition and 4500 rifles were landed from a filibusterer from Amoy about the end of May. Ample provision is being made for the removal of the foreigners in case of bombardment. Eight steamers, with the consent of the Spanish consul general and sanction of Admiral Dewey have been removed from the Pasig river.

H. M. S. Pique arrived at Hong Kong on May 30 from Iloilo and Manila. When they left Iloilo all was quiet. Business was proceeding as usual and there was no panic whatever either among the Spaniards or the foreign residents. The only complaint made was that it was difficult to ship goods from thep lace owing to the lack of steamers. The Spanish gunboat El Cano had left Iloilo and taken refuge in the Samoangen river. The capture of the American ship Saranac appears to have been a farce as the officers of the Pique stated that she has been transferred to the British flag some days previous to her capture by the El Cano and the Spaniards have accordingly handed her over to her owners again. There are only 100 Spanish troops at Iloilo and the place is practically undefended.

Chinese advices say owing to the scarcity of rice a famine riot occurred at Wenchow on May 19. The principal yamens in the town were wrecked and also the official residence of the taotoi. Pillage was not the object of the wrecking for after wrecking everything breakable in the magistrate's yamen the rioters went into the residence portion and wrecked the furniture. The mandarins are powerless, the military force being insufficient.

Great Britain has leased from China the strip of coast from Deep bay to Mirs bay and the range of hills at the back of the Kowloon peninsula. By the acquisition of this little strip of territory the ratification of the frontier forces of Kowloon, with a view to a complete defense of Hong Kong has been attained.

The plague is still raging at Hong Kong, Canton and Amoy. Over 1000 deaths have occurred at the former place since January.

A serious fight took place at Nagasaki on June 4 between forty Russians and twenty Japanese blue jackets. Six Russians and three Japanese were injured.

The obsequies of Capt. Gridley at Yokohama on June 9 were largely attended.

MINNESOTA IS GRATEFUL.

Thanks Expressed to San Francisco's Generous People.

St. Paul, June 29.—Minnesota sends greeting and thanks to the people of the Pacific coast for kindness to her volunteers in the following, which was mailed yesterday:

St. Paul, June 28.—To the People of San Francisco, Greeting: At a meeting of the auxiliary association of the Thirteenth regiment Minnesota infantry United States volunteers, the executive committee was instructed to prepare and transmit to be published in the daily papers of San Francisco a formal expression of gratitude for and appreciation of the unwearied and unbounded kindness with which the soldiers from Minnesota as well as from all other states have been welcomed to your beautiful and hospitable city. From the moment their feet touched the shores of the Pacific up to the last farewell shouted or waved to them as the ships that bore them disappeared through your Golden Gate toward the new duties and destiny of our country near the rising sun, your treatment of them has been such as only kin are accustomed to show to brothers of the same blood.

We, their parents, relatives and friends, dwelling midway between the two great oceans, acknowledge with thankfulness and pleasure the new ties that shall hereafter bind us to our fellow-citizens and kinsmen of the Pacific coast.

The fruit and flowers of your beautiful state fitly symbolize the generous and graceful courtesies with which you have fairly overwhelmed our soldier boys, proving to them and to us that California is not only rich in the treasures of the mine, the orchard, the garden and the field, but possesses that rarer and most lasting wealth of the open hand, the hospitable home and the warm heart.

On all and individually by whom this kindness to our dear boys has been shown, whether by the efficient organizations that have banded noble men and women together for their country's common good, by the sacred family circle or by the friendly service of one person to another, we invoke the blessing of him that said "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me;" and we invite you to join with us in the heartfelt prayer that your sons and brothers and friends and ours and those from every state in our glorious and beloved country may be kept safe by sea and land and brought back to us again crowned with the laurels of a soldier's duty bravely, well and wisely done.

A WORD ON FRUITS.

They Are to Be Partaken of With Judgment and Discretion.

The bountiful earth brings forth fruits in their seasons. They are wholesome, but should be eaten with the sauce of discretion.

The apple is at the head of the list. It is more easily digested than any other fruit. But the skin should always be discarded, for it irritates the bowels.

Fresh figs are good, but dried ones should always be carefully cooked.

Grate the pineapple, or cut it into tiny bits, for its fibre is tough, and resists the juices in the stomach.

The common banana is a deceptive thing, and children should never be allowed to eat it raw. Baked bananas are highly praised.

Never should the skin of any fruit be swallowed. The skin is an armor for the pulp. It is as unfit for food as a piece of chalk is.

Whenever you have eaten underripe or overripe fruit, and feel sharp, darting pains in the gastric region, you will find prompt relief in Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky, taken in a little warm water.

It is supremely important that the sickness caused by bad fruit should be treated at once. The value of a good whisky in bowel troubles is urged by the leaders in the medical profession.

Duffy's Pure Malt is absolutely free from harmful matter, as chemical tests prove.

MINNESOTA CROP REPORT.

Heavy Rains and Hail Do Some Little Damage.

St. Paul, June 29.—The official crop report, issued yesterday and covering Minnesota, says: The week was warm till June 24, especially on June 23, when temperatures considerably above 90 degrees were recorded all over the state. The heated period was followed by cooler weather on June 25 and 26. In Polk county rain fell nearly every day and the northern part of the valley has had abundant rain. Showers fell in all parts of the state, mostly in the latter half of the week, but the Middle West and Southwest are still in need of rain. In Marshall county hail was destructive to large areas of grain and there were falls of hail elsewhere, but no damage is recorded.

Good winds during the heated term retarded the tendency to rust, which might have been very destructive if there had been no wind. In places the wind was high and where it was accompanied by heavy showers the grain was beaten down.

The conditions have been excellent for corn and potatoes, which have grown rapidly. Spring wheat continues to look well generally, though in the driest sandy soils it was somewhat affected by the heat.

Heading in early wheat is reported as far north as Becker county, and it is said to be in bloom in Wabasha county. Winter wheat is showing signs of ripening.

A large crop of oats is expected. Rye is filling well and will be ready to cut in two weeks. Barley is well headed and in the south it is turning color. A good clover crop is in harvest, though the curing conditions have not been good.

A great many apples are said to have fallen, but it is probable that enough remain for a good crop.

GENERAL ARMY ORDERS.

Leaves of Absence—Arms For Musicians—Hospital Service.

Washington, June 29.—Several general orders issued by order of Gen. Miles, were made public at the war department today.

A division commander may grant leave of absence for ten days; a corps or department commander for one month, and the commanding general of the army for four months; or they may extend to such periods (those granted by subordinate commanders. Applications for leaves of more than four months' duration, from officers of the staff corps and departments desiring leaves of absence to pass beyond the territorial limits of their commands will be forwarded to the adjutant general of the army for the action of the secretary of war.

By direction of the secretary of war, ordnance officers are to issue to the officer in charge of the non-commissioned staff, band or company of musicians, of volunteer regiments when they take the field, upon the requisition of such officer, thirty revolvers which will allow one for each member of the regimental band.

For the medical department in the field, the wheel transportation is to be one ambulance to 400 men of the effective force; one 4-horse wagon to 600 men of the effective force, and one 4-horse wagon to each brigade. In the matter of tentage each ambulance company is to have seventeen common tents for privates and two common tents for non-commissioned officers. For each division field hospital, hospital tents are to be furnished on a basis of six patients (beds) to each tent. A hand litter and slings are to be furnished by the quartermaster's department and two for each ambulance.

Commanding generals of army corps will detail, upon the application of chief surgeons of corps, two line officers, not above the grade of first lieutenant, for duty as acting assistant quartermasters with the additional service of each division.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES.

Secretary Bliss Recommends Government Aid For Each State.

Washington, June 29.—Secretary of the Interior Bliss today approved a recommendation of the commissioner of education that each state and territory be given $2,000 for the support of the agricultural and mechanical colleges during the fiscal year ending July 1, 1899. This is done under authority of the act of 1890 providing funds to be expended in the advancement of these colleges.

BEAR ON A COWCATCHER.

Held For a Ten-Mile Run and Was Shot.

Not long ago, as a railroad train was passing through Wilder's Cut, near Olcut Run, Pa., the engineer was astonished to see a black bear coming around a sharp curve. The cut is so narrow that there is hardly room for a man to stand aside and allow an engine to pass without striking him, says the Boston Transcript.

Bruin was more amazed than the engineer. Instead of stepping aside, he reared on his haunches and awaited events. The locomotive was running less than twenty miles an hour, for the place is a dangerous one. Upon seeing the bear the engineer shut off steam and applied the brakes, but the distance was too short to escape an accident. The cowcatcher slid under the hind legs of the brute and lifted him off the ground.

Thinking all trouble was over, the engineer put on steam once more, while the fireman climbed out of the cab window and stole along the guard-rail to find out what had become of the bear. He was there, clasping the cowcatcher, the lowest part of his body just grazing the ground and his head almost reaching the bottom of the headlight. He seemed to understand that the only thing he could do was to hold fast, and he did so during the run to the next station, ten miles distant. The station agent was standing at the station door as the train approached. The sight of a full-grown bear on the cowcatcher fairly took away his breath.

As soon as the engine came to a standstill Bruin slipped from his perch and made a break for freedom. This took him straight toward the agent, who dashed through the rear door and went up the street at a furious rate, calling out: "Bear! Bear! Somebody get a gun!"

Soon the town was in a turmoil, a yelling crowd following in hot pursuit of the bear, some of the boys pelting him with stones. Suddenly a big shepherd dog bounced out of a yard and dashed after the bear. Bruin paused but a minute or two, but when he passed on the rash dog had no future interest in the proceedings.

At the street corner a lawyer carrying a double-barreled gun came face to face with the bear, but the latter turned down the nearest alley. The crowd increased and encircled the frightened animal, making escape impossible. Finding himself at bay, Bruin backed up against a barn, rearing on his haunches. The lawyer sent two bullets into him, whereupon the wounded animal charged the crowd. One urchin fell, was trampled upon and had a leg broken. The lawyer slipped another bullet into his gun and sent the shot through Bruin's head and finished him. By this time the engineer and fireman recalled the fact that a trainload of passengers were waiting at the station, and hurried back and resumed their official duties after a bear hunt of twenty minutes.

BIBLE PLAYS.

Undertaken By an Actor and a Boston Maid.

The dramatization of Biblical stories promises to furnish Chicago with a series of new plays. Backed by Miss C. H. Allen, a Boston woman with some money and a love for the Bible, C. P. Flockton has undertaken to make holy literature interesting, says the New York Journal.

Mr. Flockton is a native of Sussex, England, an actor of the old school, and for many years a member of the E. H. Sothern company.

"Hagar and Ishmael," the first play on Mr. Flockton's list, promises to mark a new era in dramatic history. In the prologue the splendor of Pharoah's court is to be gorgeously presented, and later, in striking contrast, the peaceful pastoral life of Abraham, Sarah, Hagar and Ishmael. Upwards of 150 characters are required for the cast. Of these, of course, the star part is Hagar, Abraham's bondwoman, and the mother of Ishmael.

After a preliminary scene, to be made gorgeous with brilliant coloring, Pharoah enters and speaks of the trouble abroad. "Truth shall prevail in the land," he declares. Subsequently Pharaoh, in a strong scene, reveals his great love for the woman Sarah, and his anguish when he learns she is the wife of Abraham. The casting out of the couple is the dramatic ending of Act I, which is really the prologue.

The story closely follows the Biblical text, even through the second act, in Canaan, where the soothsayer's prediction is fulfilled—"There shall yet be born to him one whom he will cast from the door of his tent."

The miracle in the desert, the boy Ishmael crying for water, and the distracted mother put to the real test of her faith, "the triumph of a mother's love," is the theme of the last act.

In speaking of his work, Mr. Flockton says. "I have applied the practical experience of an actor to the five Biblical stories replete with dramatic incidents. They appeal to me as an actor, not as a theological student, and it is my purpose to use them as stories for the drama. I treat them with all reverence, however, and that the effect will be elevating and in every way beneficial to the cause of Christianity I feel sure."

DISCOVERIES IN EGYPT.

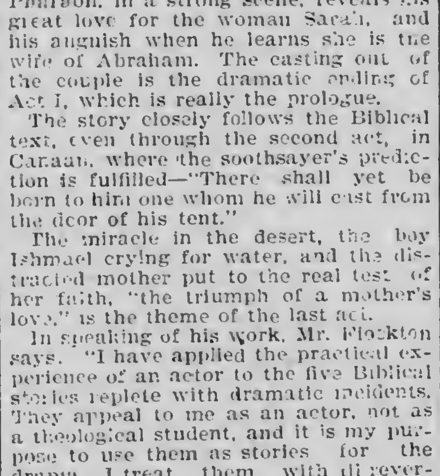

Only a few years ago Maspero's discovery of the stacks of royal mummies laid away in the Deir-el-Bahari shaft caused a world-wide sensation, says the Pall Mall Gazette. Next followed the discovery of what is supposed to be the veritable tomb of Osiris, thus giving to this deity a concrete tribal origin, much as Grant Allen argued would be the case in his "Evolution of the Idea of God." Now it is Mr. Lovet who has abolished much speculation by discovering no fewer than seven royal mummies in a tomb at Thebes, all in the undisturbed freshness of life, lacking only their precious ornaments. The principal figure of this group is Amenophis II, who reigned 1500 years B. C. In an outer chamber before the tomb lay the slaughtered bodies of four persons, not mummified by art, but perfectly preserved by nature. This is probably the most important find of its sort ever made in Egypt.

SOME CONSULAR REPORTS.

Curious Result of War With Spain Seen at Gibraltar.

Washington, June 29.—The advance sheet of consular reports issued today, contains one report of May 3 from E. Spencer Pratt, United States consul general at Singapore, entitled, "Spanish War and Civil Establishment in the Philippines." The officer gives a list of the Spanish fleet in the Philippines as it existed before Dewey's victory and says he furnished this list to Admiral Dewey before he sailed from Hong Kong. The report also gives a good deal of information about the cables, railroads and steamship lines.

United States Consul Swaim at Montevideo has notified the state department that the president of Uruguay has appointed a commission composed of representative men to revise the tariff laws of the country. This, says Mr. Swaim, will be of much importance to American trade, affording as it will, an opportunity to change the present classifications so as to benefit many lines of our merchandise.

A curious result of the Spanish war is set out in a report to the state department by Consul Sprague of Gibraltar. He says in the midst of the great industrial depression the coal heavers struck because they were paid in Spanish currency and that currency had greatly depreciated as a result of the war. An arrangement was finally reached by which the coal heavers, while continuing to be paid in Spanish money were to divide with their employers, the coal dealers, the large profit in exchange.

WATER IS CUT OFF.

Engineer Corps Strikes Serious Blow at Santiago.

New York, June 29.—A cable to the Journal from Camp Sabanilla, Cuba, says: The water supply of the city of Santiago was cut Sunday night and nothing but cistern water is now available to the Spaniards.

Shortly after dark the Cuban scouts moved cautiously forward to within two miles of Santiago. They could see countless Spanish camp fires glimmering behind the lines of rifle pits in front of the city, which lay in darkness beyond. The scouts found that some of the water mains were unguarded, and so reported to Gen. Wheeler. At 8:30 o'clock in the evening the engineer corps went out, guided by the Cubans, and all of the mains were cut without any resistance on the part of the Spaniards.

The Cuban vanguard, under Gen. Lawton and the Cuban general, Demetrio Castillo, moved out Sunday night and all day Monday lumbering trains of artillery, ammunition and provisions arrived at this camp. The jungle is so thick and difficult of penetration that the extent of the camp is hard to realize. The faces of the soldiers are gray with dust and their hands are grimy with toil. The men sweat at the heavy trains like bullocks under the yoke. The soldiers are only four miles from Santiago, and all about from eyrie-like points in the hills the Spaniards are watching them.

THE HEAT IS INTENSE.

Many of the Regulars Throw Aside Their Clothes.

New York, June 29.—A cable to the Evening Sun from Camp Sabanilla, Cuba, via Kingston, Jamaica, says: Gen. Wheeler said to a correspondent of the Evening Sun this morning that there were 5,000 more Spaniards in Santiago than the Cubans' estimate of 18,900.

Our men show a disposition to throw away their heavy uniforms and unnecessary accoutrements with which the government has burdened them, and the line of march is strewn with heavy rolls of blankets, coats and cumbersome camp paraphernalia. It is likely that the men will fight in the coming battle pretty nearly as bare as nature made them. Many of the regulars are already walking about clad only in a cartridge belt, a rifle and a chew of tobacco. The officers overlook these eccentricities, knowing that their men will go further and fight better.

All about the camp the men may be seen in the firelight cleaning and sharpening their weapons for the coming struggle. They are doing this without orders. It is only a straw, but it shows the way the wind blows.

Roosevelt's rough riders are beginning to realize that they can fight better on foot in this country. Many of them have adopted the use of machetes. They are pining for a chance to avenge the death of their comrades.

ON THE TURN OF A CARD.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Two of the boarders at a fashionable up-town hostelry are a pretty young Spanish woman and a prosperous young Philadelphia business man. Several months ago, or before the destruction of the Maine made the situation between this country and Spain a serious one, the two became engaged, and, to their credit, be it said, the affair was a love match pure and simple. Well, when the war began the young business man was in continual hot water. He is patriotic to the core, and yet he thinks there is no girl in the world equal to his fiancee. She, despite her promise to become an American's wife, is as Spanish in her sentiments as she could possibly be, and she has not hesitated to speak right out in meeting.

Finally things became so warm that the young fellow could stand it no longer, and he told his fiancee so. She received the news gravely at first, and then laughed. "I'll tell you what let's do," she said. "You love the United States and I love Spain. But we both love each other better than either of us loves our country. Have you got a pack of cards?" The young man, just a little bit bewildered over the queer turn affairs had taken, hunted up some cards. "Now," continued the young woman, "I'm going to deal until I turn a jack. If you get it, you give up your American sentiments for my sake. If I get it I'll give up my love of Spain for your sake. Will you agree?" The young man demurred at first, but finally, catching a roguish gleam in his fiancee's eye, consented. The cards were dealt, and lo! the first jack fell to the young woman. "Henceforth I am an American," she exclaimed, throwing herself into her lover's arms, and those who know her best say that since that day she has been as good a citizen of the United States as any woman can be.

The Spanish girl's intended has confided to a friend that he doesn't know exactly just how it all happened, but he has good reason for believing that his fiancee dealt the jack to herself from the bottom of the pack or had it up her sleeve.

DEWEY WILL BE INFORMED.

News of Camara's Fleet to Be Sent Him.

New York, June 29.—A cable dispatch to the New York Evening Journal from Hong Kong says that United States Consul Wildman has chartered a steamer to take the news of Camara and his fleet to Rear Admiral Dewey at Manilla. The Philippine junta expresses surprise that Dewey's fleet has not been strengthened before.

BLOOMERS IN EUROPE.

What They Mean in Paris and How Regarded.

In Paris there are but two styles of bicycle dress, long, narrow skirts and bloomers. The bloomers are very numerous—one sees little clouds of them on the Bois de Boulogne of a Sunday afternoon and in the morning and evening they trickle through all the other streets as their wearers go to and from the Bois, says the Providence Journal. But never is a pair of bloomers worn by a virtuous woman, except it be an American, who sees so many and adopts the costume in ignorance of the fact that they are in reality the badges of the cocottes and demi-mondaines of the poorest, brazenest sort in the capital. In Vienna the same is true. Bloomers are few and those who wear them know that they throw away respectability with the casting off of their skirts. In Berlin—I don't know. One does not think of fashion or dress in Berlin. It's too ridiculous. It is like thinking of quiet and repose in Chicago. There are bloomer girls in Berlin, but they look like a hard-faced lot. In London there are very many pairs of bloomers—thousands worn every Saturday afternoon and Sunday, and not on other days of the week. They are, it seems to me, all worn by good women, but they are women of strong-minded tendencies and reforming aspirations. They are nearly all of the middle lower class—workwomen, radical and independent thinkers. They are so often rude and coarse and loud and noisy that the Dorking innkeeper had doubtless noticed their manners more than their trousers before he decided to refuse them the comforts of his inn.

Very many of them go through the streets in bloomers, but a greater number wear skirts in town and take them off and tie them to the handlebars of their machines as soon as they come to the green fields. They make bloomers a profession. They belong to the Rational Dress league, or to clubs whose members are pledged to popularize pantaloon displays. They divide up their neighborhoods, and either visit from house to house, begging the women to wear the trousers, or they pepper whole neighborhoods with proselytizing printed matter. They promise to go out biking in their breeches with whoever will put on the same garments until the novelty wears off and until, their circulars say, "a lady in rational dress is accorded the same respect that is shown a lady in silks."

The ladies of London who ride bicycles all wear long skirts and bloomers underneath. Those who wear regular bicycle suits made with a saddle seat and a skirt which hangs in a straight pleat on either side of the saddle are the most graceful and birdlike figures in Europe. Far too many wear the usual walking dress of thin material, with high boots, no underskirts, but bloomers in their place, and on windy days these well-meaning women make such sorry spectacles of themselves as to give the bloomers a good chance to say that the rational dress is the more modest.

WHY HE WORE CRAPE.

Chicago Record: The elevator conductor appeared that morning with a bit of crape pinned to his hat and a look of respectful gloom upon his face.

"Somebody dead?" one of the regular passengers sympathetically inquired.

"Yes. Mr Higginly."

"Higginly? Who's he? Brother-in-law?"

"No. No relation. Used to have an office in this building."

"That so? What was he in? Law?"

"Wholesale cement."

"Fast friend of yours, I suppose?"

"No. Never spoke to him."

"No relation? Why, that's funny! Blessed if I understand why you are so sorry for his death."

"He was one man in a million—in fact, he was one man in 2,200,000. There was never another in Chicago like him. Maybe not in the world, but certainly not in this old town."

"Why, I never heard of him. Did he write books in secret, or was he great as an orator? Or did he have an army record? Or was he a statesman? Or——"

The elevator conductor looked at his questioner wearily.

"Nothing like that," he said. "Greater. Scarcer. Wonderfuller. He was the only man I ever knew who had sense enough to stop and wait for an elevator without ringing all the electricity out of the bell."

MERRITT'S INTENTION

Expects to Reach Manilla Before August 1 at the Latest.

THRIFTY SOLDIERS

Iowa and Kansas Troops Send Much Money to Their Homes.

San Francisco, June 29.—Maj. Gen. Merritt expects to reach Manilla by July 25 or Aug. 1, at the very latest. Before his arrival, Gen. Greene will have consulted with Admiral Dewey as to the advisability of making a joint attack on Manilla. Gen. Merritt's installation as governor general will be attended with as little ceremony as possible. In his proclamation he will assure the people that their forms of worship and churches will not be interefered with. This will be made clear, as will also the fact that property is not to be confiscated, in order to offset representations to the contrary which have been made by agents of Spain.

The general has requested the war department to appoint Gen. T. L. Rathbun as his personal representative in San Francisco.

Maj. Gen. Hess of the Third artillery, who is soon to go before a retiring board, has been relieved of the command of the camp. His successor is Maj. Gen. Grugan of the Sixth artillery, which arrived on Monday from the East.

Information has been received that the First New York volunteer regiment, organized in New York city, is coming to San Francisco, but whether for guard duty or for work in the Philippines is not yet known.

An armed guard has been placed around the hospital at Camp Merritt, and hereafter no civilians will be allowed within the enclosure. This was ordered as a sanitary precaution.

The Fifty-first Iowa regiment gave a drill and review at the Mechanics' pavilion last night. There was a large attendance and considerable money was netted for the Red Cross society.

Within the last three weeks an average of $500 or a total of $11,000 has been sent away by the soldiers in money orders, nearly all to relatives at home. There has also been forwarded about $8000 by express. The day after the Kansas regiment was paid off, the express offices alone took in $1700 practically all of which went home to the mothers of Kansas volunteers. Some of these Kansas soldiers sent as much as $25 out of the $30 received for their first two months' service, and many gave the folks at home more than half their earnings.

Over 20,000 letters and papers are sent away daily by the Camp Meritt postoffice. From 6000 to 8000 letters and about 12,000 papers have been the daily average of incoming mail for the soldiers.

Frank D. Millet, the noted artist, who is going to Manilla with Gen. Merritt as correspondent of the London Times and as representative of Harper Brothers, of New York, has arrived here.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

The recent rains have caused another slide of the Northern Pacific track at Grand Forks, which the company has for a long time been trying to raise. The last drop was about six feet.

The wet weather still continues at Bathgate. Rain has been falling for seven days, with a slight let-up once in a while. The grain is getting very heavy, and will soon lodge. The late grain is growing very fast, and promises to be the best crop. Hay, that was considered nearly a failure two weeks ago, is fine, and will yield well.

Dr. John Montgomery, one of the earliest settlers of Ardoch, and formerly a member of the state legislature and superintendent of the state board of health, has retired from practice, and will probably remove to Canada.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

The residents of the little town of Onelda, in Sully county, were treated to a chapter of accidents all in one day last week. W. S. Haynes, a farmer, was kicked by an unruly horse and had several ribs broken. Dr. Pease, the village doctor was called on, and on his way to attend his patient, had his rig smashed by a runaway team he met on the road, and was himself thrown out and severely bruised. The team which wrecked his rig only ran a short distance farther, when the wagon to which they were attached was overturned, and the driver thrown out, leaving him on the prairie with a broken arm and a number of bad bruises.

The unusually prolonged June rise in the Missouri leads to the fear that the river will break into the Jim river below the railroad bridges five miles east of Yankton, and adopt the Jim's channel from that point. A narrow bank now separates the two streams and the Missouri is aggressively gnawing at this barrier. If it accomplishes this, about a township of Yankton county lands with considerable population will be transferred to the Nebraska side of the river. Should this occur, however, the territory thus cut off would still belong to South Dakota, under a recent decision of the United States supreme court in the Iowa-Nebraska case.

A bunch of 100 range horses were brought into Pierre last week from the Wells horse ranche, on Moreau river. They are a fine looking lot of animals, and will be shipped to Huntsville, Ala., by W. S. Wells, who finds a ready market in the South for range stock.

Miss Mabel Wilkinson, the young lady who created such a sensation a short time ago at Spearfish by her attempt to poison the family of Joshua Dunn because her affection for one of the sons was not returned, has been adjudged insane and will be taken to the Yankton asylum.

PHOTOGRAPHERS VERY BUSY.

Keeping Up With Their Orders For Soldier Boy Pictures.

Since the president called for volunteers the photographers have been struggling with an overwhelming patronage. Every new-made soldier must have his picture taken to leave behind as a souvenir with a sweetheart, wife or sister, and not only has nearly all the equipped fighting force of the country passed in review before the lenses, but the feminine friends and relatives of the warriors have also had their pictures taken, says the New York Sun.

A photographer who was interviewed admitted that every man who poses in his studio wears a full uniform. Usually he orders two sizes of print—one giving the figure on a boudoir or cabinet card and displaying the martial figure at full length. These are for dissemination among families and friends. But there is another size called for, a print not bigger than a dollar, showing just head and bust and struck off for framing in lockets, bangles, etc. The women all prefer to have their likenesses taken in the watchcase size, too, and while the men who come to pose are a bellicose crew, the feminine patrons are in a peculiarly melancholy state.

"Still they come," sighed the photographer, "and you can invariably tell the young married couples, or those just engaged, by their desire for small double profile prints. You know such a print shows the two heads close together, the woman's to the outside and a trifle to the rear of the man's, and where there is time my patrons always insist on a little tinting judiciously put into the face and uniform. Among the women it is a fancy just now to have these little pictures taken in dresses their husbands or sweethearts most admire, and in some of these gowns it is next to impossible to make a woman look her best.

"Now, let me show you some of the ways we are framing the men's pictures—in lockets chiefly and in the form of merged double hearts, made of gun metal. These lockets are not for exterior wear; the sentiment of the thing demands their being slung about the neck by a fine gold chain, and some of them are peculiarly beautiful and costly. One indulgent National Guardsman chose a gun-metal heart with a Cupid in brilliants on the outside. Master Cupid stood in the attitude of 'present arms.' The majority usually order engraved or outlined in jewels on the lockets' covers, special dates or French, Latin or German mottoes, full of such sentiment as 'Dieu vous garde,' 'Fide et Amore,' etc. Some of the pictures we make are not larger than a 10-cent piece, and these are put into tiny gold hearts to hang from gold chain bangles.

"Hair or 4-leaf clovers occupy the sides of these lockets opposite the pictures they contain, though a good many women prefer, in place of lockets, to have their husband's or lover's pictures fitted in little frames woven of gold military lace. To put on their writing desks and dressing tables are little easel frames, having the shape and decoration of an epaulet.

"Here are round bachelor pincushions with one side of silver engraved with a date and motto; on the other side is framed the fair lady's miniature photograph. A wife puts into one of these cushions a pin for every year of her married life, and a popular locket for men is woven in gold or silver wire that is very elastic and that, when lying in the hand, most resembles a closely curled tress of feminine hair. By taking up the locket at one side the metal curl springs up and shows a photographed face on a thin gold disk."

A FIREMAN'S ADVICE.

A building on a downtown street was on fire and the first floor was full of thick, suffocating smoke. To the crowd outside it seemed as if a man could not live a minute in it; as if human lungs could not possibly endure it, says the Kansas City Star. And yet there were two firemen in the room. They had gone in, and had not yet come out. Five minutes later and the firemen had not appeared. The smoke was getting denser and rolled out of the broken transom in heavy, deadly clouds. The crowd in the street was getting worried. At the end of ten minutes a fireman struggled out of the door and stood against a ladder, panting and struggling for breath. In a moment or two he was apparently all right.

"By gracious!" said a man. "That fellow must have fireproof lungs. He's a wonder."

After it was all over and the firemen had returned to their engine houses and were cleaning themselves and the apparatus, the man who had come through the smoke was found. He was as chipper as if he had never been to a fire.

"How do you do it?" asked a man.

"Easy enough," he answered. "Just hug the floor. There is no smoke next to the floor."

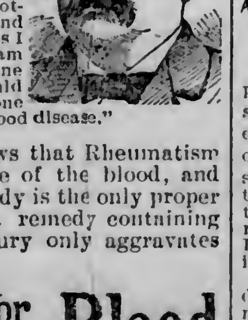

"But how do you see to get out?" was asked. "Surely the smoke is too thick to find your way about. And in a strange building you don't know where the door is; how do you manage it?"

"It's like this," answered the fireman. "When the smoke gets thick we get down on the floor and work as long as we can. If we can't do anything and have got to get out, we just crawl along a crack and come to the front of the building. In the big downtown buildings the floor boards run from the front to the back, and if we don't happen to strike the dor we just follow the front wall until we come to it. That's no trick."

Crippled by Rheumatism.

Those who have Rheumatism find themselves growing steadily worse all the while. One reason of this is that the remedies prescribed by the doctors contain mercury and potash, which ultimately intensify the disease by causing the joints to swell and stiffen, producing a severe aching of the bones. S. S. S. has been curing Rheumatism for twenty years—even the worst cases which seemed almost incurable.

Capt. O. E. Hughes, the popular railroad conductor, of Columbia, S. C., had an experience with Rheumatism which convinced him that there is only one cure for that painful disease. He says: "I was a great sufferer from muscular Rheumatism for two years. I could get no permanent relief from any medicine prescribed by my physician. I took about a dozen bottles of your S. S. S., and now I am as well as I ever was in my life. I am sure that your medicine cured me, and I would recommend it to any one suffering from any blood disease."

Everybody knows that Rheumatism is a diseased state of the blood, and only a blood remedy is the only proper treatment, but a remedy containing potash and mercury only aggravates the trouble.

S.S.S. For The Blood

being Purely Vegetable, goes direct to the very cause of the disease and a permanent cure always results. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed to contain no potash, mercury or other dangerous minerals.

CONTEST EXCITING

Fight For Republican Nomination For Governor Is Waxing Warmer.

EUSTIS IS LEADING

Machine Working Hard and May Land Van Sant or Collins.

St. Paul, June 29.—Practically all the candidates for places on the Republican state ticket except those looking for judicial honors have opened headquarters in St. Paul in preparation for the convention tomorrow. The leading judicial candidates are represented by friends who frequently are enabled to make a better fight when unhampered by the presence of their principals.

As usual, the Windsor hotel is the rendezvous, although Eustis, Collins and Van Sant will also have headquarters at the Merchants. The Hennepin delegation have a parlor on the ground floor at the Windsor, presided over by Judge John H. Steele, to be used principally in the interest of W. H. Eustis. Capt. Van Sant is at room 9; Alvah Eastman, of St. Cloud, and O. D. Kinney, of Duluth, who represent Judge Collins, are in rooms 51 and 52. The Eustis headquarters is in rooms 3, 4 and 5. Secretary Albert Berg has rooms 55 and 56. W. B. Douglas has rooms 48 and 49; Attorney General Childs, who is a candidate for the supreme bench, is in room 57. C. C. Haupt, of Fergus Falls, is in rooms 53 and 54; State Treasurer Koerner is in rooms 58 and 59. Dar Reese, J. W. Peterson, of Goodhue county, candidate for secretary of state, and others, have opened headquarters during the day. State Auditor Dunn and Secretary Berg have rooms at the Merchants, M. J. Dowling, who is in charge of the interests of Judge Calvin L. Brown, one of the candidates for the supreme court, is at the Windsor.

There is no apparent change in the gubernatorial fight. The Eustis men continue to make big claims, but it is clear they are not so confident as they were several days ago. There is no doubt the machine is gathering in many wavering delegates and will vote them for Van Sant or, if he cannot win, for Collins. The Van Sant men are not making any fight on Collins. Meanwhile, Capt. Van Sant expresses great confidence that he will win out.

"Jerry J" thus sizes up the situation in the Minneapolis Journal, but it should be remembered that his sympathies are naturally with Eustis:

It is everywhere apparent today that Collins is confident of success. He shows this confidence to all who see him, and has infused it into his friends. One of the most conservative men of the opposition this morning made up a table by counties which shows the first ballot as the opposition believes it will be cast. This is not a bluff, but really what the opposition is depending upon. It is as follows: Eustis 477, which includes 69 alleged doubtful votes; Van Sant, 468; Collins, 233. This table divides Ramsey equally between the three candidates 25 each, and gives St. Louis county to Collins.

With anything like decent management, Eustis ought to win hands down on the first ballot. Give the expert manipulators and trained politicians who are opposing him the lead which he now has and there would be no question as to the result. They would be conceded the victory. There is a feeling that the movement in favor of Eustis has been largely spontaneous, and this thought naturally implies lack of systematic management, of cohesive force, of comprehensive grasp of the situation in detail. Now, to a certain extent the Eustis movement has been spontaneous, and to a certain extent also there has not been the steady application to his campaign of the practical business principles which have given the old machine its long lease of power. But in spite of these things he is the leading candidate and has forced the field to unite against him. Spontaneity is all right if there is enough of it, and it looks as if there were dangerously near enough of it in the Eustis case—dangerous from the point of view of the opposition.

He certainly is a strong man when the opposition concedes him within about a hundred of a majority in a convention of 1178 delegates. For one, however, I should say that Eustis' chances for success would not be good in a long fight. The fact that the opposition is bending all its energies in the direction of a deadlock is worth serious consideration at the hands of the Eustis people. The opposition leaders say that they will be satisfied if they can hold the deadlock for only three or four ballots, and that this will be enough to nominate Collins. Possibly they overstate the case, but there is no denying the assertion that Eustis should win on the first ballot if he can. Delay in his case, as the contest is now shaping itself, may be dangerous.

The story that Eustis, if made governor, would make a clean sweep of all appointive places, big and little, is going the rounds today and spurring the appointive officials on to do harder work for Collins and Van Sant. It is even claimed that Eustis himself made the statement that he would make a clean sweep. This is highly improbable, but still it is having its effect.

Collins' backers are using the argument today that their man should be nominated because he is the only man who can unite the party for the campaign. Nominate Eustis, they say, and he would be secretly opposed during the campaign and cut at the polls; ditto Van Sant. But Collins, everybody could and would support.

The fight to date has been a very pretty one. The convention promises to be more exciting than any since the convention of 1888, which turned down McGill and nominated Merriam the first time. If Eustis should be nominated, it will be more mportant than that convention in its results, for it will mark the formation of a new and cleaner party organization than the one for which Merriam was responsible. The present organization, continued but with few changes from Merriam's time, is now engaged in a fight for life. It is desperate and will win if it can. It is no schoolboy or holiday affair, and the Eustis people should not permit this confidence to blind them to the real facts.

TOOK HIS NAME.

And Said He Would Send It to the War Department.

Washington Star: "My colored barber persisted in wanting war with Spain," said a congressman in talking about some of the incidents leading up to the rupture of relations with Spain. "Every time he shaved me he talked in fierce and warlike tones, and intimated that the administration was acting in too conservative a manner. In fact, he shouted for gore. I grew tired and decided to put a stop to it.

" 'What is your name?' I asked him one day. He looked curiously at me, but gave me his last name.

" 'Now I want your initials,' said I.

" 'Luk a hyear, boss,' he said, 'whut yer want wid my name?' I did not answer him, although he finally gave his initials.

" 'Now, I would like to have your city address,' I said.

"He was a badly scared colored citizen by this time. 'Fer grashus sake, boss,' he said, in frightened tones, 'gimme sum understanding ub dis t'ing.'

"I at once told him that the secretary of war had asked me to take the names of all men who seemed inclined to want to fight, as the secretary desired to add them to the list of nervy men who wanted to tackle the Spaniards without delay.

"Then I had a barrel of fun. 'Please don' do dat,' he begged. 'De truf is, I has bronchitis, Bright's disease and consumption, an' my health is in de wus state I eber saw.' I promised him to say nothing right away about the matter, but he never bothered me again, and so far as I know never talked war with anybody again."

SANTIAGO'S STRATEGIC VALUE.

A recent criticism by the London Times that Santiago is not a strategic point, that no military object can be gained by its capture, and that the movement against it means the indefinite postponement of the operations against Havana and Porto Rico, caused considerable comment and was accepted as authoritative by some of the papers which are disposed to criticize the military movements. Since the landing of Gen. Shafter's army, and the hard fighting and successful advance of our troops towards Santiago, however, these criticisms have decreased to a great extent.

The London Times' view is entirely erroneous, as the Pittsburg Dispatch shows very clearly. There was a time when prompt work could have secured a base near Havana for operations against that city and for communication with the insurgents. At that time it is possible that a direct dash like Dewey's might have taken the city itself through such a movement would have been hazardous. At the same time similar promptness would probably have taken Puerto Rico. These opportunities were lost and now the conditions have changed.

It now being necessary to postpone the investment of the Cuban capital, what is to be obtained at Santiago? In the first place, says the Dispatch, it is to be noted that while the diseases of the climate always constitute a danger to be guarded against, the hilly country about Santiago will permit the United States troops to be positioned in elevated posts, where that danger will be materially lessened. As to military objects, the purpose of the campaign is the capture and expulsion from Cuba of the Spanish troops. When from 20,000 to 30,000 of them in the province of Santiago can be isolated and captured, it is certainly a very vital military object to do so. But add to that the presence in Santiago harbor of the one Spanish fleet that was supposed to have an approximation to efficiency, and the capture to be made there rises to the highest importance. Beyond that the ultimate purpose of the war being to secure peace to the Cubans, a campaign which will give them undisputed control of the eastern province and permit peaceful industry to be restored there is second in importance only to the capture of Havana.

Moreover, the assertion that Santiago has no strategic value is singularly blind. As a base more than half-way from Key West to Puerto Rico, it will be invaluable for the movement against that island, while as a naval base, if Spain should get another fleet into West Indian waters, it is the central position of the Antilles. One of the strongest points of our position there is that, pending the capture of Santiago, the United States has in Guantanamo bay the temporary military and naval base that it can use when needed, without waiting for the fall of Santiago.

The fact is, concludes the Dispatch, that for continued operations of the war the possession of Santiago and the eastern end of the island is most valuable. If Blanco should offer to trade Havana and Western Cuba for Santiago and Eastern Cuba it would be a losing deal for the United States to accept it.

VAN SANT-COLLINS ALLIANCE.

There is a perfect understanding between the Van Sant and Collins men at St. Paul. They are both "machine" candidates. If Van Sant cannot get a majority of votes in the Republican convention, the machine will throw its strength to Collins and endeavor to nominate him. Why the machine prefers Collins to Eustis is thus made clear by the St. Paul Dispatch:

"The Dispatch is compelled to regretfully admit that the candidacy of Judge Collins presents, under the present phase of affairs, but another form of machine manipulation, and that a vote for him now is half a vote for Van Sant. With or without his consent, he has been chosen as second choice of the machine, and the vote necessary to nominate him can never be delivered except upon the making of pledges that will protect machine interests and perpetuate machine rule. The only candidate who has yet dared to defy the machine, and the only one who, if chosen, will drive it and its mermidons from power, is William Henry Eustis. Judge Collins cannot escape the blight that has fallen upon Van Sant and the penalty of his association with the machine. His own county, Stearns county, and many others, which are nominally for him, are at the beck and call of the machine leaders, and by their attitude proclaim him merely the legatee of Governor Clough's legatee. It is a painful position for a man of such eminence to occupy, and it may be more his misfortune than his fault, but there is no disguising the fact that Judge Collins is no longer an anti-machine candidate, but is tarred with the same stick that smutted Van Sant and a private in the ranks of the army whose slogan is 'anything to beat Eustis.'"

There is no doubt about the correctness of the above statement. There has been a secret alliance between Van Sant and Collins for weeks past. Previous to the holding of the county convention Duluth Republicans who visited Judge Collins at the state house and discussed the gubernatorial situation with him were generally advised by him, as they were departing, to call on Governor Clough. He made this almost a direct request, and several of his Duluth friends who were opposed to Van Sant wondered then if this was not a scheme to perfect an alliance between Collins and Clough representing Van Sant. The situation at St. Paul today shows that the supposition was correct. Collins is the second choice of the machine; on the other hand, if the nomination of Eustis seems probable, he will throw all his strength which he can control to aid the machine in nominating Van Sant. The Minneapolis Times well says that Judge Collins is playing a shrewd game; but it is also a risky and dangerous one. Says the Times: "In the event of failure he will have simply defined his attitude as a machine and Jim Hill servitor, without having gained any advantage whatever. On the contrary, he will have seriously discredited his fitness for the bench, and justified the quite general opinion of him that he is a 'better politician than judge.'"

OUR BOYS GOING FORWARD.

The Minnesota regiments at Chickamauga are to be included in the next expeditionary force which will go to either Cuba or Porto Rico, under command of Maj. Gen. Brooke. They are now being rapidly prepared for active field service and within a week or ten days will probably be on board the transports at Tampa or some other seaport. Twenty-seven regiments will compose this expedition.

The good wishes of the people of Duluth will go with them on their dangerous mission. That they will be victorious over the enemy everyone is satisfied, and the general hope will be that their losses will be small. They will grandly uphold the honor and reputation of Minnesota upon the field of battle and no other soldiers in Uncle Sam's service will excel them in bravery and efficiency.

Soon after Thomas L. Rosser's appointment as brigadier general had been made one of the newly appointed officers in Washington asked the general where he was going to have his uniforms made, remarking that he had had six suits made, at a cost of $700. "I will only need," remarked Rosser, "a flannel shirt, which I can buy anywhere, a pair of shoulder straps and a string or piece of braid around my hat to designate that I am an officer." The Fourt enth Minnesota is fortunate in being in Rosser's command.

Col. Henry Flad, a German revolutionist of 1849, an able engineer and captain, and finally colonel of engineers in the war for the Union, has died at the age of 74. He helped lay out the Erie railroad in 1850, became a citizen in 1851, enlisted as a private in Missouri in 1861, was discovered by Fremont and made captain of engineers. He was made colonel of Bissell's "engineer regiment of the West" after the fall of Atlanta. During his residence of thirty years in St. Louis Col. Flad had been busy and useful in his profession.

Edward Everett Hale's revelation as depicted in the Outlook gave him cause for deep reflection. He was one of the judges appointed to ascertain the comparative merits of some prize essays written by the students of one of our oldest and most famous colleges, and he found that all the competitors had stolen their expressions and ideas, and three of them had stolen identical passages from the same authors!

Gen. Weyler made several millions while he was governor general of the Philippines for four years at a salary of $20,000 a year. Perhaps this is why some of the politicians have embraced the imperial policy without considering whether it is wise for the United States to enter upon it.

"German-Americans," says Carl Schurz, "are proud of their new fatherland, and know how to appreciate its advantages and great qualities. Now that war is going on, they stand with their new country. Its friends are their friends, and its enemies are their enemies." Good for Carl Schurz!

The Wadena Tribune says: "The nomination of Honest John Lind for governor by the fusion forces seems to bother the Republican politicians fully as much as the nomination of Hon. Charles A. Towne for congress."

Things in Italy have almost reached the revolutionary point. The nation is practically bankrupt and the people are on the verge of starvation. And yet Italy has the single gold standard—why should she not prosper?

The Grand Forks Plaindealer observes that John Lind is giving Dave Clough and several others something to worry over. Lind will give most of them plenty of reason for taking to the woods.

Dr. Potter, of New York, has been found guilty of conduct unbecoming a clergyman. His offense was that he defied John D. Rockefeller's agents to put him out of his church.

So far Page Morris has not replied to Mr. Towne's challenge to debate the issues of the campaign. Is he still afraid to meet Mr. Towne in debate?

Senator Morrill of Vermont voted against the purchase of Alaska in Seward's time and now opposes the annexation of Hawaii.

It is fortunate for the Dingley tariff law that there is a war on, because its failure as a revenue producer thus escapes special attention.

It may be several days before a battle will be fought at Santiago. It is hard work to haul heavy siege guns up the hills to Santiago.

The talk of Spain fitting out a "third squadron" is laughable. They have only a few old iron tubs that are absolutely useless.

A Sight In Camp.

A sight in camp in the daybreak gray and dim,
As from my tent I emerge so early, sleepless,
As slow I walk in the cool, fresh air the path near by the hospital tent,
Three forms I see on stretchers lying, brought out there untended lying,
Over each the blanket spread, ample brownish woolen blanket,
Gray and heavy blanket, folding, covering all.
Curious I halt and silent stand.

Then with light fingers I from the face of the nearest, the first, just lift the blanket;
Who are you, elderly man, so gaunt and grim, with well-gray'd hair and flesh all sunken about the eyes?
Who are you, my dear comrade?
Then to the second I step—and who are you, my child and darling?
Who are you, sweet boy with the cheeks yet blooming?
Then to the third—a face nor child nor old, very calm, as of beautiful yellow-white ivory;
Young man, I think I know you—I think the face is the face of the Christ himself.
Dead and divine and brother of all, and here again he lies.

Her stolen glance and winning "hush!"
Her tempting charms and sweetest smile,
Her pleasant tricks that men beguile,

Her sighing fondness, pleading tune,
Are at their best, I think, in June.

WARNING TO CORPORATIONS.

Springfield, Mass., Republican: Former officers of the Pacific Express company have recently had a preliminary trial at Omaha on charges of embezzlement. The amount alleged is some $200,000. Their prosecutors are the present officers of the company, who are also at the head of the Union Pacific railroad. It is contended by the accused that there has been no misapplication of funds, that the money was spent to defate hostile legislation and that while the expenditure was of questionable character it was absolutely necessary to the continued business success of the company.

No denial whatever is made of the statement that the Pacific Express company maintained for many years a lobby at the Nebraska capital. Something like $10,000 a year was expended on this lobby. The Pacific company paid the money in the first instance and then collected an agreed upon share from the Adams and United States express companies. The money was used chiefly in killing bills to reduce express rates.

President Horace G. Burt of the Union Pacific and also of the Pacific Express company evidently does not accept the contention of the former president, E. M. Morsman, that the expenditure was necessary and excusable, or he would not have forced this public disclosure. He might very easily maintain that the expenditure was not only wrong in principle but unfortunate in practice. For the event proved that the lobby grew upon what the Pacific company fed it. The $10,000 a year or so became not merely a special emergency expenditure for the company, but a permanent annual expenditure. When hostile express bills were wanting in the legislature, the lobby would induce some "striker" to introduce a few, and then the express company would be called upon for money to meet the new legislative emergency. There are conscienceless strikers and corporation "sandbaggers" in every legislature ready to prepare bills to shake in the face of some rich company and frighten it into buying immunity, but the corporation only stirs up trouble for itself by submitting to such blackmail. It would be far safer, as well as more honest, to leave its case to the legislative and popular sense of fair dealing.

The result of the express companies' course in Nebraska is a great loss of money to the purpose only of arousing popular antagonism and provoking worse legislation and public treatment than has been bribed away by the $200,000. Circulars containing the gist of the testimony in the preliminary trial of former Pacific express company officers are being scattered over the state by the political Democracy, and the matter will figure potently no doubt in the coming campaign. Popular prejudice against all corporate power will be increased. All are ready to admit now that it was an unfortunate expenditure of corporate money.

The case should be a warning to the corporations everywhere. They would better let the legislatures more generally alone. But meantime what shall the people do about their blackmailing and bribe-seeking and bribe-taking legislatures?

THE PARADISE OF BEASTS.

Boston Journal: A poor old horse, hitched to a coupe, was sleeping a rainy night before the door of a low restaurant in which women and young fellows were laughing.

And the poor, scraggy plug, with his dejected head, his weak legs, a sorry sight, awaited the pleasure of these night birds to get back to his miserable, stinking stable.

Half asleep, the horse heard the coarse jests of these men and women. He had been for a long time accustomed to them. Even his feeble brain taught him that there is no difference between the squeaking cry of a wheel and the cry of a degraded woman.

And this night he dreamed vaguely that he was again a little colt on a lawn where he used to gambol in the green grass with his mother who fed him.

All at once he fell stiff, dead, on the sticky pavement.

He came to the door of paradise. A learned man, who was waiting for St. Peter to open the door, said to the horse: "What are you doing here? You have no right to enter paradise. I have the right because I was born of a woman."

And the poor plug answered timidly: "My mother was a gentle mare. She died, old, abused; and I came to find out whether she is here."

Then the door opened, and lo! the paradise of animals.

And the old horse knew its mother, who recognized her.

She neighed in joy. And when they were both on the celestial prairie, the horse exulted in finding again the old companions of his misery and seeing their happiness, which would last forever.

There were horses that had drawn huge stones over slippery pavements; that had been beaten violently, that had succumbed under cruel loads; that with blinded eyes had turned ten hours each day the merry-go-round. There were mares that, in the dull lights and before the eyes of young girls who had looked on with flushed cheeks, had swept the hot sand of the arena with their rent intestines. And there were others, and others.

And now they all took their own gait on the great plain of divine peacefulness.

Other animals were also happy. Cats, mysterious and refined, obeyed only their Creator. They pawed gently at threads with a feeling of inexplicable importance.

Dogs—good mothers—spent their time nursing their young. Fish swam without fear of the angler; birds feared no gun. And so it was with all the animals.

There was no man in this paradise.

MOLLIE'S RESIGNATION.

Cleveland Leader: "Yes," declared Mollie Cranshaw, "I have made up my mind to go to war if my husband must go. I shall be a nurse. It will be no worse for me than for him, and I would much rather endure the hardships of camp life than suffer the anxiety that I would not be able to escape if he were at the front and I were left at home."

As the sweet little woman finished speaking there came a blood-curdling yell from the direction of the kitchen, and Mrs. Cranshaw turned pale. What if those awful Spaniards had—

But just then the cook tore madly through the dining room yelling:

"Oh, murder, murder! I'm killed!"

Mollie Cranshaw took one look at the half-severed thumb which the cook was waving at her and then there was a thud. When the doctor succeeded in getting the lady restored to consciousness she feebly asked:

"Where am I? What has happened?"

"The cook nearly cut off one of her thumbs with the butcher knife," said her husband, "and you fainted."

"Alfred," said Mollie Cranshaw, afterward, "you will not think I don't love you just as dearly as I ever did, if I tell you that I guess I shall not go as a nurse, after all, will you?"

FIRED AT RANDOM.

Say, Tuggy, do you recollect
De time o' '94,
When we went out, y'know, an' wrecked
Three dozen cars or more?
We loosed de brakes an' spiked de frogs
An' trun de main-line switch,
An' set a flat o' walnut logs
To send 'em in de ditch.

An' Tuggy, don't y'know de boy,
De purty boy in blue,
Dat sized up like a Christmas toy
Alongside me an' you—
De one was walkin' down de yard
Dat burnin' summer day—
A little dude dey'd put on guard
To keep us mugs away?

We didn't like de way he walked,
So graceful and so trim,
So jus' for luck we took an' socked
A couplin' pin at him;
A yard away from him it hit,
But still he never stirred—
We thought we'd git a scrap for it;
He didn't say a word.

We knowed, o' course, he was afraid;
It made us bilin' den,
To see a dude out on parade
A-watchin' over men;
An' so we cussed him good an' hard,
We called him "scab" an' "cur"—
He kep' right on a-walkin' guard
Dere on de stockyard spur.

De way he acted made us sick,
But den it wouldn't pay—
He wasn't big enough to lick,
An' so we went away.
We cussed de whole millishy for
A dirty, coward lot;
You betcher life dat we was sore
An' sweatin', fightin' hot.

We swore de next time dat we see
Dat baby boy we'd break
His mug in two, or mebbe t'ree,
Just for de strike's sake;
Wherever one of us should run
Agin dat dirty guard
We'd walk up to him jus' for fun
An' smash him good an' hard.

Well, Tuggy, I owes you de beer;
Today I seen dat dude,
An' didn't bust him in de ear,
As I had said I would;
I stood dere crazy in de crowd,
An' when he came along
I geared my voice up high an' loud
An' cheered him good an' strong.

Jus' t'ink of it! I stood dere in De street an' waved me lid,
Forgettin' of de couplin' pin
I'd socked at dat same kid;
An' Toggy, listen while I tell
About it all: I wish
To die right here if I don't yell
"Hurrah for de millish!"

'Twas down dere on de avenoo;
I hears a ban' a-playin',
An' some one says: "Dey're off to do
Deir little spiel wit' Spain."
I looks, an' comin' near an' near,
I sees a long, blue line,
An' music, sof' an' sweet an' clear.
"De Girl I Lef' Behin'."

An' on bot' sides de people pressed—
De women, men, an' kids,
An' all a-yellin' at dere best
An' wavin' of der lids.
An' sometimes one a-chasin' in De line as it went by
To say a las' good-by agin
An' kiss some marchin' guy.

"Dere's Jimmy!" mebbe one 'ud say,
An' one, a little chap,
Jumps up an' down an' hollers, "Hey,
Look, Billy, dere's me pap!"
An' every one did I can see
Knowed some one wit' a gun,
An' yelled at him. Yes, all but me—
I didn't know a one.

An' Tuggy, don't y'know, I t'ought
I'd give me bloomin' eyes
If dere was some one in de lot
Dat I could recognize;
Some one dat I had knowed afore,
Some one dat I could place:
Some one to make me whoop an' roar—
An' den I seen his face.

Yes, it was him—dat boy in blue
We cussed our level best
In dem ol' strike days—me an' you—
A-marchin' wit' de rest;
He held his gun so straight an' proud,
An' as he hustled by
He kwind o' looked into de crowd,
An' den he caught me eye.

An', say, a feelin'—somet'in' new—
Come up into me t'roat;
Me backbone sort o' shivered, too,
Clear t'roo me winter coat;
An' somet'in' dat was strange an' damp
Y'know—comes in me eye,
An' den I yells, as on dey tramp:
"Good-by, ol' man; good-by!"

An' he looks back an' kinder grins,
An' calls as he moves on:
"Good-by! Dis beats de couplin' pins,
Ol' feller!" Den he's gone;
An' I stand dere in all de crowd
As moisty as a fish,
Wavin' me hat an 'yellin' loud:
"T'ree cheers for de millish!"

Tuggy, I seen him, as I said,
First time since '94;
I didn't break his dudish head,
Ner beat his body sore,
An' so I've come to buy de beer.
We'll go an' drink today.
De las' time, mebbe, for a year—
Becuz I'm go'n' away.

I'm go'n' away. Do you know where?
Don't double up yer fist.
Don't stretch yer eyes dat way an' stare—
I'm goin' to enlist.
Tuggy, in dem ol' days gone by
We sized dat dude up wrong;
Dat boy 'ull fight, an' so 'ull I—
You better come along.

THE WEAKEST SPOT

In a Fort or a Man--Do you know where your Greatest Weakness lies?

"A fort is no stronger than its weakest point."

Nothing is more certain than this great truth. An enemy always enters at the point where it meets with the least resistance and this is true throughout life in general.

Do you know where your weakest spot is? Do you realize what part of your body disease would first attack because at that point it would meet with the least resistance? If so, you are fortunate. Many people do not know it. But the weakest spot with most men and women is not known because it is generally least suspected. The weak spot with nearly every man and woman is the kidneys, although there is seldom any pain in their vicinity. Hundreds of people have gone through life without the least suspicion that their kidneys were not perfectly sound and yet they died eventually of Bright's disease. It is true they had headaches occasionally, were often weak, tired and despondent, had a lack of appetite and were often sleepless, although weary. Now, all these things indicate Bright's disease, and thousands of persons might have been saved had they realized just what ailed them.

It is is a strange thing that the most dangerous of all known diseases should show the least signs and be the least suspected. Bright' disease steals into the system like a thief and destroys the life before the victim is aware. It is as common as consumption and far more dangerous. Thousands of persons who do not suspect that there is anything the matter with their kidneys, go from day to day, while all the while the disease is making fresh inroads into their bodies.

Now, there is only one way by which this fearful disease can certainly be checked or cured. That is by the use of the only discovery ever known for Bright's disease — Warner's Safe Cure. It is not an idle statement to say that this great remedy has saved the lives of thousands of persons for thousands have so testified. Among the number is Mr. C. H. Lincoln, living at 41 Grand avenue, Medford, Mass. He says:

"A number of years ago I became unaccountably ill. I tried a dozen different doctors and still grew worse. After taking enough doctor's medicines to sink a ship, I became convinced that I had Bright's disease and I know what that meant. I pitched all the medicines I had left out of doors and began the use of Warner's Safe Cure. The first bottle brought relief, I continued, gained ten pounds in weight, kept on improving and I am happy to say the great remedy completely cured me. I am 59 years old now and I enjoy as good health as any other man of my age. I believe that if anybody has kidney trouble, Warner's Safe Cure will cure him, and if that will not, nothing will cure him this side of the grave."

Reader, do not take chances with your health. Your life and health are too serious matters to be trifled with and there is no reason why you may not have a long and happy life.

Chief officer of the famous millionaire fishing club of Texas.

Dallas Texas, June 25.—The wealthiest club in the world has been organized here. It is a fishing club, to be known as the Tarpon club, of Tarpon, Texas. Its leader and chief promoter is E. H. R. Green, the only son of Hetty Green, who for years has made his home in Texas, where he looks after his mother's interest.

The board of directors chosen for the first year is composed of the following: E. H. R. Green, of Texas; Banker Van Blockom, of St. Louis; State Senator E. H. Houston of San Antonio; ex-Mayor W. C. Connor of Dallas, and United States Senator M. S. Quay of Pennsylvania.

There are 300 members of the Tarpon club, and their wealth combined reaches into the hundred millions. In the membership are numbered Grover Cleveland, Mark Hanna and President McKinley. The object of the club is the fishing for tarpon and the promoting of general good fellowship in one of the finest recreation spots of the world.

GOING HIGH FOR HEAT.

Those Terrible Problems Sprung by the "Young Idea."

He had been silent for some time; evidently turning over in his mind the facts that had been brought to his attention. Like the average boy, he wasn't much on faith, says the Chicago Times-Herald. He liked to have things demonstrated conclusively. But perhaps he went a little farther than the average boy in his hard-headed way of looking at things. Anyhow, after a while his hand went up as an indication that he wanted to ask a question.

"What is it?" asked the teacher.

"Did you say that warm air rises?" he inquired.

"I did," she replied. "If you should get a stepladder, for instance, you would find the air near the ceiling of this room much warmer than that near the floor. It is that tendency to rise that is utilized in heating a house by a furnace. If the hot air didn't rise the furnace would be of no use."

"Sure about that?" demanded the boy.

"Why, of course," answered the teacher. "You can find it demonstrated in a dozen different ways every day."

The boy relapsed into silence for a time, and then the hand went up again.

"Say," he said, when he had got the attention of the teacher, "is the roof the only thing that keeps that hot air from going higher?"

"Certainly," replied the teacher. "Didn't you ever see a hot-air balloon?"

"Ye-es, I guess so."

"Well, the ceiling doesn't stop that, does it? It works all right in the open air, doesn't it?"

"Ye-es."

A second time the boy relapsed into silence, and then the hand went up for a third time.

"Did you ever climb a big mountain?" he inquired.

"I'm sorry to say I never had the opportunity," replied the teacher.

"Or go up in a balloon?"

"No."

"Well, my father told me about a man he knew once who climbed a mountain right in the summer time and came back with a frostbitten nose. How did he get it?"

Then, while the teacher was endeavoring to recover from the shock of this startlingly sudden interrogation, the boy demanded to know how high a man must go in a balloon before he would be overcome by the heat.

PLENTY OF WORK

No Excuse For Any Man Begging on the Streets These Days.

SCARCITY IS FOUND

Employment Agents of Minneapolis Cannot Get Enough--Good Wages Are Paid.

There is one class of men in this section at least that is not suffering from the effects of hard times, and that class is composed of the common laboring men. Business men may complain that business is light and money scarce, but the laboring men of this vicinity are rejoicing in wages that are 25 per cent higher than they were last year, with plenty of work for all of them, such as it is.

Employment agents say that there is more work than men, and while there is the usual crowd of men hanging around waiting for something choice, any man who really wants work can get it, and there is absolutely no excuse for the able-bodied men who come to the back door for a "handout." One employment agent said yesterday that if any one is brought in this manner they should hire a mule to kick the supplicant out, for there is work in plenty for more men than the employment agent can obtain. Most of the work is on railroad improvement and construction, out through Western Minnesota and North Dakota, where wages are $1.75. Last year at this time they were $1.25 to $1.35, but this year the first-named wage is freely offered. One employment agent said yesterday that he sent out fifty men Monday at that rate, while he had another large gang going today.

In Minneapolis it is an impossibility to get the men that are needed, and the agents there have been sending out men without taking the usual fee for getting work, simply to keep the business of the companies that want the men. There are more men in Duluth, for they keep drifting in from the Great Northern construction camps and from the iron ore mines, where work is somewhat slack. There is work for all of them, however, and at good wages.

Besides the work on the railroads, there is a good demand for men for the woods in summer camps, where $22 to $26 per month is offered. Last year at this time $20 was considered fair pay for this work. About the middle of July the cheap rates to the wheatfields go into effect, and the usual rush of laboring men to Western Minnesota and North and South Dakota will begin. It is expected that this rush will be greater than ever this year, for there will be lots of work. Crops are looking well, and besides there is a greatly increased acreage this year. There is a call for men for outside sawmills at $1.50 to $1.75 for common labor.

CIRCUS DAY NEAR.

Expectation Aroused Over the Coming of the Robinson Shows.

The rapid approach of circus day has aroused new interest in the long-looked-for visit of the John Robinson greatest of all American shows to this city next Monday. This great show never fails to fulfill its promises, and the public is assured of not only seeing the largest combined circus, menagerie and hippodrome in the United States, but also hundreds of notable arenic features never before exhibited in this country, and especially imported for this progressive big show. Public expectation has been excited to a remarkable degree by the certainty of seeing the famous Canadian strong man, Louis Cyr, whose marvelous feats of strength have given him a world-wide fame, while the other characteristic features of this great-est of great shows have aroused the liveliest anticipation. Among hundreds of high class performers who contribute to the wonderful exhibition only a few can be named. One of the most remarkable acrobatic acts now before the American public is that of the famous Harvey family, and this great company of acrobats is with the John Robinson show. The Miller family has created a furore in Europe during the past five years by their astounding performances in fancy and acrobatic bicycling. They are now with the John Robinson show. And so on throughout the list. Wherever a superlatively great act could be secured, it was engaged regardless of cost, and as a result the performance given by this great show can be equalled nowhere else on earth. Particular attention is also called to the street parade, which daily precedes the performances of the big show. A fortune has been expended in making this free street display the most magnificent spectacle ever seen in modern times. Two herds of mammoth elephants, 350 horses, over 1000 people, scores of dens of rare wild beats, ten bands of music and hundreds of new processional features contribute to the dazzling display. All of them will be merely an introduction to the most complete circus performance ever given in this city.

BANDAGES ARE WANTED.

Telegram Asking For Four Hundred Received From Capt. Teare.

A telegram was received by the Women's auxiliary of the Duluth Volunteers' Home society from Capt. Teare of Company C, asking that 400 bandages be sent to Camp Thomas. The boys expect to be moved at any time now and the bandages are wanted to be on hand when they are needed. A call for a meeting of the auxiliary at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the rooms in the Palladio building was immediately issued and notices were at once sent out to the workers to begin on the bandages. Another meeting will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the same place.

The Q. P. U. society will meet tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Miss La Vaque, 131 East First street, to work on the bandages. The young ladies have done considerable work already and have given valuable assistance to the auxiliary.

WHIST TOURNAMENT

Northwestern Teams to Play for Championship at Superior Saturday and Monday.

Next Saturday and Monday a whist tournament for the championship of the Northwest will be held at Superior. The games will be for the team and pair championships of the Northwest, and players from several cities are expected. The teams, consisting of four players, will compete for a cup which was donated by the Minneapolis Times and is now held by a Minneapolis team. Minneapolis proposes to hold it and will send up strong teams. Another cup to be competed for is one donated by the St. Paul Whist club. This will go to the pair making the best record.

Teams and pairs are expected to be entered by St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Superior, Stillwater, Fergus Falls and probably Fargo and other places. All have strong players, but the Minneapolis club is probably the strongest. It has taken the championship from Chicago and has a high record.

The Duluth club will enter a team consisting of Judge Moer, J. M. Roy, H. R. Tinkham and B. F. Poteet, and another consisting of Dr. Cullum, W. P. Lardner, F. McCreary and Wilcox. A number of pairs will also be entered. Women will be eligible to enter some of the contests.

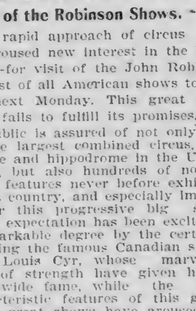

The first games will be played Saturday afternoon. There will also be play on Saturday evening and Monday afternoon and evening. On Sunday the guests will be entertained by the local people. A ride on the bay and up the St. Louis river will probably be given them.

Last evening the Duluth Whist club began another tournament series. The scores made were as follows:

STORIES OF RELIEF.

Two Letters to Mrs. Pinkham.

Mrs. JOHN WILLIAMS, Englishtown, N. J., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot begin to tell you how I suffered before taking your remedies. I was so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without falling. I had womb trouble and such a bearing-down feeling; also suffered with my back and limbs, pain in womb, inflammation of the bladder, piles and indigestion. Before I had taken one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt a great deal better, and after taking two and one-half bottles and half a box of your Liver Pills I was cured. If more would take your medicine they would not have to suffer so much."

Mrs. JOSEPH PETERSON, 513 East St., Warren, Pa., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have suffered with womb trouble over fifteen years. I had inflammation, enlargement and displacement of the womb. I had the backache constantly, also headache, and was so dizzy. I had heart trouble, it seemed as though my heart was in my throat at times choking me. I could not walk around and I could not lie down, for then my heart would beat so fast I would feel as though I was smothering. I had to sit up in bed nights in order to breathe. I was so weak I could not do anything.

"I have now taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and used three packages of Sanative Wash, and can say I am perfectly cured. I do not think I could have lived long if Mrs. Pinkham's medicine had not helped me."

PECULIAR METHODS

Iron Companies Resort to Illegitimate Means to Defeat Rate Reductions.

WORK ON OWNERS

Making All Kinds of Promises to Them---Dire Results Pictured.

Preparations for the trial of the iron ore freight rate case are going forward with great vigor on both sides. The railroad companies, whose resources appear to be unlimited, are not confining their efforts to a legitimate defense, but are resorting to devious methods for the discouragement of independent mine owners from participating in the cause of the petitioners. One gentleman whose faith in the benefits which will be derived by himself and other owners of mining property by a reduction in freight rates related the following story to a Herald reporter today, which illustrates one of the arguments being employed to destroy the well-defined sentiment existing among owners of iron properties in favor of lower freight rates:

"A well-known and ordinarily intelligent holder of iron lands on the Mesaba range came to me yesterday and said he doubted very much the advisability of taking any part in the freight rate controversy. This fight, he said, is being made by the Vermilion range mine owners, and it has been explained to me that if the rates on the Vermilion range are reduced, as has been petitioned for, the price of Vermilion ore will go down to such a point that there will no longer be any demand for Mesaba ores at any price. Everybody knows, he continued, that at anything like the same price furnacemen will buy Vermilion ore in preference to Mesaba every time. The strangest thing to me about this silly argument is that the man, in my opinion, really believes it."

One of the very bright young men employed to do the really fine work for the Rockefeller interests was in Minneapolis a few days ago using his persuasive eloquence and glittering although deceptive promises on owners of iron lands on the Mesaba, his one object being to induce them to withdraw their support from the petitioners who are prosecuting the case against the railroad combine. To one or two of the fee owners of mines, the leases of which are owned by his employers, and the provisions of which are not being carried out, he said that if they would keep out of the case and forget to be present at the hearing, the properties in which they were interested would be operated to the limit, which meant that their revenues from royalties would be materially increased.

To another small owner of Mesaba property this same bright young man said in an insinuating way:

"This case against the railroads has not been begun in good faith, and if certain transfers of mines should be made it would be withdrawn. It is more than possible that it will never be tried. Now, I have come down here to assure you that, no matter what the outcome may be, we propose to take care of you. Your interests will be protected at all hazards. We know that you would not give this blackmailing scheme your sanction or moral support."

For once the very bright young fixer met the wrong man, for the reply he received was something like this:

"My interests on the Mesaba range are very small, and I do not know that it will make very much difference to me what the outcome of this suit may be. I am certain that I do not care what the possible motives of the men who have begun it are. This much, however, I do know, and that is that you fellows have been robbing the people on the lines of your railroads in the most high-handed manner, and it should be stopped. If, as you claim, this case has not been brought in good faith, that is no reason why you should resort to what appears to me as a very flagrant form of bribery to induce those who are interested in it in good faith to withdraw their support from it."

While it is generally understood in Duluth that the Republican candidates for the legislature are, in case of their election, to do anything that will be to the interests of the iron ore and railroad combine, it was not expected that they would begin their work along these lines before election. At least one candidate for the senate has, however, entered into his work with a will, probably to show the railroad companies that he is thoroughly subservient and acting in good faith. He has been industriously circulating among his friends who happen to be owners of iron lands on the Minnesota ranges, and by the use of the stock arguments of the combine he has endeavored to induce them to keep hands off in the coming railroad rate case. In one instance at least he tried to have iron land owners agree to testify on the side of the railroads, that in his opinion a reduction of freight rates would operate against the independent mine owners and benefit only the furnacemen in the East.

Snively Is Doing Well.

Letters have been received by Capt. Lewis and T. M. Helinski from S. F. Snively, who went to Alaska early in the year. Mr. Snively is evidently doing well. His letter states that he is on the Atlaso river, fifty miles in from Yakatat bay, and has secured several claims which show fine diggings. He is very sanguine of having struck it rich.

Crackers Already In Evidence.

The Fourth of July is a week distant, but the small boy and his fire cracker are already on the scene, and already runaways are being narrowly averted. This year's fire crackers bid fair to produce a louder report than those of previous years, if those which are now heard daily are a fair indication.

ADVERTISING PAYS.

Deputy Treasurer Williamson Discovers the Value of The Herald's Columns.

Assistant County Treasurer Williamson is a believer in the virtues of advertising in The Herald. Ever since the call was published asking for holders of county poor and road fund orders to come in and get them paid, the treasurer's office has been having a hard time to get them in. Interest on them stopped with the publication of the call, so there was no longer any object in holding them. Yet the holders kept nursing them pretty generally as though they had an idea that the interest was still running. Twice this fact has been mentioned in The Herald, and each time the statement has been followed by a rush of holders of orders presenting them for payment. Monday one bunch amounting to $2200 was brought in by one firm and there has been quite a heavy demand for payment from other holders. That is why Deputy Treasurer Williamson, among others, believes in the virtue of advertising, and especially in The Herald.

There are still outstanding a considerable number of orders that have not yet been called in and that still bear interest at the rate of 7 per cent. There have been many inquiries by men who desire to purchase some of these interest-bearing orders and all of them expressed great willingness to pay par for them. This is quite a change when it is remembered that not very long ago these orders were discounted by purchasers anywhere from 5 to 15 per cent. People who dealt in them had a very soft thing for a long time until one day one of the dealers was aroused and cut the discount down to 1 and 2 per cent. The next step was to accept them at par and they have been at par ever since.

Even at par they are a good investment. They are as safe as anybody could desire, and few investments at present are paying 7 per cent. They will not be on the market much longer, however, for payments of taxes have been reduced so that there is hope that before many more months the county will be able to call in all the outstanding orders and get both of these funds level again. There have been overdrafts in them for six or seven years, and every county officer will feel greatly relieved when they are clear once more.

ON THE GLOUCESTER.

Letter From a Duluth Boy on a Large Torpedo Boat Destroyer.

W. A. Harbour, of Duluth, who enlisted in the navy when Lieut. Cook was here, writes from Cuba. He is aboard the torpedo boat destroyer Gloucester. He says:

"We are near Cuba at last with the most powerful of Uncle Sam's fleet and the Spanish bottled up in the harbor. I was on shore in Cuba and found the natives in fairly good condition as regards their living, but not as to clothing. Fruit and the necessaries of life are abundant around Santiago. The brave men who sunk the Merrimac were caught by the Spaniards, so God help them.

"At night the excitement is intense. We expect every object to be a torpedo boat, or some enemy. We immediately show signals, and if they are not answered lively—bang she goes. Our men sleep by their guns and never turn in. It requires a great deal of endurance to be on blockade. This place, as you will see, is on the south coast of Cuba—full of sharks and flying fish and American warships. I have so much to tell that I must take a day off some time and let you know some of my diary—it's too funny for anything. We have a 'Robinson Crusoe' and a 'Horizontal Bar Twister' and a 'Shadow' among our crew.

"Our boat is a peach—goes twenty-two knots an hour. She is commanded by Lieut. Commander Wainright of the Maine, and you can bet that if there is a chance he will want satisfaction from the Dons. Our ship was formerly the private yacht of J. Pierpont Morgan, and she is the third largest torpedo boat afloat. I am more than pleased with my luck in catching her. We carry a crew of 100 all told, and I do hope that we shall give a good account of ourselves. The ship is 300 feet long; the machinery is protected. We carry twelve guns. Our largest are 14-pounders, which are equal to 4-inch guns. They fire shells which explode on striking and send everything heavenward. We have also the rapid-firing Maxim gun, which fires a shell every twenty seconds. It is one of the best of modern guns and also the most destructive for its size.

"While in Key West I went aboard the Winslow. She is badly shattered.

"Later—We bombarded the forts and it was a grand sight. Shells fell all around us. Do not know the damage."

NO REGATTA THIS YEAR.

Minnetonka Will Not See the Annual Boat Races.

It has been decided that for the first time since it became an annual affair, there will be no Minnetonka regatta of the Minnesota and Winnipeg Rowing association. The reason, of course, is the same as that which nipped in the bud the plans of the Duluth Boat club for sending an 8-oared crew to the national regatta—the war. Over in Canada they are not bothered, of course, in this way, so Winnipeg will hold a regatta in which there will be pasteipants from Rat Portage, Vancouver and other places.

The Superior Boat club is making arrangements for a Venetian fete to be held on the bay some time in August. Last year one was held that was very successful, and it is expected that it will be eclipsed by this year's festivities. The start is made early enough to ensure success, and a big time is looked for. Everyone with a boat will be asked to take part in the parade, and the committee will see that they are supplied with fireworks and flash lights. If possible there will be a sham battle of fireworks in the middle of the bay.

THE PRESIDENT HERE

Street Railway Employes Addressed By the Head of Their Organization.

The mass meeting of street car employes at Columbia hall in the West End last night was largely attended, and the audience was composed principally of members of organized labor with a predominance of street railway men. The principal speaker of the evening was W. D. Mahon, national president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes of America, and he created a good impression and was enthusiastically received. Mr. Mahon is a striking personage, and he is often rallied upon his likeness to William Jennings Bryan, which is noticeable. Not only are his features like those of the late candidate for president, but his voice and gestures are somewhat like those of the great apostle of bimetallism. To complete the resemblance Mr. Mahon last night stated that he, too, was a believer in bimetallism.

The meeting was called to order somewhat late, and President Cobb of the Duluth division of street railway men opened the speaking with a short and interesting talk. Mayor Truelsen was the first speaker, and after welcoming Mr. Mahon to the city with great cordiality he hoped that he would carry away with him a pleasant memory of the city and its people. In the course of his speech Mayor Truelsen declared himself in hearty accord with the principles of unionism. He was a firm believer in the right and need of the members of every craft to organize for common improvement and protection.

President W. E. McEwen of the Federated Trades assembly was the next speaker. He spoke in favor of organization, showing what it has accomplished for the crafts that are organized and what it can do if the principle is carried out through everything. He believed that every craft should have its organization.

President Mahon was next introduced, and he began by defending unionism from attacks that have been made upon it. He said that a short time ago a man argued to him that it was wrong to require every workman to belong to a union and have his working card in that union in order to work. He responded by asking the carper what his business was, and he replied that he was an attorney. The speaker asked him then what would happen if a man went into court and tried to practice law without a diploma showing that he had prepared himself for the profession by the proper training and education. In the law a preparation is necessary as in every other calling, and the working card is the journeyman's diploma. In union circles when a man works for lower wages than is thought right he is called a scab, while in legal circles he is called a shyster. In this age of combination and trust it is necessary to organize to make any progress or even to hold one's own. Individual workingmen would be too weak to combat organized capital, but a craft banded together and actuated in the interests of the common good becomes a power that even the harshest employers are bound to recognize and respect. A good way to realize the importance and power of the ordinary individual is to stick your finger in the lake and then pull it out and look for the hole.

The speaker most emphatically denied that unionism is unpatriotic. The only unpatriotic unionism is that of the Pullmans, Vanderbilts and Rockefellers and others of that class. If any order of men in the country is entitled to the consideration of the nation it is the trades unionists. It should be remembered that when the forefathers of this nation met to discuss the formation of a new nation they did not meet in Independence hall, which was in the hands of the British, but in Carpenters' Guild hall, a trades union hall.

The speaker admitted that strikes are disastrous, but he maintained that this is a strike government. When the tea was dumped into the harbor of Boston it was a boycott that has never been condemned, and the strike at Bunker Hill has always been applauded as glorious. But the speaker maintained that none could be more anxious to avoid strikes than himself, and he hoped that unionism would become so strong that strikes will be unnecessary. Reverting to the ethics of the case, he said that it is only in the side of labor that the buyer fixes the price. In the sale of all other commodities it is the seller who fixes the price. In closing the speaker urged his hearers to keep on striving and not to be satisfied with what has been attained. He also cautioned them not to put their faith in political parties but in unionism.

The La Crosse Contest.

The lacrosse game which will be played at the fair ground next Monday between the Port Arthur and Port William teams will be a great event. The Port Arthur team are the champions of Western Canada. Last Wednesday they defeated the Fort William team five straights. There are a great many people in Duluth who know the game, but have not seen one for a long time. There is no more exciting game than is lacrosse.

George and William Cattanach, brothers of James Cattanach, play in the Port Arthur team. The teams will come down on the steamer Majestic.

OBJECT TO MARTIN.

Minneapolis Man Not Likely to Be Appointed Labor Commissioner.

Washington, June 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The president is having considerable trouble in selecting the nine labor commissioners to be appointed under the Phillips act, owing to a multiplicity of candidates. It is said he is anxious to make the selections before congress adjourns, in order that the senate can act upon the nominations at once.

With reference to the candidacy of H. B. Martin, of Minneapolis, it is said his record is being investigated. The representations have been made to one member that his political methods in the past have not been such as to entitle him to consideration, and the congressman's endorsement may be withdrawn.

It was understood that Senator Nelson was to see the president in Martin's behalf, but if he had such an intention he has changed his mind. Mr. Nelson said today that he has been informed that the laboring men of Minneapolis and other cities are opposed to Martin, and for that reason he will not urge him for the position.

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS.

Bryan's Name Applauded Tremendously When Mentioned.

Altoona, Pa., June 29.—The state Democratic convention assembled to nominate a full state ticket for the fall campaign. The convention was called to order at 2:50 p. m. by Chairman Garman. The opera house, where the convention was held, was packed to the doors. Capt. A. O. Boyle, of Luzerne county, was chosen temporary chairman. His speech of acceptance was uninterrupted by applause except when he mentioned the name of William J. Bryan. The name of the Democratic idol evoked tremendous applause and left no doubt as to the sentiment of the delegates.

The platform is causing the delegates more concern than the nomination of the candidates. A half dozen leaders have been at work on the platform for two days and had not reached an agreement when the convention met. The pronounced free silver delegates insist upon a bold declaration in favor of the 16 to 1 policy and a strong endorsement of the Chicago platform. The conservatives are opposed to any resolution on the silver question, and demand a platform confined strictly to state issues with a patriotic plank endorsing the war policy of President McKinley. The indications are that George A. Jenks, of Brookville, will be the gubernatorial candidate.

WOODWORKERS COMPROMISE.

And Declare the Oshkosh Strike Off In One Mill.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 29.—A special to the Journal from Oshkosh, Wis., says: At a meeting of the woodworkers' union today, the strike, as far as the McMillan mill is concerned was declared off and 200 men will return to work at that factory this afternoon. It is believed this action will bring about a speedy settlement of the trouble in all the mills.

The Woodworkers' union has declared the strike off at the McMillan factory and about 150 employes returned to work this afternoon.

The terms of the settlement are a secret, but it is understood to be an advance of 15 cents a day on all wages less than $1.50 a day, and an agreement to employ no female labor. The union is not recognized. The other six manufacturers are holding a conference this afternoon to decide on a plan of action. The four companies left for Milwaukee at 2 o'clock.

RESTORING THE SALARIES.

Louisville & Nashville Road Makes Its Employes Happy.

Louisville, Ky., June 29.—President Milton H. Smith of the Louisville & Nashville railroad today sent out the official notice of the restoration of one-half of the reduction in salaries made in August, 1893. The remainder will be restored Jan. 1, 1899.

The advance takes effect today and will affect about 18,000 men. It will require $500,000 a year additional to pay the increased wages.

KANSAS BANK CLOSED.

Too Many Loans to Please the State Officials.

Abilene, Kas., June 29.—Thomas J. Kirby's bank, a private institution and the oldest in the county, was taken in charge by State Bank Commissioner Breidenthal today. It has $218,000 on deposit and $70,000 cash on hand. Its assets include a large number of farm loans, and Kirby personally owes considerable clear real estate.

The closing came because he failed to comply with the bank commissioner's order to cut down the loans. It is believed that depositors, who are scattered all over the country, will eventually be paid. Some $7,000 of county funds were in the bank.

BATTLE AT HAND

News of an Engagement at Santiago Hourly Expected at Washington.

Shafter Says That He Can Take the Place Within Forty-Eight Hours.

Eight Thousand Spanish Troops With Pack Trains and Cattle Advancing.

Washington, June 29.—Gen. Shafter has just reported to Gen. Miles that he can take Santiago in forty-eight hours, but indicates that the undertaking might involve considerable loss. He is fully aware of the approach of Spanish reinforcements, and it is believed here that he intends to take the town immediately and that news of a battle might be expected at any time.

Gen. Shafter has reported to the war department that Spanish troops numbering 8000, with pack trains and cattle, are advancing from Manzanillo and are now within fifty-four miles of Santiago.

FIGHT TO THE DEATH

What the Spaniards are Boasting They Will Do at Manilla.

Madrid, June 29.—Dispatches received from Manilla today under date of June 24, say the Spaniards are determined to fight to the death and that there is every reason to believe that when the American troops arrive desperate fighting will occur on land and sea.

It is supposed at Manilla that the German warships will prevent the bombardment of that place, and it is alleged that Prince Henry of Prussia is on his way there on board a warship.

The Spaniards are said to be actively pushing preparations for the defense of their city.

Gen. Aguinaldo, the insurgent leader, declared that the family of Capt. Gen. Augusti, who are prisoners in his hands, are at Panpanga and are well treated.

SAILORS FOR DEWEY.

One Hundred Men Passed Through Chicago This Morning.

Chicago, June 29.—One hundred sailors passed through here today, en route for Manilla. They are the first naval reinforcements to Dewey's fleet that have been sent from the interior and the East. The detachment hailed from Toledo, New York, Boston, the Norfolk navy yards and Philadelphia.

PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATIONS.

Large List of Names Sent to Senate For Confirmation.

Washington, June 29.—The president today sent these nominations to the senate:

WHITEMAN IN CHICAGO.

In a Police Station Cell Awaiting Forgery Examination.

Chicago, June 29.—Alonzo J. Whiteman occupies a cell at the central station here. He arrived in Chicago today from St. Louis in custody of Detective William Burke, who reached St. Louis before a Boston detective, who also wanted Whiteman.

The prisoner will be arraigned in the Harrison street police court tomorrow to answer charges of forgery and obtaining money by false pretenses. Whiteman will be prosecuted by the management of the Grand Pacific hotel on whom he is said to have passed a worthless draft for $275 a few weeks ago.

SANTIAGO'S WATER SUPPLY.

Apparently Reliable Report That It Is Cut Off.

Siboney, Providence of Santiago de Cuba, June 28, via Kingston, Jamaica, 29.—Copyrighted 1898 by the Associated Press.—It is reported here tonight on apparently good authority, that the water supply of Santiago de Cuba has been cut off. If this proves true, the city is at our mercy.

Gen. Wheeler, today forwarded his official report of the encounter between the Spaniards and Col. Young's and Col. Wood's commands. The officers are highly complimented for their dash and courage. The general says there is absolutely no warrant for the statement that our troops were ambuscaded. He says the attack was deliberately planned, from knowledge in his possession the night before.

MERRITT DEPARTS.

Military Governor of Philippines With His Staff Leaves San Francisco.

San Francisco, June 29.—The speedy steamer Newport, bearing Maj. Gen. Wesley Merritt, military governor of the Philippines and his staff, besides the Astor light battery and Companies H and K of the Third United States artillery, and detachments from the signal corps, is now on its way to Manilla.

As the vessel gradually drew away from her dock the blowing of many whistles told the people that Gen. Merritt had taken his departure. Great crowds had gathered to witness the departure of the vessel and many fashionable equipages on the dock told of the presence of the representatives of the "four hundred," who had come to bid farewell to friends among the members of the Astor battery.

Many tug boats and yachts chartered for the occasion accompained the Newport down the bay and out through the Golden Gate to the Pacific where the last farewells were waved to the departing military men gathered on the deck of the steamer.

The Newport will make an effort to overtake the third fleet of transports which sailed on Monday after the fleet reaches Honolulu, where the vessels will coal and take on fresh supplies before proceeding to Manilla. Gen. Merritt is very anxious to avoid an encounter with any vessel of the Spanish navy, and will issue orders to the fleet at Honolulu, to make all possible speed. It is probable that the Newport will not wait for the other vessels of the fleet at Honolulu, but will proceed with as little delay as possible to Manilla.

THANKS TO HEROES.

Senate Took Speedy Action on Resolutions Thanking Hobson and Others.

Washington, June 29.—In accordance with the recommendations of the president, the senate at the beginning of its session today took action in recognition of the distinguished services rendered recently by officers and men of the navy and revenue cutter service.

Mr. Frye reported from the committee on commerce a joint resolution recognizing the gallantry of Frank H. Newcombe, commanding the revenue cutter Hudson, and of his officers and men; also retiring Capt. Daniel B. Hogsdon of the revenue cutter service for efficient and meritorious service in command of the cutter Hugh McCulloch at Manilla.

The resolution extends the thanks of congress to Lieut. Newcombe for his heroic gallantry in the action at Cardenas, when he and his crew rescued the Winslow and such of her crew as had not been disabled or killed, and provides for a suitable medal of gold for Newcombe, silver medals for his officers and bronze medals for the members of his crew. It also places Capt. Hogsdon of the McCulloch on permanent waiting orders at full pay. The resolution was adopted without debate.

Mr. Frye of the naval committee then reported favorably a resolution tendering the thanks of congress to Naval Constructor Hobson who with his crew of seven men sunk the collier Merrimac across the entrance to the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, and providing for the transfer of Mr. Hobson from the construction corps of the navy to the line. The resolution was also adopted.

After the resolution had been adopted Mr. Hoar, addressing himself to the action just taken by the senate, said: "All we do and all we have done for Naval Constructor Hobson, in recognition of his distinguished bravery, is to extend to him by name the thanks of congress. But in this case, where a deed of special heroism was performed, it seems to me that we ought to recognize the men who volunteered to accompany him on his perilous undertaking. All were undergoing the same risk, and the names of the entire seven ought to be mentioned in the resolution. I would be glad to see this chamber filled with such heroes as those men are."

Mr. Hoar said that such recognition by congress was one of the greatest marks of honor that could be conferred upon any man or men.

The Morgan amendment for a commission to settle the Pacific railroads' government indebtedness modified to compel settlement in ten years was agreed to in the senate today. Also that the government shall be reimbursed for all interest paid.

The general deficiency bill which had been under consideration almost all day was then passed. The senate adopted an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill, appropriating $145,000 for the purchase of land in Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian Islands and the dredging of a channel.

CAMARA REFUSED COAL.

Egyptians Will Not Give Him Any at Port Said.

Cairo, Egypt, June 29.—Admiral Camara has asked permission to coal his fleet at Port Said, but the Egyptians believing the ships have sufficient coal to steam to the nearest port of their own country have definitely refused his request, in accordance with the neutrality laws.

INDIAN OUTRAGE CLAIMS.

Washington, June 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house committee on war claims today reported favorably on the senate bill to refer claims of residents of Otter Tail, Stearns and Todd counties for loss of property in the Sioux outbreaks of 1862 and 1866 to the court of claims.

PENSION INCREASED.

Washington, June 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—An increase of pension from $6 to $8 per month has been granted to James H. Cramer, of Duluth.

TROOPS ARE PLEASED.

St. Louis, June 29.—A special to the Post Dispatch from Chickamauga Park, says that there is great satisfaction felt among the troops there over the report from Washington that Maj. Gen. Brooke will be appointed military governor of Porto Rico.

TROOPS ADVANCING

Forces Are Hurried to the Front at Santiago.

The Army Will Soon Move Upon the Enemy.

Delay Caused By Inability to Get Rations Forward.

At the front on the Rio Guama, second crossing, Tuesday, June 28, per the Associated Press dispatch boat Dauntless, via Port Antonio, Jamaica, Wednesday, June 29.—(Copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—The preparations for a general advance of the American troops on Santiago de Cuba are being pushed steadily forward and the troops of all branches of the service are being hurried to the front.

Gen. Kent's division, consisting of a brigade, each of Gen. Hawkins, Col. Pearson and Col. Worth's commands, has joined Gen. Lawton's division and with the cavalry division of Gen. Wheeler and four batteries of light artillery will now be strung out in the rear of Gen. Lawton. The First division still rests on the second crossing of the Rio Guama river, on the road to Santiago de Cuba, on the crest of Sevilla hills and a mile and a half back.

The brigade of Gen. Bates, the Thirty-third Michigan regiment and a battalion of the Thirty-fourth Michigan regiment, which were landed yesterday by the auxiliary cruiser Yale, remain at Juragua or Siboney.

The delay in the general forward movement is due to the inability to get subsistence to the front. The advance, it is said, will not be ordered until every man has three days' rations in his knapsack. This, however, is impossible until the road is passable for wagon trains.

The pack trains can only convey one day's rations in a day. The men constructing the bridge roads have the work almost completed and this afternoon the first wagon train of four six-mule teams will go through. In two or three days more every man will have three days' rations in his knapsack and as soon as that occurs the army will move upon the enemy.

The whole front and flanic is being reconnoitered and an accurate map has been made by the engineers. Much of the information thus far obtained will be of great value from a strategic point of view.

Lieut. Mendonca of Gen. Lawton's staff made a reconnoisance up to the trenches and heard the pickets on duty talking.

Corporal Dewey and nine sharpshooters from the Seventh infantry went out at dark last night with one day's rations towards the Spanish lines and they have not yet returned, but no fear is entertained for their safety. It is believed they are lying in the bushes waiting for night.

At daylight this morning Lieut. Smith of the Fourth infantry, with fifty men from the Seventh infantry, under Lieut. Dearfoo, crossed the San Juan and went in a northeasterly direction as far as Caney, or El Guamey, as it is marked on the maps, without encountering any Spanish troops, and fifty men of Company A, Seventh regiment, under Capt. Young, also made a reconnoisance in force. The Spaniards have seemingly retired to their entrenchments as no pickets or skirmishers were encountered. Gen. Lawton, Gen. Wheeler and Gen. Chafee have had riders out beyond our advance posts several times.

Capt. Wright, of Gen. Bates' staff, today followed the line of railroad running out of Juragua towards Santiago de Cuba to within two and a half miles of the city. The road approaches within a mile and one-half of our front and can be utilized to bring up supplies and siege guns, the first of which were landed at Baiquiri this afternoon.

As soon as the remaining battalions of the Thirty-fourth Michigan and Eighth Massachusetts, which arrive on the Harvard tomorrow, and the 6000 reinforcements sent out from Tampa, reach here, Aguadores, a town on the coast four miles west of Juragua and about the same distance east of the harbor entrance, will be taken. The place was shelled today by several ships of the fleet. Aguadores is on the line of the advance of the army into the interior and close to the railroad. It will then probably become the base of operations, while the supply base may remain at Juragua.

Capt. Wright, on his reconnaisance, obtained information, which is believed to be reliable, that 2000 Spanish troops have been sent to reinforce the garrison at Aguadores. Gen. Lawton will probably make a diversion with his artillery so soon as it is placed in position.

Heavy rain this afternoon made it impossible to move today beyond Gen. Wheeler's headquarters, but the roads will dry quickly. The guns will probably be brought up tomorrow and the entrenchments will be shelled by the artillery and by Col. Wood's dynamite guns. The shrapnel fire will be more used by the artillery. The guns are 3 2-10 inches, and with shrapnel they are effective at 3500 yards. The Cubans say the Spaniards are in deadly fear of dynamite, and Gen. Lawton will see how he can terrify them.

The military telegraph line has been completed as far as Gen. Wheeler's headquarters, thus placing the front in direct communication with Gen. Shafter, who still maintains his headquarters on board the Seguranca, where he can keep in close touch with Rear Admiral Sampson. It is probable, however, that he will establish his headquarters at Juragua tomorrow or Thursday.

The troops belonging to Gen. Lawton's division are kept ready to move in light marching order, while the reconnoitering parties are out. That is considered necessary to avoid disaster to small troops, in case of collision with the Spaniards in force. The Cubans under Gen. Castillo are doing commendable work as advance pickets. They are thrown out, day and night, from half a mile to a mile in advance of our pickets, along the front and flanks, thus forming a double cordon about the army. There are now more than 12,000 men at the front.

Drinking water for the troops is obtained from the Rio Guama, a stream full of springs, running direct from the mountains. The water is remarkably good and is now carefully guarded from pollution. The Cubans and our soldiers bathed in it at first; but strict orders have been issued against such practices in the future and sentinels have been placed to enforce the orders.

Strict orders have also been issued about eating the great variety of tropical fruit, mangoes, oranges, etc., in which the woods abound, the only exception being made in the cases of milk from green cocoanuts, which is considered healthy and refreshing, and limes. Some of our men made themselves sick through eating fruit.

An epidemic of measles, which was started on board one or two transports is spreading to the camp and about twenty new cases have broken out today.

PETE'S WATCH DEAL.

Bought at $2.15 Each and Sold For $10 Apiece.

An old-time detective the other day was discussing with some sleuths new in the profession the methods of up-to-date swindlers. After deprecating the originality of the modern crook, he told of what he considered the sharpest game he ever saw worked, for the Philadelphia Record.

"I suppose you fellows know," he said, "that during centennial year Philadelphia was a hot-bed of bunco-steerers and sharpers of every description. Well, I was detailed to keep an eye on these gentry, and in time I became acquainted with most of the 'big ones,' who were generally exceedingly bright men. One, in particular, who was known as 'Slick Pete,' I took a great liking to, for he had an inexhaustible fund of humor, and was a good-hearted chap. Toward the end of the centennial exhibition, one day I dropped into a downtown auction room, where some fake jewelry was being sold. A lot of watches were off red, and I saw that they had been made evidently for bunco-steering purposes, for the works were good and the cases were made to look like solid gold. They were finally knocked down for $2.15 apiece, and I saw that the buyer was 'Slick Pete.' Jewelry was out of his line, but I knew he had some scheme in view. Two months had passed before I again saw Pete, and then I asked him what he had done with the watches. He began to laugh, and said: 'Oh, skinned some swindler with them. Then followed the explanation. He had hired a room and inserted an advertisement in various papers, something like this: 'Found—A solid gold watch. Elgin works. Loser pay costs. Apply, etc.' Nearly every crook in town answered the ad and claimed the watch. Pete, who made up as an old man, seemed a mark, and the 'sly' crook, in the hurry to get part, made but a cursory examination. 'The costs,' $10, were invariably handed over, and in two days Pete had disposed of his stock."

"LA PALOMA DISLIKED."

They are telling a story at the navy yard about Capt. Richard Leary of the San Francisco. When that vessel was last at the yard for repairs her band played every night for the men at quarters, and later for the officers' mess, says the New York Sun. It seems that Capt. Leary was very fond at one air called "La Paloma," and almost every evening after the band had finished its regular program the captain would send out a request that "La Paloma" be played. Now, the crew of the San Francisco are loyal Americans to a man. It is a simple process of reasoning it became evident to them that "La Paloma," from its name, must be a Spanish air. This was enough to make the tune obnoxious to the crew.

Capt. Leary, in blissful ignorance of the mental trouble he was causing his men, continued to ask for his favorite air. One night there came a crisis in the matter. The men were scattered about the decks, when a messenger came forward with the usual request.

"Boys, this is too much," said one future Jim Hickey, springing up. "Let's queer the blame Dago tune."

Standing nearby were scrap buckets containing the remains of the evening meal. When the band struck up the offensive air each man grabbed a cold potato or anything else that came handy and let fly at the musicians. The men proved that they could throw straight as well as shoot straight. The band kept on with true Yankee fortitude, but it was in very discordant fashion that "La Paloma" floated on the evening breeze. Capt. Leary noticed the difference and sent for the band leader, who plays a violin.

"What's the trouble?" he asked.

"Well," replied the musician, "it takes both my hands to fiddle, and I can't do it well and dodge potatoes at the same time."

When the whole affair was explained Capt. Leary appreciated the joke as much as any one. He has found a new favorite air now, and 'La Paloma" is discarded.

AT WEST DULUTH

C. C. Salter's Bond Approved and Mrs. Salter Will Assume the Office.

WILL GO IN FRIDAY

No Changes Contemplated for the Present—Delegates Leave for Convention.

The bond of C. C. Salter, Jr., as postmaster of West Duluth has been formally approved by the department at Washington, and his wife has received authority from the assistant postmaster general to take charge of the office. Edmund Caplis has been notified and will transfer the office to Mrs. Salter Friday, July 1. Two clerks are employed in the West Duluth office, neither of whom are under the civil service rules, so that their tenure of office will be subject to the wishes of the new postmaster. It is understood that it is not the intention of Mrs. Salter to make any changes for the present at least. However, it is probable that after she has become familiar with the duties of the office, the importunities of Republican office seekers for place will have to be given consideration.

Postmaster Caplis said today that he had not decided what business he will engage in after leaving the postoffice. Postmaster Salter will not undertake the personal management of the office until after the war with Spain is ended and he receives his discharge from the army.

THE DELEGATES LEAVE.

Thomas Olafson and the other West Duluth delegates to the Republican state convention went to St. Paul this afternoon over the St. Paul & Duluth railroad. Mr. Olafson is a Collins man and will support the Duluth man for justice of the supreme court who in his opinion has the best chance of receiving the nomination. His personal preference is Judge Lewis, but if any of the other Duluth candidates promise to have more strength in other parts of the state than he, he will go with the strong man.

MILWAUKEE'S FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Gives a Novel Exhibition at the Wisconsin Jubilee Carnival.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 29—A parade of Milwaukee's fire department, headed by a platoon of police and Fire Chief James Foley, was the interesting feature of the forenoon exercises of the jubilee carnival. The procession brought out all the firemen in the city, with the exception of a small emergency reserve. A feature of the parade was the small hand engine of early days, followed by nearly all the surviving pioneer firemen in carriages who manned the ancient machine fifty years ago.

After the procession which moved through the principal streets to City Hall square a fire contest between the old fire engine manned by forty men, and a chemical engine in charge of two men, took place. Two rough buildings had been erected for the contest, and the demonstration showed the superiority of the new over the old method of fighting fire. There was also an exhibition given in the scaling of ladders, life saving apparatus and latest fire fighting appliances were brought into play.

A grand floral parade will be the feature at 3:30, and a fire run is on the program for tonight.

HAVANA VERSION

Blanco Reports That Americans Find Difficult Work Advancing on Santiago.

FIVE SHIPS CAUGHT

Spanish Commander Reports the Capture of Five Boats By Americans.

Havana, June 28.—(Capyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—Delayed in transmission.—It is said at the palace of the captain general here, the headquarters of official news, that the American forces are finding difficulty in advancing upon Santiago de Cuba. It is claimed that they followed the railroad track to Juragua from the mines situated a short distance from the coast, between Siboney and Aguadores, but were unable to reach the latter place in spite of the protection afforded by the fire of the warships.

The commander of the Spanish gunboat Ardilla reports that while reconnoitering on June 26 at Coloma, Punta Cortes and other places at Coyaela, he was informed that a strange steamer with one smokestack, apparently a warship of 3000 tons, was in sight. The stranger soon caught sight of the Ardilla and pursued her. The gunboat kept within the blue sea and succeeded in keeping out of range of the guns of her pursuer. To the southeastward the stranger, which turned out to be an American ship, appeared to be in company with several other vessels. The Ardilla made reconnoissance on the following day, June 27, and discovered that the American ship had captured the sloops Nemesia, of Batabano, province of Havana; Amistad and Manuelita, of Coloma, province of Pinar Del Rio, and the pilot boats Luz and Jacinto. It is claimed that when the sloops were sighted the American ship hoisted the Spanish flag, which caused Pilot Joaquin Fernandez of the Luz to hoist the Spanish flag, believing he had to do with a Spanish warship.

The pilot also approached the American vessel and did not find out his mistake until a blank shot and afterward loaded shells were fired at the pilot boat. The shells, it is claimed, exploded near her. The American ship by this time seemed to have driven the Spanish craft into a bunch, including the Luz, Jacinto, Amistad, Nemesia and Manuelita.

The latter, it is further alleged, let go their anchors and were abandoned by their crews, who made for the shore, going in the direction of Punta De Piedras, on the southwestern extremity of Pinar Del Rio, between the Isle of Pines and the mainland. The commander of the Nemesia, with one of his crew, remained on board his sloop and was captured and taken on board the American ship. Later he was set at liberty, after having been questioned regarding the Spanish fleet and the general situation of affairs.

The American ship is described as carrying one gun forward another at her stern and four guns on each side. She is said to have been commanded by a "frigate captain," and "to have carried about 600 men, with blue pants and red fringe," who said they were going to Cuba and afterward to Key West.

WHITE HOUSE CALLERS.

Great Crowds of People Try to See the President.

Washington, June 29.—President McKinley was up until well after 1 o'clock this morning, going over the war situation with Secretary Alger. Adjt. Gen. Corbin also was with him until a late hour. During the time the three were together at the White House there was some informal discussion of the situation, and it was stated positively that the dispatch of reinforcements from here would not cause Gen. Shafter to delay any plans he may have formulated. The president, frequently of late, has been sitting up until an early hour in the morning watching the developments and waiting for news from the army in Cuba. Both Secretary Alger and Adjt. Gen. Corbin are usually with him until a late hour on those occasions.

As a result of the late hour at which he retired, President McKinley was unusually late in beginning work today. There was a long line of callers that soon crowded the large reception room, but it was considerably after 10 o'clock before he began seeing any of them.

Owing to the great crowd a large number of senators, and congressman left before seeing him. Senator Platt had to call twice in regard to securing a promotion of one of the men in Troop A cavalry, one of the troops now at Camp Alger, made up principally of a number of representatives of old New York families, and Adjt. Gen. Corbin, who came over after 10 o'clock, to talk over some army matters, went away without accomplishing his mission.

CHINESE CHARACTERISTICS.

Spirit of Economy Is the Most Prominent of All.

The spirit of economy in the Chinese race transcends all that can be imagined. The smallest particle of matter is utilized. The old cast-off account book of the merchant is cut into pieces and oiled to serve instead of glass in windows or lanterns. A coolie who has a six hours' march with a heavy burden will return to his point of departure without having broken his fast, in order to save the 2 cents his breakfast would have cost away from home, says the Boston Transcript. Nothing is more curious than to see them eat, although, with their famous chopsticks, they do not perform all the wonderful feats generally supposed. Everything is served them in bowls, or saucers, and with the chopsticks they raise the pieces of meat or fish to the mouth, with sufficient grace. Each one has a bowl of rice, which he holds near his lips, and with the aid of the chopstick he pushes the contents into his mouth. Is is very curious to see them pick up with their chopsticks the grains of rice that fall on the ground. The children are taught this art from their earliest years; nothing must be lost, not even the smallest grain. What remains of the repast is put carefully away to be served at another meal. Their dogs and cats are not overfed, as the scraps from the table are rare.

Europeans regard politeness as an expression of those qualities of the heart which render the person who desires to be polite agreeable to those with whom he is thrown. The Chinese look upon the matter from an entirely different standpoint. The same sentiment which accords importance to the preservation of dignity regulates his actions as regards politeness. Here is an example of their politeness: A Chinese, arrayed in his most beautiful costume, who presented himself at a house, disturbed a rat who was enjoying himself in a jar of oil. The rat, in his flight, overturned the jar upon the visitor, whose dress was ruined. While the unfortunate visitor was still pale with rage, his host entered the apartment, and after the usual salutation, the visitor explained his misadventure: "As I entered your honorable apartment, I had the misfortune to alarm your honorable rat, which, in taking flight, overturned your honorable jar of oil upon my miserable and insignificant clothing, which explains the contemptible condition in which you find me in your honorable presence." To determine your conduct, when a Chinese offers you a present, is the most difficult thing in the world. Certain things are not offered to be accepted, and others may not be refused peremptorily. In a general manner, nevertheless, one may accept, understanding perfectly that the gift must be returned a hundred fold.

MISTAKES CORRECTED.

Texas Man Explains a Custom of His State.

Washington Star: "Some ten or more years ago," said the gentleman from Texas to a Star reporter, "we had occasion in our town to send one of our prominent citizens to England to look after some business of a private character in which he, with half a dozen more of us, was interested. He was a bit raw, as you might say in the East, but for our purpose he answered admirably, and we shoved him to the front and let him loose among the effete inhabitants of Britain. I don't know what he didn't do or say over there, for we could only get information by hearsay, but an American, who met him one night at a club told us of a conversation which he had heard on that occasion. There was a general talk on the subject of the wild and woolly manners of the Southwest and the Texas idea of justice.

"'We couldn't have anything like that, don't you know, in this country,' said an Englishman.

"'No, I reckon not,' responded the Texan; 'it takes a special trainin' that you folks won't ketch up to for a good many years yit, I reckon.'

"'I should hope not,' laughed the Englishman.

"'Tain't your fault, though,' consoled the Texan, 'you can't expect to have all the best things over here, you know.'

"'It's a good thing, I know,' admitted the Englishman, 'but yet I think the system is most defective. Judge Lynch is not always in the right.'

"'I don't know about that,' said the Texan, shaking his head doubtfully.

"'Now,' said the Englishman, conclusively, 'are you prepared to say that justice is always promptly administered in this manner?'

"The Texan hesitated a moment and showed unmistakable signs of failing to uphold his case.

"'I reckon you're half right colonel,' he said. 'Sometimes the rope breaks or a gun misses fire the fust time, but you oughn't to hold that ag'n us, fer we never let the cuss git away.'"

FOUR ABLE LIARS.

Chicago Tribune: "You may not believe it, gentlemen," said one of the group, who, having dined at a free lunch counter, were smoking their cigars in front of a hotel. "You may not believe it, but I have used a fountain pen constantly for four years and have never had the least trouble with it."

"That's remarkable," said another. "Still, I am the father of six children, and never had to walk the floor at night with a single one of them."

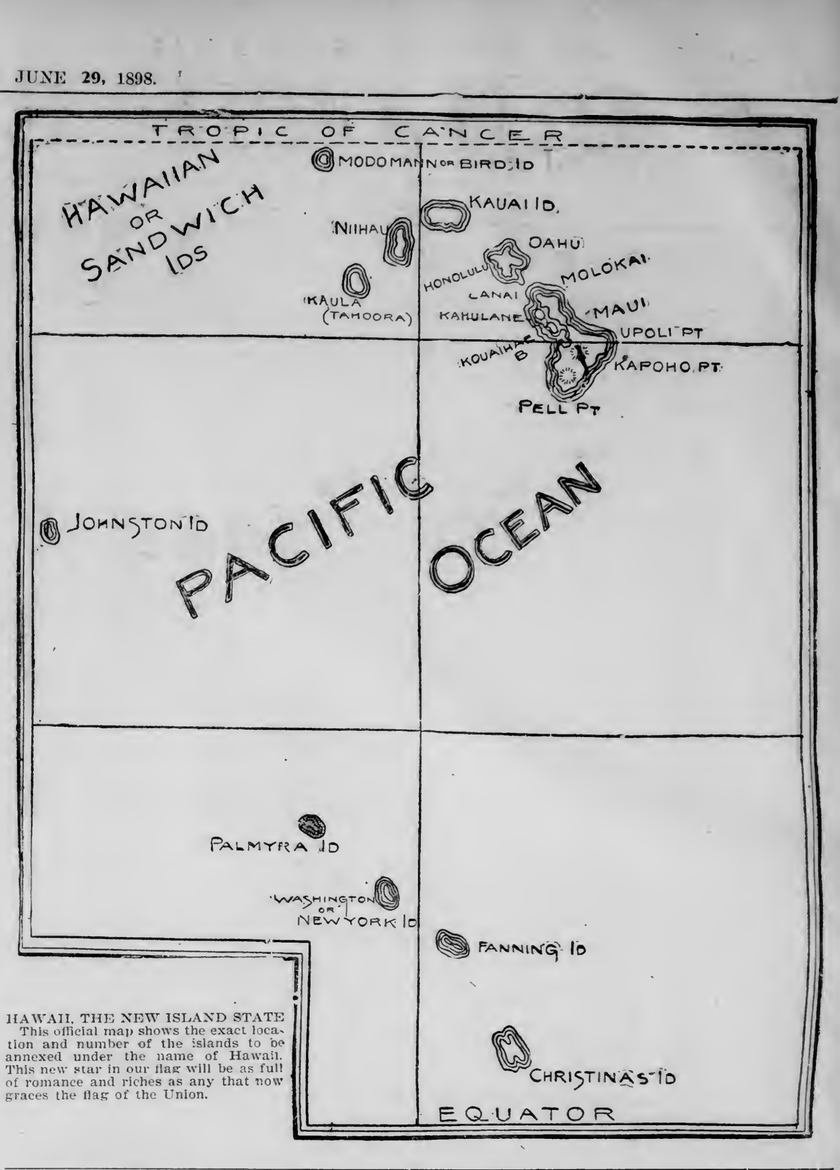

There was a silence of a minute or two, and another spoke up.

"I don't doubt it," he said, "for I can testify to something stranger still. I have a bright little 4-year-old boy at my house, and I have never told any of his smart sayings to my friends."

"Gentlemen," remarked a fourth, after a painful pause, "I am fond of hearing young women practice their scales on the piano after I have retired to rest. It lulls me to sleep."

One or two persons in the group made feeble attempts to say something, but gave it up. It seemed to be felt that this reached the limit.

JOHN BULL IN AFRICA.

Has Gobbled the Best Parts of the Dark Continent.

British Africa can be variously described—geographically, politically, ethnologically and religiously, says the Independent. But the simplest definition is this, all Africa that is comfortably habitable by white men is under the British flag or under British protection. And again, everything in Africa that pays dividends lies within the sphere pegged out for John Bull by his adventurous sons. Wherever in Africa you find land in which white-skinned children can be bred and reared, you will find it lies within the British zone. And wherever there is in Africa any paying property, that also will be found to be within the same sphere of influence. All of Africa that is habitable and all of Africa that pays its way, that is British Africa.

The other nations have scrambled for John Bull's leavings. France, for instance, has annexed the Sahara. In her West African colony of Senegal every fifth European is a French official. Germany has annexed 320,000 square miles of desert in the southwest and 400,000 of semi-tropical land in the East, but they have more officials than colonists, more subsidies than dividends. Portugal has quite an empire of malarial marshes on both coasts. Belgium has the Congo Free State, a magnificent empire in the heart of tropical Africa which needs £80,000 a year subsidy from Belgium to keep it from bankruptcy, and which, notwithstanding the subsidy, has run up a debt of over £8,000,000. Italy, the last to join in the scramble, has nearly come to grief over her African adventure. Africa stands solely on the debit side of the account of every European nation but one, and even in the case of Britain the entries to the bad are neither few nor small.

British Africa may be described in another way. Wherever you find a good harbor in Africa or a navigable river or a great inland lake, there you may be sure that the British flag is not far off. The Congo is the only great African river which does not enter the sea under British protection. The Congo was opened up boomed and made accessible by Mr. Stanley, a British explorer; and its waters are as free to the flags of all nations as if they were British. The only harbor in South Africa that is worth having which is not British is Delagoa Bay, and John Bull to this day ruefully recalls the fact that he only lost that by allowing it to be sent to arbitration before a tribunal which took more account of musty little deeds of a remote past than the necessaries of the living present. The only harbor on the southwest coast, the natural port of German Southwest Africa is Walfisch bay, where a British sentry stands on guard under the shade of the Union Jack. Wherever navigable water is, there the descendant of the old vikings recognizes his fatherland even in the heart of Africa. Of the great lakes which lie in a long string from the Zambesi to the Nile, there is not one on whose shores there is not a British possession. Even the smaller lakes, such as Lake Tchad, seem to attract the searovers of the Northland.

The preparation for the Paris exhibition of 1900 is already under way on the Congo, and on that occasion Europe will, I feel sure, again proclaim that the constitution and developments of the Congo state is and will remain one of the brightest jewels of the Belgian crown. An uninterrupted series of successes of a scientific, economic, moral and military nature—the bringing within the boundaries of civilization the whole heart of Africa; the suppression throughout this immense territory of those cruel bands that used to send to European markets ivory stolen through the blood of men, and to Eastern harems violated orphans; the establishment of order, justice, labor, the faith revealed to millions of human beings; such are some of the results attained by the Congo state.

The black population of the Congo basin is estimated to be 30,000,000 souls. The Belgians have undertaken the task to act as their educators, for the climate will not permit the white man to labor uninterruptedly on the Congo. He can only direct others. The high table lands of the Katanga, where the temperature is lower, can become the regions habitable by our race. At present Europeans must return home after a sojourn of two or three years in Africa. The number is continually increasing of those who go back for the fourth or fifth time. In a word this distant colony has put fresh life into the Belgian nation, which was in danger of growing torpid after sixty years of peace. It needed this new venture to bring out once more its virile qualities.

WERE HANDY IN 1861.

"We fellows were enlisted down on the Penobscot," said D. B. Cressey, of Lewiston, today, says the Lewiston (Me.) Journal, "and there were twenty-five of us boys who were too small to do the work, so the enlisting officer said.

"We went down to Augusta and were thrown out, while a lot of heavy woodchoppers and farmers were put in our places.

"Governor Robie, who was paymaster then, got us back. And, do you know, we made better soldiers than all these heavy fellows, because we could get there. When night came we were always the first in camp, while the fellows who had the meat to lug around were coming in all night long. Well, we were down in Louisiana one time, and a raid into the enemy's country was proposed. It was to be made with a cavalry, and they went through the regiments picking out the smallest men to make the raid. There were 1800 of us, and not a man weighed over 130 pounds. It was a queer looking crowd, but it got there, for the men did not tire the horses out, and at night they were as fresh as could be expected. I think the light men make the best soldiers in the long run for many branches of army life."

STRANGE MYSTERY.

Of Missing Freight Car 12,345 on Many Railroads.

The old-timers—the men who make it a business to talk politics, make slates and outline the policy of the municipal, state and national administrations—had taken their usual shot at these topics in the Laclede rotunda and talk began to drag, says the St. Louis Republic.

"Before we adjourn," said one of the veterans, "I'd like to ask a question. Most of you gentlemen have skirmished around over these United States to a considerable extent; some of you can rightly claim to be traveling men. Now, sirs, is there one among you who ever saw a freight car numbered 12,345?"

After a moment's very intense silence we of the gathering ventured to ask if there was any "catch" in the question.

"No catch at all," resumed the speaker. "I ask the question seriously. Every big railroad in this country has a freight car in its equipment bearing the number 12,345, and yet I'll lay reasonable odds that you may tramp this town over and you will not be able to find a man, I care not how much he has traveled, who has ever seen a car with that number. Among railroad men it is known as the 'Sequence Car' or the 'One-two-three-four-five car.' Perhaps you never looked for it. I have. For years in my travels I made it a practice to get out whenever the train stopped and take a look at the freight cars in sight, and I have met drummers who told me they did the same thing, but never a glimpse did I ever get of that car, nor did I ever run across a man who had been so fortunate. Try it. Go up to the freight yards in this city or across the river. You will find hundreds of cars, but it's $10 to a pint of peanuts that car 12,345 will not be among them. There isn't much superstition in my make-up, but I do believe if I could run across that car it would change some of the bad luck that has been hanging to my coat tails recently."

Somebody suggested an adjourn, and there was a general scatter in the direction of the local freight yards.

IT WAS ONLY ICE.

Washington Star: "Iron mills are hot places to work in, but the men have lots of fun with all their hard work," said a retired iron man to a Star reporter yesterday.

"The other day I took a walk through several mills over in Pennsylvania that I am interested in. As I was going through one the superintendent asked me to wait and see a little fun. I did so, and I will tell you about it.

"A new man had come to work that morning and the men were about to initiate him into the mysteries of the business. You know it is so warm that the men strip their bodies to an undershirt. When the trip hammers came down they produce myriads of sparks, which the men try to avoid.

"The newcomer had been told that he was in danger of being seriously burned, and that if he felt a spark anywhere about him the only sure way of helping himself was to jump into a big vat of water, which stood a few feet away.

"Finally one of the big trip hammers came down with great force, and as it did so one of the men sneaked up behind the newcomer and dropped a small piece of ice down his back. You never saw such squirming and agony in your life.

"Thinking of what had been told him, he took a run and jumped headlong into the vat of water. The men gathered around him and talked of an ambulance, but he soon found he was only the victim of a joke."

ADVANCE IN WHEAT

Market Was Strong and Advancing Both Here and at Chicago.

THE CABLES HIGHER

Crop Damage Reports and Small Receipts at Western Primary Points.

Wheat ruled strong and advancing today in contrast to the weakness which prevailed yesterday. The cause of the strength at the opening was an advance in prices at Liverpool where a decline had been expected. Then there were reports of crop damage from all sections of the wheat districts and there was a general impression that the very high estimates of a big crop, made some time ago, will not be realized. There was so much news about the yield falling below expectations that later cables showing a decline at Liverpool had no effect. One feature which aided the bulls to a great extent was the smallness of the receipts at the Western primary markets, which usually indicate a free movement at this season of the year and the fact that no new wheat is being offered to arrive. The receipts at Duluth today are about the last of the present crop year, and from now on they will not likely average more than five cars a day, unless they come from Minneapolis. July closed ½c higher in Duluth and 1⅝c higher at Chicago, while September finished 1¼c higher in both markets.

Trading was dull on the Duluth board. July opened unchanged at 82¾c bid and two sales were made at that figure, after which it ruled dull but strong, closing at 83c. September opened unchanged at 67½c bid and quickly advanced to 67⅞c. An hour later it sold up to 68¼c, after noon touched 69½c, closing at 69¼c. Shippers bought three cars of cash stuff at the July price. Corn advanced 2¼c. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 85½c; July, 85½c; September, 70¼c. No. 1 northern, cash, 83c; July, 83c; September, 69¼c. No. 2 northern, 80½c. No. 3 spring, 77c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 85½c; No. 1 northern, 83c. Oats, 23@22½c. Rye, 43½c. Barley, 26c. Flax, to arrive, $1.06; September, $1.03¾. Corn, 29c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 16; corn, 11; oats, 10; rye, 1; flax, 8. Receipts—Wheat, 40,727; corn, 1873; oats, 1366; flax, 430. Shipments—Wheat, 55,633; flax, 61,128.

ON THE CHICAGO BOARD.

Wheat Started Up Owing to Higher Cables.

Chicago, June 29.—Firmness at Liverpool, where a decline was anticipated, started wheat upward here today. While the weather was nearly perfect in the winter wheat sections where harvesting is in progress, there was little let-up in the crop damage reports, and traders seemed pretty generally convinced that the rosy estimates made a month ago will not be realized. Late Liverpool cables showed most of the early advance there lost, but this was offset by reports of disappointing yields and inferior quality of the winter wheat from Pennsylvania and Maryland. Receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth were light, 32 cars against 41 last year. Chicago received 2 carloads as compared with 11 for the corresponding day last year. July opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 71⅛@⅜c, advanced to 72c, fell off to 71½c and then rose to 72⅛c. September started ¼@⅜c higher at 66⅝@⅞c, declined to 66½@⅝c and then firmed up to 67⅛@67¼c.

The total amount of Western primary market receipts was only 82,000 bus compared with 188,000 bus a year ago. Those small receipts everywhere had considerable influence on the market, as expectation had been ready for a free movement of the wheat by this time. Country millers, however, who are bare of supplies, are absorbing farmers' deliveries meantime and are likely to do so for another two weeks at least. The Atlantic port clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 526,000 bus. There has been some business in cash wheat. No. 2 red was held at 79c and No. 2 northern at 82c. It is noteworthy that no new wheat is offering "to arrive." Usually at this time there is a good business done in the new wheat.

Prices were up a shade on corn, on good buying by shorts and the rally in wheat. July opened ⅛@¼c higher at 31¼c, sold down to 31⅛c and then rose to 31½c.

Oats sympathized with corn. July opened ⅛@¼c higher at 20⅞@21c, declined to 20¾@⅞c and then rose to 21¼c.

Large hog receipts and heavy selling by commission houses weakened provisions at the start. Later, however, prices were improved somewhat by packers buying ribs moderately. There was a fairly heavy cash trade. July pork opened 5c lower at $9.42½ and firmed up to $9.50. July lard started 2½c down at $5.32½ and ranged between $5.32@5.37½. Ribs began 2½c off at $5.32½ and sold up to $5.35.

Chicago, June 29.—Close, wheat, June, 79½c. July, 73⅛c. September, 68⅝c; December, 69⅛c. Corn, June, 32c; July, 32c; September, 32⅞c; December, 33⅜@½c; May, 36⅛@⅜c. Oats, June, 21⅞c; July, 21⅞c; September, 20⅞c; May, 23⅛c. Pork, June, $9.47; July, $9.47; September, $9.67. Lard, June, $5.37; July, $5.37; September, $5.50; October, $5.52@5.55. Ribs, June, $5.37; July, $5.37; September, $5.45. Cash, wheat, No. 2 red, 78@79c; No. 3 red, 72@75c; No. 2 hard winter, 75c; No. 3 hard winter, 70@72c; No. 2 spring, 78@80c; No. 3 spring, 78@80c. Corn, No. 2, 31⅝@⅞c; No. 3, 31c. Oats, No. 2, 21@21½c; No. 3, 20c. Barley, cash, No. 3, 31@35c. Rye, cash, 43c; July, 43c. Cash, flax, $1.06; cash, northwestern, $1.06; September, $1.03¾; October, $1.02. Timothy, June, $2.55.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Dull Market and Closing Up Deals Before Holidays.

New York, June 29.—The cotton market opened dull, with prices unchanged to one point higher and ruled inactive throughout the forenoon. Traders were purposeless from the start, there being absolutely nothing in crop, weather or cable news to invite ventures either way. As the holidays approach the disposition to settle up accounts grows. Cables were to the effect that the English cotton trade was showing reluctance to take hold until crop prospects were more definitely determined. Cotton futures opened dull; sales, 800 bales. July, $6.20; August, $6.23; September, $6.08; October, $6.01.

New York, June 29.—Spot cotton opened dull and unchanged. Cotton closed quiet; middling uplands, 6⅝; middling gulf, 6⅞; sales, 1907. Cotton futures closed easy; sales, 22,900 bales. July, $6.17; August, $6.18; September, $6.07; October, $6.07; November, $6.05; December, $6.07; January, $6.10; February, $6.13; March, $6.17.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, June 29.—Wheat owing to better cables was stronger on opening but local scalping crowd inclined to favor the bear side, they were the best sellers early but later, when market showed strength covered, advancing September to 67⅞-¾c, later declined to 67¼c but a general buying made it strong and advanced to 69c. The closing somewhat easier due to realizing by June longs but we are inclined to believe the market has got started for good advance. Good cash demand for wheat for milling.

Corn has needed only a little excuse to advance for several days and today when wheat got strong shorts in corn concluded that they would buy it in as quick as they could. Still believe it will sell higher.

Oats—Firm advanced a little but not very active.

Provisions are stubborn, there is no speculation in them of course there is some liquidation going on all the time by outsiders and against their purchases of hogs. Any change in the provision situation will mean better prices, stocks actually accumulating and that tends to hold market down.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Trading Opened Up Brisk With Prices Mixed.

New York, June 29.—Most stocks showed small losses at the opening of the market, but there was a fair sprinkling of gains by important stocks. Tobacco and Brooklyn Transit rebounded a sharp fraction from yesterday's late depression. There was considerable activity in the trading.

Large buying orders in special stocks checked the reactionary tendency and Sugar, Tobacco and Brooklyn Transit moved up one to two points, other stocks followed suit, but the railroads were unimportant, except for an advance of nearly a point in Rock Island. Business fell off considerably after the first hour and prices declined slightly on realizing. Just before noon, Sugar moved up to 132½ and stiffened the list again. Sales of stocks to noon, 117,451 shares.

THINGS NEGROES SELDOM DO.

Washington Star: Some time since I read a paragraph to the effect that colored people rarely, if ever, were heard to sneeze. Since then I have given considerable attention to the subject, and have inquired of other physicians as to their experience or observations on the question, said a Washington doctor. They all concur that sneezing is very infrequent among the colored race, and some of them say it never occurs, unless it is brought on by artificial means. While investigating the question, another matter came to my attention, and that is the extreme rarity of suicide among that race. It is so very rare that it can be said that it never occurs. The statistics of suicide, which are now very carefully reported, show that the most intellectual races, and those who are most subject to their emotions, are most prone to suicide. The Germans lead in the matter of suicide, the French coming next. The Irish and the Americans are about the same, the latter being slightly in the lead.

JAPANESE RUG INDUSTRY.

Springfield Republican: The seat of this industry is the town of Sa'kai, situated about eight miles south of Osaka. The rugs made are principally from jute, the number of people employed in the manufacture being about 9000, mostly children between 7 and 16 years old. In the course of the last year, says the Dry Goods Chronicle, the Sa'kai weavers have made a step forward by turning their attention to the manufacturing of wool rugs, and they are now able to turn out a very creditable article, which in appearance and durability is almost equal to a Turkish carpet. Although this branch of the industry is yet in its infancy, it employs 480 weavers on 120 looms and can turn out 120 square yards daily. The warps and weft are cotton, the filling wool yarn. Most of the wool yarn is manufactured from Chinese raw wool spun in Osaka. An important improvement in the rug business is the attention now paid to dyeing colors. Fast dyes and beautiful shades are taking the place of their former attempts in this respect, and there seems no question but that the quality of their work is now much superior to what it was a year ago.

glad I have thrown light on the question. What strikes you as the reason, Mr. Beecher?"

"Well," replied the great preacher, "it is permitted in order to keep just such fools as you out of the churches."

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

THE CHICAGO GIRL SANG.

What the Great Musician Said to Her Fond Papa.

At the time of Dvorak's visit to the country, relates the New York Criterion, a wealthy pig-assassin from Chicago, who was at the time residing in New York, invited him to his house for an evening function.

There was a hidden motive in this. The destroyer of hogs had a daughter on whose musical education money had been spread like water, and the proud father wished to extort a favorable criticism from the great musician at a time when hospitality had to some extent disarmed him.

After the usual inanities of the social evening, the event came on the board. The daughter, with many a deprecatory "hem" and apologetic speech, advanced to the piano, a sheet of selected vocal fireworks firmly clasped in her ample hands.

The usual sad young man played the accompaniment, and the exhibition began—gurgles and gurgles, wild soarings of a chromatic scale, like a boy drawing a lath along a picket fence, and descents from the heights after the fashion of one who steps on a bit of soap at the head of a long flight of stairs. All the strange feats of the accomplished amateur singer were displayed in their most unpleasant form.

When the last terrible yell died away and the gas jets ceased to jump, the father advanced upon the guest of the evening, beaming but anxious.

"Well, Mr. Deevoorshuck," said he, "what do you think of her execution?"

The great musician's face was twisted by suffering until it almost resembled his name.

"Exegootion!" he answered. "Exegootion! Himmel wiener-wurster torner-wedder! Dot wos nod exegootion! Dot wos murder!"

DIED WITH HIS FRIEND.

Baron de Malortie, a German who had served in Mexico with Maximilian, told to Sir M. Grant Duff, who records it in his "Diary," the following story of an Indian's devotion to his leader:

Gen. Mejia was a full-blooded Indian in the service of Maximilian, and was taken prisoner along with him. Two hours before their execution was to take place Gen. Alatorre came to him and said, "Gen. Mejia, I have been three times your prisoner, and three times you have spared my life. My aide-de-camp is at the door with a horse, and you are free to go where you please."

"And the emperor?" asked Mejia.

"Will be shot in two hours," answered Alatorre.

"And you dare to come to me with such a proposition! Leave the room!" rejoined the prisoner. Alatorre did so, and Mejia and the emperor fell together.

A TART REPLY.

At a recent Washington reception there was a short, but sharp interchange of courtesies between the wealthy wife of an ex-congressman and the wife of a far from rich bureau chief, says the Providence News. It was a crowded afternoon affair, and the ex-congressman's wife was assisting the hostess in receiving guests. When the wife of the bureau official was presented the hostess said to the woman of the receiving party: "You know Mrs. Blank, don't you?" "Certainly," said the ex-congressman's wife. "I would know her anywhere by that pink dress."

The cheeks of the bureau official's wife were suffused with a rosy glow, but she turned on her tormentor and said: "Probably if my husband had been mixed up in as many questionable transactions as yours, madam, it would not be necessary for me to wear my pink reception dress so often as to cause comment."

Every word rang out clear and sharp upon the ears of the astonished guests. Inasmuch as there had been frequent criticism of the ex-congressman for his connection with questionable lobby transactions, the force of the bureau official's wife's retort can readily be imagined.

STAMPS ARE HERE

First National Bank Receives First Consignment From Revenue Department.

EXPIRES TOMORROW

After Then Checks, Drafts, Etc. Must Have Stamps--- How to Cancel.

The first batch of the new internal revenue stamps arrived in the city today at the First National bank. There was $300 worth in the lot. The bank sent for $2000 worth, but the balance will come later. The American Exchange bank has also sent for a large lot, but has not as yet received any. They are expected tomorrow. Without the stamps commerce would be practically suspended Friday and Saturday.

The stamps received by the bank are all of the denominations of 10 cents and under. The bank was anxious to get the 25 cents, for a large number of them will be used here. A 25-cent stamp is required on warehouse receipts, and a great many of these are issued here. The stamps are a little smaller than the Columbian and trans-Mississippi postage stamps and a little larger than the ordinary postage stamp. They bear a picture of the Maine.

The government is considerably behind time in printing them. This is evidenced by the fact that for the 1-cent revenue stamp the ordinary 1-cent postage stamp has been used, and the letters "I. R.," meaning "internal revenue," printed across them. These are used on bills of lading, telegrams, etc.

The bill becomes operative Friday, so that every check, draft, bill of exchange drawn after tomorrow must be stamped. The impression has gained ground that every check presented on the bank after tomorrow must be stamped but this is said to be incorrect. Checks drawn July 1 or later must bear the stamps.

Two firms, one at Minneapolis and one at St. Paul, have been awarded contracts for printing blank checks for banks bearing the government stamp. The firms have to give heavy bonds and are obliged to pay two government clerks who are to be kept at their places of business.

Anyone who chooses to buy them can get a supply of stamps from the collector of internal revenue. Those places at which they are designated to be sold are to be allowed 1 per cent commission, not a very large profit. There is sure to be more or less confusion before the people become accustomed to the stamps. Every person is required to cancel his own stamp by writing his initials and the date across it.

IMPORTANT BATTLE.

Capt. Scott Thinks Santiago Will Be One of the Greatest.

Capt. George L. Scott, agent of the LaPointe Indian agency, and S. W. Campbell, who will succeed him Friday, came over from Ashland this morning and registered at the St. Louis. They left for Tower this afternoon to check up and transfer the government property on the Vermilion reservation. Friday they will return to Duluth and in the evening will go to Cloquet to make the transfer of the Fond du Lac reservation. Then they will visit the several Wisconsin reservations.

Capt. Scott said he expected to complete the transfer by July 20, when he will start at once for the front to join his regiment, the Sixth cavalry. A part of the regiment is now with Gen. Shafter and the remainder is at Tampa ready to sail for the island. Capt. Scott regrets very much that he will not be able to participate in the taking of Santiago, for in his opinion that will involve one of the most important battles of the war. He feels confident, however, that he will be on hand in time to see part in the expedition against Porto Rico.

Capt. Scott said that the new mill on the Red Cliff reservation near Bayfield is now running day and night and has proven very successful. Indians are employed in it as much as possible or rather as much as they are willing to work, and the reservation as a result is in a very prosperous condition. The Indians are in easy circumstances and by the terms of the contract the Indians are assured of employment both winter and summer.

Suing For Their Fees.

Wangenstein & Bray this morning filed a complaint in district court in a suit against Andrews & Osborne, the owners of the West End block bearing their name that burned several years ago, to recover $329.62 alleged to be due for services. One item is $125 for acting as adjuster on the fire loss. Later plans for repairing the building were prepared, and the architects were to receive $535.17, or 4 per cent of the contract price, for making the plans. The repairs were not made, so the plaintiffs did not receive their money. Including several other items for work and a payment that has been made, the balance alleged to be due is as above stated. The building was attached for the amount, as the owners were non-residents. John Jenswold, Jr., is the attorney.

A Model Dairy.

The perfect system of handling milk at the Woodland dairy insures patrons of that dairy with pure sweet milk and cream, a fact that is daily being appreciated by a constantly increasing number of patrons. Their methods of keeping milk for raising cream, and their cooling rooms guarantees patrons pure, sweet, rich cream that is finer than the "ambrosia of the gods." Their milk and cream is good, with the accent on the "is," said a patron, who knows a good thing, today. Keough & Ryan are the proprietors.

Did Not Know Her Name.

An amusing circumstance occurred in a case in the United States land office this morning, in which Italians were involved. One was a woman, and when asked her name she replied that it was Aduzani Giozefina. The man with her told her she was mistaken, and that her name was Giozefina Aduzani. The woman persisted that she ought to know her own name, and the man, while admitting that statement, insisted that she did not. He finally proved it by producing her naturalization papers and some other documents. The woman would not give in then, but her name went down the man's way.

The Oratorio Repeated.

The sacred oratorio "The Prodigal Son" was repeated at the First Methodist church last night before a large audience, and the performance went even more smoothly and successfully than last Sunday night. The performance was for the benefit of the Duluth Volunteers' association, and a collection was taken up for the benefit of that organization that will materially swell its treasury. All of the principals and the members of the chorus were in excellent voice and the audience was appreciative. Director Woodward is arranging to present "The Messiah" in a few weeks, and it will be put on elaboratly.

A LACK OF HARMONY

Delegation That Went to St. Paul Today Torn By Contending Factors.

LUM MAY BE THROWN

Hartley and Sellwood Attitude Has Aroused Anger of Collins Men.

The St. Louis county delegation to the Republican state convention left this afternoon for St. Paul, about as unharmonious a gang of politicians as ever went over the pike. Some of them went by way of the St. Paul & Duluth, and others by the Eastern Minnesota, no one train being large enough to hold them all in their present state of mind. They have blood in their eyes and political murder in their hearts.

Each faction is afraid of the other, and they are all busy in making charges and counter charges of treason. No matter what the outcome may prove to be, many sore spots will be left which will take a much longer time than will intervene between now and election day to heal. It is evident that a majority of the delegates were today ardent supporters of Judge Collins for governor, but G. G. Hartley and Joseph Sellwood were persistently claiming, up to the last minute, that when the proper time arrives St. Louis county will be found in the Van Sant column. When the delegates were selected it was understood that a large majority were pledged to Leon E. Lum for justice of the supreme court. Today there was very much doubt as to whether it was not possible that the name of Charles E. Lewis would be presented to the convention as St. Louis county's candidate for this place on the ticket.

It seems that G. G. Hartley and Joseph Sellwood, who are making the fight for Van Sant in this county, are managing Mr. Lum's campaign. Notice has been served on them by Lee Willcuts, who is in charge of the Collins forces, that unless they take shelter in the Collins camp immediately, Mr. Lum will be thrown overboard and some other Duluth man given the solid vote of St. Louis county. The threat has not had any immediate effect on Hartley and Sellwood, who continued to the last in their efforts to round up delegates for Van Sant. Willcuts has all along claimed to be friendly to Lum, yet the fact remains that all of the delegates selected by him are Lewis men. There is no prospect that the warring factions will get together in the convention, and while the majority will cast the entire forty-four votes, the minority will be at work in other delegations to counteract it. There is not a single proposition on which they will stand together, and a disposition is being shown by one faction to hold Page Morris responsible for the position taken by Willcuts. In fact, it is rumored that Willcuts has been working in some things directly in violation of pledges made by Morris. After the convention is over Mr. Morris will have a number of things to explain away, and if his explanations are not entirely satisfactory he may be punished at the ballot box in November for the sins of his political manager.

THE OLD CIRCUS MAN.

Trick of the Clown's That Used to Please the People.

New York Sun: "Some of the feats and tricks of one sort and another performed in shows that look so wonderful," said the old circus man, "are really as simple as rolling off a log, if you only know how they are done. We used to have a clown at one time who was also a very good acrobat, and he was humorous in his antics as well as in his speech, and everybody liked him. He always wore a black mustache, with the ends neatly waxed and corkscrewed, and one of the funniest things he did depended for its success on these waxed ends of his mustache.

"After an unusually intricate piece of foolery that called for a good deal of exertion, he would pause, panting, in the ring, and turn to the ring master.

"'Well, I'd give $1.25,' he would say to the ring master, 'for a bottle of soda water.'

"'Why, you shall have a bottle for nothing,' the ring master says, and he sends a groom for a bottle of soda water, who comes back in a minute with a bottle and a glass on a tray.

"'But where's the corkscrew?' the clown asks, picking up the bottle and holding it clear of the tray and looking all around on it. 'There's no corkscrew.'

"'What's the matter with your mustache for a corkscrew?' says the ring master, the whole audience looking on perfectly still. And before you could think, the clown would swing the bottle up with the cork against the point of one end of his mustache—he's practised that so that he never missed it—and drive it on to the point, and then in almost the same motion—there was never any halt in the action from the beginning to the end of the whole thing—he'd begin turning the bottle on to his mustache until the point was hurried in the cork, and then he'd give the bottle a yank and pull it free and carry it to his lips and drink, leaving the cork impaled on the end of his mustache. He'd drink half the soda water, toss the bottle at the ring master, have the cork off his mustache in a jiffy, and toss that at the groom standing there waiting with the tray, and then turn a cartwheel while the whole audience doubled up with laughter. Why, it used to tickle 'em half to death.

"And it was all done to the simplest, easiest way in the world. The two waxed ends were really two corkscrew tips projecting out beyond his mustache and joining under it in a good stout holder held between the teeth."

WENT TO THE "KITTY."

Learned Exposition of Inside Workings of a Poker Game.

The case of Henry H. Gonyea vs. John O. Homberg and John Finn, in which the plaintiff sought to recover money alleged to have been lost in playing poker, occupied Judge Edson's attention this morning. The plaintiff alleged that Finn ran a gambling room on the second floor of 508 West Superior street, in the Zenith hotel block, and that Homberg, who runs the Star saloon on the first floor of the block, rented the room to Finn. The plaintiff was enticed in there at various times between Jan. 1 and May 24, 1898, he alleged, and lost at various times the sum of $130.

It happened that Finn paid Homberg $35 a month rent, and Napoleon Bouthi, a witness for the plaintiff, and who used to work for Finn, testified that Finn told him that the reason he paid such high rent to Homberg was that the latter had to pay $10 a month for "protection."

The defense introduced no evidence and advanced the argument that there was no evidence as to whom the money was lost to. Attorney Grettum, in reply, said that the money that went to the "kitty" represented the winnings and that that money went to the house. He entered into a lengthy and learned dissertation on the subject of "kitties." The court took the case under advisement.

PARADOX OF A RAILROAD.

Twenty Miles Long One Way, But Sixteen Going Back.

It is twenty miles from Honesdale to Carbondale, Pa. From Carbondale to Honesdale it is sixteen miles. That is what they will tell the inquiring traveler who has occasion to take the Delaware & Hudson cars at this place to make the trip between the two towns for the first time. The information will be puzzling to him, but it will be true.

Another thing will puzzle him still more. The car he enters is elaborately fitted and furnished, but is less than half the size of the ordinary passenger car. It moves out from the covered station on the coal piers a few yards and stops. If the traveler looks ahead out of the car window he will see the narrow track leading straight up the side of a high hill, at an angle of nearly 45 degrees. The top of the hill is about an eighth of a mile away. There is no locomotive anywhere to be seen. Up this hill the car is hauled by a cable. Once at the top, the car continues on its way down the other side. Down this grade the car runs by gravity until it reaches the foot of another hill, when it is whisked to the top in the same manner as the first one. In this way the grand summit of the mountain range that divides the Lackawanna from the Lackawaxen valley is surmounted, eight of the long planes being ascended before the summit is reached.

The ride from Fairview Summit on to Carbondale is over an uninterrupted declining grade. The road curves abruptly around projecting hills; clings, high in the air, to the sides of rocky ledges, and spans deep chasms by airy trestles. On their ride down the mountain the trains are frequently run a mile a minute. The runner, with his hand on the brake, controls the train. He can send it along at the speed of the wind or bring it to a standstill at his will.

At one point on the down-mountain trip the traveler will see a track running parallel with the one he is on, a rod or two to his left, but perhaps twenty feet below him.

"This is some rival road," is the first thought of the stranger.

A few seconds later, after a dash through a deep, dark rock-cut, he is amazed to find his train speeding along on that same parallel track, with the one he saw it from above him on the hillside. This is the Shepherd's Crook. Long coal trains rounding this crook find their head and rear ends so near together that one could easily toss a piece of coal from a rear car into a front one.

From Honesdale to Carbondale is twenty miles. From Carbondale to Hohesdale is sixteen miles. This paradox in distance is due to the fact that the railroad follows another course in coming from Carbondale to Honesdale, and the way is four miles shorter. This railroad, over the Moosic mountain, was the first of any length to be put in operation in this country. It was completed in 1829, and was intended wholly for the transportation of coal from the Delaware and Hudson mines at Carbondale to the head of the company's canal, at Honesdale, the canal taking it to tide-water at Rondout. It was impossible to use a locomotive road, and it was impossible to get the empty coal cars back to Carbondale over the same track. So there had been a "light" track and a "loaded" track.

This gravity railroad occupies a unique place in railroad history, for it was on its original rails, on Aug. 9, 1829, that the first locomotive ever placed on a railroad on the American continent was run. The locomotive was intended to draw the coal cars from the foot of the last plane on the loaded track over a long level stretch of road to the piers, but was too heavy for the trestles and was abandoned after the trial trip. The locomotive not only made the initial trip in this country, but it demonstrated the practicability of steam as a motive power on railroads more than a month before Stephenson's locomotive, the Rocket, was run on the Liverpool & Manchester railroad, from which latter date the success of locomotives is recorded by all railroad historians. Dr. Otis Avery, of Honesdale, is the last survivor of the first locomotive trip. He was one of the three persons who were on the locomotive with Horatio Allen, the engineer who ran it, and at 90 is still actively engaged in his profession.

CURIOUS KISSING.

Custom That Takes Place Annually In England.

Two curious ceremonies have just been observed in two of the home counties, says the New York Mail and Express. At Hungerford, in Berkshire, Hocktide was duly celebrated, as it has been regularly since the time of the Saxons. In the old-fashioned town there is an annual election of a bellman and of the tithe men, who are expected to collect a poll tax, which consists of a penny, from every adult person of the masculine gender and a kiss from every maid and matron. The tithe men are known as "tutti men," tutti being the local word for pretty. This year the "tutti men" were the respective managers of the branches of two leading London banks, and they duly started off yesterday morning down the high street on their kissing mission, followed by half a dozen men carrying oranges. One by one the houses were entered and the ancient custom observed both in spirit and letter. Nor was it confined to the young and comely, for the old dames of Hungerford would deem themselves, if not insulted, at least sadly neglected, were the "tutti men" to refrain from saluting them. It seems difficult to believe that such a curious ceremony should be gravely performed in these days of the nineteenth century, but the fact remains that the two bank managers were hard at work osculating from 10 in the morning until 6 in the evening. They collected a huge bag of pennies, which were handed over to the proper authorities for distribution among the poor. I ought to add that only those families had to pay poll tax and submit to the kissing who held land or dwellings within the confines of the town, each one of whom was duly notified by another regularly elected officer of Hungerford—the bellman.

DIED OF GRIEF.

Horse Could Not Stand the Pangs of Separation.

Washington Star: "Speaking of the emotional life of a horse," said an old trainer, who had been listening to a story about an animal's death that was directly traced to grief, "I recall one remarkable instance of sorrow shown by a horse belonging to a circus with which I was traveling three years ago. We were performing in the little town of Unionville, Pa., when one of the trick horses fell and sprained one of his legs so badly that he could not travel. He was taken to a livery stable and put in a box stall, the leg was bandaged and he was made as comfortable as possible.

"He ate his food and was apparently contented until about midnight, when the circus began moving out of town. Then he became restless and tramped and whinnied. As the caravans moved past the stable he seemed to realize that he was being deserted, and his anxiety and distress became pitiful. He would stand with his ears pricked in an attitude of intense listening, and then, as his ears caught the sounds of the retiring wagons, he would rush as best he could with his injured leg from one side of the stall to the other, pushing at the door with his nose and making every effort to escape. The stableman, who was a stranger to him, tried to soothe him, but to no purpose. He would not be comforted.

"Long after all sounds of the circus had ceased his agitation continued. The sweat poured from him, and he quivered in every part of the body. Finally the stableman went to his employer's house, woke him up and told him he believed the horse would die if some of the circus horses were not brought back to keep him company. At about daylight the proprietor of the stable mounted a horse and rode after the circus. He overtook us ten or twelve miles away, and, as I had charge of all the horses and was much attached to the injured animal, I returned with him. When we reached the stall the horse was dead.

"The stableman said that he remained for nearly an hour perfectly still and with every sense apparently strained to the utmost tension, and then, without making a sign, fell and died with scarcely a struggle. The veterinarian who was called remarked, after the circumstances were told him, that unquestionably the horse died from grief."

RARE TORTOISES.

Sixty rare tortoises that indirectly caused the death of three men and an expenditure of $12,000 were recently landed at Hyde Park, near Boston, and are now awaiting transportation to London, says the Chicago Record. They were secured in a crater of James Duncan island, in the Pacific ocean, and are believed to be the last of their species. The tortoises weigh from 50 to 200 pounds each, and had to be carried several miles through mountainous country and dense forests to the seashore before they were placed aboard ship for their long journey to San Francisco.

These nearly extinct creatures were hunted for Walter Rothschild, who has a remarkable museum in the suburbs of London. This wealthy member of the great Rothschild family has spent fabulous sums of money in collecting natural curiosities, but the tortoises so recently obtained will rank among his most treasured prizes. Mr. Rothschild already has in his museum a tortoise weighing 888 pounds. It belongs to the same family as the recent acquisitions, which are known as Galapagos tortoises, because they have been found only in the Galapagos group of islands.

"THE AUSTRALIAN RHINE."

A Picturesque River In New South Wales.

Although Australia has few rivers navigable for any considerable distance, there are several possessing many highly picturesque features. Among these is the Hawkesbury, in New South Wales, enthusiastically designated by Anthony Trollope as "the Australian Rhine." It is indeed, a notable stream, although the precipitous cliffs which guard a portion of its course, unlike the famous European river, remain uncrowned by the castellated relics of a historic past, says the Springfield Republican. The upper portion of the Hawkesbury, known as the Nepean, has its source in the Great Dividing Range, and is fed by numerous mountain streams, the waters, during exceptional rainfalls, rising rapidly, and occasioning destructive floods. Windsor, an old-fashioned country town, possessing many English rural characteristics, and situated a few miles from Sydney, forms a point of junction of the upper and lower streams, the Nepean and the Hawkesbury. After leaving Windsor, where the water is somewhat shallow, there is a noble, lake-like expanse, of great depth, known as Sackville Reach, on which Peter Kemp, the Australian sculler, acquired much of his aquatic skill. Further down is Colo, a charming riverside village, the church of St. John, which forms one of its most conspicuous features, being so named—not after the Evangelist, but after Sir John Franklin, the ill-fated Arctic explorer; the village being a favorite residence of Lady Franklin during her stay in Australia. During the later years of Lady Franklin's life she took a pleasure in showing her numerous friends a collection of sketches made during her visits to the valley of the Cole. Lower down is the residence of Peter Kemp, the sculler; a pretty place, with farm-like surroundings, suggestive of quiet, peaceful industry.

Between here and a crossing known as Wiseman's Ferry the characteristic features of the Hawkesbury become rapidly unfolded. It is an endless series of windings, interspersed with extensive reaches. Passing through a magnificent valley, resembling, with its rich, verdant slopes, one of the finest portions of the Rhine, the country around forming a land of happy hunting grounds for artists in search of material for beautiful pictures, the river descends for several miles through some of the most picturesque and romantic scenery imaginable, not the least charm being the fairy-like manner in which the tints of the immense masses of foliage and the summits of the towering crags change as the day advances, the green and gold of one moment becoming purple and crimson of another. A leading English novelist, who found himself exploring the recesses of the river, describes it as being in places unsurpassed in loveliness by anything of its kind in the old world. As Broken bay, where the waters of the Hawkesbury are discharged into the Pacific ocean, is approached, the visitor passes under the immense railway bridge crossing the stream, and skirts the shores of Kur-ring-gai Chase, an area of several thousand acres, proclaimed some few years ago as a national park. Here the lovers of sailing, boating and fishing can enjoy themselves to their heart's content, which they do in considerable numbers, during the greater portion of the year, especially at holiday time.

THE FAIR THE FAIR

AMUSEMENTS.

ROBERT MANTELL.

Robert Mantell opened his engagement at the Lyceum last evening presenting "The Secret Warrant." The audience was a fairly large one, but not what the actor and company and the opera house management deserved. It is true that it is a little late in the season for theatrical attractions, but nothing of this character has been offered to Duluth theater-goers for some time, and the patronage given was not quite what it ought to have been.

"The Secret Warrant" is a romantic drama of the character now so popular with the American people. It is of the same type as those played by the late Alexander Salvini. It is laid in the time when Philipe, Duc d'Orleans was regent of France and is a story of intrigue in the days when every one was subservient to the king and his royal mistress and death was the punishment for incurring their displeasure. John Law, the Scotch banker, who undertook to repair the shattered finances of France with his various schemes is one of the central figures. Plotting, court intrigue, passion, revenge and love enter into the play. Louis de Beaumont, the captain of the King's guards is loved by Gabrielle de St. Victor, the favorite of the regent, but he rejects her love and succumbs to the charms of the daughter of a tradesman, who needless to say is all that is fair and beautiful. Gabrielle in revenge plots to destroy him, finally resorting to the use of the "lettre de cachet," one of the most infamous inventions that the corrupt monarchies of France ever produced. Beaumont outwits the woman and wins his love.

Robert Mantell is admirably equipped to play the part of Louis de Beaumont, the handsome captain, ready for either an adventure of the sword or the heart, heroic and cynical and valuing his life at nothing. Mantell has a mellow voice, fine figure and handsome face, a dashing manner, makes love divinely and fights like a god—what more could be asked for the hero of romance.

His support is excellent throughout, Howard Hall as Gastin de Varennes, a courtier, and roue, Harry St. Maur as marquis de St. Victor and Beverly Turner as Jean Bertrand, were especially good. Miss Roselle Knott, as Marguerite, the tradesman's daughter, made a delightful impression. She has a pleasing personality and acts with fine sympathy and tenderness. Her voice is especially good, being strong and finely modulated. Miss Marie Booth Russell as Gabrielle, the royal favorite, was excellent, as was also Miss Marion Clifton, the aunt of Marguerite.

Tonight Mr. Mantell will appear in "Monbars" the romantic play in which he has appeared for several years with great success.

"THE BLACK FLAG."

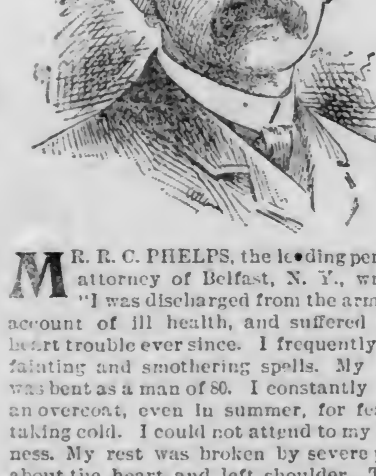

Tonight, McPhee's big company will produce the 5-act sensational comedy "The Black Flag," by permission of Howard Doyle, of Chicago. Tonight the drawing takes place for the $10 in gold given away by the company.

AT THE PAVILION.

The stock company at the Pavilion put on that ever popular laughing farce "Muldoon's Picnic" last evening, and the play went with a snap and vim from beginning to end. Several new specialties were also introduced. This play will hold the boards until Sunday.

MR. R. C. PHELPS, the leading pension attorney of Belfast, N. Y., writes: "I was discharged from the army on account of ill health, and suffered from heart trouble ever since. I frequently had fainting and smothering spells. My form was bent as a man of 80. I constantly wore an overcoat, even in summer, for fear of taking cold. I could not attend to my business. My rest was broken by severe pains about the heart and left shoulder. Three years ago I commenced using Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, notwithstanding I had used so much patent medicine and taken drugs from doctors for years without being helped. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure restored me to health. It is truly a wonderful medicine and it affords me much pleasure to recommend this remedy to everyone."

IT MAY BE SETTLED

A Compromise May Be Arranged and Mr. Gay's Bond Bid Accepted.

AT THE CONFERENCE

Steps Toward Settling the Questions Now at Issue Were Taken.

The conference between the council committee and E. H. Gay and J. L. Washburn yesterday afternoon, relative to the matters in issue between the city and the gas and water company and the bondholders resulted in a better feeling all around, and it was the general opinion at the close that a satisfactory settlement may soon be reached.

An understanding was arrived at that Mr. Gay and Mr. Washburn should endeavor to procure Mr. Untermeyer's consent that $60,000 in bonds, the amount of the taxes in dispute, be placed in escrow pending the final decision in the litigation concerning the liability for their payment, and that a committee should be appointed to arbitrate the other claims.

There were present at the conference, which was held at the mayor's office, the mayor, Aldermen Cochrane, Richardson, Burg, Johnson and Sang, Treasurer Voss, City Attorney Richards, E. H. Gay, M. Baker, J. L. Washburn, S. T. Harrison and C. E. Van Bergen. Alderman Jefferson dropped in for a while, but it was too tame for him apparently, as he did not stay long.

This discussion was along the same lines generally as that in committee of the whole Monday night. In regard to the contract, Mr. Gay still maintained that he had entered into it on the basis that the personalty taxes were not a lien on the property. He would be willing, he said, however, for the sake of closing up the matter, that a sum double the amount of all claims in dispute should be retained pending their settlement could he afford it, but he could not.

Mr. Washburn, for himself, said that as a citizen he would use his best endeavors to bring the matter to a speedy settlement. As the representative of Mr. Untermeyer's interests, however, he could not make any concessions that were not sanctioned in advance by that gentleman. These expressions gave the discussion a turn toward an amicable termination so far as it could be brought about by those present, the consummation depending, it was stated by Mr. Gay and Mr. Washburn, on the assent of Mr. Untermeyer.

The comittee was willing to waive the provision for withholding double the amount of the taxes if the amount thereof in bonds were deposited in escrow. This plan was heartily favored by both Mr. Gay and Mr. Washburn.

The agreement is, thus far, of a tentative nature, and is, as it were, yet in the rough, but both sides are sanguine that the arrangement thus outlined will be finally decided upon. The committee was to hold another meeting today to consider the details and meetings will be held daily until some conclusion is reached.

The mayor expressed himself after the conference as being very hopeful that an agreement would be reached along the lines indicated.

THEY CONFER AGAIN.

Council Committee, Messrs. Gay and Wasburn Together This Morning.

The council committee on the water and light bond matter and E. H Gay, J. L. Washburn and S. T. Harrison had another session at the city hall this morning, the conference lasting from about 10 o'clock until nearly 1.

The subject under discussion was the claims of the gas and water company for water used to flush sewers, aggregating about $25,000 and several small claims for water furnished at the fire halls, etc., and the claim of the city against the company for damages to streets caused in repairing mains, aggregating about $5000 and some minor bills. The conferees gave it out that while nothing definite had been agreed on, the way was paved for a satisfactory adjustment of these matters.

A large number of the aldermen aside from those on the committee were present at the conference.

ALDERMAN CROWLEY'S VIEW.

Thinks Roilly Water Is Due to Water Plant Purchase Talk.

Alderman Crowley is not inclined to take any stock in the theory that the city's water supply is being contaminated by the material being dumped at Minnesota Point in the course of the harbor improvement work.

"It is remarkable how full of microbes the water seems to have become all of a sudden," remarked the alderman. Continuing, he intimated that he had always supposed that the agitation of the water by the northeasters, bringing in washings of the clay banks along the north shore, had something to do with making the water roilly in the spring, but latterly he had come to believe that agitation of the water plant purchase question had something to do with it. He did not believe that the water is any worse this spring than it had been any spring since northeasters have been in fashion in this locality.

Road Work Is Done Cheaply Around Rush City.

County Commissioner John Williams has returned from Rush City, where he has been visiting for a couple of weeks. He says that the crops in that vicinity are looking splendidly and all the farmers are in good spirits. While there he went through the farming districts with a view to examining the manner in which the roads are taken care of there. The care of the roads in this county is one involving more trouble and expense than any other item, and Commissioner Williams was interested in watching the methods employed there. Instead of throwing all of the expense on the county, as is the custom here, the roads are turned over to the townships and the farmers work upon them. They have a poll or road tax to work out, and if they do not work it out they are required to pay it in cash. They are very willing to do the work, however, and it is not an uncommon thing for farmers to get interested and work several days' overtime. Sometimes several neighbors will pitch in regardless of the regular work and fix up a nice road to be used by all of them and whoever has occasion to pass that way. They get good roads in this manner and get them cheaply, and the general taxpayer is called upon for very little money for roads.

Mr. Williams believes that these methods should be adapted to the use of this county so far as they are practicable. This, he believes, would result to the benefit of the county and of the taxpayers in general.

DULUTH'S GREAT RESOQT.

Fine Weather Draws the Crowds to the Pavilion.

Now that the wind has turned away from the lake and is bringing the balmy breath of the Western prairies to warm the air, the Pavilion is in line once more, and the crowds are beginning to wend their way to the hilltop of an evening again. Last night there was a large crowd and the performance was warmly greeted. The palm garden, too, was a favorite resort, and the tables were kept well occupied. The front veranda of the Pavilion is always sure of a crowd taking in the beauties of lake and air and landscape, and altogether there are many reasons why the Pavilion is becoming the great resort of the city.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the Fourth of July celebration at the Pavilion, and the prospects are that a great crowd and a good time will be the principal features of the day. There will be fireworks and other customary accompaniments of the occasion, and no pains will be spared to make the day pleasant.

Municipal Court Jurors.

The following have been drawn as jurors for the next term of the municipal court, which begins July 4: B. A. Ransbury, T. H. Little, Harry Older, W. W. McMillan, John F. McLaren, P. B. Gaylord, F. W. Partridge, Frank Kennedy, Gustave Bergquist, James Sampson, E. L. Phillips, G. W. Orchard, B. F. Anderson, George Taylor, Philip Wagner, F. W. Clavaux, John Brown; J. C. McLean, Emil Schlender, H. L. Shepherd, Charles LeDuc, W. L. Jackson, A. B. Willise, Frank Knittle.

Should Get Them Straight.

The health department officials claim that the physicians are careless in the matter of designating the street and number of the place of birth notices they file with the department. Besides crediting a baby up to the wrong house, which is apt to be attended with embarrassing consequences ofttimes, it makes the records faulty, which is sometimes followed by serious consequences to those interested.

Fine Weather Ahead.

Today dawned as bright and beautiful as could be asked and Local Forecast Official Kenealy showed up smiling after a few recent rebuffs and volunteered the opinion that there will be fine weather for a few days. There was nothing on the map this morning to indicate anything but the finest of weather.

MANILLA SURPRISED

Its First Fire Engine Came From America and Created a Sensation.

The Public Exhibition of the New Machine and What Happened.

Although some 400,000 bales of hemp and about 60,000 tons of sugar annually found their way from the Philippines to the United States at the time of my residence there, the balance of trade was never maintained by American goods coming the other way, and the local business community in Manilla or in the smaller centers to the south remain in comparative ignorance of the existence of New York, Chicago and San Francisco, says the New York Post. Its members know London—what foreign people do not?—and placidly imagine that the few imported American articles, such as flour and pieces of machinery, which now and then creep into Manilla, come from some suburb of the great English capital. The old American houses, which long ago used to control the business of the islands and have long since gone to the wall, seem to have been completely forgotten, and until the guns of our fleet broke the silence reigning in Manilla bay the name of the United States meant nothing on the Pasig or in the Escolta.

One of my most pleasant experiences in the Philippines, and certainly the most amusing, was that which my American chum and I had as a result of our introducing to Manilla society a piece of up-to-date American machinery —a fire engine—by way of lessening that balance of trade existing against the United States.

Our wealthy friend, Alvarez, who, in spite of the fact of his being part Spanish, part Chinese and part Malay, owned steamers and storehouses, saw some pictures of American fire engines in one of the catalogues on our office table, and immediately determined to have one. So we got him one of the biggest that they make in Rochester, that he might cancel the insurance which he had placed to cover the goods stored in his wareouses, and still go on collecting premiums from people who left their hemp, sugar and tobacco in his care.

Four months after placing the order the new engine arrived on the Esmeralda, and was all but dropped into the river, through the clumsy handling of the heavy cases. But in due course it was hoisted out of lighters and dumped on to the quay in front of the office of our wealthy friend Alvarez.

The Englishmen of the Manilla colony in passing laughed at the wheels of red and gold and the nickel-plated boiler. The local engineers made sarcastic comments. But we didn't reply, and only wondered how to put the parts together. For no one in the capital had seen the like of a fire engine before. Assisted by drawings and descriptions, we set the boiler on its feet and adjusted wheels, crank-pits and valve connections. It seemed like tempting Providence to fill the boiler by pouring water down the whistle; but that was what we did from an uncertain perch on a stepladder. As the water gurgled in all right, and did not run out of the bottom, our method seemed successful. In due course we started the fire in the grate and were pleased to find that the new engine got up steam enough to work her own pumps.

My chum and I knew so little about the anatomy of fire engines that we were much surprised on finding that America's biggest variety did not blow up when the wheels ran so speedily. Everything seemed fitted to a T, however, and our friend Alvarez was so pleased with the outlook that he set a day for a public trial of the new toy from the United States.

When the time came, everybody came with it, for there was to be a collation afterwards, and that is always a drawing card to any entertainment where the audience is Spanish. The engine worked to perfection, and Alvarez stood his pet servant down in the river in water up to his neck, in order to let him hold the big suction hose out of the mud. Ten natives grasped the big nozzle on the 5-inch hose, and small boys, dressed only in undershirts, played around in the mud puddles formed by the looser joints in the new pipes. The Englishmen made sarcastic remarks, the Spanish chuckled, but the natives looked on with open mouths. We opened the throttle and the big stream swished through the air so far that it wet down a pile of tobacco supposedly beyond reach. The owner, thinking a squall had struck the city, came to the door of his storehouse to locate the trouble, and was promptly bowled over backwards into his hallway as the hoseman pointed the powerful current in his direction. But at this point steam had to be shut off, and on the next spurt, to avoid diplomatic complication.

Alvarez asked us to play the stream along the river. In a few moments a wide open throttle made a truly huge torrent belch from the long nozzle, with such force as to make the ten hosemen feel decidedly nervous. But it did not stop them from turning the torrent toward a lighter which was being poled down the Pasig by two Malays. The foremost was washed backward into the lighter and the hindmost swept off into the river. A Chinaman, who was paddling a load of vegetables to the Esmeralda in a hollow tree trunk, suffered the same fate. He and his greens were swished out of the barca in an instant, and he found himself sitting on his inverted craft and floating helplessly down stream.

Then, suddenly, as we opened the throttle to the last notch, the hosemen tried to turn the stream back on to the quay, but, with its force of 1500 gallons to the minute, it was too quick for them and, with one mighty "kerchug," broke away, to send the nozzle flying around like a millwheel. The ten men were knocked prostrate, and two small boys, who were playing in the mud-puddles near by, were whisked off into the river like so much dust. A dozen frantic wriggles of the nozzle and a third boy was shot through the wire door into Alvarez's office. He went in on a stream of water that upset a "seteeful" of family servants with their infants, and washed the whole party into a promiscuous heap at the foot of the stairs.

Outside the audience stampeded, and the man in the river holding the suction hose had hard work to prevent his being sucked up. Before the hose charged on the engine we had to shut off steam.

The two boys were fished from the river more frightened than hurt, and a native Malay policeman, policeman-like, promptly arrested them for daring to be drowned. The boy blown through the screen door had received a badly lacerated ear, but he, too, was arrested for getting in the way. The natives in general nursed their bare feet stepped on in the rush, the Spaniards asked where the collation was, the Englishmen said nothing. The policeman marched the three boys in undershirts off to the station house, and next morning the Diario de Manilla devoted two columns to describing the wonderful machinery that came from America.

Since the water oxen have often dragged the big engine to fires, that it might topple over brick walls left standing in the ruins, and native servants have given the nickel boiler coats of varnish to remove the need of cleaning and polishing. That fire engine gave the people of Manilla a foretaste of the America with which Dewey's guns have made them better acquainted, and there it is now to astonish the admiral and his officers when first they set foot in the blockaded city.

CLAUS SPRECKELS.

Remarkable Career of the "Uncrowned King of Hawaii."

Claus Spreckels was born a Westphalian peasant and in 1830 came to New York, where he worked in a grocery store, says the New York Journal. During the gold fever of '49 he went to California with his savings and bought an interest in a brewery. The venture was a success, and when he first turned his attention to the possibilities of the Hawaiian islands as a sugar producing country he was already a rich man.

Spreckels made his great hit in 1873, when he anticipated the reciprocity treaty between the United States and Hawaii, and got practical control of the islands. Through his friendship with the late King Kalakaua he was enabled to make exceedingly advantageous contracts with the native planters, and to buy up great tracts of land belonging to the native chiefs to convert into plantations for his own company. His wealth increased to $70,000,000, and for a time he was the real ruler of the then Island Kingdom of the Pacific.

When the Eastern sugar trust began to fight his growing monopoly, Spreckels went to Philadelphia and built a great refinery of his own, so carrying the war into the enemy's country.

It was a great battle, but the end was the defeat of the Western company and its absorption into the trust.

The sugar king's domestic relations during his latter years have been painfully strained. He divided up his fortune among his four sons and his daughter, deeding to each a generous share of his millions, but later he was forced to begin a suit against his son Randolph to recover property valued at $1,000,000, and the suit was decided against the father.

A sensation was created a year and a half ago by the marriage of the daughter against her father's wishes to a San Francisco broker named Watson and her sacrifice of the $1,500,000 that was her portion of the paternal gift.

TALE FROM THE PLAINS.

New Orleans Times - Democrat: "Talking about cows," said Andy Henderson, "I really think that I had one of the most peculiar experiences with the animals in question that ever befell a citizen of West Texas. It was soon after I went to El Paso, some ten years ago, and before I had got familiar with the vagaries of the El Paso climate.

"I had settled on a very pretty ranch, some miles out of the progressive frontier city, and was doing nicely until I decided to go into the butter business. I sent East for a dozen fine Jersey cows, and began operations. Well, the cows came on and I hustled the butter business from the jump. Thing progressed nicely for a month, when the weather grew very warm and the atmosphere very dry. The Rio Grande dwindled until a roach could have waded across. Every bit of moisture disappeared, but this did not affect me, because I had a fine artesian well on the ranch and plenty of water. I observed, however, that my cow were losing milk day by day, until at last they were perfectly dry. I was astounded, for they had plenty of feed and lots of water from the well. I couldn't understand it and determined to investigate.

"I got up an hour before daylight and examined the cows, and, to my astonishment, I found thee udders of the cows heavy with milk. I did not milk the animals, but simply watched and waited developments. Day dawned and the cows lazily meandered into the pasture, and I followed. The sun came up, and with the sun came the terrible dryness, but it didn't phase me in the least. What knocked me out was the sight of my cows' udders. They were growing smaller and smaller as I looked until they were as flaccid as a punctured tire. Then I tumbled. The dryness of the atmosphere simply evaporated the milk through the walls of the udder.

"What did I do? Why I varnished the milking apparatus of the beasts and the milk couldn't ooze through the flesh. That stopped it."

SO-CALLED "UNLUCKY" SHIPS.

There have been other ships before the Texas alleged to be unlucky, says the Buffalo Commercial. The Philadelphia Times cites the Bonhomme Richard as one. Paul Jones himself on taking command of her at l'Orient, France, wrote a most doleful letter about her to one of his aristocratic patronesses in Paris. She was "a worn-out old Indiaman," and "her forecastle was a Babel." "Fourteen different languages are spoken in my forecastle," said Jones, dismayed at the appearance of his motley crew. Two days out at sea the Bonhomme Richard was fouled by her consort, the Alliance, and had her jibboom and foretopmast carried away. Jones then put back to l'Orient to refit, perfectly convinced of the unluckiness of his ship. But that accident proved her salvation. On his return Jones found 114 American seamen, who had just been released from English prisons by exchange. Among them was Richard Dale, whom Jones at once appointed first lieutenant. These all volunteered into the Richard, Jones promptly discharging enough of his polyglots to make way for them. Prior to that he had only about forty Americans. This addition made 154 fighting Yankee seamen, and they were the men who made the Serapis sick a few weeks' later, off the east coast of England. Thus it happened that the grandest exploit in naval history was achieved by an unlucky ship, and she obtained the means of achieving it through a distressing accident.

MAN IN A TRUNK.

A New Way of Getting a Burglar Safely Into a House.

Two well dressed men from Paris drove up to the best hotel in a country town in the department of the Eure yesterday and engaged a double-bedded room, says the London Telegraph. They deposited a very heavy trunk in a corner, and then went out to see the town, telling the landlady, a widow, that they would return at night. But night came and the two men did not come back at the time specified. The landlady waited, much surprised, and kept her establishment open after the usual hour for closig. This was soon observed by the local gendarmes on duty, who entered the hotel and reminded the proprietress of the place that the curfew, or its modern substitute, had tolled the knell of parting day, and that it was full time to extinguish lights in all inns and cafes. The widow said she was waiting for two men who had left a big trunk behind them. This caused the gendarmes to reflect a little. One of them, well versed in criminal annals, suddenly remembered the Gouffe case. He also thought of the young stamp collector who was murdered in Paris a few years since, and whose body was thrust into a trunk. Anxious to secure all the credit of a discovery which might lead to promotion and glory, the gendarme learned in criminal lore asked the widow to let him see th trunk, and told his companion to wait for him at the bar or buvette of the hotel. The landlady accordingly led the man to the room, and he began to gauge the weight of the big box, when suddenly the lid flew up and out jumped a wiry little man, who brandished a big revolver in his right hand. The widow screamed, and the gendarme was temporarily thrown off his guard, but he soon pulled himself together and grappled with the person who had been acting jack-in-the-box. The other gendarme, hearing the landlady's shrieks and the scuffling overhead, was soon on the scene of action, and helped his colleague to manacle the mysterious person who had jumped out of the trunk and to take him to the lock-up. There the fellow refused to give his name, or to say anything about his companions, who are supposed to have returned to Paris, leaving him to plunder the inn when its owner and her servants were asleep.

MEDICAL SCHOOL FOR WOMEN.

To Be Opened In London By Princess of Wales.

London has had a school of medicine for women nearly a quarter of a century, but during most of that time the enterprise has had to encounter the prejudice and opposition which every attempt to invade a masculine monopoly always creates. In England, as elsewhere, the experiment so vehemently denounced has slowly won approval, and now that some magnificently equipped laboratories are added to the school, the final disappearance of all reprehension is to be marked in the way most conclusive to British minds. In other words, the new buildings are to be opened and dedicated by the princess of Wales. It has often been stated by the critics of women doctors that they have never done any original work, but hitherto the answer has been ready that women have had in this profession only the most meager opportunities for display of anything more than knowledge and skill. In London for the future all such drawbacks will cease, for no medical school could be better provided with the means of investigation than that of the women.

The structure to be opened on July 11 forms the eastern end of the plan that is to be completed as soon as funds can be collected, and which will have an imposing frontage on Hunter street, Brunswick square. Including the basement, in which the study of physics will be pursued, the building is of four stories. Upon the second floor is the department for physiological study, its long tables furnished with abundant water supply and small marble tanks. An electric lamp is suspended over each student's place, and an arc lamp of great power will be available for lantern demonstrations. The dissecting room, at the top of the building, is lighted from the roof, and has granolithic paving in a warm terra cotta color for the floor. The walls are lined with glazed tiles of a pretty shade of green, while slabs of dark slate let into them will serve as blackboards to the lecturers. On the ground floor is the chemical laboratory, tempered in cream color, but as this will be used for the opening ceremony, its fittings are not as yet fixed. There are, of course, teachers' rooms and apartments for smaller classes on each floor. The stairs are broad and easy, and are of concrete. Space has been kept for a demonstration theater, which will be begun if possible, in the autumn, and between the present and projected wings will be preserved a pleasant open quadrangle.

WISCONSIN'S JUBILEE.

Three Hundred Floats In the Big Industrial Parade.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 30.—The leading attraction of the carnival jubilee festivities today was a big industrial parade, which moved throughout the business streets of this city this afternoon, under the grand marshalship of O. T. Renning. The mayor had proclaimed the day a municipal holiday and workmen and visitors alike enjoyed the pageant.

There were 300 artistic floats in line, representing the leading industries of the city. Post B of the Traveling Men's Protective association of Milwaukee, 500 strong, headed the procession. They were uniformly dressed, wearing linen dusters, white hats and canes. Bands of music were interspersed throughout and the parade made a pronounced hit.

Another leading feature was the marching of the four Milwaukee companies of infantry, just returned from Oshkosh. Governor Scofield and staff reviewed the pageant from the balcony of the Hotel Pfister. There was a profusion of carnival colors throughout the line which lent a pleasant effect.

EXCESS BAGGAGE TAX.

Must Have Revenue Stamps Affixed to Bills of Lading.

Washington, June 30.—The commissioner of internal revenue has decided that railroad companies making a charge for excess baggage of passengers shall be required to affix a 1-cent stamp to bills of lading covering such excess in the same manner as express companies are required to stamp their bills of lading.

CANNONS HEARD

Furious Cannonading Heard in Windward Passage, Mole St. Nicholas.

Lisbon Has a Rumor That Four American Warships Are Coming.

New York, June 30.—A dispatch from Cape Haytien, Hayti, today, to the Journal says:

"A furious cannonading was heard this morning in the Windward passage, off Mole St. Nicholas. It is still continuing."

Lisbon, June 30.—It is rumored here that four American warships are on their way to this port.

London, June 30.—It is said there is no doubt that the marquis of Salisbury's speech last night was intended as a hint to the powers that Great Britain is in sympathy with America and it is intimated that it was called forth by German's alleged attitude in the Philippine question.

CANNOT SAVE THE CARGO.

Because the Americans Are Firing at the Vessel.

Madrid, June 30, 2 p. m.—The governor general of Porto Rico cables that it will be difficult to save the cargo of the Spanish steamer Antonio Lopez, which was run ashore at Salinas, near the entrance of the harbor of San Juan de Porto Rico to escape the United States auxiliary cruisers St. Louis and St. Paul, which prevented her from landing a cargo of provisions and war material. He explains his inability to save the steamer's cargo by the fact, as alleged, that an American cruiser is continuously firing upon the stranded vessel.

A cabinet council, over which the queen regent, was held today. The ministers decline to furnish any information beyond saying that they discussed the war.

TALKING ON HAWAII.

Senate Continues the Long Drawn Out Debate on Annexation Measure.

Washington, June 30.—Dr. Jacob Voorsauger, rabbi of Temple Emanuel and professor of Semitic languages and literature at the university of California, San Francisco, pronounced the invocation at the opening of the senate's session today. He prayed that "the flag under which we live, that for which our fathers fought, be forever the sacred emblem of liberty until time shall be no more."

The Hawaiian annexation resolutions were taken up and Mr. Bate spoke in opposition to them. It was an innovation, he said, upon all precedent that a resolution from the house should be sent from the senate, while a treaty upon the same subject was still pending. He declared that the treaty could not secure the necessary two-thirds vote in the senate, and that the political machinery had been set in motion in order that the sentiment of the senate might be over-ridden.

Mr. Bate declared that the vote that would be cast for the joint resolution would be the knell of Republicanism, but it would be cast. War times would cause the majority to adopt the resolution. The fever was in the brains of the people and in those of senators, and it would force such action as in his opinion would prove disastrous.

Mr. Tillman followed Mr. Bate. "Thus far," he said, "the discussion of the resolutions has been entirely one-sided. Whenever the majority of the senate sits in sullen silence in so important a question as this, I am impressed with the idea that there is devilment afoot. Senators like to talk; they like to hear themselves speak, to get their names in the newspapers and to see their remarks in the Record. When, therefore, they are silent, there is, depend upon it, 'something rotten in Denmark.'"

INDIAN APPROPRIATION BILL.

House Passes It and Sends Other Matters to Conference.

Washington, June 30.—In the house today Mr. Sherman presented the conference report upon the Indian appropriation bill. The report was adopted, and Mr. Cannon then called up the general deficiency bill as amended and passed by the senate yesterday, and moved a general non-concurrence in the amendments and a request for a conference.

The motion prevailed, but pending that, upon the suggestion of Mr. McGuire, Mr. Cannon gave assurance that opportunity to debate the senate's Pacific railroad amendment would be given ultimately. The speaker announced Messrs. Cannon, Northway and Sayers (Texas) as conferees.

Another failure to agree upon the sundry civil bill was reported by Mr. Cannon, and upon his motion and in accordance with the action taken yesterday, the house again voted unanimously to insist upon its disagreements to the senate amendments, and sent the bill again to conference.

SUPPLEMENTAL WAR REVENUES.

Action on It In Committee Postponed Until Next Session.

Washington, June 30.—The sub-committee of the senate committee on finance, having in charge the supplemental war revenue bill, today decided to postpone action upon it until the next session. This decision was reached at a meeting of the sub-committee today. Some of the members advocated immediate action upon the bill, but a majority held that it would be wiser to postpone the report long enough to furnish an opportunity to make a test of the law as it now stands. In the meantime the committee will continue its investigations during the recess, and, it is believed, will be able to cover the ground more comprehensively than would be possible at this time.

The dealing with the period of liquor storage extending the "outage" time for leakage was also postponed.

CAMARA IS COALING.

Cadiz Fleet Filling Its Bunkers From Its Own Collier Vessels.

Port Said, June 30.—The Egyptian government this afternoon gave its sanction to the Spanish fleet coaling from its own transports and the warships are now engaged in the work of taking coal on board. The Isla De Luzon with a cargo of coal has arrived here.

The Egyptian government had previously prohibited the Spanish fleet from taking on board any more coal than enough to enable it to return to Spain.

HAVE THE GERMANS LANDED?

Official Answer From Manilla Will Settle the Question.

London, June 30.—The Star says today that it has grounds for "believing the European powers will not consider Rear Admiral Dewey justified" in opposing a landing of foreign marines, "as Manilla is still under Spanish rule."

Continuing the Star remarks: "A foreign correspondent assures us that the German occupation is already an accomplished fact."

Inquiries on the subject show that the story about the situation at Manilla is utterly discredited here, and inquiries at the embassies show that the diplomats here have not heard of any such occurrence as the landing of German forces at or near Manilla.

THE BROOKLYN STORY.

Undoubtedly Another of the Numerous Spanish Fakes.

Washington, June 30.—No word has come to the navy department from Admiral Sampson making the slightest reference to the Spanish story of the sinking of the Brooklyn by a shell from the Santiago harbor defenses. As Admiral Sampson is within an hour or two's reach of the cable and his orders would require him to report instantly on any such occurrence, the officials of the navy department have no hesitation in denouncing the story as a fabrication similar to that gotten out a week ago from Madrid, describing the killing of Capt. Philip.

The reports received at the navy department of the collision between the Dolphin and Newark are meager, but indicate that it took place near Key West. The Dolphin smashed her stem, filling the forward compartment back to the collision bulkhead. She is now on her way to Norfolk to be docked and it is expected that three weeks will be consumed in making repairs.

CAMARA PAYS THE TOLLS.

Spanish Admiral Digs Up Some Cash For Canal Dues.

Washington, June 30.—Secretary Long said this afternoon that he understood Camara's fleet had paid the canal dues and the presumption, he added, is that they will continue their voyage. He had heard nothing today from Admiral Sampson, but expected important news from him soon.

NEWS FROM SHAFTER

Military Telegraph Line Extended to Savilla, the Center of Operations.

Washington, June 30.—The war department today received the welcome information that a military telegraph station had been established at Savilla, in the center of the present operations, and this line ran to a point near Aguadores, where it connected with the French cable line, thus bringing Gen. Shafter into direct communication with the war department. Gen. Greeley received a dispatch to this effect at 10:30 o'clock from Lieut. Col. Allen, who has charge of telegraphic and cable operations. The information was conveyed to the secretary of war and Gen. Miles, and gave much satisfaction, as it accomplishes an end long sought and difficult to accomplish. The work has been done by Col. Allen, assisted by Maj. Green of Gen. Shafter's staff.

The shore point at which the military line connects with the French Cable company will be advanced to Aguadores as soon as that town is taken. It is now held by the Spanish forces, but the purpose is to have the warships shell it, after which it will be occupied as a shore base.

Beyond this the war department has received little news from Gen. Shafter's headquarters in addition to the important reports received from him yesterday. In fact nothing but the actual assault remains to be reported after the significant statement made by Gen. Shafter to Gen. Miles, that he expected to take Santiago as soon as he got ready to move without waiting for reinforcements. The substance of this dispatch was made known yesterday, but the actual text can now be given. It was in reply to Gen. Miles' dispatch of June 25, saying: "Congratulations on success attained thus far. Regret deeply to hear of loss of your heroic men. Cable what you desire for your command."

Gen. Shafter's reply was primarily to acknowledge the congratulations, but he took occasion to state his plans in the following message: "Expect to take the place as soon as I get ready to move. Reinforcements will not reach me."

The dispatch in full is as follows: "Playa Del Este, June 28, 4:30 p. m.: Maj. Gen. Miles, Commanding Army, Washington: Baiquiri, Cuba, June 28. —"Thanks for congratulations. The affair was unimportant. Skirmish in which Rough Riders participated. Nine hundred and sixty-four only engaged on our side, but it was very decisive in our favor, the enemy retreating precipitately. Lack of cavalry only prevented their capture. Reports from Spanish sources from Santiago say we were beaten, but persisted in fighting, and they were obliged to fall back. Deeply regret loss of so many brave men. Expect to take the place as soon as I get ready to move. Reinforcements will not reach me. Horses stood the voyage well. Would like horses for Third battalion officers' cavalry and Wood's volunteers.

"Health and spirits of command excellent. Began debarkation of command Wednesday last of troops, and artillery landed today, besides transferring from Asseradoros, fifty miles off, 3000 troops of Garcia. All landed. Have something over 4000 Cubans. Hope to send you favorable reports soon. SHAFTER, "Major General United States Volunteers, Commanding."

Gen. Shafter's reference to the condition of men and horses was brought out by an inquiry from Gen. Miles, saying: "Telegraph condition of command, number of men sick, condition of men and horses, and what you most need."

Besides the foregoing dispatch to Gen. Miles, other official dispatches from headquarters came to the war department. It was in the above, however, that Gen. Shafter stated his expectation to take the city before reinforcements reached him. The other official dispatches gave advance of Spanish troops from Manzanillo 8000 strong, and expressed Gen. Shafter's belief that he could take the city in forty-eight hours, but with considerable loss. The text of these dispatches have not been given out but they are likely to be made public later.

MUST LEAVE PORT SAID.

Egyptians Said to Have Given Camara's Fleet Notice.

London, June 30.—It was learned this afternoon that the Egyptian government had decided to notify Admiral Camara that the continuance of the fleet at Port Said is violating neutrality, and that his fleet must leave.

THREE SPANISH STEAMERS.

Leave Cadiz For Porto Rico on an Important Mission.

Washington, June 30.—According to an official dispatch from Madrid, the Spanish trans-Atlantic steamers Isla De Luzon, Ignacio D. Loyalo and San Augustin have left Cadiz for Porto Rico on an important mission, carrying large quantities of coal, ammunition and stores.

VESSELS NOT BOUGHT.

Government Has Not Purchased Any Wilson-Furness Vessels.

Washington, June 30.—It is stated at the war department that the United States has not purchased five vessels of the Wilson & Furness-Leyland line as announced in dispatches from London; it may be further stated that the officials have not even considered nor expected to consider the vessels referred to.

The belief here is that the ships have been purchased by the Atlantic Transport line, which operates steamers between United States ports and London, and which recently sold to the war department seven of its largest and best steamers for transport and freight purposes.

LORD WOLSELEY IS WELL.

No Foundation For the Rumors of His Illness.

London, June 30.—Inquiries made at the British war office today there is absolutely no foundation for the Toronto, Canada, rumor that Gen. Lord Wolseley, the commander-in-chief of the British forces, who is said to be an aspirant for the office of governor general of Canada, is suffering from cancerous growth and "cannot live long enough to come to Canada." The rumor is classed as being merely the resuscitation of an unfounded story of eighteen months ago.

ENGLISH HORSERACING.

London, June 30.—Leopold D. Rothschild's 4-year-old filly Goletta, by Gallophn, out of Bagatel, won the Princess of Wales stake of 10,000 sovereigns at Newmarket today.

AWAITNG THE VOTE

Republican Convention at St. Paul Ready to Vote on Governor.

Van Sant, Eustis and Collins Have Been Placed in Nomination.

St. Paul, June 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chairman Eli Warner of St. Paul, called the Republican state convention to order a little after noon today nearly every one of the 1118 delegates being present. After prayer by Rev. G. E. Soper, of St. Paul, temporary organization was effected, with W. E. Lee, of Todd county, chairman, and W. F. Street, of Beltrami; J. Frank Dean, of Owatonna, and Ora J. Parker as secretaries, and Henry Feig, of Kandiyohi county, as reading clerk. Committees on credentials, resolutions and permanent organization were named by the chairman, and recess was taken until 2 o'clock.

In the afternoon the temporary organization was made permanent except as to reading clerk, Mr. Feig withdrawing and M. J. Dowling, ex-secretary of the Republican National league, being substituted. Immediately after the organization was perfected the following resolutions were introduced and adopted:

Whereas, the Republican state central committee, in calling this convention, issued an invitation to Republicans to here express the choice of the party for United States senator for the term commencing March 4, 1899. In compliance with the invitation thus extended, therefore, be it

Resolved, that we express anew our confidence in the distinguished ability, high character and invaluable public services of the Hon. Cushman K. Davis, the senior senator from this state. During his entire congressional career he has reflected honor upon the state and nation. The matchless skill and judgment which he has shown in dealing with the difficult problems which now confront the nation have challenged the admiration of men of all parties and give him an established position in the front rank of American statesmen.

Believing the highest interests of the state and nation would be subserved by his re-election to the national senate, we, the Republican party of the state of Minnesota in convention assembled, hereby present him to the incoming legislature as the only candidate of the Republican party of this state for United States senator, and to the end that the people of the state may be fully informed as to the position of the Republican party on this question, the committee on resolutions is hereby instructed to incorporate this declaration in the platform of the party to be adopted by this convention.

Feig was continued as reading clerk, the committee not reporting Dowling as first intended. The Davis resolutions, presented by Gramhaur, of Minneapolis, were adopted with uproarious applause.

The committees were named as follows: Credentials—First district, H. R. Denny, of Pine county; Second, John F. Selb, of Ramsey; Third, Joseph Underleak, of Olmstead; Fourth, W. S. Dwinnell, of Hennepin; Fifth, E. M. Collester, of Waseca; Sixth, George Knudeson, of Owatonna; Seventh, M. M. Willings, of Morrison; Eighth, W. E. Harrington, of McLeod; Ninth, W. W. Permanent organization—First district, John Zelch, of Washington; Second, A. R. Kiefer, of Ramsey; Third, O. B. Gould, of Winona; Fourth, S. P. Snyder, of Hennepin; Fifth, L. S. Peck, of Dodge; Sixth, J. W. Anderson, of Blue Earth; Seventh, W. L. Nieman, of Benson; Eighth, C. D. McCarthy, of Le Sueur; Ninth, C. J. W. Andrews, of Nicollet; Tenth, A. C. Wedge, of Freeborn; Eleventh, John Pengilly, of St. Louis; Twelfth, Sam Lewison, of Yellow Medicine; Thirteenth, O. O. Holman, of Murray; Fourteenth, Ed A. Johnson, of Kittson; Fifteenth, R. F. G. Ills of Wadena; Sixteenth, J. B. Hodson, of Grant; Seventeenth, A. H. Sperry, of Jackson; Eighteenth, W. D. McDonald, of Wright.

The resolutions committee not being ready to report, the convention took up the state ticket. Capt. Samuel R. Van Sant, of Winona; William Henry Eustis, of Hennepin county, and Judge W. L. Collins, of Stearns county, were placed in nomination for governor.

When the names for governor were being presented, what seemed like an attempt to stampede the convention for Eustis did not succeed. The nominating speeches were completed before 3:39 p. m.

KITCHENS OF BATTLESHIPS.

Neat Little Affairs Resided Over By Jap Cooks.

When the news of Commodore Dewey's great victory at Manilla was sent over the wires it recorded that during the entire engagement Paymaster Martin made and served coffee to the officers and men. It is difficult to associate a kitchen and a cook with a battleship, but everyone of the big fighting monsters with its terrible guns and its turrets and flags has its kitchen. It is called a "galley" on board ship, and it is one of the most important places on board to both the officers and men, says the New York Sun.

Nothing gives an American tar such a relish for food as the smell of powder and smoke.

It has become quite a fashion of late to divide a battleship up as though it were human, giving it brains and eyes, a heart and lungs, but no prominence is given to the galley or the man in the galley, who is quite an important personage. The man in the galley is usually a Japanese, for almost every one of the big ships has a Jap cook and a staff of servants of the same nationality. The boys can wait on the officers' table, dust clean silver, carry messages and attend to minor housekeeping duties in a way that would put the average housemaid to a great disadvantage.

It is quite possible that during a great battle like that of Manilla a self-centered Japanese cook might continue his work of decorating an entree or giving expression to a soup, while the enemies' guns boomed against the side of his range or copper pans. While the space that is given to comfort on a man-of-war is necessarily limited, its interior is apt to strike one as luxurious in comparison with the stern and frowning exterior of the great lead colored monsters. The galley is as thoroughly up to date in its appointments and cooking arrangements as the kitchen of a modern residence.

There is a large hotel range with splendid ovens, from which each day the cook turns out tempting brown loaves, and even pies and cakes, that must make many a Jackie think of home. There are great copper soup boilers and coffee boilers in which these two items of the menu are prepared by the gallon. Then there are copper pots and pans on shelves in rows, bright and shining as those in the kitchens of our great New York hotels. There are cupboards, too, in which the sugar and the spices and other cooking condiments are kept all nicely labelled, for there is no slip-shod housekeeping on a man-of-war. There are other cupboards with sliding doors and spring locks that when opened disclose rows of cutlasses and rifles and great long revolvers in racks from the floor to the ceiling.

The china, silver and glassware used on our American battleships are pretty enough to delight a woman, and women as a rule are particular about china. The glasses, which are fixed in stationary racks on a sideboard in the wardroom, which, by the way, is drawing room, sitting room, dining room, all in one, are of cut ware, and are ornamented with a naval device. Some of the battleships have gorgeous silver services, but that ordinarily used is an up-to-date and complete set of spoons, knives and forks in all the different sizes. Then there are individual pepper mills in silver, salt cellars and salvers, all of which are kept in shining perfection.

The sailors on board our American ships live much better than the workingman on land. When in port they have fresh meats and vegetables, and when at sea for any length of time the terrors of the old-time regimen of salt pork and salt beef are mitigated by a supply of canned vegetables, which give variety. Besides this, Uncle Sam is so generous to his men that the allowance for each is too much, and they have formed a system of pooling the supplies which gives each man an amount of money which he can spend for extra things for the table.

The officers have their special cook, and, of course, their special foods, which in port are apt to compare favorably to those offered on the menu of a first class hotel. They appoint a caterer and steward from among their number each month, whose duty it is to look after the welfare of the mess. The wine mess is contributed to on shares.

The man in the galley, like the stokers, doesn't get much glory out of naval warfare, but he is an important man in his place. Who can tell whether many a glorious victory has not resulted from a well-cooked breakfast or dinner and crushing defeat followed on an indigestible pie or a badly seasoned chop? Paymaster Martin's coffee must have possessed the elixir of victory, whether it was made with an egg, according to rule, or just thrown together any old way.

SALT WATER TOADS.

Just to do something extra and out of the ordinary before he departs for Europe, J. Marsden, the agricultural commissioner of Hawaii, will develop a sea toad, for the use of certain island districts, where standing fresh water is scarce. Mr. Marsden is a firm believer in evolution and will follow lines suggested by Darwin. Already toads have been produced in brackish waters. This tells the commissioner that he cannot fail. For the next culture he will make the water still more salty, and at about the fourth or fifth breeding will try pure sea water. He is confident that the test will work out correctly. In the undertaking Mr. Marsden has received much encouragement from Professor Koebele the government entomologist and from other friends.

PEACE IS DISTANT

No Overtures For Peace Are Likely to Be Made at Present.

DIPLOMATS ABSENT

No Move Anticipated Until a Signal Victory or Defeat Occurs.

Washington, June 30.—In diplomatic quarters it is stated that no steps have been taken thus far in the direction of peace overtures from any quarter, and that it is not likely such overtures will come either from one power or a combination of powers until the military situation materially changes by a decided victory or a decided defeat. Just why this should be awaited is not clear, but it is none the less said to be the element which delays any overtures for peace.

Most of the diplomatic representatives of powers likely to take part in peace overtures have left the city or are about to go for their summer vacations. The Austrian minister is at New London, Conn., for the summer, the French ambassador will soon leave for a trip in the Adirondacks and to Lake George and Lake Champlain. The British ambassador was to have gone to Pequot, Conn., last Saturday, but delayed his start for a few days owing to a touch of rheumatism. The German ambassador will also leave before long. The Russian ambassador has gone to Bar Harbor, Me.

This removes most of those who would be most directly active in any peace movements, and while they could readily return should circumstances demand their presence, their present absence is taken to indicate that there is nothing in the near future toward peace overtures or other foreign movement.

A DEAD ROUGH RIDER.

Dawson Came From Missouri and Was a Farm Hand.

Nevada City, Mo., June 30.—Tilda J. Dawson, one of the rough riders killed in the battle of La Quasina, lived in Vernon county, Mo. He was born in Nevada and would have been 22 years old on July 4. Some months ago he decided to go with his father to Vinita, I. T., to help in farm work.

While he was there the call came for recruits for the regiment of mounted riflemen. Dawson had had some experience with a rifle and enlisted a few days before the regiment left for Santiago.

Dawson wrote to his mother that he had decided to go to the war, and before she had time to reply the regiment had gone. Mrs. Dawson said: "I did not even get to bid him good-bye. We want his body brought here for burial, if it is possible."

NO SUCH FRENCH OFFICER.

And the Real French Attache Is Highly Pleased.

Washington, June 30.—Published reports stating that Maj. Perez, said to be the French military attache accompanying Gen. Shafter on the Seguranca, was indulging in criticism of the American campaign, is discredited at the French embassy, as no such officer is connected with the French service. The French military attache, Maj. De Grandprey, is at another point, and, moreover, he is regarded as a most conservative officer. He has served in Washington a number of years, and up to the time of his departure he frequently expressed the most cordial views as to the American army.

WAR LOAN BIDDERS.

Kansas City People Rush Their Small Offers In.

Kansas City, Mo., June 30.—The rush for small issues of the war loan continues, according to Col. Samuel A. Scott, the postmaster, who says that already clerks and laboring men alone have made application for thousands of dollars worth.

The amounts average between $20 and $100. The Union National bank is in the market for $400,000 worth of the bonds, the First National for a like sum and the National bank of Kansas City for $500,000.

PHILIPPINE TRANSPORTS.

Vessels Which Will Probably Comprise the Next Fleet.

San Francisco, June 30.—It now seems probable that the next fleet of transports transporting troops to the Philippines will be composed of the steamers Peru, City of Puebla, Pana, Walla Walla and Acapulco.

Maj. Gen. Otis will accompany the expedition, which will be under command of Brig. Gen. Marcus P. Miller, and will probably sail about the middle of July.

HOBSON IS WELL

That Is the Message He Sends to His Father.

Birmingham, Ala., June 30.—The Age-Herald today prints a special dispatch from Greensboro, the home of Judge Hobson, father of the hero of the Merrimac adventure at Santiago, giving a cablegram received from his son at Santiago today. The cablegram reads. "Santiago de Cuba, June 28.—My health continues good. Feel no uneasiness about me."

FRENCH AMBASSADOR'S LOSS.

Washington, June 30.—The French ambassador, M. Cambon, has received word of the death of his sister-in-law, wife of M. Paul Cambon, the French ambassador at Constantinople. The Cambons are a noted family of diplomatists, two of them being ambassadors at leading capitals and another being equally distinguished in another branch of official life.

PRIVATE MADE CHAPLAIN.

Fort Scott, Kan., June 30.—Rev. J. M. Payne, a local pastor and a private in Company G, Second Illinois volunteer cavalry, during the civil war, has been appointed chaplain in the Western branch of the soldiers' home and assigned to duty at Leavenworth, Kan.

Help in trouble. Nearly every woman can recall from her own experiences some emergency when a ready knowledge of the best thing to do, would have saved days or perhaps months of anxiety and suffering. No family ought to be without the constant safe-guard and ever-present help of that wonderful free book the Common Sense Medical Adviser by R. V. Pierce, M. D., chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. It tells what to do in emergency or accident or sudden sickness. It contains over one thousand pages, profusely illustrated with engravings and colored plates. It gives receipts for several hundred simple, well-tried home remedies. It instructs the mother in the care of her ailing children or husband, and gives invaluable suggestions for the preservation of her own health and condition in all those critical and delicate periods to which women are subject. The author of this great work has had a wider practical experience in treating obstinate diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-renowned for their marvelous efficacy.

Mrs. H. M. Hansrote, of Magnolia, Morgan Co., W. Va., in a letter to Dr. Pierce says: "My husband is a locomotive engineer. He came home about a year ago and just dropped in the doorway. He was burning up with fever and he commenced with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery according to directions and in two weeks he was able to go to work, without having a doctor. I commenced to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription something over two years ago, and am glad to testify that it is a God-send to womankind. I have been out of health for years, and am now able to say your medicine has cured me entirely. The three children who were born before I commenced to take your medicine did not live long, they were very delicate, but those born since (three in all) are very hearty, and that convinces me that your medicine is just what it is said to be and a great deal more."

By simply enclosing 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y., a paper-bound volume of Dr. Pierce's great book will be sent absolutely free, or for ten stamps extra a heavier and handsomer cloth-bound copy will be sent. A whole medical library in one 1000-page volume.

OHIO ROAD SOLD.

Short Line Absorbed By the Philadelphia & Reading.

Zanesville, Ohio, June 30.—The Cincinnati & Muskingum Valley railway was sold yesterday by order of the United States court to John P. Green, of Philadelphia, of the Philadelphia & Reading company, for $500,000. When reorganized the road will be known as the Cincinnati & Muskingum Valley Railroad company. It has been for many years operated by the Pennsylvania company.

CARRIES MILLIONS.

Steamer Newport Hurrying to Manilla Has Money to Pay the Forces.

San Francisco, June 30.—The Call says: The steamer Newport, which has sailed with Gen. Merritt for the Philippine islands, will bring joy to the hearts of our troops in Manilla, as it carries a large sum of money for the payment of the soldiers and the purchase of needed supplies. It is said that the steamer carries from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 in gold.

It will be remembered that Gen. Merritt, in addition to the money necessary for the use of the troops in the near future, asked the president for $100,000 to be used by him as an emergency fund at his discretion, and suggested how this money could be appropriated for this purpose. This $100,000 is probably included in the coin shipments on the Newport.

Strange Spots on the Sun.

Since the beginning of this year groups of spots unusual and unexpected have been observed on the surface of the sun by astronomers in different sections. These reported at the national observatory are in appearance and movement entirely out of the usual train. They may continue indefinitely, but they do not indicate unusual weather disturbances. But there are indications upon the human countenance that show that the bowels and liver need reform through Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. These are yellowness of the skin and whites of the eyes, furred tongue, etc., all indicative of constipation and biliousness, to the removal of which the Bitters is adapted. The efficacy of this family medicine also extends to malaria, rheumatism, kidney trouble, nervousness and sick headache.

BATTLE AT ONCE

Santiago to Be Taken at Once Is Gen. Shafter's Intention.

HE IS CONFIDENT

And Has Not at Any Time Suggested Need of Reinforcements.

New York, June 30.—A special to the Times from Washington says:

Santiago is to be taken at once not in forty-eight hours, or in three days, or in any prescribed time given to Gen. Shafter by the war department or by the president. The administration is abundantly satisfied with Shafter's performance of his duty. It is depending upon him to exercise his judgment and his ability to the best advantage, and the reports that he has sent indicate to the president and the secretary of war that he is able to act in such a way as to crush the Spanish troops now in Santiago before the reinforcements now on the way from Manzanillo and elsewhere can reach Linares, who is supposed to command Santiago.

Gen. Shafter telegraphs in such confident terms that no room is left for doubt that he feels perfectly able to overthrow any force the Spanish commander may throw in his way.

When Adjt. Gen. Corbin was asked, "What of Pando's reinforcements?" He responded: "We expect to take the city." Pando was again suggested as an obstacle. "Will Gen. Shafter take the city before Pando, with his reinforcements, comes up?" and with calm confidence he answered, "We think we will."

Secretary Alger, who has become more than ever concerned in the operations of the army since he learned that his son was at the front and actively employed, was sanguine of the early capture of Santiago, but he disavows some of the statements attributed to him in which he predicted its capture in forty-eight hours, or in any specified number of hours. He is aware of the difficulties confronting Gen. Shafter, but he is also convinced that the care, energy, determination and stability with which the army of the United States has taken hold of the business in hand will carry it to victory in such a way as to surprise the procrastinating Spaniards.

Not one word has come from Gen. Shafter suggesting the need of reinforcements. To the higher officers at the war department and to the president this is evidence that Gen. Shafter feels sure that he has enough troops with him to accomplish all that has been cut out for him to do. Gen. Miles, firmly convinced of the necessity for avoiding any reverse for any cause, is anxious that success shall be doubly assured, and he is doing his utmost to provide Gen. Shafter with a force more than equal to any that may be provided by the Spaniards.

The president and his cabinet take much comfort from the consideration of Gen. Shafter's report to the secretary of war. Every line has been anxiously scanned for information about the health and spirits of the troops in a climate about which the most distressing reports are recalled. The weather in Washington has been extremely hot during the past few days, and it has been assumed that the troops were suffering from weather worse than here, which, to the discomforts of indifferent food, irregularly supplied, of marching in a tropical sun, assaults from strange and voracious insect pests, and in some cases the burden of unsuitable clothing. If any of these inconveniences are felt, they have been borne stoically, for not one word has come to headquarters to show that the men are not having a better time than they were having when in camp at Chickamauga, Tampa or Camp Alger.

As Gen. Shafter is to wait for nothing, reinforcements, provisions, horse or the many things he has probably discovered that he might use, but manifestly intends to do business at once, and not "tomorrow," as the Spaniards do, the war department is preparing to hear stirring news from him at any time.

The news that is given to the press is sufficiently encouraging. There is reason to believe that information not communicated to the newspapers more completely justifies the belief that Shafter is to hurl his forces at once upon Santiago.

Pando is hurrying to Santiago, but he is heavily handicapped, being obliged to guard supplies which he is carrying to the town. Gen. Shafter is fully aware of the rate at which he is advancing and of the difficulties attending his march to Santiago. This information he gets from hour to hour through the insurgents, who are co-operating with him, and who are familiar with the country between Santiago and Manzanillo.

It would not surprise the president to learn that Morro castle has fallen into the hands of Gen. Shafter's advance.

WANT THE GRESHAM HELD.

Spain Makes a Demand on the British Foreign Office.

Montreal, June 30.—It is stated here a demand has been forwarded to the British foreign office on behalf of the Spanish government that the United States cruiser Gresham, now in this port, on its way to the Atlantic seaboard, be held here. The Spanish government takes the ground that the passage of the Gresham through the St. Lawrence canals in sections and the riventing of the two sections together in this port constitute a breach of the neutrality laws.

NICARAGUA CANAL.

English Company Buys Canal Rights For Five Million Dollars.

Chicago, June 30.—W. E. Curtis telegraphs to the Record from Washington as follows:

A private letter from Managua brings the news that Louis Wieseman, representing Pim, Forwood & Co., of Liverpool, and the Atlas Steamship company, has arrived at Nicaragua to close the contract recently negotiated with that government for the purchase of its railway systems and steamboats. The completion of these negotiations will give Pim, Forwood & Co. the exclusive right to navigate the waters of Lake Nicaragua and the Rio San Juan, which are the most important part of the proposed Nicaragua canal, and the contract is a manifest infringement of the concession granted ten years ago to the Maritime Canal company. It is probable that the government of the United States will enter a protest against the consummation of this arrangement, but that will not prevent President Zelaya from completing the same and receiving the money of which he is so much in need.

The Nicaragua government, however its duplicity may be demonstrated by this concession, has cause for dissatisfaction with the canal company and with the United States, and unless the present congress does something to promote the construction of the canal under the existing concession, we shall have no right to complain. We have been talking about building the canal since early in the century, and it is quite proper for Nicaragua to begin the next century by giving somebody else a chance. This is going to become a serious matter when an attempt is made next year to secure the renewal of the concession to the canal company, which was originally granted for twelve years in 1887, with a privilege of renewal for ninety-nine years. Pim, Forwood & Co. are a prominent and wealthy corporation. Mr. Forwood is lord mayor of Liverpool. They own the Atlas steamship line and have other large interests, and for this Nicaraguan enterprise have associated with them a number of important British capitalists, chartered under the name of the Caribbean and Pacific Transit company.

By the authority of the congress of Nicaragua, President Zelaya granted them, upon the payment of $5,000,000, the exclusive right of navigation upon the Nicaragua lake and the Rio San Juan, with authority to deepen the channel, cut canal connections, build railways and exercise all of the rights that were granted to the canal company. In other words, the Englishmen are to furnish a line of transportation across the Nicaraguan isthmus, all water or part water and part rail, as they prefer. As a part of their system they are to take over the 100 miles of national railway which runs from Corinto to Lake Nicaragua and the two lines of steamers and transports that are now operating upon the river and the lake. In short, the government turns over to them the entire transportation system of the republic for a term of thirty years, with exclusive privileges. In addition to the price of $5,000,000 in cash, the new company is to assume the responsibility of a compromise with certain creditors of the government of Nicaragua in England who hold a portion of the bonds that were issued to build the railway. It is believed that Pim, Forwood & Co. have already obtained possession of these bonds at a nominal price, for they have been considered waste paper for several years. The remainder of the bonds, which are held by citizens of Nicaragua, are to be taken care of by the government, and will undoubtedly be repudiated.

The new company expects to spend several millions more in the improvement of the waterway, in rebuilding and equipping the railway and in securing new steamers for the river and lake. It will enjoy the advantage of the improvements made in the harbor at Greytown by the canal company and will entirely supplant that corporation throughout the republic.

There are various interesting scandals in connection with the transaction, particularly concerning the disposition of the $5,000,000 in cash which the new company is to pay the president.

BROOKLYN BLOWN UP.

Sensational War Fake Which Sets the Spaniards Rejoicing.

Kingston, Jamaica, Wednesday, June 29.—(Copyright by Associated Press.)—The Spanish consul here has received a cablegram from Santiago de Cuba aserting that the United States armored cruiser Brooklyn has been struck by a Spanish shell, which sank the vessel and killed Commodore Schley and twenty-four seamen. The consul really believes the news and the Spaniards all over the city are drinking champagne and rejoicing. It has also been reported to the Spanish consul from Santiago that an extensive mine has been laid that will blow up the American army when it enters that city.

A JAPANESE STORM

Does Immense Damage to Crops and Property---Troubles In China.

Vancouver, B. C., June 30.—Late advices from Japan say that the president of the Central Tea guild has telegraphed President McKinley that the tax on tea will check commerce between Japan and America and ought therefore to be reconsidered or 5000 tea carriers will be put out of empoyment.

Districts surrounding Yokohama were visited by a fearful storm June 5. The river Yoshoida and canal overflowed, submerging a part of Otomachi, the whole of Aioicho, Sumiyohicho and Onoyeoho. At Jin Yumote several houses collapsed and four men were killed. A bridge over the Banui river was washed away, besides a part of the embankment at Hadui, where two persons lost their lives. At Tokyo 224 houses were flooded. Some reports have been received from Aichia Abaraki, Miyi, Saitima and Negano, prefectures. On Yayoyama island, one of the Loo Choo group, 700 houses were damaged, while the wheat plantations suffered to such an extent that production will probably be reduced to 7 per cent.

Several serious disturbances are reported in China. People at Wulu and in Fukien province are in a state of unrest and warships have been sent to the former point and to Foo Chow. Riots have broken out in Canton and there has been serious rioting at Ning Po. The Black Flags are in revolt.

It is reported in Shanghai that the American mission establishment at Tong Chow, near Wu Chow, has been attacked, looted and burned. There is no news of any of the missionaries being killed, so it is probable they escaped in boats. Mr. Glover is in charge of the mission at Tong Chow. The viceroy has been requested by the American consul to instruct the prefect of Wu Chow to dispatch troops to quell the disturbances and afford proper protection to the missionaries.

Matsallet, the rebellious Kornee chief, has revolted again. He has formed an alliance with an inland tribe which has 500 fighting men.

Dispatches received by Shanghai mandarins from Tien Tsin state that the Russian consul at that place has received instructions from the Russian authorities at Port Arthur and Talien Wan, that in the future any foreigners desiring to visit the last-named place must first obtain official passports from the Russian consul.

A significant sign which points clearly to the ultimate plans of Russia in regard to the Manchuria is the heading of Russian official documents which makes the Russian governor of Siberia also governor of Port Arthur, Talien Wan and their dependencies.

The Japanese elections will be held in the latter part of July. Japan's new civil code has been adopted and comes into force July 1. The effect of the sudden dissolution of the diet was that the commercial code was not sanctioned. The Japanese minister of agriculture is credited with establishing a Japanese-American bank with a capital of 1,500,000 yen.

The German steamer Stork foundered June 5 while bound from New Chang to Yokohama. Her crew was rescued.

A Japanese paper says the date of the operation of the new customs tariff is dependent upon the final approval of the new treaty by the Austrian reichsrath, but it cannot long be delayed.

According to the Singapore News the Acheen war, which has been in progress for twenty-six years, is drawing to an end through the vigorous measures now being employed by the Dutch, who have hitherto tried subsidies and other measures. Col. Van Huelz, after clearing Acheen proper of the enemy, is preparing to attack with a force of 7000 the province of Pedii, where the titular sultan of Acheen holds court.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at Duluth Drug company's drug store.

DECLINE IN WHEAT

Easy Opening Followed By a Bulge Which Was Soon Lost.

THE CABLES LOWER

Crop Damage Reports Numerous---French Duty to Be Restored.

Wheat started easy this morning, grew firm and advancing, but later turned weak again and sold below the opening figures. The weak beginning was due to cables being disappointing. There came a flood of crop damage stories, some of them of an almost sensational character, and the price bounded upward under the bullish sentiment created by their receipts. The later cables were also higher and added to the strength, while receipts at Western primary points were light. The restoration of the full duty on wheat in France was officially announced from Paris and this had the effect of weakening the market. Prices steadily declined, and July closed ¾c lower here and ¼c lower at Chicago, while September, finished ⅝c lower in Duluth and ⅛c off at Chicago. Trading was dull on the Duluth board. July wheat opened unchanged at 83c, sold up to 84c, declined again to 83c and closed at 82¼c. September started ⅛c off at 69⅛c, advanced to 70⅛c and declined to 69⅜c before noon. ON THE CHICAGO BOARD.

Crop Damage Reports Cause Wheat Prices to Rise.

Chicago, June 30.—There was an easy feeling today in wheat at the start, with traders inclined to sell because cables, especially Paris, showed less strength than expected. This sentiment did not last long, however, as crop damage reports began to pour in. The damage was not claimed to be recent, but the injury, it seems was not fully apparent until the fields were cut and threshed and then it was found, no matter how luxuriant the growth, the yield would not be as much as expected. The damage is not fully known, but it is stated it would reach 25 per cent in some states. This caused a great deal of excitement and there was a general rush to cover, and the early loss was more than recovered. Late Liverpool cables came 1d higher than the opening and this added to the firmness here. The Price Current places the present crop at materially reduced figures from former estimates, and says it is not likely to exceed 611,000,000 bus. Receipts in the Northwest were very light, 13 cars against 330 last year. Chicago arrivals were 5 cars as compared with 10 for the corresponding day last year. July opened ⅜c lower, at 72½c, and sold up to 71¼c. September began ⅜@½c down, at 68⅛@¼c, and advanced steadily to 69¾c.

The total receipts at Western centers were under 60,000 bus. for the corresponding day in 1897 they were 194,000 bus. Exports from Atlantic ports were equal in wheat and flour to 783,000 bus. At 1 p. m. July was quoted at 73⅜c and September at 69¾c. July closed at 73c and September at 68¼c. There was a general inclination on the part of shorts to clean up over the double holiday.

Large country offerings and a perfect weather map started corn easy. Later there was a sharp rally with wheat. July opened ⅛@⅜c lower, at 31⅝@¾c, and sold up to 32⅛c.

Oats followed corn. July started ⅛c down, at 21⅜c, declined to 21⅝c, and then rose to 22⅛c.

Larger hog receipts than expected and lower prices at the stock yards weakened provisions. July pork opened 2½c lower, at $9.45, and sold up to $9.52½. July lard was unchanged at $5.37½. July ribs started 5c down, at $5.32½, and advanced to $5.35.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Selling Orders From Liverpool Crowded Prices Down.

New York, June 30.—The cotton market opened steady with prices two to three points lower, and eased off several points further, immediately after the close on selling orders from Liverpool and liquidation of summer months. At 11 o'clock the market was dull, but steady at a net loss of three to four points. Sales to that time were 33,500 bales. The Liverpool news was disappointing and partially responsible for the early decline.

Spot cotton closed very dull. Middling uplands, 6 5-16; middling gulf, 6 9-16; sales, 536 bales. Cotton futures closed steady; sales, 80,900 bales. July, $6.10; August, $6.10; September, $6.05; December, $6.00; January, $6.03; February, $6.06; March, $6.10.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, June 30.—Wheat ruled strong and higher early, due to firm cables and continual reports of bad crops. Shorts were the best buyers early, and later owing to an estimate given by a private crop expert here making the crop 750,000,000 it became weak. We are inclined to favor the bull side and advise buying on any further break as we think wheat will rule higher next week.

Our corn market had a dose of good weather today and it seemed to be more than it could stand, the market was weak notwithstanding the advance early in wheat and closes ½c lower than last night, the crop reports never were more conflicting on corn, from what we get ourselves we cannot look for a big crop demand in light at present.

Oats broke a little, nothing important in the trading or news.

Provisions keep dull and fairly steady notwithstanding the large receipts of hogs and the fact that they are low. We believe that anyone who will buy provisions will have a good profit before much longer. We think they are low enough. There was a small business in flax, $1.05 for September. Market dull and firm.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Small Demand and Small Gains Were Noted at Opening.

New York, June 30.—Prices of stocks opened higher all around, but the gains, in practically all cases, were less than a half. Pullman was a conspicuous exception with a gain of 1¼. Demand for stocks was not notably large.

A more general demand prevailed for the grangers than of late and good support was also offered to the Pacific stocks. The specialties, however, continued to be the chief feature, and People's Gas and Sugar responded conspicuously to a good demand. Pullman varied widely, between transactions selling above 203. There were slight recessions before the hour ended, under the influence of a decline in Manhattan and Sugar.

OPINION UNCHANGED.

Nebraska State Journal: Two citizens of Nebraska were caught in one of those violent funnel-shaped clouds, and as they scooted along in the midst of ruins of buildings and flying trees, one of them remarked:

"This is the worst cyclone I ever saw."

"Ignorant man," cried the other, in tones of scorn that were almost drowned by the rush of the storm, "can't you distinguish a cyclone from a tornado? Are the teachings of science altogether lost upon you? This is a tornado, and, as described by Professor Loveland and Meteorologist Gere, it is——"

Just then a church steeple transfixed the speaker and he perished in great agony, while the other man drifted along for ten miles or so and was dumped softly into a sandbank. As he brushed the sand out of his teeth and ears he remarked:

"Well, that was the worst cyclone I ever saw!"

ON THE SAFE SIDE.

Cleveland Leader: "Doc," said a man who had approached one of the surgeons at the recruiting stations, "I wish you'd examine me and see if I'm eligible for enlistment."

"You must file your application in the regular way, with the officer in charge," replied the surgeon.

"I haven't time to do that just now," the stranger replied. "Why can't you take a look at me and see what my chances are, anyway? It's very important that I should know."

"Well, take off your coat and vest, and let me listen to your heart the first thing."

The examination was very short.

"Ah," said the surgeon, after he had listened for a moment, "there isn't any use going on in your case. You'll never do. Why, you might almost as well have no heart at all."

"Hurrah for war!" yelled the man who had been rejected, as he pulled on his coat and hurried into the street. "War! War! Down with the cowards who don't want blood! Hurrah for the crush of matter and the wreck of worlds!"

WALK UPSTAIRS.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: "Running up stairways is a very foolish and dangerous practice and should be shunned as a contagion. The persons who do it surely do not realize how they court disease and death. If they would consider what must be the effect of such violent exercise they would really be frightened.

"In the normal state the heart beats seventy-six times a minute. I will assume that a man approaches a stairway with a regular heart. He ascends the steps as rapidly as possible. When he arrives at the top his heart is beating 120 times a minute. The change is forty-four pulsations a minute and the strain on the heart is severe. In the cases of those whose hearts are diseased, it may produce death, and it may cause previously sound hearts to become diseased. It deranges the whole constitution and seriously shocks the nervous system.

"The persons who runs up stairways will certainly become a physical wreck from the practice of it if followed for any length of time. Disease, with a multitude of painful symptoms, cannot be escaped. It is the effect after the cause.

"The proper way in which to ascend a stairway is deliberately and slowly. Avoid all the exertion possible, for the easiest way is the best. The object is to escape the strain on the heart."

BATH WITH EVERY SHAVE.

The Italian barbers who charge 3 and 5 cents for a shave have a new rival, who, although he has not cut the price of shaves or hair cuts, gives a free bath with every shave, and all for 5 cents, says the New York Sun. The new shop was opened a few days ago on the Lower Bowery. Flaring signs announce that one can get a good shave, with bay rum, and a free bath thrown in, all for a nickel. The shop has several chairs, and from the opening day there has been a rush of business. The before-and-after results are in all cases startling.

DEATH RATE IN WAR.

Statistics prove that since the Trojan war, 3000 years ago, not a single year has elapsed in which some war has not caused the killing of a large number of men, while it is calculated that all of the world's wars have been responsible for the death of 14,000,000 human beings.

An exchange says that of the fifteen decisive battles of the world the average death rate in the last five of them (of which alone reliable statistics are preserved) was about 25 per cent, ranging from 20 per cent, the British loss at Saratoga, to 47 per cent, the loss of the Swedes at Pultowa. Of other great battles it is difficult to fix the average death rate, though it may be estimated at 20 per cent. The rates range from 0.9 (the German loss at Sedan in September, 1890) to 50 per cent, the British loss at bloody Albuera. As a matter of fact, things stand very much as they used to do, save that the slaughter, when it does occur, always comes more quickly. A great battle in which the quick-firing guns can be brought into effective use will probably increase the death rate largely, but that remains to be proved. The battle soon to occur at Santiago may settle this point.

AT SANTIAGO.

The American army in front of Santiago has no easy task to perform. Gen. Shafter says he can capture the place within forty-eight hours, but that the undertaking would involve considerable loss. There is no doubt about the latter point. The attack upon Santiago will necessarily result in many of our men being killed and wounded, because the Spaniards will make a determined resistance. They have fortified the city as much as they can. They have batteries which command every approach. Consequently it is necessary to have our artillery forces present in strength. What progress has been made in getting the siege guns landed at Baiquiri to the front is not known, but recent reports indicated that a very fair military road had been completed, and therefore all the large guns may now be within firing distance of the city, and word may come at any time that Gen. Shafter had ordered the attack.

Siege guns and mortars are needed by the attacking party in order to cope scientifically with the Spanish defenders. These weapons are adapted for throwing projectiles of large caliber but at comparatively short range. The mortar throws explosive shells high in the air, and they describe a parabolic curve in their flight. A skillful artillerist can drop shells in any desired location with great accuracy. Siege guns use much smaller charges of powder than naval guns of the same caliber, and they are much better adapted for bombardment by reason of their higher trajectory. Their shells travel with sufficient force to shatter masonry fortifications, and yet the rapid drop of the shell affords a plunging fire which does serious damage behind the fortifications. A naval rifle or coast defense gun has a range of ten or twelve miles, and if it fires a shot over the fortifications of a walled town the shell is likely to pass over the entire city. Such weapons are too heavy for land transportation, so the siege gun plays an important part in war.

As the Detroit News says it would be a waste of ammunition for our soldiers to pepper away at the enemy's fortifications with Springfield rifles. They would accomplish nothing. A bayonet charge would be opposed with an enfilading fire which would leave half or more of the assaulting party dead on the field, for repeating rifles and machine guns make a deadly storm of bullets. Hence the necessity for dragging the ordnance from the sea over the lofty and rugged hills, so that the guns may be mounted in commanding positions for the artillerists to throw shells and shrapnel into the city.

FEDERATION DEFEATED.

The Australian federation is still a thing of the future, the latest effort to accomplish it having failed, owing to the action of New South Wales. The federation bill, which was to join the six colonies of New South Wales, Victoria, Tasmania, Queensland, South Australia and West Australia into a compact federal commonwealth, was recently voted on by all those colonies, and every one except New South Wales gave its approval. Even in the latter colony there was a majority in favor of federation, but the legislature of that colony, in order to defeat the scheme, passed a law providing that the "commonwealth bill" in the election must receive at loast 80,000 votes to be carried. The result of the poll was 70,000 for federation and 65,000 against it, yet that majority was insufficient.

New South Wales, which is the oldest, richest and most valuable of the colonies, wrecked the measure for purely local and selfish reasons, the influences that swayed her being strikingly similar to those that tempted New York, Pennsylvania and the large American colonies to reject the federal constitution of 1787. No doubt the promoters of the scheme of federation will persevere, notwithstanding this rebuff.

THE SOLDIER VOTE.

As the Atlanta Journal says, it would be well if the men who have volunteered to fight for their country should be given the right to vote in the congressional elections of this year wherever they may be. Representative Lacey of Iowa has introduced a bill which extends this privilege to volunteer soldiers. Mr. Lacey is confident that he has framed his bill so as to make it constitutional, but there is grave doubt on that point.

Under the constitution it would seem that this matter must be regulated by the states and not by congress. Article 1, section 2 of the federal constitution provides "the house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature."

As the constitution does not prescribe the qualifications requisite for electors of state legislators it is hard to seen how it can provide who shall be electors of congressmen as they must have "the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature."

Again the fourteenth amendment provides that if a state denies or abridges the right to vote of any male citizen who has reached his majority, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, its basis of representation shall be reduced. This seems to leave the right to prescribe qualifications of voters entirely with the states.

The states are forbidden to deny or abridge the right of citizens to vote on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude, but they may abridge the right to vote for any other cause, paying the penalty of reduced representation in proportion to the number of persons disfranchised.

It is clear that Mr. Lacey's bill is ineffective and that congress cannot extend the right to volunteer soldiers to vote. This is a matter which must be attended to by the state legislatures, and as few of them meet before next winter the soldiers from most of the states will not be able to vote this year.

FACTS ABOUT GENERALS.

Many inquiries are made, first, whether Grant, Sherman and Sheridan were raised to the rank of general or lieutenant general; secondly, whether the president is not the highest officer in command of the forces during war, and, thirdly, whether the rank of general can be conferred upon a person aside from that of the president?

To these questions, the Kansas City World replies as follows: Grant, Sherman and Sheridan were in turn made lieutenant generals, in recognition of their illustrious services as the commanders of independent armies and the directors of independent campaigns. Grant was afterward made "general of the army" by congress and the president, and he held that rank when he was nominated to the presidency in 1868. The title of lieutenant general was revived by act of congress during Harrison's adminstration, and conferred upon Gen. Schofield, who succeeded Sheridan as head of the army, but it lapsed when he was retired, and Gen. Miles succeeded to his place. The latter may also be made lieutenant general, but only by act of congress. The president is, by virtue of his office, commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, but he bears no military title. The rank of general can be conferred upon any officer in the same way it was conferred on Grant. It is not likely, however, anything of that kind will be done, unless the present war should assume larger proportions than now seem likely, and should develop a great military leader of the order of U. S. Grant.

The Chicago Chronicle says that as the Hon. Marcus Hanna reads that Camara is plugged up at Port Said for want of coal his eyes become dim with rushed tears. Marcus is understood to be doing pretty well with government coal contracts, but his native generosity would impel him to help out distressed foreigners at satisfactory prices, if the circumstances admitted of a dicker.

It is said that the last of the 300 educated young Englishmen who founded the town of Rugby, in the mountains of East Tennessee, in 1881, has left that once Arcadian village, established upon a plan arranged by Thomas Hughes, the English author. Rugby still has a population of 300, but the English element has vanished. The scheme has been a flat failure.

Mark Twain found some words for the whole United States to repeat when he wrote: "I should like to do homage to our soldiers and sailors of today who are enlisted for another most righteous war, and utter the hope that they may make short and decisive work of it and leave Cuba free and fed when they start for home."

A St. Paul paper says: "Ed Wladom, of Duluth, was very strictly in the Collins push and it is likely that he will be the personal representative of the judge." This tends to confirm the belief that the railroads prefer Collins as the candidate, otherwise the claim agent of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern would hardly be supporting him.

The Baltimore American suggests the necessity for more discretion in the selection of articles intended for the soldiers and sailors in and around Cuba. The suggestion is intended for Baltimoreans who have forwarded to the front an assortment of earmuffs and tracts against the use of tobacco in war time.

Nicaragua has granted to an English corporation the exclusive right to navigate the waters of Lake Nicaragua and the Rio San Juan, which are the most important parts of the proposed Nicaragua canal. This may cause serious trouble.

Congressman McCleary, of this state, has been charged by a Washington newspaper with plagiarism. That is nothing new. His speeches during the last campaign were filled with other men's ideas and arguments.

The Chicago Record thinks that when Gen. Shafter sees that barb-wire fence which Gen. Linares has constructed around Santiago he will wish he had taken along a can opener.

If all the men who think the war better than the war department should go to the front, the president would not find it necessary to issue another call for troops.

The new stamp taxes go into effect tomorrow. If you cannot get the new revenue stamps, you can use postage stamps, but you must use stamps of some kind.

It is gratifying to learn direct from Lieut. Hobson that he is safe and well and in no danger of suffering for anything.

The stamp taxes will not occasion any growling. The people will cheerfully pay the expenses of the war.

The Hawaiian question will be settled before congress adjourns. Hawaii will be annexed as it should be.

It is not announced where Admiral Camara proposes to get himself finally bottled up.

If Admiral Dewey can only get a chance at Carmara's fleet, Spain will have no navy left.

Follies of the Wise Man.

And none is wise till his course be run;
For a woman's eyes or the gleam of gold
Will dazzle his wits till he's old—so old!
And the flirt of a skirt or the thrill of a song
And a woman's sighs or a woman's tears
Will make him a slave for years and years.

A man is a fool at worst—and best—
And his life is a grim and guilty jest,
With a gush of joy or a gasp of pain,
And the round of his labor, and over again;
But his toil grows less and his griefs depart
When he feels the throb of a comrade heart,
And his life is a beautiful vision while

A man is a fool, for his pride and greed
Will take him beyond the farthest need,
And the bauble of wealth or the bubble fame
Will be seek to his grief or lasting shame;
But a woman's love is of all the earth
Man's rightful gift and of greatest worth,
And who studies the world in his dear love's eyes

The Tartars and Their Horses.

The Touriste au Caucase: They have a way of living with their animals which is truly astonishing—they talk to them, and when they wish to encourage them they whistle to them as if they were birds. If they do not travel well, they address to them tender reproaches; and when special effort is needed on their part, they say to them, "Come, my doves—you know you must go up there, courage my pets; come, go on!" And when the difficulty is accomplished, they get down from their box and praise and caress them, allowing them to rest and breathe—patting them between their eyes, rubbing their noses, stroking the hair on their foreheads between their ears—indeed caressing them in every way, and treating them like much-loved pets.

Both Are Weak.

Bemidji Pioneer (Rep.): There is not a thinking Republican in the state of Minnesota who does not believe that there are serious objections to Clough, and that if he were nominated John Lind would sweep the state in spite of all the strength of the Republican position nationally. There is hardly a thinking Republican in the state who does not deep down in his thinking apparatus, believe that either Clough or Van Sant would be an unknown quantity in the campaign, and that his election would be more than uncertain. Why, then should either of them be nominated?

SEASONABLE JOY.

The man who used to ask us, "Is it hot enough for you?"
And roused our anger till we turned the air a quivering blue,
Is dead, and now our cup of joy is full clear to the brim,
Because we know he's gone where it is hot enough for him.

Cannot Be Fooled Twice.

Wadena Tribune: Hundreds of good loyal conscientious Silver Republicans were fooled into voting for McKinley and Page Morris two years ago, because of the promises of international bimetallism, who will this year cast their votes for Hon. Charles A. Towne. They know that Towne and the fusion party are pledged to bimetallism and the loud-mouthed gold bug orators who are out for revenue and office only will not be able to fool them again.

WIND WAS IN THE WOODLAND.

The wind was in the woodland and the quail was in the corn
In the Southern sunny land of happy childhood long ago,
And the perfume of ten thousand flowers floated on the morn,
While the mock-bird shouted loudly high above the bayou's flow.
The sun shone softly, brightly, and the cloud ships sailed along
An evenbending, radiant, quiet wondrous sea of blue,
And the negro's vibrant voice rang out in happy hearted song
In the fairy, airy days, Sweetheart, far gone from me and you.

We wandered hand in hand across the meadows clovered deep
With blossoms white and blossoms red and leaves of darkest green,
We watched the bumblebee's sweet quest, the dragon fly's long leap,
And listened to the yellow breasted field lark's carol keen.
And now and then the wood dove's mellow, dreamy chastened note—
Gray coated mourner for a love whose chains were made of sand—
Told of the lonely life she lived in some wood isle remote,
And we two pitied her, Sweetheart, for children understand.

Sometimes we crept along the bank to watch the black bass flash
His meteor way about the pebbles in the river cool,
Or saw the fishhawk's circling cease before his downward dash,
Or heard the bittern's boom roll out above the glassy pool.
The red bird was a gout of blood splashed on the branches nigh,
The yellow hammer's iron bill sore smote the moaning pine,
The king bird, warring always was a knight of valor high,
For you were only eight, Sweetheart, and I was only nine.

You loved me well; I loved you well; we vowed our vows in truth,
And all your tender little soul went out to me, I know!
I have not found in latter days (these sorry days forsooth!)
The true eyed faith, the comradeship, the heart of long ago.
Amid the city's clash and clang, the meannesses of men,
I often seem to hear an echo—faintly, faintly borne—
Of childish song that rippled on the old fair mornings when
The wind was in the woodland and the quail was in the corn.

THE SKIRMISH AT LA QUASINA.

Buffalo Express: Gen. Linares' orders to his men around Baiquiri were to repulse the Americans and charge them with the machete, if this could be done "without any loss to the Spaniards." The general would be a star in opera bouffe.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: It is not many days since our flag was first planted on Cuban soil at Guantanamo and now it may be seen all along the coast for sixty miles, with the exception of the entrance to Santiago harbor. The Spaniards in Cuba will shortly become accustomed to the sight.

New York Sun: While it is not yet long, it tells the story of heroic devotion to the service of the country's flag as clearly and as tragically as though it covered thousands. Counting the men of the lost battleship Maine, for time will blur not their memory more indissolubly every day to those killed in open war, our dead are already counted by hundreds. It is for their comrades who remain to see that they shall not have died in vain. The vengeance to be exacted for them is peace through victory.

Washington Post: But both Wood and Roosevelt have covered themselves with glory. They have added luster to American arms and have given to the country an exhibition of well directed dash and valor which will inspire every manly heart through the land. Col. Roosevelt said, when he left Washington for the front, that his dearest wish was to be in the first battle upon Cuban soil. Fortune has favored him. To be sure the affair was little more than a skirmish—the force employed being comparatively small and the duration of the engagement very brief but it afforded as many opportunities for personal heroism and military genius as did Fontenoy or Acre, and Wood and Roosevelt, with the brave fellows at their backs, appear to have exploited all of them. Our compliments to the Rough Riders and their gallant leaders! The whole nation hails them with gratitude and acclamation.

A CHAMPION LIAR.

Biggest One Who Ever Came to Nova Scotia.

Some good men are naturally such teachers, and so full of benevolence, especially toward the young, that they cannot help spreading wisdom wherever they go, says the Country Gentleman. That the seed may fall on stony ground is proved by a story which a gentleman, who went hunting far into the interior of Nova Scotia, tells in a letter.

The hunter was carried sixteen miles at night by a boy 16 years old and a horse 15 years old. The ride was tedious, and the boy driver was inclined to fall asleep. The hunter therefore thought to interest him in something.

"I see we are going due west," he said.

"How do you know that?" asked the boy. "Were you ever here before"

"No, but there is the North Star."

"How do you know it's the North Star?"

"Why, there are the Pointers?"

"What Pointers?"

The hunter explained, and told the boy how to find the North Star. Then he pointed out two of the planets. The boy seemed wideawake now, and the hunter went on to give him his first lesson in astronomy, telling him how Jupiter was 1300 times as large as the earth, and how Mars showed changes of seasons—how it had bays and apparent canals and so forth, and how it was supposed by many to have intelligent inhabitants.

When, after his hunting, the stranger returned to the town where he had hired the conveyance and the boy, he found that the people seemed to have a certain humorous interest in him. It was so evident that he was the object of some curiosity or joke that he made inquiries, and finally found a man who could tell him.

"Why," said this informant, "you've made a great reputation for yourself around here."

"In what way?"

"Oh, the kid that drove you over to —— the other night came back the next day and told all the settlers at the hotel that of all the liars he ever heard, you were the slickest."

"What lie did I tell him?"

"The boy said that you pretended to know the number of miles to the sun, and that you pointed to a star that you said was called 'Jumpter,' and that you said it was 1300 times bigger than this world, and that you pointed to another star that you said was one where folks lived."

"'Oh,' says that boy, 'you just ought to hear him! He's a peach! Old Haskins ain't in it with that feller for lyin'. I tell you, he's the biggest liar in Nova Scotia. I'll point him out to you when he comes back.'"

The boy had pointed him out, and he was at that moment enjoying the reputation of the champion of all the liars who had ever come to Nova Scotia.

THE LAST STRAW.

Andrew Jackson Danvers Drew the Line at Snuff

The highway ran through a piece of thick woods, with a small clearing and a dilapidated cabin to the right, says the Washington Star. A stout rope was stretched across the road. As I reached it I noticed a man sitting on the cabin steps, and after puzzling a little I called out:

"Is the road blocked beyond?"

"Not as I know of," he replied.

"Is it a toll road?"

"Never heard it was."

"But there is a rope here to stop travelers."

"Yes, I put it there," he replied. "Stranger, git down from yer hoss and come along over here."

I did as requested, and found him a long, lean man, with a tone of complaint in his voice and an expression of martyrdom on his face. Inside the door, rocking to and fro and smoking her pipe, was a middle-aged woman whom I took to be his wife.

"What is the object of that rope?" I asked as I stopped beside him.

"It's to make folks halt and turn in here," he replied in a husky voice.

"But why do you want 'em to turn in here?"

"To hear my story, sah. I want to talk to you about ten minits, and then I'll drap the rope and you can go on. Stranger, do you see weeds and thistles and bresh around you?"

"Plenty of them," I answered as I looked over his small clearing.

"And do you take notice of this shackelty ole cabin which is ready to fall down any day?"

"I do."

"And what do you reckon we've got in the cabin to eat and drink?" he continued, as his voice broke and grew pathetic. "True as you live, sah, we hain't got nuthin' but mighty pore cawnmeal not fit fur hawgs."

"Well, that's bad."

"And look at me, stranger—look at me!" He almost sobbed as he rose up like a scare-crow. "I'm redooced to rags! I've had ager every other day fur the last two years. I hain't tasted whisky or terbacker fur months."

"That's hard lines," I replied in a consoling way.

"I should say it was! I might hev bin a big lawyer or run fur office, but I cum up yere to squat in this place to please that woman in thar! I did it bekase I loved her. My love for her has redooced me to this, and yit what did she do this very mawnin'—what did she do arter all this?"

"I have no idea."

"Wall, you won't believe it when I tell you. Arter all this, sah—arter all this bein' redooced and sufferin' fur her sake—arter growin' poorer and poorer till the only thing we've got left to us is a woodchuck skin wuth two bits, she gits up this mawnin' and calmly says to me that she wants to take it to town and sell it fur snuff! Ar' ye listenin' to me, stranger—ar' ye hearin' what I say?"

I replied that I was, and he wiped a tear from either eye and let his voice quaver, as he struck the door with his fist and continued:

"And that shows ye how a man kin be made a fule of through his love, and how my ole woman wants to roll in riches while I starve, and how the worm kin be trod on fur years and years befo' he will turn. I'll drap the rope now and you kin pass on, but you jest tell folks that the worm has turned at last and that Andrew Jackson Danvers hain't got no woodchuck skin to trade fur snuff—not in his dyin' life!"

A LIEUTENANT HERO.

A Young Kentuckian Who Met Spanish Guerrillas Single Handed and Conquered.

LIEUT. WENDELL C. NEVILLE.
The Young Officer Who Escaped the Spaniards at Camp McCalla.

The most disturbing circumstance of the war up to date occurred at Camp McCalla, when a troop of Spanish guerrillas swooped down upon our soldiers and took several captive. Many were in bathing at the time and unprepared to offer defense.

After the attack, in which the guerrillas were driven back, Lieut. Wendell C. Neville, one of the most popular officers in the camp, was reported missing. He had been taken away by the Spaniards. Great was the consternation in camp, but little could be done, as he had probably been carried into the interior.

Two days later the lieutenant appeared. He had fought the natives single-handed, had battled with the guerrillas, eluded Spanish troops and come home, like any brave Yankee boy!

Wendell C. Neville is a native of Kentucky, about 30 years old. He entered the corps in July, 1892, and after making cruises on the Cincinnati and the Texas, he was assigned in March, 1897, to duty at the New York navy yard. In October of the same year he married a daughter of Commodore Howell, who commands the Northern patrol fleet.

MAY GET A BALL TEAM

If Sunday Games Can Be Played Duluth Will Have One.

WADE TO MANAGE

West Duluth Man Likely to Have Charge of the New Team.

It is hoped that within a short time there will be baseball games at the fair grounds, and that Duluth will have a club for the first time in two years. All that has kept the matter back so far has been the fact that the lease of the grounds prohibits Sunday amusements. As most of the games would be played on Sunday, this would prevent any baseball season at the fair grounds. Those who are back of the movement, however, have reason to believe that the clause will not be insisted upon, and in that belief they are proceeding to make the necessary arrangements for fixing the grounds and making up the team. A certain amount of money is needed to lay out the grounds, and this has been partly raised already. In the meantime a team will be made up, and it is thought that it will be a strong one. Frank Wade, manager of the West Duluth team, will probably manage the Duluth team, and he may take some of the best of his men and give them places in the new club. Fitch, who was shortstop for the last team Duluth had, and who was one of the best players Duluth had, is on his way here, and will probably take a place on the team. The make-up of the club is still very indefinite, however, as there are other matters to be straightened up before the team is secured.

"Duluth should be a good baseball town," said an old "rooter" yesterday, "and if it had not been imposed upon in the past it would be. If a good team is secured and care is taken in the management of the team, there is no reason why the season should not be a successful one. So long as the last team Duluth had was managed well the patronage was good. But the management got to running in snide teams on the public, and the patronage immediately fell off, as it should under the circumstances."

A CLEVER FOX.

He Foils Attempts Made to End His Earthly Career.

An enterprising fox is harrowing the souls of poultry keepers on Duluth Heights. So far Bre'r Fox has visited but one yard, that of James Robinson, but the ravages he has committed there and the cunning he has displayed have convinced the community that not a chicken thereabouts is safe, so long as the marauder is at large. The fox began operations Monday night and up to yesterday morning had forty chickens to his credit, and had made two carefully planned attempts at capture. The animal effected entrance to the hennery Monday night by digging under the wall. On Tuesday, Mr. Robinson concealed a trap in the hole. That night the fox dug another hole and made a swipe. Mr. Robinson got another trap and put it in the second hole. Wednesday night Bre'r Fox dug another hole and carried off some more prizes. The fox evidently had as large a stock of holes as Mr. Robinson had of traps and the latter yesterday was scratching his head and trying to think up a new scheme to head off his tormentor.

NEW COMPANY TAKES HOLD.

Land and River Improvement Company Passes Out of Existence.

The Land and River Improvement company, of Superior, which was the original owner of the townsite of Superior, passed out of existence yesterday, the last formality of its reorganization having been observed and put upon record—that of the deeding of the real and personal property held by the Land and River Improvement company to the new company.

The new company, now owning all the property bid in at the recent foreclosure sale by Mr. Kelly for the reorganization committee at $500,000, was incorporated under the laws of the state of New Jersey and its name is "The Land and River company." Henry De Forest, of New York, is president; S. E. Kliver, treasurer, and W. P. Stevenson, secretary. The mortgages of the Atlantic Trust company and the Knickerbocker Trust company are still liens upon the property of the Land and River company, the mortgage foreclosure sale being made subject to these mortgages.

Thinks It a Model.

Alderman Crowley thinks that the new charter recently adopted by San Francisco should be the model for every American city. Among its features is the initiative and referendum. Every proposed ordinance or amendment to the charter must be submitted to a vote of the people. Public franchises must be put up at auction and sold to the highest bidder. The life of such a franchise is limited to twenty-five years, at the end of which time it becomes the absolute property of the city, without compensation.

Young Woman to Shine Shoes.

A young woman is canvassing the offices of the city persuading the men to buy tickets for shoe shines. She sells three shines for 25 cents and announces that she will open for business at a store on Superior street tomorrow. The young woman is good looking and the proprietors of the store are figuring on how they can enlarge sufficiently to accommodate the crowd. It is suspected by some that she is advertising a certain kind of shoe polish, but she has said to several that she is taking this method of raising money to complete her musical education. She is said to have found Duluth men a more hard-hearted lot than she imagined.

HAWAIIAN FEELING.

American Patriotism Runs High and Soldiers Are Anxious to Fight.

E. Z. Williams yesterday received a letter from his sister in Honolulu, in which she told of the reception given the American soldiers as they stop there on their way to Manilla. Every possible consideration is shown them and patriotism runs high whenever a body of the blue jackets land on Hawaiian soil. She said that if annexation comes in time that the First regiment of Hawaiian guards will go to Manilla.

Mr. Williams, who has lived at Honolulu, says that there are three regiments regulars under the pay of the Hawaiian government, but there are several auxiliary regiments corresponding to the militia in the United States. There it is fashionable to belong to the auxiliary army, and there is a friendly rivalry between the different companies in the matter of efficiency and drill. They particularly pride themselves on their ability as marksmen, and every company is made up of sharpshooters. Every day members of the companies are out at target practice, and there are some wonderful shots among them. These practice shoots are attended by large and fashionable audiences. The Hawaiians are eager to take a hand in the war with Spain, and are more eager than ever to receive news of the favorable progress of annexation legislation from Washington.

Mr. Williams says that Honolulu is a typical American city, and that there is more genuine American patriotism there to the square inch than can be found anywhere in the United States. American flags are to be seen in large numbers every day floating from flagstaffs and house tops, and it is seldom that any other flag is displayed. Large flagstaffs are to be found in the yards of the best dwellings, on business blocks and at the plantations. The Fourth of July is celebrated with the enthusiasm that characterized independence day in the average American town a score of years ago.

Mr. Williams says that the American feeling is not confined to native Americans, who are making their home in the islands, but extends to all nationalities. The Germans and Englishmen particularly have become Americanized. Their social and business connections are all American, and they have quite involuntarily adopted American habits and customs until their sympathies and ambitions are wrapped up in the idea of annexation to the United States.

MANTELL IN "MONBARS."

Robert Mantell last night at the Lyceum produced D'Ennery's "Monbars" before a large audience and had his excellent company gave this splendidly dramatic romance a thoroughly competent production. Mr. Mantell's plays, as a rule, are well supplied with situations of thrilling effect, but in none of them are these situations more thickly and yet more consistently and logically displayed. All of them, too, received careful and adequate treatment at the hands of the members of the company, and that the audience was pleased was evident from the applause and the frequent curtain calls, which followed nearly every one of the five acts.

Mr. Mantell appeared as Monbars, a character well suited to his heroic mold. That he did it well it is hardly necessary to tell. Each of the many powerful demands made upon his art by the part were fully complied with. A most dramatic incident is that in which, after rescuing a lady from the jaws of a mad dog and receiving in the affair an ugly bite from the dog, Monbars cauterizes the wound with a red-hot poker from the fireplace. Mr. Mantell did this little episode with the nicest judgment, displaying neither too much nor too little coolness. The more powerful passages later were treated with equal skill, and the whole performance was a most artistic one.

The remainder of the company were most acceptable. Miss Knoul as Diane was gracefully and powerfully pleasing, and Miss Russell as Blanche, Miss Clifton as Madame Laurent and Miss Esmond as Lucile were all that could be asked. Mr. Robertson as Louis, Mr. Hall as Laurent, Mr. Turner as Mouton, Mr. St. Maur as de Noirmont, Mr. Tavernier as Mr. Daniel, Mr. Smith as Andre, Mr. Whaley as Tavernier, all were pleasing.

WITHOUT KICKING

People Are Buying Revenue Stamps Cheerfully and With No Complaints.

DULUTH PAYS MUCH

Board of Trade Will Bring the Amount up to Large Sum.

The revenue stamps which were received at the First National bank yesterday sold rapidly and a fairly large amount was disposed of. One thing in connection especially noticed by the bank people was that not one man kicked or grumbled at having to buy them. All took it cheerfully and actually seemed to feel tickled to think that they were contributing toward thrashing Spain.

The amount of money which will go from Duluth to the government through this internal revenue tax will probably be larger than from most cities of the size of this, owing to the fact that a board of trade is located here. The board will have to pay heavily under the schedule which requires the payment of a tax of 1 cent per $100 on all sales of merchandise of any kind for present or future delivery on exchanges or boards of trade. It is estimated that the total it will have to pay will run from $60,000 or $70,000 a year up to possibly $100,000. If enormous crops are harvested this fall, as seems likely, the cash wheat sales as well as the options will bring the amount up to a very large sum. This is not all the men who do business on the board will have to pay, however. Every telegram they send, and hundreds and even thousands of them are sent every day, will have to bear a 1-cent stamp. Warehouse receipts must bear a 25-cent stamp. Charters of vessels of over 600 tons must pay a $10 tax. Marine insurance is taxed, and there are many other things which will help to swell the board of trade amount.

The tax paid by the board, however, will eventually be paid by the farmer. The Minneapolis chamber of commerce has already issued notice that the tax shall be a charge against the principal, the same as elevator and transfer charges, etc. The $60,000 to $100,000 that the board pays annually will therefore come out of the farmer. The charges for telegrams, etc., the board members will probably have to stand themselves.

It is safe to say that not everyone understands the full effect of the law. Every telegraph message must bear a 1-cent stamp before it can be accepted by the telegraph company. Bills of lading must bear 1-cent stamps. Berths in sleeping cars and seats in parlor or chair cars are taxed 1 cent. The provisions as to checks and drafts are pretty well understood. They must bear 2-cent stamps.

Life, fire and marine insurance is all subject to tax. All deeds, conveyances and mortgages, powers of attorney, leases, etc., must be stamped.

A number of licenses are prescribed. Theaters, museums and concert halls in cities of 25,000 and over must pay a $100 license. Pawnbrokers must pay $20 and commercial brokers, commission houses and vessel agents also $20. Bowling alleys and billiard rooms must pay $5 per alley or table.

Lana-Espamer Wedding.

Lettezia A. Lana, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lana, of 113 West Second street, and Daniel Espamer were united in marriage at 8 o'clock yesterday morning at the cathedral, Rev. Father Meanes officiating. Miss Minnie Lana, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mark Espamer, brother of the groom, acted as best man. A large assemblage of friends of the parties were present at the ceremony. The cathedral was profusely decked with flowers.

An elaborate wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, to which a large party sat down. In the evening a reception was given at the Kalamazoo block, which was attended by about 150 guests. There was dancing, for which Di Marco's orchestra furnished the music. Light refreshments were served. The presents were numerous and valuable.

The couple will be at home after July 4 in the old Fraser residence on West Fourth street.

Cuticura SOAP

followed by light dressings with CUTICURA, purest of emollient skin cures. Bad Scalp Humor Cured

I had a bad scalp humor, and thought I would go frantic with itching. I lost considerable of my hair (of which I had an abundance, and was very proud). I tried several remedies but they all proved a failure. I tried CUTICURA SOAP, found relief immediately, and that itching is completely gone.

Falling Hair Restored

I was troubled with dandruff so that it made my hair fall out so bad I got discouraged. I purchased a box of CUTICURA (ointment) and a cake of CUTICURA SOAP. The former I rubbed well into the scalp twice a week, and then shampooed with warm water and a good lather of CUTICURA SOAP once a week. I am pleased to say that my hair is growing out thick once more, and free from dandruff.

WEST END SHOOTING

Charles J. Dewey Accuses Anthony Williams of Firing at Him.

Charles J. Dewey, of 120 Park avenue, came near losing his life yesterday afternoon by a bullet from a revolver in the hands of Anthony Williams, of Twenty-eighth avenue west and Michigan street. The bullet passed through Dewey's hat, just grazing his scalp. Williams claims that the revolver went off by accident, while Dewey alleges that he took deliberate aim.

The shooting occurred during an altercation over the adjustment of a screen door that Dewey was putting up at Williams' residence. Williams began to find fault about the way in which the job was done, whereupon Dewey remarked that he would not be told how to put up a screen door by any d—— foreigner. Williams replied by calling Dewey a bad name. At this, Dewey ran for an ax and Williams dashed into the house and got his gun. Dewey lined up with the ax and dared Williams to come out. Williams came out and struck Dewey over the head with the revolver two or three times. That, according to Dewey's story. Williams took aim and fired at him.

Williams was a motorman on the street car line up to November, and since then has been employed as a bartender in the Zenith saloon on West Superior street. He has borne a good reputation.

Young Peoples' Reception.

The Young People's society of the First Baptist church will give a reception at the church tomorrow evening, at 8 o'clock. The reception is given in honor of the Misses Jessie Palmer, Anna Burnham and Ruth Scott, who have just returned from their college studies for the summer vacation. There will be a number of college songs sung and college stories told by college people.

Picnic at Fond du Lac.

The picnic of the First Baptist church Sunday school at Fond du Lac yesterday was a very enjoyable affair. The party, about 200 in number, went up and returned on the Henrietta. On the way home the steamer grounded and broke her rudder, the injury being not enough to disable her, however. She soon got off the shoal and reached the Fifth avenue dock at 7:30 last night.

Testing Its Property.

The Johnson Nickel Mining company will have a second diamond drill in operation in this county within a few days, says the Cook County Herald. They have had one at work for a month past in town 63-4 west where, we are informed, they are obtaining very satisfactory results. The second drill with complete outfit, including a fine pair of horses, passed through town on the Dixon Sunday evening en route to Gunflint, where the company will make a thorough test of some of their properties. The outfit was accompanied by Henry Pfund, company's engineer.

The Health Board Meets.

The health board had a special meeting last evening and passed the monthly pay roll and allowed some bills. A meeting will be held after the spring clean up is finished, which will be in about two weeks, when a number of inspectors will be laid off.

GOVERNMENT'S CASH ACCOUNT.

Receipts and Expenditures During the Month of June.

Washington, June 30.—Today's statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that the receipts during the present month will aggregate about $33,500,000, and for the present fiscal year $304,500,000. These receipts include about $1,500,000, which is likely to be reported tomorrow morning, received tonight.

Receipts from customs this month will be shown to be about $14,500,000, a loss as compared with last June of about $7,000,000.

The collections from internal revenue will show an increase approximating $3,750,000. For the entire fiscal year the receipts from customs will amount to a little less than $150,000,000, a loss as compared with the last fiscal year, 1897, of about $26,500,000.

The internal revenue receipts will amount to about $170,000,000, a gain of $23,500,000. Up to this time the actual cash expenditures on account of the war amount to about $60,000,000.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Sim Miller, one of the McCormick company's collectors, who lives at Grand Forks, was the victim of a very painful accident on Monday night. He was returning home on the south bound train and, as the train neared the depot, he stood on the coach platform with his left hand against the doorway and, as it happened, with his fingers a little too far inside. Another passenger shut the door, and two of Mr. Miller's fingers were caught, the ring finger being severed at the first joint. Miller was alone at the time and in order to liberate himself was obliged to open the door with his uninjured hand before he could free his fingers.

The recent rains have raised the level of the water in Red river over six feet, making the conditions the best possible for navigation. The water could be maintained at the present stage by means of reservoirs at Red Lake and Lake Traverse, and the result would be of immense benefit to the people along the river. There are hundreds of farmers along both sides of the stream who are a considerable distance from railroads to whom regular river navigation would be a great convenience.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Cass D. Houghton, formerly of Huron, committed suicide in Denver a day or two since by taking morphine. Cass Houghton and his father were among the early business men of Huron and the son being of a foppish disposition and having ample funds, delighted in fine clothes, patent leather shoes and diamonds. Misfortune followed misfortune in rapid succession; money gone, credit impaired and friends became less numerous. The family removed to Missouri, but success in business never returned to their lot, and Cass became a penniless wanderer till life became a burden and he ended his misery by his own hand.

A contract has just been let by George M. Nix, of Dubuque, Iowa, to W. S. Heckert, the well-known railroad contractor of Omaha, and George Harris, of Deadwood, for the construction of eighteen miles of roadbed from Belle Fourche to the coal district west of there. For a number of years Mr. Nix has been endeavoring to get Eastern capital interested in this coal district and he has now succeeded. Several tests have been made of the coal on regular traffic engines on the Elkhorn road with excellent results. The new company organized to build this road is to be known as the Wyoming & Missouri River Railroad company. These coal beds are very extensive and are from three to thirteen feet thick. The road is to be completed by Oct. 1.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

At St. Paul, the consecration of Rt. Rev. Alexander Christie, recent rector of St. Stephens parish in Minneapolis, as bishop of the Sacerdotal see of Vancouver, B. C., was solemnly observed at the cathedral yesterday.

Daniel Blue, on trial at Elbow Lake, Minn., for the murder of John Prosser, was yesterday found guilty in the second degree and sentenced to the state prison for life. The fact of the killing was admitted, the defense being insanity.

Max John August Schmaltz, who shot and killed his mother, Mrs. Amanda Schmaltz, aged 60 years, at Garrison, Minn., yesterday afternoon, was brought here today. Schmaltz was undoubtedly insane, having been confined for a period in the Fergus Falls asylum, being released only a few months ago. He had been working in the field and it is thought the hot sun brought on another fit of insanity. Steps will be taken to send him to the asylum.

At New York, Tom Sharkey, the sailor-pugilist of California, knocked out Gus Ruhlin, the Ohio Giant, in less than one round last night before the Greater New York Athletic club at Coney Island. Ruhlin's defeat was accomplished in exactly 2 minutes and 17 seconds.

The Northwestern Miller reports the flour output last week at Minneapolis as 149,975 barrels, against 280,440 barrels in the corresponding week of last year, and 235,100 in the like week of 1896. About the same capacity is running this week as last week.

A west-bound passenger train on the Wabash was wrecked yesterday a mile west of Burlington Junction. The locomotive jumped the track and the mail, baggage, smoking and chair cars followed, rolling down an embankment. A score of passengers were hurt, several of them seriously.

THE CHIEF RANGER

Dr. Oronhyatekha, Head of Independent Order of Foresters, Arrives.

THE NEW HIGH COURT

He Will Institute It at Kalamazoo Hall Tonight---The Delegates.

Dr. Oronhyatekha, of Toronto, supreme chief ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, arrived in Duluth this morning, accompanied by his daughter, for the purpose of organizing a high court of the order, the headquarters of which will be in this city. The new court will consist of twenty lodges, which will be set out from the high court of Minnesota, which has headquarters at St. Paul.

At noon today delegates from nearly all of the subordinate courts to be under the jurisdiction of the Duluth court had reported as follows:

Duluth, No. 724, I. Ridge, W. A. Hicken, R. Dinham, J. D. McPhail, A. McG. McDonald; West Duluth, No. 797, H. C. Brown; Northcote, No. 1682, of Northcote, J. D. Murray; St. Vincent, No. 1736, of St. Vincent, D. S. McLeod; Hendrum, No. 1326, of Hendrum, James Cochrane; Central Duluth, No. 1727, J. S. McCormick; Commerce, No. 3238, of Duluth, George R. Laybourn, Frank Crassweller; East Duluth, No. 3318, W. A. Rorrison, Loyal, No. 3417, of Duluth, Thomas Clark; East Grand Forks, No. 3428, A. E. Peterson; Aitkin, No. 3543, Charles E. Young; Moose Lake, No. 3542, O. Swanson; Spirit Lake, No. 330, H. Dash; Agate, No, 3498, of Two Harbors, Jay Bryan; Alaska, No. 3583, of Willow River, J. C. Graff; Milaca, Elvin Fredrickson. The courts at Crookston, Anoka, Little Falls and Fergus Falls will also be included in the new high court and their delegates are expected to arrive this afternoon.

A short special business meeting of the delegates was held at the Spalding this afternoon after which Dr. Oronhyatekha and other visitors were taken for a drive around the city and over the boulevard. Tonight at 7:30 the representatives of the subordinate courts will meet at Elks' hall and the high court will be formally organized. A great deal of work will have to be done and the session will probably continue until a late hour. Arrangements have been made by the local Foresters to serve refreshments to the visitors at the conclusion of the regular work.

Dr. Oronhyatekha was seen at the Spalding this afternoon by a Herald reporter. He has just returned from a trip across the water during which he visited Egypt as well as a number of European countries. He said that he was highly pleased with the growth shown by the order in the year 1897, when it had written more insurance than the fourteen old line companies doing business in Canada combined. In the single year $39,000,000 of risks were written and $990,000 of benefits were paid. This morning Dr. Oronhyatekha received a cablegram from a representative who is now engaged in planting the order in Norway, stating that six courts had already ben established there and that a high court was to be formed soon. Italy, France, Belgium, Holland and Sweden are to be invaded in turn. The order is already firmly established in the United Kingdom and the colonies. Aug. 25 the supreme court, which meets but once in three years, will assemble in Toronto. Dr. Oronhyatekha said that Minnesota was such a large state that there was ample room for two high courts, and that he expected a rapid growth in the Northern Minnesota jurisdiction as a result of the formation of the new high court. The doctor and his daughter will return home on the steamer North Land Saturday.

FRESHMEN BOAT RACE.

Columbia a Favorite Early But Cornell Gains During the Day.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., June 30.—The day for the freshmen triangular contest opened bright and clear with a light cooling breeze, stirring. Racing conditions at 2 o'clock favor fast time. The race talk during the morning continued slightly in favor of Columbia. The betting showed that sentiment was gradually working toward Cornell for first place. The bookmakers offered even money on Cornell to win; 6 to 5 on Columbia and 3 to 1 on Pennsyvania.

Coaches Cowles and Webb got the Columbia boys into the boat early in the day and gave them just enough of a spin to limber up. Pennsylvania was also out for light practice and they were given a few trials at starting and spurting. Coach Ward had out the Pennsylvania 'varsity also and gave them a mile easy row across the southern end of the lake. Coach Courtney gave the Cornell freshmen just enough work to limber them up. The Wisconsin university crew were in their shell early for their second practice. The men showed much improved form over yesterday.

NEWS OF THE LAKES.

The Special and Stamp Taxes Imposed on the Vessel Interests.

Cleveland, June 30.—A special circular has been issued from the bureau of navigation, treasury department, calling the attention of collectors of customs, vessel owners and others interested, to the special and stamp taxes imposed on shipping interests by the new war revenue measure, the provisions of which take effect July 1. Perhaps the most important provision affecting the shipping interest is the tax on charters. It is stipulated as follows: "Charter party—Contract or agreement for the charter of any ship, or vessel, or steamer, or any letter, memorandum, or other writing between the captain, master, or owner, or person acting as agent of any vessel, and any other person, for or relating to the charter, or any renewal or transfer thereof, if the registered tonnage of such ship, or vessel, or steamer does not exceed 300 tons, $3; exceeding 300 tons and not exceeding 600 tons, $5; exceeding 600, $10." The bill provides that every vessel broker shall pay a tax of $20. Any certificates or documents issued by any marine surveyor or person acting as such must bear a 25-cent stamp. In marine insurance policies there will be a tax of ½-cent on each dollar, or fractional part thereof, of the amount of premium charged.

The Lake Carriers' association has instructed Harvey D. Goulder to proceed to Washington and obtain a ruling on the law so far as it pertains to the lakes.

Let Faces Come First.

When wool shrinks, it means only a spoiled garment. When a soap harms the face, it means a spoiled complexion.

There is a particular ingredient in Wool Soap that prevents it from shrinking wool. That quality makes it especially desirable for toilet and bath.

Other makers haven't our secrets.

WOOL SOAP

is a white, swimming soap. In washing woolens it is a necessity. In any other use it is a luxury, and it is so cheap that it makes luxury economical. It is an absolutely pure soap. It is the only soap so pure that it won't shrink wool.

IT SWIMS.

"Wool Soap is an excellent article, and every woman will be benefited by using it."—HELEN M. BARKER, Treas. Nat. W. C. T. U.

T. W. HUGO DECLINES

He Refuses to Serve Another Term on the School Board.

T. W. Hugo will not be a candidate for re-election as school director. He says he has been a public servant long enough and thinks he has earned a rest. He might not have absolutely refused re-election had his good health continued, but his severe illness of this spring has weakened him and he does not wish to burden himself with any more duties than he is obliged to.

As to who will be Mr. Hugo's successor, but little is heard as yet. It has not been known that he would not be a candidate long enough to start very much speculation. Some of the members of the board would like to see S. L. Frazer selected. Mr. Hugo has been one of the most valuable members the board has had and the others are anxious to replace him with as good a man as can be found.

The statement that there is not likely to be any fight this year may not be true. The other three members whose terms expire, Messrs. E. R. Cobb, J. R. Brearley and C. H. Martz will also stand for re-election. At least one of them is looked for opposition, but whether it will develop, and how, is not yet apparent. That one is E. R. Cobb. For some reason there is considerable opposition to him. Mrs. A. W. Bradley has been mentioned as a possible candidate. It is said there is a strong movement among the women to elect a director. It is not expected that the fight will be on the Denfeld issue particularly.

Company C Recruits.

The following recruits for Company C were obtained yesterday afternoon and this morning: R. A. McDonald, Morris Kolstad, Robert B. Quigley, John C. Murphy, W. G. Pelletier, Alexander Paquin. The recruiting detail expects to get away by tomorrow afternoon. Lieut. E[illegible] has gone to Zumbrota.

A KIND HEARTED WOMAN.

Whose Indignation Was Caused By a Misunderstanding.

A certain woman of this town is noted for her kindness to animals. She has a way of bringing stray dogs and cats into her own and her friends' homes, with a heart overflowing with such affection for her four-footed brethren, as she calls them, that over and over again she persuades unwilling people into becoming guardians to one-eared felines and sad visaged curs, says the Milwaukee Sentinel. Not long ago this woman was visiting in a "no license" town and some one undertook to play the old joke "the blind pig" on her, telling her with great concern that they were running such an animal just outside of the town. That was enough. The kindly woman put on her bonnet and set off for the village marshal or some such functionary, and with tears in her eyes protested against such cruelty.

"I can't see why they should be running a blind pig," she said very earnestly, "the poor thing can't have harmed any one, but anyway it ought to be stopped," and the marshal solemnly agreed with her.

But the point of the story lies in this: When the man who put up the joke confided the delight in it to another woman and expected her to laugh with him, all he got was a look of wonder from two big brown eyes and the question:

"Well, what were they running the blind pig for anyway?"

DONS ARE FLYING

Advance of the American Forces Finds the Spanish Camps Deserted.

CANEY EVACUATED

What a Corporal's Guard Saw---A Captured "Pack Train" Joke.

Gen. Lawton's Headquarters, Five Miles East of Santiago de Cuba Wednesday, June 29, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 30.—(Copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—The American troops spent yesterday in feeling for the enemy, otherwise engaging in reconnaissances.

Gen. Shafter in person, with a small escort, went almost to Caney, a small town five miles northeast of Santiago de Cuba with which city it is connected by railroad. Lieut. Standing and a detail of Cubans and American sharpshooters occupied a small hill northwest of the American lines, and looking down on both Caney and Santiago. Caney now seems to hold only 300 Spanish troops, the number reported by the Cuban scouts, in spite of the belief of the Americans here that the 3000 Spaniards driven forward by our advance on Baiquiri and Juragua had all retreated on Caney and not on Santiago. The small number of troops now at Caney indicates that the Spaniards have practically evacuated the place and this is believed to be the case.

Lieut. Standing was not molested during his observations though he passed through a camp which twenty-four hours previous had been occupied by a strong Spanish outpost.

Corporal Hucht of Company D, Seventh United States Infantry who with seven men, was sent on outpost duty two miles from Santiago de Cuba, yesterday morning, and was forgotten until the afternoon, was found by Gen. Shafter and sent into camp. The men considered the whole affair a good joke. They had repeatedly seen the Spaniards, who did not offer to molest them, and the Americans spent the day as if enjoying a picnic in the woods. The corporal said that if he had with him sufficient force he could have brought in forty Spanish prisoners.

Several pacificos brought in by the American outposts profess to know little of what is transpiring in Santiago.

A detail of a company of the Seventh regiment returned here last night in a state of great hilarity, inquiring where they could corral a "captured pack train." In the center of the group of soldiers was the pack train—a Spanish pony, accurately described by the corporal as being "as thick as a shingle and as long as a lathe." The prisoner has been dedicated to the company for carrying the captain's baggage.

The American officers generally expect a movement today to capture Caney, which is a short five miles northeast of Santiago. This, however, is not official. Such a move may draw the Spanish in force from Santiago, but in view of their previous retreats when our army might have been seriously harrassed on the march, an aggressive move upon the part of the Spaniards is considered unlikely.

COLLINS AND LEWIS.

Choice of St. Louis County Delegation For Governor and Supreme Judge.

St. Paul, June 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. Louis county delegation has decided to vote for Collins for governor and to present the name of Charles L. Lewis as its choice for justice of the supreme court.

This action was decided upon at a caucus of the delegation held here this morning. The following resolution in relation to the governorship fight was adopted:

"Resolved, that the solid vote of this delegation be cast as a unit for L. W. Collins for governor on each and every ballot."

It is believed by Judge Lewis' friends that he is sure to be a winner.

There is some dark horse talk for governor, with Moses E. Clapp as the leading dark horse.

THE CUBAN REGULARS.

Their Plight and Enthusiasm Astonish Military Men.

New York, June 30.—A cable to the Sun, dated Siboney, June 25, says: Two thousand insurgents from Gen. Calixto Garcia's command were embarked on the transport Leona at Aserraderos this morning and arrived here this afternoon. They are under the command of Brig. Gen. Sanchez. They landed through the heavy surf and lined up emaciated, half naked and in some cases entirely nude. Weak as they were they stood up proudly and shouted, "Cuba Libre." They filled with astonishment the military representatives of Russia, Germany, Japan and Sweden, who were utterly at a loss to understand the enthusiasm of men in their miserable condition. The famished men, nearly all of whom have been macheteras under Maceo and Garcia during the three years' war, and some of whom are veterans of the ten years' war, were overjoyed to meet the American troops, and at the sight of food they fell to like starving men. With swollen feet and every evidence of long suffering, they cheerfully got themselves in readiness to march tonight in advance of the regulars toward Santiago.

News has been received at the Cuban headquarters at Siboney, and communicated here by Gen. Joaquin Castillo to Gen. Shafter, that the Spaniards are strongly intrenched at Santa Ursula and Laguinas, both important entrances to Santiago City. They have erected two heavy batteries including, it is believed, some guns which were landed from the Spanish cruisers Viscaya and Almirante Oquendo. These batteries are supported by 6000 men. The Cuban outposts at Hicacas report that the Spaniards have occupied a strong fortress and strengthened their own defenses.

Gen. Shafter has issued rigid orders that the troops shall not engage the Spaniards unnecessarily. He wants to keep the troops ready for a decisive attack. It is known that the Spaniards will make a strong resistance.

CAMARA'S FLEET.

HAS MORRO FALLEN?

Officials In Washington Expect to Hear News From Santiago Soon.

New York, June 30.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Washington says:

Advices are momentarily expected from Gen. Shafter or from Admiral Sampson that Morro castle and its neighboring batteries on the eastern side of the narrow entrance to Santiago harbor, including the works at Estella Point and Santa Catalina, have been occupied by the American forces, and that the Spaniards have been driven from the fortifications on the west at La Socapa, Canones Point and Smith Cayo.

Army and navy officers evince the liveliest curiosity to secure news of this achievement and made no concealment that they confidently expected it. Up to this time the newspaper dispatches from the front have invariably chronicled important movements considerably in advance of the official reports, and they were eagerly asked for by officials on this account.

Both army and navy officers here agree with remarkable unanimity that the actual occupation of the unhealthy city of Santiago possesses few attractions from a military point of view, as its position could easily be shelled by the vessels of Admiral Cervera's fleet. That fleet, however, is the sole objective point of the combined American naval and military operations around Santiago, and its destruction having been impossible of attainment by Admiral Sampson acting alone, the Fifth army corps was despatched to co-operate with him in eliminating the four armored cruisers from further consideration in the present war.

Officials understood that Admiral Sampson would open fire on Morro and the other batteries yesterday morning at daybreak and continue firing with all his vessels, including the Vesuvius, until every Spaniard in the works was either disabled or driven out. Yesterday morning Gen. Shafter had a large part of his corps, including all his advance forces, on the hills, within two miles of Morro, and everything was arranged so that the castle might be occupied within an hour after the bombardment ceased. Perhaps this attack was postponed, but at any rate army officers believe that it has already occurred, and for that reason do not worry about the reported advance of Gen. Pando to reinforce Santiago when the United States forces have occupied that city.

BATTLE OF SIBONEY

Warm Fight For Nearly an Hour With the Spanish Forces.

RETREAT OF ENEMY

Compelled to Give Way Before the Fire of the Americans.

Camp Juragua, Wednesday, June 29, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 30.—(Copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—Gen. Wheeler's official report to Maj. Gen. Shafter of what is known as the battle of Siboney is as follows:

In Camp Juragua, June 29.—To the Adjutant General of the Fifth Army Corps: Sir—I have the honor to report that in obedience to the instructions of the major general comanding, given me in person on June 23, I proceeded to Siboney (Juraguasito). The enemy had evacuated the place at daylight that morning, taking a course toward Sevilla. A body of about 1000 Cubans had followed and engaged the enemy's rear guard. About nine of them were wounded.

I rode to the front and found the actions of the major general commanding, enemy had halted and established themselves at a point about three miles from Siboney. At night the Cubans returned to the vicinity of the town. At 8 o'clock that evening, June 23, Gen. Young reached Siboney with eight troops of Col. Wood's regiment, A, B, D, E, F, G, H and K, about 500 strong; Troops A, B, C and K, Fourth cavalry, in all 244 men, and Troops A, B, E and I, of the Tenth cavalry, in all 220, making the total force 964 men, which included nearly all of my command which had marched from Baiquiri, eleven miles.

With the assistance of Gen. Castillo a rough map of the country was prepared, and the position of the enemy was fully explained, and I determined to make an attack at daylight on June 24. Col. Wood's regiment was sent by Gen. Young, accompanied by two of his staff officers, Lieuts. Tyrree R. Rivers and W. R. Smedburg, Jr., to approach the enemy on the left hand, or more westerly road, while Gen. Young, myself and about fifty troopers of the First and Tenth cavalry, with three Hotchkiss mountain guns, approached the enemy on the regular Sevilla road.

Gen. Young and myself examined the position of the enemy, the lines were deployed, and I directed him to open fire with the Hotchkiss guns. The enemy replied, and the firing immediately became general. Col. Wood had deployed his right nearly reaching the left of the regulars.

For an hour the fight was warm, the enemy being very lavish in the expenditure of their ammunition, most of the firing being by volumes.

Finally the enemy gave away and retreated. We followed them over the line, keeping close upon them, but our men being physically exhausted by both their exertions and the great heat, were incapable of maintaining the pursuit.

I cannot speak too highly of the gallant and excellent conduct of the officers and men throughout my command. Gen. Young deserves special commendation for his cool, deliberate and skillful management. I also specially noticed his acting adjutant general, Lieut. A. L. Mills, who, under Gen. Young's direction, was at various parts of the line, acting with energy and cool courage.

The imperative necessity of disembarking with promptitude had impelled me to leave most of my staff to hasten this important matter, and unfortunately I only had with me Maj. M. J. Beach and Mr. Mestre, an acting volunteer aide, both of whom during the engagement creditably and bravely performed their duties. I am especially indebted to Maj. Beach for his cool and good judgment.

Col. Wood's regiment was on the extreme of the left and too far distant for me to be a personal witness of the individual conduct of the officers and men, but the magnificent bravery shown by the regiment under the lead of Col. Wood testifies to his courage and skill and the energy and determination of his officers, which has been marked from the moment he reported to me from Tampa, and I have abundant evidence of his brave and good conduct on the field, and I recommend him for the consideration of the government. I most fully rely upon his report to do justice to his officers and men. I desire personally to add all that I have said regarding Col. Wood applies equally to Lieut. Col. Roosevelt.

I was immediately with the troops of the First and Tenth regiment cavalry, dismounted, and I personally noticed their brave and good conduct, which will be specially mentioned by Gen. Young. I personally noticed the good conduct of Capts. W. H. Bock, Robert P. Wainwright and Jacob G. Galbraith, Maj. James M. Bell, Capt. Thomas T. Know and Lieut. George E. Brown. The last three were wounded. Maj. Bell, as he lay on the ground with a broken leg, said: "I only regret I can't go on with you further."

Capt. Know, though severely wounded, continued as long as possible to exercise his command, and insisted to me that he was not much hurt, and Lieut. Brown also made light of his wound to me and continued upon the line until he fainted. I recommend these officers to the favorable consideration of the government.

I cannot state positively as to the size of the Spanish force which we engaged, or the extent of their casualties, further than the force was much greater than ours, and that information I have would indicate that their killed and wounded exceed those which our troops sustained; but our estimate on this can only be verified when we have access to the reports of the Spanish commanders.

The engagement inspired our troops and must have had a bad effect on the spirits of the Spaniards. It also gave our army the beautiful and well-watered country, in which we have established our encampments. It has also given us a full view of Santiago and the surrounding country and has enabled us to reconnoiter close to the fortifications of that place.

The casualties in the engagement were: First United States volunteer cavalry, strength 500, killed 8, wounded 54; First United States regular cavalry, strength 244, killed 7, wounded 8; Tenth United States regular cavalry, strength 220, killed 1, wounded 10; total strength, 964; killed, 16; wounded, 52.

Respectfully submitted.

Major General United States Volunteers Commanding.

TERROR DISABLED.

The St. Paul's Rapid Fire Guns Are Too Much For the Spaniard.

Playa Del Este, Guantanamo bay, Wednesday, June 29.—(Delayed in transmission.)—(Copyright, 1898, Associated Press.)—News was received here today of the attack made on the American auxiliary cruiser St. Paul, off San Juan de Porto Rico, on June 22 by the Spanish torpedo boat destroyer Terror. Under cover of a Spanish cruiser of the Infanta Isabel type, the Terror attempted to approach the St. Paul and sink her with a torpedo. A hot fire from the rapid-fire guns of the St. Paul was opened on the Spaniard with the result that an engineer and two men on board the Terror were killed and several others were wounded. The Terror was so badly disabled that she was towed back into the harbor in a sinking condition.

A party of sixty-four Cubans under Gen. Perez, who are taking part in the siege of Guantanamo, have been fed and clothed and armed by Capt. McCalla of the cruiser Marblehead. They returned to the front today. The Marblehead today landed 5000 rations from the State of Texas for a few Cuban families forty miles in the interior in the vicinity of Gen. Perez' troops.

THOSE GULLIBLE SPANIARDS.

Swallow the Usual Fakes of Americans Being Defeated.

Madrid, June 30.—Official Spanish reports received here from Havana say that a column of American troops, supported by the fire of three warships, advanced on Tuesday from Siboney, via Aguadores, and "immediately retired after an exchange of rifle shots with the Spanish scouts.'

The dispatch added: "During the last three days the Americans have been endeavoring to land artillery at several points, but their boats grounded and it was only with the greatest difficulty that they saved stores."

Another Havana dispatch announces that Gen. Arolas has reimposed the edict fixing the prices of provisions at Havana owing to the fact that the prices were raised during the temporary suspension of the decree.

MAUSER BULLET WOUNDS.

They Look as Though Made By Explosive Bullets.

New York, June 30.—A cable to the Evening Post says:

Playa del Este, June 29.—The boys hope to celebrate the Fourth of July in Santiago.

The wounded Rough Riders are doing well. Thirty-four are still unaccounted for.

Capt. Capron, Hamilton Fish, and the rest who fell, were buried on the battlefield, with an infantry salute.

The surgeons doubt that the enemy use explosive bullets. The top of one man's head was taken off. Another's skull appeared to have been burst open from within, but at certain ranges the Mauser bullet wiggles, tearing the wide, rough wound which suggests an explosive bullet or mutilation. Two strange wounds have been treated. In one the bullet ricocheted along a man's arm, entering and coming out again in four places. Another entered the top of a negro's shoulder, came out, entered again by the collar bone, came out once more, entered his neck and passed through the larynx. It was extracted on the other side.

The correspondent, Marshall, has a hole as big as a pencil sidewise through his spine, but may live for a time.

The soldiers say that the Rough Riders' battle is the only occasion on which untried volunteers ever fought as well as regulars.

The Haytien cable has been picked up and we expect to make connection tomorrow with Aguadores.

SHAFTER IS IN CAMP

Tenting on the Field Before Santiago---Is "Bunking" With Gen. Wheeler.

Camp Juragua, Wednesday, June 29, via Kingston, Jamaica, Thursday, June 30.—(Copyright 1898, by the Associated Press.)—Maj. Gen. Shafter decided today to establish his headquarters in the field and he will occupy a tent tonight with Gen. Wheeler, until he decides upon a permanent location for his headquarters.

There is every indication that Juragua will cease to be the headquarters for the army, other than for the medical and commissary departments, in two or three days. A sufficient force to guard the place will be left here, probably from the volunteer force of 6000 men now coming from Tampa, and practically the entire fighting force will swing into Caney or Aguadores, making the base of operations before Santiago de Cuba at this place.

The railroad from here to Santiago is being rapidly pushed by the engineers and a large force of troops. Its completion will greatly simplify the movement of supplies and the pack train will have no more arduous work than transporting the food and ammunition from point to point at the front.

The siege guns were landed at Baiquiri last night and have started for the front.

POUNDMASTER GETS A WARRANT

A warrant was sworn out yesterday by Poundmaster Wilner for Ezra Nickerson, charging him with letting his horses run at large. Nickerson claims that his horses were being watched by his son to prevent any possibility of their doing any damage. It is claimed that horses and cows are running at large in the residence and business portion of the city, and that they have already inflicted great damage to gardens. The poundmaster, it is reported, devotes most of his time to gathering in stock in the suburbs, where they can do little injury, and neglects the more thickly populated parts of the city, where gardens and lawns are exposed.

A BIG FOUR PURCHASE.

Which May Make Some Changes In Coal Traffic.

New York, June 30.—The statement is published here today, upon the authority of interests identified with the properties, that the Big Four is to secure by purchase the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville. President Ingalls and President Brice and their several associates in the managements of the properties have come to a definite agreement. The Big Four is to buy the smaller property and is to pay for it outright.

This is the first step in the Big Four plans looking to a consolidation of many properties in the central West, especially those identified with the bituminous coal district. The acquisition of this road would give to the Big Four an entrance into Chicago, whereas heretofore it has used the Illinois Central tracks and terminals. Furthermore, it gives the Big Four considerable Indianapolis and Louisville business, shutting off much competition from those sections.

OSHKOSH STRIKE.

Military All to Leave—Mills Will Resume Running.

Oshkosh, Wis., June 30.—Under advice of Col. Seymour Hollister the governor has ordered the withdrawal of the rest of the militia here, one company of cavalry and the battery. Both will leave for Milwaukee this afternoon and the battery will go from there to Camp Douglas, where the state militia is being assembled by Adjt. Gen. Boardman. A stand of twenty-five rifles will be left here and a local company of picked deputy sheriffs organized to remain on guard at the mills, although no more trouble is anticipated. If everything remains quiet after the militia goes most of the 300 deputy sheriffs will be discharged tonight. McMillan's factory is running with a full force and the other six manufacturers announce they have agreed on a program but refuse to announce their plan as yet. It is supposed to be based on small wage concessions to the strikers. It is expected that the strike will be called off before next week.

MACON LYNCHING BEE.

Negro Hanged For Assaulting Some Missouri Girls.

Kansas City, Mo., June 30.—A special to the Star from Macon, Mo., says: Harry Williams (colored), arrested here yesterday charged with outraging the Browitt girls a few days ago, was hanged by a mob to the overhead Wabash bridge at 12:30 this morning. He died protesting his innocence.

Some of the best citizens of Macon were in the crowd that surrounded the jail. Rev. J. A. Robbins, Sheriff Wilcox and Mr. McVicker made speeches pleading with the would-be lynchers to let the law take its course. Robbins was hooted down and McVicker knocked senseless. The sheriff and his deputies were overpowered, disarmed and the jail broken into.

When the bridge was reached, Williams was asked whether he would rather be hanged up and strangled slowly or allowed sufficient drop to break his neck. He said he did not care. His nerve was phenomenal. The mob finished its work with dispatch and dispersed quietly.

Everything goes down before the reduction knife this week at the Great Eastern.

BERMUDA WOMEN.

Bermuda women are excellent housewives and bring up large families of children, some of the most favored young folk being sent to the United States for educational advantages says the Philadelphia Telegraph. In matters of etiquette they are far more strict than Americans. As a rule they are well to do and live comfortably, while some of them possess ample means and enjoy much luxury. In Bermuda, as in England, property, especially real estate, remains in the same families for long periods, and some of the descendants of the first settlers still possess lands which have never passed out of their families. It is just this conservatism about property which causes the superabundance of spinters. No alien can acquire a title to land in Bermuda either by purchase or inheritance. This is chiefly a precautionary measure against the Portuguese, who flock to the country and go in largely for onion growing. But the law provides that if a woman marries a foreigner she shall lose her landed property, and shall also become incapable of inheriting any. This law is naturally not popular with the ladies, who see their brothers mate with Americans and other aliens, and would fain have the same liberty. Occasionally Bermuda girls renounce their birthrights for love's sake but, as a rule, the charms of penniless maidens are not sufficient for young men to desire them for wives, and thus many girls are doomed to single blessedness in Bermuda simply by the law of the land.

HAS LOST HIS KITE.

Aerial Observer Jermin's Paraphernalia Takes a Runaway Trip.

Aerial Observer Frank Jermin lost his kite yesterday. The heavy wind broke the wire, the strain being more than it could stand. The kite was up all afternoon yesterday and was an object of much interest. It attained an elevation of about 7500 feet above the lake and about 12,000 feet of wire was out. The pull on the wire was very heavy, so heavy that the observer and his assistant were unable to pull the kite down. They left it up hoping for the wind to subside at sundown, but while it did on the surface, in the upper air currents it grew in strength. The pull on the wire increased until it was about 200 pounds and about that time it broke. This was about dark. The observer could not see where it went. It may have landed in the lake and it may be on the Wisconsin shore. Mr. Jermin does not think there is much hope of recovering it. The kite was worth about $25 and the instruments about $125. Mr. Jermin is not only greatly disappointed at losing the kite, but also at losing the observation. He thinks it was undoubtedly the most interesting he has taken. He will make a search for it, but has little hope of recovering it.

The tug B. B. Inman got tangled in the piano wire which is used in sailing the kite, about 8 o'clock last evening.

REALTY ASSESSMENT

Assessors' Returns Show That Decrease Has Been Made on Land.

The township assessors have begun to make their returns to the county auditor of property assessed in their districts, and it is expected that all of them will be in in a day or two. Most of the returns made so far show that assessments on real estate have been reduced below the assessments made two years ago, and there are but few exceptions to this rule. In fact, so far, but one township assessor has reported that he has increased the assessments in his town. Personal property assessments are not large in the outside districts, and they are running about the same as two years ago.

The same rule applies in Duluth, and it is said that assessments on real estate will show a large decrease in the aggregate. In many single cases the assessment has been raised, but the total will show a cut. For instance, two years ago the state board of equalization made heavy reductions in the assessments on the large buildings of Duluth. This year the city assessors have raised the assessments on the buildings back to their old figure believing that the state board had no right to make the cut.

The county board of equalization will meet at the court house July 17, the third Monday, when those who desire may appear and enter objections to the assessments made upon their property. It is not believed that the town assessors will make any raises in the taxes on their properties, so the board of equalization will have to take that matter up during its session.

REFUSED TO AMEND.

Judge Denies Application of Railroad in Mandamus Case.

Judge Ensign has signed an order in the Garfield avenue mandamus case against the St. Paul & Duluth, the Northern Pacific and the Duluth Transfer Railroad companies, denying the motion made by the roads to amend the findings recently filed in which the roads were ordered to build a viaduct over their crossings on Garfield avenue. The roads asked the court to amend the findings so as to designate which part of the viaduct each road is to be required to build. They also wanted the order amended so that neither company would have to build a viaduct over the tracks of any other company in which it was not interested, and so that the roads would not have to build the viaduct in accordance with the plans prepared by the city. Finally they asked that the writ of mandamus heretofore issued be discharged and that the proceedings be dismissed. Judge Ensign denied each and every item of the demands of the railroads. The case is to be appealed, and Judge Ensign by consent of the city, granted an extension of fifteen days to the stay of proceedings granted on the decision of the case.

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXES.

Sheriff Sargent's Collections Have Been Larger Than Usual.

Sheriff Sargent's force has concluded the work of collecting personal property taxes and the report has to be made to the board of county commissioners at its next meeting is being prepared. The collections have been much larger in proportion than they were last year, and the county will realize quite a sum out of them. The cause for this is the extra effort that has been made this year to enforce the taxes. While no property has been levied upon and sold for taxes, it has been necessary to threaten it in many cases, and in most instances the threat was effective. This strict enforcement of the law regulating the sheriff's duties in this respect has brought in many collections that would not otherwise have been made. In many cases taxes have been cancelled because it satisfactorily appeared that collection was impossible, and these cases will be reported to the county board.

BURGLAR CAPTURED.

William Burdine After Being Caught Confesses to Robbing a Store.

William Burdine, a colored man, was arrested at the rooms of the Colored Men's club, on Michigan street, near the Lake avenue viaduct, by Detective Donovan last night for stealing an overcoat from Polinsky & Co.'s clothing store at 505 West Superior street. A search of Burdine's room at the Central house, 200 Lake avenue south, revealed not only the overcoat, an expensive mink-lined garment, but a quantity of jewelry, shirts, underwear and silk handkerchiefs and pawn tickets for two mackintosh coats and a couple of revolvers. The coats and revolvers were afterwards recovered at the Keystone pawnshop, at 16 West Superior street. All of the property was identified by Mr. Polinsky as having been taken from his place, but he did not know that he had lost anything but the mink coat. The property was estimated to aggregate at least $100 in value.

So skillfully had the job been done that Mr. Polinsky had no idea that his place had been entered until he missed the coat, some time Saturday. The other articles had been taken from the stock in various parts of the store without leaving any traces of the goods having been disturbed. When the store was entered is not known. Burdine, who this afternoon confessed the whole thing says he cannot remember, and Mr. Polinsky says that the coat might have been gone a day or two before it was missed. Burdine says he got in through the skylight.

The prisoner acknowledged this afternoon that he served a 4-year term at Stillwater for burglary and a term in Iowa. He claims to be a waiter and porter by occupation.

His preliminary examination was set this afternoon by Judge Edson for tomorrow morning, the charge being grand larceny in the first degree.

WHITE HOUSE CALLS.

Place Seekers, Wire Pullers and Others Were Numerous There Today.

Washington, June 30.—When President McKinley reached his office rooms today, he found a large crowd of senators and members, most of them seeking appointments to war billets for friends and constituents. Up to 11 o'clock he was without any important advices from the front and had to disappoint a number of inquirers who expected some developments about Santiago.

Senator Deboe presented Dr. W. Bowman, of Powlesville, Ky., to the president and urged him for an inspector generalship in the army.

The appointment of the members of the non-partisan commission just created by congress to investigate labor and industrial conditions is now pending. The first of the candidates to be presented is Henry B. Martin, of Minnesota, well known among the Knights of Labor, for whom Representative Bell, of Colorado, and others spoke a good word to the president today. There was no promise given of favorable consideration. All these appointments from the importance of the work of the commission will require strong endorsements and peculiar fitness and ability.

Senator Cannon of Utah, who was among the first callers to see the president today, said he believed there would be no adjournment of congress before the middle of next month at least. He expresses considerable concern over the German attitude at Manilla and thought that if the emperor had some cautious adviser like Bismarck, who knew enough to appreciate the limitations of German power and authority. There would be little ned for apprehension. The Germans' object, he said, evidently was not only to bring about a protectorate there under the powers, but also to put obstacles in the way of the United States so that it might get involved in the controversy over the islands.

Representative Hull chairman of the military affairs committee of the house had a conference with the president concerning army legislation. Senator Hawley, head of the senate military affairs committee, also came to see the president, but owing to the rush of visitors did not wait. His mission, however, was mostly on state military affairs, which was also part of Mr. Hull's object. Senator Hawley, while not intimating what he expected, stated positively that he had heard no suggestions of a third call for volunteers, as has been persistently rumored for several days.

Another well-known senator, who was with the president today and is one of the president's close advisers, said he believed there would be a call very soon, but doubted if as large a number as 100,000 would be asked for. He thought that there could be no no definite conclusion yet. He pointed out, however, that the war was assuming far larger proportions than had been expected and that undoubtedly sooner or later a large number of troops would be required.

CHICKAMAUGA PARK.

Soldiers Are Receiving Their Pay Today---No Signs of Moving Yet.

Chickamauga Park, June 30.—Preparations for the payment of all men at Camp Thomas was completed today. The companies were lined up and the rolls called.

Yesterday the First corps, under orders for active field service, received ten days' rations. The fact that the full amount of supplies issued, as customary every ten days, is a very strong indication that the troops will not move before the expiration of that time.

Today there was a very large distribution of ordnance supplies. Inside of three hours yesterday, Capt. Zalinski issued 10,000 blue army shirts and 20,000 rubber ponchos and other supplies.

Over 40,000 shelter tents have been turned over to the various regiments within two days.

Thirty carloads of supplies are now en route to Camp Thomas.

An official who is in a position to know states that the First corps is well equipped as to quartermaster's supplies. They have received all the tentage due, also all shoes, underclothing and their extra trousers.

About 250 extra recruits arrived at camp last night. There are four battalions of Pennsylvanians to arrive in the next ten days. The men are to be atached to the Fourth, Fifth, Ninth and Sixteenth regiments and will number about 1000 men. Several of the companies are now en route, while the others are being mustered into the federal service at Mount Gretna as fast as the muster officers can work.

Shippers Must Pay the Tax.

The express companies all over the United States have decided to insist upon the shipper paying for the revenue stamps in cases where receipts are issued. The man who wants a receipt for his express package will, after today, have to pay 1 cent for it. The railroads, it is understood, will pay for the stamp on the first receipts or bill of lading, but will require the shipper to pay for the stamps on duplicates.

CHANCES ARE GOOD

A Speedy Settlement of the Water Plant Difficulties Is Anticipated.

PROPOSITION MADE

Mr. Gay Leaves For New York to Present It to Untermeyer.

The matters at issue between the gas and water bondholders and the city have, it is thought by the committee, been put in a fair way to a settlement and Mr. Gay is now en route to New York to submit the city's proposition to Mr. Untermeyer. It practically rests, it is stated, on Mr. Gay's ability to either induce Mr. Untermeyer to consent to the withholding of $60,000 pending the outcome of the tax litigation or to raise the money himself to put up. If this can be arranged, it is thought that there will be no obstacle to the consummation of the deal. The matters of the water charges for flushing sewers, claimed by the company, amounting to $24,000, and that of the city's claims for damages to pavements in repairing mains, etc., amounting to $5400, are, aside from the taxes, the only points of dispute. The proposition Mr. Gay will lay before Mr. Untermeyer embraces a basis for a settlement of these. Exactly what the proposition on these two points is, the members of the committee will not say until Mr. Gay's return from New York, which, it is expected, will not be later than a week from Monday. The members of the committee who were seen all expressed their confidence, however, that the proposal is for a settlement that will undoubtedly be satisfactory to the people.

Aside from the disputed claims mentioned, there is a lot of bills for water service ,etc., at the fire halls, police headquarters and city hall, aggregating about $12,000, as to the city's liability for which the mayor said this morning there is no controversy. Even if the disputed claims are not settled, it is thought by the committee that the deal may nevertheless be consummated if the deposit to protect the city in the matter of the tax litigation can be arranged. The disputed claims could be determined by the courts.

The general sentiment among the committee and the aldermen who are conversant with the situation is that it affords a chance for a test of the good faith of the offer for a 4 per cent bond made by Mr. Gay. If he is really willing to take a 4 per cent bond —if he does not desire to, if possible, force the city into issuing a 4½ or 5 per cent bond, it is felt that he can somehow manage to arrange for the placing of $60,000 in escrow pending the decision in the tax suit. If, as it was put by an alderman this morning, the bondholders are as cock-sure as they claim that the taxes are not a lien and are really willing to take a 4 per cent bond, they can arrange for the deposit without any trouble.

The mayor felt quite sanguine this morning that things were nearing a settlement. So did Alderman Johnson and City Attorney Richards. Alderman Jefferson said that he knew nothing about what was done at the conference, but was confident that there would be a settlement. Asked as to what sort of a settlement, he said it would be as Mr. Gay wanted it. Alderman Jefferson was anxious lest the idea should have gone out that he tried to force himself in at the conference. He went to the city hall, he said, in accordance with an understanding arrived at that the committee on claims and accounts should meet Mr. Washburn and Mr. Gay and go over the claims with them. Mr. Washburn, however, Alderman Jefferson said, stated that he had not understood that he was to meet that committee and was not prepared to take up the claims with it, whereupon Alderman Jefferson says, he left.
